Kennedy Tipped

So former Teamsters president James Hoffa, lately released from jail, thinks only Senator Edward Kennedy would have a chance to oust President Nixon. The former Teamsters boss says he has heard rumors that Kennedy will be drafted by the Democrats and if this is so, he adds, Nixon is in trouble.

Kennedy in our view does not seem like presidential material. Just because his late and elder brother was making a go of it before his untimely death in 1963, and similarly with brother Robert, a subsequent front-runner for president before he too was assassinated, does not mean he is the man to lead the United States.

The senator from Massachusetts has said repeatedly that he will not be a candidate, and has backed up this statement by having his name removed from the Florida primary. He has pointed to the additional family responsibilities he shoulders as a result of the deaths of his two brothers. Politics being what they are of course we know that he could change his mind, but aside from that does he qualify as the kind of man to hold a position of such power? We don't think so.

Kennedy is an opportunist. He has been in Bangladesh of late, extolling the virtues of self-determination. Apparently this is all right for what formerly was East Pakistan, but it is not all right for Northern Ireland. He makes the headlines every so often, but memorable in this context he is not.

The memory of something else — the incident at Chappaquiddick — is another factor to be considered. It could go against him although if time is any healer it may be of less significance today than it once was. When all is said and done though the question must be asked, is Ted Kennedy mature enough for the presidency?

True, he has been through a lot, weathered many a storm, suffered personal tragedy, yet still stands tall; he is still a young man. Is he mature enough to hold the toughest executive post in the world, one on which the fates of many other nations besides the United States must ride?

Matter of Principle

Neither modesty nor the spartan ways of the monastic life are yet dead in our society. Examples from two rather unlikely sources have just come to light. First there was word of a former Miss Queensland forsaking the good life in Australia to become a nun in England. No more boy friends (she said she had lots) nor champagne which she said she liked. And then the word that a high school teacher in Royal Oak, Michigan, taking publisher Hugh Hefner into scrapping pictures of her in the nude which were scheduled for publication in the centrefold of Playboy magazine in April. She cited her religious convictions and her family's feelings were worth more than the $5 000 she was offered. These two cases may not be typical but they do go to show that people still have their principles.

Jalna Series

All of a sudden cartoonists are expressing what is likely the general confusion of television viewers over the Whiteoaks of Jalna series. It was a smart move when newspapers published the family tree. One of the sponsors, a bank, also has a leaflet among its material about loans, mortgages and so on. But even at that people must be finding it hard going. Alas, we can only imagine the anguish of it all; we watched only part of the opening instalment, found it dull and the cast unconvincing. There may be a great host however enjoying Jalna, and it must be having some impact for the Thames television company in Britain to buy the series.

Britain's Woes

Prime Minister Heath, facing a crucial vote today, may recall the words of Shakespeare: "When troubles come they come not singles spies but in battalions." Today's vote concerns the Common Market in which, given its current economic performance, Britain could be a lame duck. The coal strike meanwhile threatens to bring the country to its knees; industry is faltering and thousands are being laid off. As if this were not trouble enough, the heavy yoke of terrorism still lies on Northern Ireland. Strange that Britain, at once one of the most civilized and stable of nations, should be beset by so many difficulties.

One Royal Commission That Accomplished Nothing

Immigration Loopholes Permit Visitors to Stay Indefinitely

By RICHARD JACKSON

They all want to look busy, busy, busy to justify what that honest old political broker, the late great Trade Minister C. D. Howe said was their business of "taxing and taxing, spending and spending, and electing and electing".

Something comes up?

Big Brother Government will look after it.

Or tells you it will.

Even if it really has no intention of doing anything at all.

Or if it thinks it might get around to it, has no time.

And after months — it can be, in fact has been, as long as nine years — that royal commission, task force, special study or white paper presents, amid suitable fanfare, the findings.

Then nothing happens.

Nearly four years ago, well knowing it had bobbed back in 1965 when it ripped a great gaping hole in the Immigration Act, the government assigned eminent Toronto barrister Joseph Sedgewick to close it.

Through that hole, more than 200,000 visitors poured with thousands — an officially estimated annual 4,000 —remaining in defiance of the Immigration Act.

Draft dodgers, fugitives from crime, radical political refugees, army deserters, and all manner of undesirables, were able to stay, thumb their noses at the Immigration Department and, not a few, to go on welfare.

How was it done?

Through the Immigration Appeal Board, a completely independent tribunal very much neither the Immigration Department nor even the government itself has any control.

Before the government, in one of its more mindless moments, set up the Appeal Board, immigrants had to meet standards before entering the country. If they still came regardless, and were caught, they were deported.

But since creation of the Appeal Board, no more.

A "visitor," as thousands of illegal immigrants called themselves on entering Canada would apply for legal residence after arrival regardless of their qualifications.

If the Immigration Department said no, it did not matter, the "visitor" could appeal to the board.

And thousands did — there is a backlog of more than 7,000 appeals currently — not in any real hope that the Board would grant their appeal and prevent deportation.

But in the sure knowledge that with the huge and ever increasing backlog of appeals, it would take two, three, four, and as long as five years before the case could be heard.

Meanwhile, plenty of time to go on welfare while melding into the general population and simply vanishing from official sight.

And so, home free.

"It's general knowledge," laments Immigration Director J. S. Cross, "everywhere in the world, that anyone can buy a ticket to Canada and plan on staying as long as five years and with luck for keeps even if rejected by our department."

"We've had cases where persons filed for entry while still in their own country, were turned down by us as unqualified, bought tickets to Canada, reapplied at the border, were denied again, appealed to the Board and were finally, after five years later, waiting their hearings."

What use is the Immigration Department, and what good its regulations and controls he asks when illegal immigrants masquerading as "visitors" laugh at them?

No other country in the world, he says, stands still for "this kind of nonsense."

So the government, bowing to public pressures to end this charade of immigration, assigned barrister Sedgewick to the task. He came up with five recommendations, the main one to abolish automatic appeals and allow them only "by leave and in very special and exceptional circumstances".

That would have done it.

If the government had acted.

But it did not have to. The Sedgewick report made the administration look concerned busy, and on the ball.

That was enough.

So, bowing to the bleeding hearts among the small "l" liberals, the government tucked away the report along with all those other "studies, task forces and white papers," and nothing happened.

Except the undesirables are still streaming in and with the backing of their appeals licensing by the day, they will be here for years.

Montreal Gazette

Now come the usual complaints about Canada's "poor" showing in the Winter Olympics at Sapporo, Japan. Was it poor? Perhaps it was, in terms of medals.

We suggest, however, that Canada's athletes gained valuable experience in the toughest of all international competitions enjoyed the opportunity of meeting and fraternizing with their peers from other continents and not least, felt the immense satisfaction that must come from having reached the Olympic Games. It never a disgrace to be competing with the world's best.

Okay?

Still, no amount of idealism can or should make a fine out of victory and a virtue out of defeat graciously, but be competes to win. The competition would be without zest or sense if he did not. There is no joy or credit or honor that says Canadians always have to be good losers, never good winners.

Are we doing something wrong? Or are our expectations perhaps too high?

If Canada does not do as well in the Olympics as is might be reasonable to expect, part of the explanation may lie in the concentration of interest in this country in one or two sports. For many Canadians, hockey and curling are the only winter sports that exist; it is a situation that may well be unique in the world. In almost every other country that one can think of, popular interest extends to a wide variety of sports and therefore participation does as well.

Canadian youngsters have not grown up on the good ski-jumpers cross-country skiers, luge-sledders, biathlons or speed skaters. That is quite true. But it is not because they have been playing hockey or, if the folks hate ice-rinks, curling instead.

Canada usually does well in figure-skating. This year's results are not abundantly talented or experienced apart from silver medalist Karen Magnussen, and that is bound to be the case now and then.

The Olympic hockey situation is, of course, artificial in the sense that Canada, and Canada alone, is prevented by the regulations from participating with its best players. This time it did not even complete. No Canadian needs to be told that the Olympic results do not reflect Canada's stature in this sport.

Beyond figure - skating and hockey, what is there in which Canada should do well? What is so mysterious about failing to win medals in sports which few Canadians play?

Canada has had Alpine ski champions at Olympic and world competition but the belief that it should naturally be strong in this sport is based on a misconception of this country as a winter wonderland. There are very few places in Canada, perhaps none east of the Rockies, where the hills and the consistent snow conditions exist that would be likely to produce world-class Alpine skiers.

The first step towards achievement in a broad variety of Olympic sports, winter and summer, is obviously to promote interest in the specific sports and give children the incentive to play them. Even that will be a hard step to take, given the kind of anti-Olympic propaganda that has been heard lately from some federal and municipal politicians. If they keep on knocking the 1976 Montreal Games, one of the consequences could be the discouragement of interest in the Olympic sports at a time when Canada is preparing to be the host country.

Is There Any Place You'd Rather Be?

Ottawa Journal

The esteemed London Economist has decided Canada is the nicest place in the world to live, a conclusion which in the recent magnificent storm is far to stern test.

It bases that judgment on such social indicators as health services, the number of bathper home, personal safety, cars, telephones and television sets per person. It could have every other country on its poll.

Then the Economist cautions that perhaps the indicators should have been included— otherwise the top place might when some time in the future it is scooped into the statistician's net, emerge as the nicest place to live," because there are no telephones there to disturb the peace or chimneys to pollute the air.

A good point — though their dislike of our winter prompts an hypertrophied denial in retort that our winters make Canada even more of a summer one place. We'll take crisp snow and fog and drizzle anytime, even if it does mean a whack in overdoing it a bit!

Front-Runners For Liberal Leadership

By DON O'HEARN
From The Queen's Park Bureau of The Intelligencer

TORONTO — The Liberal leadership race can be officially considered underway, now that Robert Nixon has announced his resignation.

It may be a marathon contest, with the convention date depending on the time of the federal election. But officially, it has started.

And at this point, though several names are being mentioned, there are really only two men to be considered seriously for the post: James Bullbrook, MPP for Sarnia and Donald Deacon, MPP for York-South.

Either would seem to have more potential than any leader the provincial party has had since its disastrous defeat in 1943.

Bullbrook, 44, a lawyer, is an outstanding parliamentarian, a forceful debater, has a good grasp of many of the areas of provincial affairs and appears to have a politically attractive presence.

Deacon, 51, a former Toronto businessman, has an even exceptional and practical intelligence, is sincerely dedicated to public service rather than personal ambition, has an extraordinary capacity for hard work and is a strikingly handsome man who should get across to the public at once.

Of the two, Bullbrook might be more of the politician and stronger in straight political tactics and political appeal. He also would have a quicker wit in the house.

Deacon should be the better administrator and also from what he has shown so far would be more imaginative.

"Importantly, both would be able to control their caucus. This is something no Liberal leader has been able to do in 25 years, and it has been the party's biggest weakness.

All others being equal the most prominent is Phillip Givens, former mayor of Toronto and federal MP and now MPP for Toronto Forest Hill.

Because of his Toronto prominence and the local areas he is familiar with him, Mr. Givens will continue to be talked about as a front runner.

To me, however, he has yet to show real leadership casuelty and is doubtful if he would have much appeal outside this area.

Murray Gaunt is a very personable younger member from Huron-Bruce now a veteran of the house. Likeable though he is, one can't see him as a leader.

And Toronto lawyer, and deputy leader, Vernon Singer has tired before without success. He has a reputation as a loner and probably wouldn't draw the support of many of his colleagues.

The 16th local resistance to Louis Riel's Metis government at Manitoba erupted 102 years ago today—in 1870 —with the capture of Maj Charles Boulton and his 47 men. The "Canadian party" of settlers opposing Riel were a small minority and have been identified with the less law-abiding part of the community. This did not mitigate its vehemence and one member, Thomas Scott, was shot two weeks later when he refused either to leave the province or submit to Riel's government. At the time, Hudson Bay Co.'s sovereignty had expired and negotiations for union with Canada were incomplete.

U.S. Television Fares Well In Hungary of All Places

New York Times

When the Russians crushed the Hungarian rising in 1956, they could hardly have foreseen that the ultimate invader of Hungary would be the pernicious influence of television. Always big on entertainment, the Hungarians have taken to TV with such enthusiasm that there are now two million sets for the population of ten million. Since Hungarian programs are far too scarce to fill the voracious schedule, American programs have been pouring into the vacuum tube at a rate that might once have horrified a cultural commissar.

A report from Budapest has "Bonanza" running neck and neck with Leonard Bernstein's young people's concerts doing well. If neither of these is surprising, what to make of the enormous popularity of "The Flintstones," an animated cartoon about a society that is savage - age in its trappings, but pure middle-class Dubuque in outlook. Dinosaurs and smoking volcanoes abound, but the essence of the show are the stone-wheeled, foot-propelled cars that break down, the trim, well - turned suburban wives from whom it is almost especially fice to get in a little pool or poker, a crochety scorn for employers and officialdom and oh-so-much fond banalities of the classical American self-image. All of which makes for a mild spoof of the American Dream but is only sugrest wistful envy in a Soviet satellite.

Community Services Ready for Sponsors

Mrs. Ruth Burrows, executive director of the bureau, announced Tuesday night the establishment of committees to "give for adoption" all the service programs whose need has been proved.

In her report to the annual meeting at United Community Services, Mrs. Burrows suggested that the furniture exchange, meals on wheels, friendly visiting of the elderly, day nursery, pre-school enrichment programs and English classes for new Canadians are now ready to be taken over by institutions such as schools, commissions or hospitals.

"It is essential that we pass along all our service programs once they, need has been established in the community," she said. "The programs administered by the Volunteer Bureau have been begun and nurtured as a form of research to prove their need in the community; a foster child to be given in adoption when suitable parents were found."

Mrs. Burrows also called for the setting up of committees, comprised of board members and knowledgeable people from the community, to administer special events, agency relations, recruitment and publicity for the Volunteer Bureau.

The bureau now has 500 women, 50 men and 30 young people registered on its active volunteer files.

Through meals on wheels it serves 2,600 hot meals a year to shut-ins and elderly people.

The classes for teaching English as a second language held every Thursday morning at St. Andrews' Church, have 34 women enrolled.

About 75 children are receiving pre-school enrichment at classes run by bureau volunteers two mornings a week to help them settle into regular school with more confidence.

During the past year, the bureau has run a total of 15 community service programs.

Additional Appointments Made

Hastings county board of education today announced the appointment of a superintendent of schools, to maintain the command of superintendents at its present number, six.

John Garrett, now principal of Trenton Secondary School, has been promoted to the position of superintendent to replace D. C. Stirling, who will retire at the end of the year.

The board had announced last year that retiring superintendents would not be replaced in an effort to reduce the number from 10, at the time of the formation of county boards three years ago to five.

The board will now have two administrative superintendents, L. F. Reid and E. T. Morris, and four superintendents in charge of two associated school groups each.

To replace Mr. Garrett as Trenton, Jack Sisson, now a vice-principal at Quinte will take over the principalship of Trenton High School J. E. Melady will remain a vice-principal at Trenton and Robert Leach will be the second vice-principal.

At Centre Hastings, al the senior administrators will be new in September. W. C. Bervor was appointed principal earlier in the year, and Dudley Hiller vice-principal. Robert Bateman, now mathematics head at CHSS, has been appointed a vice-principal.

William MacKay will be principal at Centennial next year, and vice-principals will be Kenneth Daley and Murray Irwin.

Quinte will have two new vice - principals, with Harry Birkenshaw, now vice - principal at Moira, and Robert Graham, now vice - principal at Centre Hastings, being transferred to Quinte next September. John Hayman will remain as principal.

James Walker was earlier this year promoted from vice-principal at Trenton to principal at BCI and L. D. MacKay will remain as vice-principal.

Gerald Boyce, now vice-principal at Centennial, will be transferred to Moira in September. E. J. Shipton will remain as principal.

There have been no changes in senior personnel at Bayside and North Hastings in Bancroft.

Other appointments made by the board this week are in elementary school principalships.

Appointments and transfers effective next September are: Harry J. Clarke School, Belleville, Lawrence Moore; King George School, Belleville, William Lott; Prince Charles School, Belleville, Ronald Poste; Queen Victoria School, Belleville, Claire Ruppert; Prince of Wales School, Belleville, Wilbur Brown; S. H. Connor School, Tweed, Elwood Palmateer; Paudash School, Bancroft, David MacLeod; Queen Elizabeth School, Trenton, Jack Delong; Prince Charles School, Trenton, William Hamblen; Bird's Creek School, James MacLachlin.

Trustees In Dark

TRENTON (Staff) — "We slipped up this time", Hastings-Prince Edward Separate School superintendent E. J. Neville told Tuesday's board meeting here. He admitted the board administration had neglected to inform trustees that experimental teacher assistant programs are being carried on in at least three of the system's schools.

Trustee Austin Scott had told the meeting a Trenton ratepayer had called him asking for details of a program at St. Peter's School here in which parents and others are assisting teachers for half days. Scott said he knew nothing about it and was unable to give the inquiring parent an explanation.

St. Peter's principal Frank Evans, observing the meeting from the visitors gallery, was asked to outline the program which Ms. Neville said is proceeding well at no cost to ratepayers.

The superintendent said he is preparing material on the subject for the board so it may devise a policy on volunteer teacher assistantships.

On learning the nature of the in-school experiments, Mr. Scott expressed doubts as to their worth but trustee E. L. Courreyes told the board "it sounds like a good idea to me, this involving the public."

At the close of the discussion, trustee Zdenek Kvarda told the board "we should be made aware of what is going on in the schools. It can prove embarrassing when we are not aware."

Easement Allows Parkland Roadway

Access to the projected 51-million parkland development scheme along the west banks of the Moira River will now be possible, as the result of a roadway easement approval given by the Public Utilities Commission to the Parks Board.

At their regular monthly meeting Tuesday morning, the PUC commissioners gave approval to the Parks Board to establish a gravel roadway along commission property near their hydro substation.

The road, to be an offshoot of Moira Street East, will extend from Elvins Street to Highway 401, with a possible future hookup to Bell Boulevard.

Commission chairman Dr. J. Russell Scott said an additional $80,000 grant under the federal government's work incentive program, was received last year. The money can now be used to work on the roadway, which now consists of little more than dirt ruts.

The joint Parks Board and Moira River Conservation Authority beautification plan will make this section of the city a very scenic drive, according to PUC manager Ernest Burnham. It will be a "tremendous improvement" to its existing scenic view, he added.

War Amps' Tags A Boon to Drivers

While most motorists are geared up to that regular February expense ranging from $2 to $25 for new licence plates, the War Amputations association, has small-er problems to concern them.

With the association claiming an unwieldy estimate of up to 60 million key sets jingling merrily in pockets and purses across the country — and another 50 million gathering dust in drawers and cupboards — it's not unusual to find 16,000 sets turning up at their offices.

This unique service provided by veterans each year, accounts for recovery of thousands of lost keys, to which owners have attached the tiny licence plate mailed out to car owners.

From the Belleville offices of the Motor Vehicle Licence Bureau, the annual sale of plates accounts for 12,500 of the Ontario total. To date, reports manager George Olsen, 5,800 have been purchased.

The sale of tiny plates sent to the drivers' home are available for 75-cents, with additional plates costing 50 cents each. This service provides full-time employment for 28 war amputees each year, with an additional 25 part-time people hired during mailing and collection peak periods.

A. J. Parsons, general manager of the War Amputations of Canada in Toronto, says the employment situation for war amputees has reached a critical stage. Public support of the organization's key tags and related items are playing an increasingly major role in the future of these men, he says.

Three factors work against the war amputees, combined to their high rate of unemployment.

First, Canada has not been involved in a war for two decades. The public tends to forget those who were wounded. In 1946, the general manager points out, there were some 3,700 war amputees in Canada as compared to the 1972 figure of 2,600.

Secondly, age is catching up with the survivors. Finally, it is becoming herder than ever for these veterans to obtain employment, with a higher level of education existing today.

Mr. Parsons claims employees are often reluctant to accept amputees as good risks.

One of the services provided by the organization made possible by sale of the key tags, is an employment bureau which manages to find jobs for about two amputees each month.

"The biggest project now," he says, "is reviewing all pension files of amputees in the light of new legislation passed in April, 1971, and trying to ensure that all of our members get all the allowances and other benefits coming to them."

Another invaluable service involving these veterans, is provided to blind who often suffer the shock of loss of limbs.

Policy Debated By SS Board

TRENTON (Staff) — Should the superintendent of separate schools sit in on discussions between elected school trustees and teacher representatives?

The Hastings and Prince Edward Separate School Board faced this question Tuesday as it dealt with a policy package on operating procedures.

Trustee Paul Fleming took the position "it is best to have administration represented on all committees — they are a resource."

However, inclusion of the administration on the board-teacher committee was opposed by trustee John Granville, himself a teacher in the Prince Edward public school system. Mr. Granville told the that at all — it will limit freedom. "I can't agree with at all — it will limit freedom."

By the decision taken at yesterday's meeting, Superintendent E. J. Neville will attend meetings of the committee but the committee will have the right to exclude him from its deliberations as it sees fit.

Canada Host for Guide Conference

French and Spanish, as well as English, will be official languages for sessions of the 21st World Conference of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts at York University, Toronto June 13 - 22. This will be the first such conference ever hosted by Canada, a founder member of the Association since 1928.

More than 400 delegates and visitors are expected to attend from 87 member countries, the delegates appointed by their own national councils. Mrs. Wellard D. Woodruff of Toronto is chairman of the hostess planning committee with Mrs. W. P. Gurd, Toronto, Chief Commissioner of the Girl Guides of Canada — Guides du Canada, as honorary chairman. Conference chairman is Mrs. J. R. Price, Australia, and Senora Nair G. de Pieres, Argentina, and Mlle. Odile Bonte, France.

Topics under discussion will include the contribution of Guiding to developing countries; policy and standards of Guiding throughout the world, for the purpose of fostering and extending the Movement; application of nations for membership, and planning of international events to encourage friendship among Girl Guides and Girl Scouts. Also on the agenda will be the election of new members to the World Committee.

Canadian Brownies, Guides, Rangers and Cadets have been invited to attend the various social events planned during the conference, so that delegates may meet Canadian girls.

Social events include a barbeque at Black Creek Pioneer Village, an informal International night of songs and dancing; a tour of Niagara Falls and the Hamilton area, and hospitality in nearby homes. The closing program will be held at the Forum of Ontario Place, June 22.

Some of the delegates will leave for a weekend camping trip at Doe Lake near Huntsville where they will be entertained by the Ontario Council, Girl Guides of Canada.

Regular sessions are held every Tuesday, 7.30 p.m. at the Four Seasons Hotel and every Thursday, 7.30 p.m. at the Tops Motor Hotel. Everyone is welcome.

An event of exceptional interest to duplicate bridge players is to be held on Friday, March 24 at the Four Seasons Hotel. On this night starting at 8.00 p.m., several thousand bridge players throughout the North American continent will start playing simultaneously in the 23rd continent-wide charity game. This game organized under the expertise of the American Contract Bridge League, is unique in that the same hands are played at each session. This is the first time Belleville has joined the continent-wide game, in which all proceeds from Canadian games go to research and education projects of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society. This year it is hoped to top the $9,000 raised in 1971 by duplicate bridge players for Canadian Multiple Sclerosis research. More information will be forthcoming, but in the meantime keep Friday, March 24 as a must on your bridge calendar.

BC Consumers Service Said Inadequate

VICTORIA (CP) — British Columbia, which holds an enviable record in the field of consumer protection legislation, stands on the lowest rung of the ladder of consumer services.

Barbara Rolls, president of the B.C. branch of the Consumers Association of Canada, describes the province's small consumer affairs bureau as "inadequate and too remote from the people."

In size, the B.C. bureau staff of one administrative officer and two secretaries is equalled by that in tiny Prince Edward Island, population just over 100,000 compared with some 2.2 million for Canada's West Coast province. All other provinces have larger bureaus.

Although B.C.'s population is concentrated in the Greater Vancouver area, the consumers' lone watchdog, Michel Hanson, 36, works out of Victoria, the capital and government administrative centre.

Mrs. Rolls says each area of the province should have access to a consumer affairs officer or his agent and that "there certainly should be a branch in Vancouver and in Prince George."

In 1970, in his first full year as consumer affairs officer, Mr. Hanson averaged 54 cases a month and handled cash refunds and account reductions totalling more than $70,000. This amount does not include free repairs and services he negotiated for consumers.

Last year, the bureau saw the volume of cases jump by about 30 per cent and its area of responsibility was enlarged.

Besides doing the leg work in investigating complaints, negotiating refunds or the repair or replacement of defective articles, and educating the public on their rights under the Consumer Protection Act, Mr. Hanson now is chairman of a newly created hospital board which registers and licenses hearing-aid dealers.

Mrs. Rolls says this workload cuts down on Mr. Hanson's ability to cover the whole province because he is bogged down in his Victoria office.

When Mr. Hanson was appointed Dec. 1, 1969, he was given a secretary but no office of his own.

Today he occupies a cubicle in the Provincial Law Courts Building. Another secretary was recently added to his staff to handle the hearing-aid board's correspondence.

Although B.C. trails in bureau size the province does claim it consistently leads the way in consumer protection legislation.

NULL WEDDINGS

ROME (AP) — The matrimages of increasing numbers of local couples are null in the eyes of the Roman Catholic Church because they wed with no intentions of fidelity or having children, said a church tribunal official who termed the trend " a mental deviation in the youth."

B.C. was the third province to pass consumer protection legislation in Canada and the first to ban unsolicited credit cards. It also led the country in banning referral selling — the practice of offering buyers a rebate against monthly payments for costly items for each new contract they provide which leads to a similar purchase.

Since the consumer affairs bureau was set up in January, 1970, motor vehicle and consumer credit jointly provided the largest source of consumers' complaints, more than 50 per cent of the total, with motor vehicles having an edge over consumer credit.

Sale of used cars, collection procedures of finance companies and credit being advanced without due consideration being given to the ability of the borrower to pay were common complaints in these two areas.

Mr. Hanson says an average of one in four complaints is refused at the outset or quickly found to be unsubstantiated and that, surprisingly, there was not a single complaint in 1971 regarding cleaning, dyeing and laundry facilities.

There were a number of complaints on electrical appliances, building and decorative materials, carpets, furniture, and on goods ordered and paid for but not received severely partly received.

To the federal government, Mr. Hanson says, has jurisdiction over false advertising, weights and measures and hazardous products and complaints in these areas are referred to federal authorities.

The province has jurisdiction in matters of contract, and virtually all complaints have their roots in terms of contracts.

Mr. Hanson says he has no authority to investigate complaints against the government. Such complaints must be directed to members of the legislature.

Many of the consumers' problems are due to lack of communications between the consumers and the merchants. Mr. Hanson says. When this is the case, he acts as an intermediary.

In serious cases, police may be called in to investigate fraud. In several instances, charges have been laid and convictions obtained with heavy fines levied.

Consumers with minor cases are directed to the courts of the small claims division where they can get the help of the court's staff in the preparation of documents and a hearing for less than $30, provided the claim does not exceed $500.

Ann Landers

Young Woman Needs Hobby, Not Repairman

Dear Ann Landers: Am I nuts?

About five weeks ago the TV broke down. I called the repairman. He came that same day—a handsome young fellow about 25 years younger than myself. He wished with him while he worked on the set. It took about 20 minutes. Then I offered him a cold beer. We sat at the kitchen table and talked. I must say I enjoyed his company. His visit cost $16.

Two weeks later I got to thinking about that fellow again so I called the shop and invited a couple of tubes and got the TV out of commission. He came over that same afternoon and we had another nice visit. The repair bill was $11.

I did the same thing yesterday, Ann. But this time they sent another fellow. He's not my type. I felt like a fool. I also was mad. He charged me $13 and there wasn't a darned thing wrong with the set. How when I called the shop the last time did I "un-cuckoo." What do you think?—Bewildered

Dear Brew: I think you've got a bat or two in the belfry, honey. You must also be pretty rich to afford such high-priced company. What you really need is something to occupy your time. Get a hobby.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 22 and a few months ago I married for the second time. My husband is 5 years older than I. He is a wonderful person, and I want this marriage to work as much I can tell you that. But he has a problem. It's me and my family.

I pop off, criticize, get mean and vindictive and then I hate myself for it an hour later. It seems like whatever comes into my head goes out of my mouth. I am so afraid I'll ruin this marriage that I've intervened and find out why you are a compulsive verbal harpooner, and what to do about it. The first step toward a cure is to discover the cause.

Please tell me what to do. I have paid for that darned dress 100 times over in suffering. I need your help.—Old Enough To Know Better

Dear Old Enough: Go to a bank and ask that a cashier's cheque be made out in the amount of $45. Request that your name not appear on the cheque. Send it to the store and attach a note saying: "This is to pay for the merchandise I took several months ago, plus interest. I'm sorry I did it and have learned my lesson. Thank you."

Women's Institutes

RIVER VALLEY WI

RIVER VALLEY — The regional meeting of River Valley W.I. was held Thursday afternoon at the centre with 37 members and four visitors present. "Historical Research and Current Events" was the theme of the program in charge of Mrs. Phillip Conley.

The hostess was Mrs. Raymond McCrossan.

Phillip Conley prepared a paper on current events which was read by Mrs. Roy Bush. This gave an account of people in the River Valley.

A skit was performed by Mrs. Ernest Carr, Mrs. Roy Tucker, and Mrs. Doug Cole, illustrating the "yesterday," "today" and "tomorrow" differences of time, from 1897 to 1927.

Mrs. Vernon Hurry, first vice-president, conducted the business session.

The financial report of the Institute was given by Mrs. J. L. Donahue and Mrs. Vernon Hurry.

Mrs. Gerald Brooks read a letter of thanks from the Associated Countrywomen of the world from UNESCO conference.

The pooling fee for the Guelph conference and membership in Kings Historical Society was authorized to be paid.

Plans were completed for the 75th anniversary celebration of Hastings West District.

Mrs. Percy MacMillen read a letter of thanks from Abbot Leigh W.I., England.

Two new members were welcomed by Paul Sceneman and Mrs. E. W. Bogart.

Mrs. Roy Tucker, president of Hastings West District and the secretary Mrs. Gerald Brooks distributed the new handbooks in a special ceremony. These are a guide to help branch leaders carry out the work from the days of February, 1897 when the first World Institute was organized at Stoney Creek, Ontario.

The weekly card parties have been successful with a large number of visitors in attendance. There will be five more parties; two in February and three in March. The hostesses are absent March 31.

The refreshment committee who served at the social hour were Mrs. Vernon Harry, Mrs. John Morgan and Mrs. Harry Morrow.

Mrs. Kenneth Tompkins voiced thanks on behalf of the four guests.

Mrs. Norman Rosebush attended thanks to the hostess.

Mrs. Raymond McConnell for the program and refreshments.

Melrose WI

MELROSE — The first meeting of the year 1972 of Melrose WI was held at the home of Mrs. R. McLaren with an attendance of 26. In the absence of the president, Mrs. J. MacFarlane, first vice-president Mrs. K. McMechan presided.

Mrs. Roy Badgley was appointed delegate to the 75th anniversary meeting of the founding of the Women's Institutes to be held in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto on Feb. 12, with Mrs. A. English to act as alternate.

The new handbooks were distributed.

The family of the late Mrs. T. Leslie sent a card of thanks for the flowers sent. She was one of the first life members of the Melrose Institute.

Other notes of thanks were read from Mr. and Mrs. Earl Whiteman and Mrs. L. McLaren.

Members accepted the suggestion that a box of gifts be sent to the McAvoy girl who fractured her leg. Mrs. McMechan offered to be responsible for delivery of the gifts.

The institute will give a month's assistance to the Muir family who are deprived of a mother's care as she is hospitalized. A gift will be sent to her also.

Mrs. William English, convener of agriculture, called on Mrs. J. English to speak on the "motto while she gave an interesting talk on agriculture.

Mrs. V. Pearce conducted a contest with Mrs. C. Wood and Mrs. Bennett receiving the prizes.

Most People Tend to Dodge Middle Age

By DORIS CLARK

"Middle age is when most people our age are a lot older than are we." — Farmer's Almanac.

Is this the way we feel with you, Doris? Doris? Why do we try to dodge middle age?

So often one hears: "Why, I just learned that he is then same age I am. Wouldn't you say he's 35, years older than me?"

We cling to the idea that we are young. No need to. Nice things go with being a little older, and definitely worthwhile.

Like not having to run so fast on the social treadmill. Like gaining a philosophy which keeps us from gasping in helpless awe when tough times turn up; like the beauties of sunsets and suppers; of grandchildren who think we are tops.

The learning we have accumulated over the years will pay off if we let it. The thing is to grow old gracefully!

* * *

Dear Doris: I would like to have you send me a copy of that poem of Mother Shipton's. I don't know whether I actually believe that anyone can foresee the future, but still I cannot deny a keen curiosity interest in what they have to say! That part about the world coming to an end in 1981 is definitely disturbing to me. Wouldn't you know it, but I have some bonds that will mature in 1982!

I read your column faithfully, and find that you give pretty sound advice. I am sure it is up to Mother Nature's sense to just sit down and write to someone who is willing to think about the best solutions to the problems of a complete stranger! — Future Shock.

Dear Future: Come in think of it, I have an in Canada Savings Bonds stowed away which will mature about a dozen years from now. Maybe I should start worrying.

Silly part is, what use will any material goods be in any other world? — For I still bet settle for a belief in just noble qualities!

Wouldn't one of the poet's which half a dozen in the 1970's all pitched out for the end of things. They sold all their worldly possessions, and gifts

Retirement Party Held for Nurses

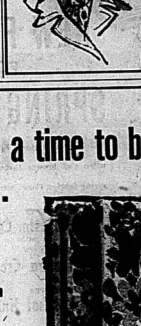
Recognized for long years of faithful hospital service were Registered Nurses Mrs. Doris Enright, Mrs. Muriel Conner, Miss Helen Wall, Miss Annie Arnott and Miss Queenie Cook.

An engraved silver tray was presented to each honored guest. These were presented by Mrs. Margaret Galsforth, president of the association. She referred to the successful launching of the dinner project as a dream come true. She told them the dinner plans the group the opportunity to recognize fellow nurses for their dedication to their profession while on the staff of the Belleville General Hospital.

Among the head table guests was Miss Kay Lewis of the Employment Dept. of the RNA of Ontario. Guest speaker was Phillip Rickard, executive director of the hospital. Miss Ruth Lees, assistant administrator (patient care) for the hospital, also spoke briefly.



The Belleville association has the highest membership of any RNA in Ontario. It was certified in 1937 as the bargaining agent by the Labor Relations Board of Ontario.

Kinettes Hold Bake Sale

TWEED — The Tweed Kinette Club sponsored a successful bake and craft sale on Friday, February 11, at Roy Ways Beer Room on Victoria Street. There was a wide array of "goodies" including buns, pies, cakes, tarts which were sold out in less than an hour.

The crafts consisted of such things as: prettily covered coat hangers, candles, pin cushions, children's floral aprons and knitted slippers, which were in great demand.

The project was conceived by Kinette Faye LeGage and her co - workers and Kinette Brenda McGuire. They were pleased with the response to the sale and with the proceeds which the Kinette Club will use for their service work in the community.

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has been suffering from calcium deposits in his knees for a year and a half. Pseudo-gout, the doctor calls it. The doctor prescribed a steroid medication three times a day. If he misses one or two capsules, he is in pain. Is there any other treatment?—Mrs. J.B.

Dear Doctor: I am 75 and have developed agonizing pain in my knee. It didn't respond to pain pills, and it was diagnosed as pseudo-gout. I'm told there is no medication as with gout. Cortisone stopped the acute pain but I certainly am uncomfortable and a little unsteady.—Mrs. T.Y.

Gout, as you probably know, is caused basically by too much uric acid accumulating in the system. In time it causes sudden episodes of extremely painful joints—first usually the big toe.

Pseudo-gout is an attack that resembles an attack of gout in that it strikes at a joint—usually the knee—with dramatic suddenness and with just as severe pain. But the cause is different.

The fact it we don't know the precise cause of it, but there is no elevation of uric acid, and the drugs that bring relief in real gout are of no use with pseudo-gout.

There are various ways of recognizing pseudo-gout, but the most specific one is to draw out a little fluid from the painful joint. If it is pseudo-gout, there will be calcium pyrophosphate crystals in the fluid.

Various medications are used with good effect—large doses of aspirin, or other anti-rheumatic drugs such as phenylbutazone or steroids (cortisone-type medications). A word of caution: These require periodic checkups by your doctor to make sure there are no signs of overdosage. It's not a disorder that can be quickly treated.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You wrote that lack of hydrochloric acid can be cured. I asked several doctors and they don't know. I have been taking five tablets with meals for 30 years, and still have to do so.—M.L.

Some misinterpretation here, because I've said more than once that lack of hydrochloric acid can be treated, but that's not the same as curing it.

Dilute hydrochloric acid is one of the necessary digestive juices, and without some traces of it in the stomach we can't digest our foods efficiently.

Medicines that change into the acid after being swallowed can be used, just as you do. In some instances, a dilute hydrochloric acid can be taken by mouth—but in that case, the patient should be careful to brush his teeth after each taking, since traces of acid clinging to the teeth can do dental damage.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter used to hold her breath and turn blue, and when she was around a year old the doctor discovered that she was anemic. I thought this might help Mrs. S.T.—Mrs. J.K.

I've mentioned exactly this possibility before in this column, but I really wouldn't be surprised if some people would pay more attention to the possibility after reading that another reader, and not just the doctor, has encountered it.

Opposition MPs Are in Chippy Mood

OTTAWA (CP) — As opposition MPs displayed a feisty pre-election mood, the government offered a summary of the just-ended parliamentary session Wednesday, barely noting issues likely to get top billing in the campaign expected this year.

The fourth session of the 28th Parliament was to open today.

Under procedure set by the government, the Commons returned from its winter recess just long enough for the ritual call to the Senate for the prorogation speech delivered by Chief Justice Gerald Fauteux.

The 20-minute speech, written by the government, cited the bills passed in the last session and called on Parliament to continue the pace of legislation to meet the challenges of the future.

But the Commons sitting was interrupted by Conservative and New Democrat House leaders who objected to opposition MPs being prevented from questioning the government on such issues as unemployment and trade disputes with the United States.

New Democrat Stanley Knowles said that after the autumn-week break there was plenty for the House to do. The government was "hiding behind the royal prerogative"—the Senate call to hear the prorogation speech.

Commons Speaker Lucien Lamoureux rejected Mr. Baldwin's request to clear the House of strangers, including the messenger from the Senate, the public and the press.

Opposition MPs expressed dissatisfaction with the speech, boycotted by all Conservatives except Leader Robert Stanfield, who said the speech was "as dry as last year's bird's nest."

On the issue of unemployment, the speech said:

"It is a matter of continuing concern to the government that the rapid increase in the labor force has left many Canadians out of work notwithstanding the impressive increase in the number of jobs created.

"The rise in output and employment has been attained, however, without jeopardizing Canada's unmatched achievement in the area of price stability."

It said the growth rate of Canada's real gross national product has exceeded that of any industrialized country in the world.

Stanfield Expects Speech Will Be Cynical Package

HAMILTON (CP) — The throne speech opening a new session of Parliament will be a cynical package designed to turn the public's attention away from the Trudeau government's disastrous record, Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield predicted Wednesday.

Speaking to a Conservative fund-raising dinner for Hamilton and district, Mr. Stanfield said he suspects the speech today, which will contain the government's legislative plans for the coming session, will have an "odor vaguely reminiscent of the pork barrel."

It would be aimed "more with an eye to the election needs of the Trudeau government than to the immediate needs of the Canadian people."

There should be a coherent national economic policy based on individual initiatives rather than government interference, he said.

Monkey's Head Treatment

Campaign Paradoxes Predicted

MONTREAL (CP) — Peter C. Newman, editor of Maclean's magazine, said Wednesday the next federal election, which he expects this spring, "is shaping up as a campaign of paradoxes."

He told the Advertising and Sales Club that while Prime Minister Trudeau is "the French-Canadian campaigning on a get-tough-with-Quebec platform", Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield is "the WASP running on a conciliate-the-French-Canadian ticket."

Artist Grateful

TORONTO (CP). — A Czech artist who fled from the Russian invaders of his country is thanking his new Canadian homeland through posters entered in an international competition in Warsaw.

The poster exhibit is the third of artist Otto R. Edelmann of Toronto, who works for a packaging design firm. His works are on display by invitation with those of such distinguished artists as Salvador Dali and Canada's Jean-Paul Riopelle.

OMB Chairman to Retire

TORONTO (CP) — A name almost synonymous with the Ontario Municipal Board—and not always a popular name—will leave the public scene next October.

J. A. Kennedy, crusty, 69-year-old chairman of the board since 1959, has been known to get his own way in a variety of things over the years, and never to the delight of his critics.

There was the Spadina Expressway, for example.

His was the board's only dissenting vote on the controversial expressway which was almost certain to go through last year. But that one dissenting vote appeared enough for the provincial cabinet to scotch the project.

It's no secret that many Metropolitan Toronto officials are looking forward to next October, and Mr. Kennedy's retirement. Some have called him at least dictatorial, and others have labelled him with names less printable.

The board, appointed by the province in 1906 to act as a watchdog over municipal affairs, has far-reaching powers, including reviewing and approving all capital works expenditures, zoning changes, borrowing for works projects and official land-use plans.

The board's critics say that because it is an appointed body and can over-rule an elected body, the very antithesis of democracy is being carried out.

The power to change the board now lies with Darcy McKeough, minister of financial and inter-governmental affairs.

Attorney-General Dalton Bales, Mr. McKeough's predecessor, said during his last week in charge of municipal affairs that "this could be the year of change" for the OMB.

Ministers To Get Assistants

TORONTO (CP) — Five parliamentary assistants will be appointed from among Ontario government back-benchers in the next session of the legislature, Premier William Davis announced Wednesday.

They are new posts for Ontario.

Two will be assigned to Darcy McKeough, treasurer and minister of inter-governmental affairs; one to Leo Bernier in the ministry which combines mines, northern affairs and lands and forests under the title natural resources, one to Gordon Carton, minister of transportation and communications, and one to John White, minister of trade, development and tourism.

Such a post will mean an additional $5,000 on top of the backbencher's annual $18,000 salary.

Kosygin Inquiry

Attacked by Mob: Policeman

TORONTO (CP) — A Metropolitan Toronto mounted policeman told a provincial inquiry Wednesday he was attacked and three times by demonstrators at the Ontario Science Centre Oct. 25 and clubbed two of his assailants with a four-foot riding crop.

Patrol Sgt. Patrick Woulfe was testifying before Judge Anthony Vannini, who is conducting an inquiry into the demonstration against the visit of Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin to the science centre. A clash between the demonstrators and mounted officers led to 20 arrests and a dozen injuries.

Sgt. Woulfe was the first policeman to admit he had struck demonstrators. Earlier in the month-long inquiry, Judge Vannini heard evidence from a number of witnesses who said they had been attacked by policemen on horses.

Sgt. Woulfe said he led a section of seven mounted officers into the crowd and "as we advanced the crowd seemed to fall back in front of the horses."

"There were some objects being thrown at this time and there was a lot of verbal abuse," said Sgt. Woulfe, a 15 year veteran of the mounted unit. "The crowd seemed to settled down and we withdrew back on to the street."

But the mood of the crowd changed when an elderly man "began jumping up and down screaming—he was hysterical" and the crowd was reacting.

Sgt. Woulfe said he "had him removed" by policemen on foot.

At this time, a group of 80 to 100 demonstrators began moving back into the area cleared by Sgt. Woulfe and his section a few minutes earlier. The horsemen moved in again.

"I saw one man step out of the crowd. He was an older man and had an umbrella. He hit my horse over the head with it. The horse ducked and brought her head up and hit him in the face.

"He made as if he was going to hit my horse again. I raised my crop and hit him, though I don't know where I hit him."

Davis to Look At Legislation

TORONTO (CP) — Premier William Davis said Wednesday he wants to take a close look at conflict-of-interest charges involving elected officials.

He said he is not happy with the current state of affairs—a ruling in Thunder Bay that four aldermen should vacate their seats and that A.M. Ben Grys of Toronto had an indirect conflict of interest in a business dealing which his wife undertook.

In both communities the act governing the situation has been criticized.

Mr. Davis said such a situation is "not desirable" but said he did not want to comment further until he had more time to study the cases.

Shortly thereafter, said Sgt. Woulfe, a girl about 16 years of age ran in between the horses and grabbed his right leg.

"She was trying to push me out of the saddle," he said. "She was pushing my right foot. I hit her with my riding crop on the arm."

Sgt. Woulfe said he noticed one old man running back and forth from under a nearby tree, throwing what appeared to be handfuls of topsoil at the police lines.

The mounted officers got a second signal to withdraw. As he guided his horse back towards the roadway, "a tall youth came out of the crowd and grabbed my left leg, trying to pull me off the horse."

A foot policeman came over and grabbed the youth and Sgt. Woulfe pushed both of them to the ground in an effort to free his leg. He said he grabbed at the youth and "picked him up by his hair and jacket." The youth was taken away

Man Must Discharge Debts

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's Commercial Registration Appeal Tribunal ruled Wednesday that it would not be in the public interest for a man whose bankruptcy is undischarged to be registered as a real estate salesman.

The tribunal ruled that Ronald Masters, 42, of nearby Markham, should not be registered until he discharges his debts.

Equalization

B.C. Rides Alone

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

A contention by the British Columbia government that federal equalization payments to the provinces are unconstitutional has no grounds at all and is based on imagination, says Senator Eugene Forsey.

Senator Forsey, an acknowledged expert on constitutional law, called the suit threatened by B.C. Attorney-General Leslie Peterson "pure moonshine."

The province has said the payments violate the equalization principle of the British North America Act, a principle Senator Forsey said is nonexistent. Federal subsidies to the provinces have been unequal since 1867, he said.

"I don't imagine any lawyer who values his reputation taking the case. He'd need the skin of a rhinoceros and the head of an ostrich."

The equalization grants come from federal general revenues, the general pool of funds raised by all forms of federal taxes. They are calculated by a formula based on a national average of provincial revenues from six sources of provincial tax money. Payments then are made to the seven provinces which fall below the national average.

The effect is that excess tax revenue from Ontario, Alberta and British Columbia are distributed among the other seven provinces.

The B.C. statement that it will challenge the payments in the courts drew no sympathy elsewhere.

Finance Minister John Crosbie of Newfoundland said his province would have to "close up shop" if the payments were ended. Newfoundland receives more than $105 million annually in payments.

Premier Alex Campbell of Prince Edward Island said his province would meet any challenge to its right to payments with all the abilities, arguments and finances it can muster.

Nova Scotia Premier Gerald Regan said he doubts that B.C. is serious in the matter.

"British Columbia should realize that equalization payments are a necessary way of life if our country is to stay together and grow," he said.

Premier Richard Hatfield of New Brunswick said he was "surprised and disappointed" to hear of the challenge. He said B.C. Premier W. A. C. Bennett, a native of New Brunswick, "knows our need for these equalization payments and the benefits they provide directly to the people of his native province."

"If what its attorney-general said expresses an official position, the British Columbia government is giving proof of separatism," he said in a statement.

Premier William Davis of Ontario said: "We agree with the principle of equalization. We've never disputed it."

Manitoba Premier Ed Schreyer said the B.C. position runs counter to the federal system.

Saskatchewan Premier Allan Blakeney said he sees no basis in law for the B.C. assertion.

Turner to Extend Five Year Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister John Turner intends to introduce a five-year extension to current federal-provincial equalization payments legislation in the new session of Parliament opening today, regardless of British Columbia's objections to it.

The legislation will increase to $1.6 billion by 1976-77 the amount of federal tax money now used each year to subsidize the treasuries of the so-called seven "have-not" provinces—all but Ontario, Alberta and British Columbia. Equalization payments amount to $1.1 billion this year.

Mr. Turner's bill is said to be ready for introduction now or very near completion. It will be one of the first bills to be introduced by the government in the new session. It is to take effect March 1, retroactively if parliamentary approval comes later.

The bill's terms were discussed at three federal-provincial meetings of finance ministers, called last year and early this year by E. J. Benson, now defence minister.

The formula it embodies is little changed from the one used in the last five years for determining the amounts to be paid by Ottawa to each of the provinces.

That formula is based on striking a national average of provincial revenues from 16 sources of provincial tax money, and then paying federal subsidies to the seven provinces which fall below the national average. The effect is that excess tax revenues from the three richer provinces are distributed among the seven poorer ones.

The 16 provincial revenue sources include personal, corporation, and estate taxes, along with general sales, gasoline, automobile, liquor and natural resource taxes.

Jean Calnan totals the final figures on just who came out ahead in the family's congenial bowling rivalry. Husband Jack and Kelly, the family pet, check to make sure that there's no scoreboard manipulating. Mrs. Calnan rolled a 405 game last week for the best effort by a Belleville woman this year, while Jack responded with a 1001 triple, tops in the city this season.

Mrs. Calnan Beats Husband With Bowling, Not Rolling Pin

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

Unlike most wives, when Jean Calnan decides that hubby needs a beating she uses a corner pin not a rolling pin.

It should be pointed out that the "feud" takes place on a bowling alley, not the front living room, and that husband Jack very seldom comes out second-best in that category.

The former "Mr. Bowling" and Intelligencer Gold Cup winner has been one of the top five-pin bowlers in the city for the past six or seven years.

However on Sunday, Feb. 6 it appeared as though the female half of the Calnan household was definitely relegated to second spot. Playing in a youth bowling Family Twosome with daughter Terry, Jean rolled a 405. It was only the second "400" game turned in by a Belleville woman bowler during the past three years.

Jack never did manage to square accounts on the single game score, but he did manage to earn a draw for the day. Playing in the Sunday night Moira Mixed Major league, where the couple bowl on opposing teams, he clicked for a 1001 triple, best in the city so far this year.

In fact, in both of his first two games it appeared as though Calnan might have a shot at the perfect game which has managed to elude him so far. He reeled off seven consecutive strikes in both games before fading to a pair of 300's. In his third match he managed a 281 to edge over the 1000-mark.

His big night managed to push Jack's average up to 243, not particularly high for him. The former city-high average holder has been out of the "Big Seven" standings all year, but has gradually been moving up.

"I think I'm probably bowling better than I did last year, but I'm not getting the average. I keep catching weak pins," he related. Part of his trouble, he believes, is that the alleys at the Belleville Bowl-O-Drome were re-surfaced this summer.

"Everybody's having the same trouble" admits Calnan. "We're still looking for the right spot and speed. It was just one of those nights when everything was working," he said of his outstanding triple effort.

If Jack's big night represented an improvement, his wife's 405 game came close to being a two-in-one effort almost doubling the 214 average that she carries in the Moira league.

Mrs. Calnan started out with a corner pin spare and then reeled off nine consecutive strikes in engineering her first 400 game. Her best previous effort was 346. Jack has managed six games over 400 with his best totalling 440.

"I wasn't going to tell him about the 400 game," kidded Jean about the bowling rivalry. "We were both pretty happy about it." Jack sets the record straight.

The moral of the story would seem to be: wives, beat your husband on the bowling alley, not in the back alley.

Second Tougher

Things don't promise to be any easier the second time around as far as the Belleville Bobcats are concerned.

Belleville managed a convincing 5-2 win over the Oshawa Crushmen in the opening game of their Eastern Ontario Junior B semi - final series but coach Moe Hunter isn't looking for any cakewalk.

"I think they'll come on like gangbusters next game," speculated the Belleville coach. "It's going to be a tough series there's no doubt about that."

Kingston Shades Oakville

One Ace Helps Quintes' Hand

KINGSTON (SP-Staff) — Peter Kennedy could never be accused of doing Belleville's senior hockey boys any favors — before Wednesday night, that is.

Kennedy's 20th goal of the season, with only 14 seconds remaining in a 10-minute sudden-death overtime period, gave Kingston Aces a 7-6 win over Oakville Oaks.

Kennedy's goal, the Queen's University student's second of the game, clinched a fourth-place finish for the Aces in the eight-team OHA Senior A league standings.

But it also was important for the idle Belleville Quintes, victims of three Kennedy goals last week in a 7 - 5 loss to the Aces.

Belleville winds up their 46-game schedule and their bid for one of the six league playoff berths with a Friday night road trip to Oakville and a home stand against the Aces Saturday.

Wednesday night's game was a replay of one scheduled for Sunday that the Oaks blamed weather conditions for not attending. There still is no decision from the Ontario Hockey Association about what penalty, if any, will be assessed the Oaks for failing to ice a team in a scheduled Tuesday game in Owen Sound.

Oakville's Dave Nicholsben made the Aces work for their win Wednesday. The former Orillia winger scored three goals in the third period, including one at 11.18 that forced the game into overtime.

Jesse Rink Earns Leg On Legion 'Spiel Triple

TRENTON (Staff) — Earl Jesse earned a leg on his third straight Royal Canadian Legion provincial curling title at the Trenton Curling Club Wednesday by defeating Burlington 8-5 in a first - round match.

Jesse and his rink of vice-skip Hector McIntosh, second Wayne MacDonald, and Wayne McCreadie, who last week won the Canadian Armed Force title, are representing Trenton's Branch 110 in the mixed rink provincial Legion bonspiel.

Winners of the event, which winds up here Sunday, will represent Ontario at the Dominion Command championships at Winnipeg next month. A Jesse - skipped foursome were runners-up in the 1970 national Legion event.

Two close games highlighted the first round of the veterans organization tourney Wednesday. It took East Toronto extra rocks to edge Guelph 9-8 and in a similar see-saw fixture Kapuskasing eked out a 7-6 win over Brantford. London routed Sutton 17-3 in the other game of the evening. North Bay drew a bye in the opening round.

Matched in competition continuing today at 9 a.m. were London - Kapuskasing, Burlington - Renfrew, Guelph - North Bay, Sutton - Trenton, while East Toronto had a bye.

At 1.30 p.m. Burlington met Guelph, East Toronto takes on Kapuskasing, Sutton faces Renfrew, North Bay goes against Trenton and London receives the bye.

Tonight's 7.30 p.m. draw features London - Burlington, East Toronto - Renfrew, Sutton - North Bay, Kapuskasing-Trenton and Guelph with a bye in the round-robin event.

Game Delay Penalty Called Three Times in Hab-Seal Draw

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The National Hockey League's new rule on delay of game has fired the tempers of numerous penalized players this season but probably never as many at one time as in Montreal Wednesday night.

Referee Bruce Hood called the penalty twice against California Golden Seals and once the teams battled to a 1-1 tie with Montreal's goal coming on one of the delay-of-game pen-alties against Seals goalie Gilles Meloche.

"It is a bush-league rule, the way it was called tonight," said an angry Vic Stasiuk, Seals coach.

In other games Wednesday, Pittsburgh Penguins whipped Toronto Maple Leafs 4-2, Minnesota North Stars downed Detroit Red Wings 4-2, St. Louis Blues beat Los Angeles Kings 3-1 and Chicago Black Hawks tied 3-3 with Philadelphia Flyers.

The new rule adopted this season calls for a minor penalty against any player who deliberately delays the game by firing the puck out of the playing area.

"On the call against Meloche, the puck is rolling, there is a race for it between Meloche and Yvan Cournoyer. Meloche gets there first, and just tries to clear the puck away. It goes over the boards and we are penalized."

The second such call against the Seals came in the third period when Seals forward Gary Jarrett was about to get a minor penalty on a delayed interference call. When play stopped, Seals defenceman Carol Vadnais shot the puck into the crowd and was immediately penalized.

The Canadiens failed to score despite the two-men advantage but Vadnais was still unhappy about his penalty.

"How can I be accused of delaying the game when play was already stopped?

"The play had been whistled down, there was no play in progress, I didn't mean to shoot the puck into the crowd, I just cleared it toward the boards. It hit something and went over, and I can't see how you can delay a game that's already been stopped."

Montreal coach Scotty Bowman was not bothered by defenceman J.C. Tremblay getting the delay of game call.

"I don't know whether Tremblay shot the puck out deliberately, but he was penalized," Bowman said. "As for the complaints by California, like I said, the rule is there so the referee has to call it.

"And anyway, what was Vadnais doing with the puck when the play was stopped? It is not his job to do anything when the referee has whistled down the play."

Meloche said he was upset about the call against him, saying it was the second such penalty he has taken this season.

Trembley was not available after the game for comment but he was obviously upset about his penalty as he argued the point with Hood, eventually himself a 10-minute misconduct for his trouble.

The Seals went ahead with Gerry Pinder's goal early in the first period and Bobby Malarchuk's score in the second period power play tied it for Montreal.

In Minnesota, Dennis Hextall took a 2-0 first-period lead on goals by Tim Ecclestone and Red Berenson but the North Stars came back to tie it in the second period with scores by Murray Oliver and Bob Nevin.

The loss meant the Red Wings remained tied for fourth spot in the East Division with the slumping Maple Leafs who skidded to their 12th loss in 14 games.

The Penguins outshot Toronto 42-29 and defenceman Bryan Watson set up two Pittsburgh goals with hard shots from the blue line. Both of Watson's shots rebounded off goalie Jacques Plante and Ron Schock scored with the first and Syl Apps with the second.

Philadelphia's Simone Nobili, Bobby Clarke and Bill Flett beat goalie Tony Esposito at Chicago to give the Flyers the 3-0 lead in the second period but two goals by Jim Pappin and one by Stan Mikita earned the tie for Chicago.

In the Flyers goal for his first NHL game was goalie Bob Taylor, working in place of Don McLeod who is sidelined with a knee injury.

The victory moved the Blues into a tie with third-place California in the West Division, each with 48 points. Philadelphia remained in the running for a playoff spot by staying within three points of the Blues and Seals while Pittsburgh was not out of the race with 43 points.

No Senior Defence

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP) — There'll be more than the usual sprinkling of grey hairs on the ice Monday as the Canadian Seniors curling championship gets under way.

The competition, in which all participants must be more than 39 years old, is an 11-rink, round-robin affair which embraces all 10 provinces plus Northern Ontario.

When it winds up Friday there is certain to be a new champion. Last year's winner, Dr. Wendell MacDonald of Prince Edward Island, won't defend his title.

Slim Otterson, skip of the Calgary rink representing Alberta, was runner-up in the Seniors in Kamloops two years ago, but was eliminated in Alberta playoffs last year.

This year, Otterson was predictable on what he calls the "Absorbine Trail." He was undefeated in 12 games while qualifying.

"There are plenty of fine curlers in that national deal," said Otterson as he speculated on the round-robin competition. "It all depends on which of the old legs holds up the best.

"After a few rounds it's a pretty worn-out mob you have out there."

Walker, a native of Manitoba who spent 25 years in Edmonton, represented Alberta in the Seniors in 1960 and 1969.

Manitoba's entry is skipped by Don Brownridge of Portage La Prairie, who says he's had a satisfying run in curling, "but every time I step onto the ice, I'm out for blood."

It's Brownridge's first time in the finals, but his crew whipped through a 16-rink field to qualify with five wins in a row.

Gene Squires of Saskatoon is again representing Saskatchewan, as he did in the national finals in 1970.

Tough competition is expected from Quebec's entry, skipped by Ken Webber of Montreal. Webber represented the province in the men's curling championship in 1952, 1953 and 1957.

The Ontario rink is skipped by Stewart Calhoun, a 39-year-old chemistry professor at the University of Guelph. Brown, with lead Dick Van Goozen, second Al Jones and third Lloyd Gobert took the provincial championship with five wins and two losers.

The Northern Ontario representative was not known here immediately.

Visitors Take Tankard

First-event honors went to Carl Leishman of Kingston with a 10-5 win over Archie Doherty of Toronto Cricket and second to John McLean of Toronto Dixie who scored a 10-8 victory over Dr. John Brack of Oshawa.

Third-event winner was Jack Rowan of Toronto Avonlea with a 12-9 decision over Sam Endicott of Lindsay while Burle Patrick of Windsor was the fourth event with a 9-5 win over Forrest Kent of St. Catharines.

Congratulations in Order

Fourth Finishers Out of Money

MONTREAL (CP) — When Laurie Kreiner and Judy Crawford turned in fourth-place finishes at the Winter Olympics last week, Al Raine, national Alpine director, thought this would be the incentive the national ski team needed to make its budget.

"It hasn't made any apparent difference—at least here—at all," Ben Fuller, co-ordinator of the national ski fund, said Wednesday.

Miss Kreiner, of Timmins, placed fourth in the giant slalom event while Miss Crawford of Toronto was fourth in the slalom at Sapporo.

"I'm afraid we're going to come up about $50,000 short," Fuller said.

The team's goal this year was $200,000 in public donations. Last year's total of $175,000 was realized.

"Toronto has raised about $70,000 of its $75,000," Fuller added, "but we've only gotten $25,000 from Montreal.

"The goal here was $60,000."

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Sixty-nine of the world's top skiers were getting themselves in shape mentally for the resumption of World Cup competition today after a break for the Winter Olympics in Japan.

The last meet was Jan. 24 in Switzerland and the next meet is at Crystal Mountain, Wash., Feb. 26-27.

The 69 are the starters in the first run of the men's giant slalom—the only race scheduled for today on the steep slopes of Mount Norquay. The second run will be held Friday after the two runs of the women's slalom.

The meet ends Saturday with a one-run women's giant slalom and the two runs of the men's slalom.

First out of the starting gate at 3 p.m. EST today will be Christian Neuwirther, 22, of West Germany. He's well down in standings in 25th place and is not expected to be able to do much with his good starting position.

Duvillard, however, is expected to set off despite his seeding because the course should not be badly chopped up by the time he starts.

Second-place Jean-Noel Augert, also of France, starts sixth and fourth-place Gustave Thoeni of Italy, a gold medalist at Sapporo, Japan, starts eighth. Third-place in the standings is held by Austria's Karl Schranz, now retired from competition.

Duvillard has 97 points, Augert 94, Schranz 83 and Thoeni 82.

A special men's giant slalom originally scheduled for today has been cancelled because of hill conditions.

The area, easily visible from Banff, received an unexpected two feet of fresh snow Tuesday night and officials felt that course preparation for a second men's giant slalom would take too much time.

The starting order today will be reversed for the second run Friday and this is where problems could arise.

All the top point-holders then will be at the end of the starting lineup and will have to contend with a course widely rutted by earlier competitors.

In addition, the weather forecast is for a high of 40 degrees today and—Friday, making wax choice even more crucial than usual.

There are 13 Canadians in the starting lineup, 10 Austrians, 10 Italians, nine Swiss, nine Americans, eight French, five West Germans, two Norwegians and one each from Argentina, Britain and Poland.

In women's competition, which is to start Friday, it appears that Annemarie Proell of Austria has the 1972 women's crown wrapped up. She has 203 points, 139 ahead of Isabelle Mir of France who is in third place.

Francoise Macchi of France, second with 187 and the only woman really capable of catching Miss Proell, has retired from competition this year because of an injury.

Marie Therese Nadig of Switzerland, a double gold medalist at the Olympics, is in fourth place with 71 points but she would need to win every other race in the series and Miss Proell would have to fail in every race to give the Swiss girl any chance of winning.

Robinson Upset By $140,000

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York Mets have satisfied Tom Seaver's 1973 contract demands but it will take a little more effort for Los Angeles Dodgers and Philadelphia Phillies to do the same for Frank Robinson and Rick Wise.

Seaver agreed to exercise his option right arm for $120,000 a season, making the 27-year-old pitcher the highest-paid baseball player in New York.

FRANK ROBINSON

But the Dodgers came 'up with $10,000 short on their offer to Robinson, who was scheduled during the winter from Baltimore Orioles and $140,000 pitch left the talented

Cardiff Breaks Ice

MANCHESTER (Reuter) — Cardiff City ended five hours of soccer deadlock when it scored once in the last three minutes to win 2-1 in a fourth-round English Football Association cup second replay here Wednesday.

Until the fifth minute it appeared the two Second Division teams would go into extra time or the second successive match. Then Bobby Woodruff and John Kelloch scored the goals which earned Cardiff a fifth-round home game against second Leeds United.

Earlier Brian Clark had put Cardiff ahead of Mick McGivern who had scored for Sunderland.

Wise, who pitched a no-hitter and won 17 games last season, informed the Phillies that he was shooting for a 100-per-cent increase to $80,000, which is considerably more than general manager John Quinn has offered.

Seaver led both leagues with a 1.76 earned run average in pitching with his 20-10 record last season.

"I doubt I'll be on the plane with the team a week from Saturday," said Robinson after receiving the Dodgers' offer of a $10,000 raise over the $130,000 he earned from the Orioles last year. "I'm shocked, not angry," he said.

Quinn did sign two other players for Phillies, pitcher Woody Fryman and third baseman John Vukovich, on Wednesday.

Wise had his best year in 1971 since coming to the majors as a regular in 1968. He set personal highs in victories (17), games started (37), complete games (17), strikeouts (155), ERA (2.88) and Shutouts (four). He also socked six home runs, fourth best on the team, and had 15 RBI. He handled 59 chances without an error.

"Quinn says I can't satisfy the raise that I've asked for," Wise disclosed Wednesday. "I'll leave him my statistics. I'm aware that I'm the team's No. 1 pitcher. I don't know what he's thinking. I know it's unjustified."

The world champion Pittsburgh Pirates opened their camp for pitchers and catchers today but World Series heroes Steve Blass and Nelson Briles were among the missing. Both are unsigned.

General manager Joe L. Brown said he had received a six-page handwritten letter from Blass concerning the pitcher's contract demands. Brown said the right-hander received a one-page typewritten reply.

On other negotiation fronts, St. Louis Cardinals signed seven players including pitcher Sal Santorini, New York Yankees satisfied four players including second baseman Horace Clarke and pitcher Mike Kekich, and the Mets signed pitcher Gary Gentry as well as Seaver. Gentry will get about $40,000.

Chamberlain's First Point More Memorable Than 30,000th

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain has 31,001 career points but says his first point scored in the National Basketball Association was more memorable than his 30,000th.

Chamberlain scored the milestone point on a goaltending call Wednesday night during the third period of Los Angeles Lakers-Phoenix Suns contest.

Ironically a similar play by Chamberlain gave the Suns a 118-109 victory in the contest. Chamberlain was called for illegally blocking a shot by Connie Hawkins with three seconds left which gave Phoenix the victory.

Oscar Robertson of Milwaukee is second on the all-time NBA scoring list, more than 500 points behind. Chamberlain also leads in career rebounds.

"Tonight's 30,000th was memorable, but the one I guess I remember the best was the first I ever got which came in a game against the Knicks.

"I hit the first shot I took and I've just been going on from there," Chamberlain said.

Chamberlain scored 19 points and pulled down 21 rebounds in Wednesday night's contest.

Millionaire vs. Southpaw

Laver Gets Toronto Rematch

TORONTO (CP) — Six months ago, Rod Laver met Roger Taylor in a quarter-final match in the Canadian Open tennis tournament.

Taylor beat the red-haired Australian, who is the game's first millionaire, in straight sets and the defeat was the final straw in prompting Laver to take a vacation from tennis.

Tonight, Taylor, a six-foot, 185-pound lefthander from Wimbledon, England, who has a good backhand and a forehand with plenty of topspin, will meet Laver in the quarter-final of a $50,000 World Championship Tennis tournament.

"I won't play him like I played him in Toronto the last time," said Laver who complained of mental fatigue after his defeat here six months ago and when he pulled out of the doubles and abruptly went to his Corona Del Mar, Calif., home for a rest.

Laver, who won $200,000 last year and has won the first two WCT tournaments this year, says his game is sharp and he's feeling "fresh and keen."

The Aussie ace, who advanced to the quarter-finals with an easy 6-0, 6-1 victory over Frank Froehling of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., will be playing Taylor, who won $36,775 last year, for the third time in 12 months.

He beat him in four sets in the best-of-five final for the 1970 Canadian Open championship. But Taylor can still savor the victories over Laver from last year and at Wimbledon in 1970.

While the top-seeded Laver was routing Froehling, the unseeded Taylor had to fashion a 7-5, 6-4 upset of Winnipeg's lefthander John Newcombe of Australia, who also won the Canadian Open last year.

In milder upsets, 10th-seeded Charlie Pasarell of Puerto Rico whitewashed fifth-seeded Bob Lutz of Tiburon, Calif., 6-3, 6-4 and unseeded Fred Stolle, Australia's 10-seeded John Alexander 4-6, 6-4, 6-4 in a battle of Australians.

Second-seeded Ken Rosewall of Australia had the biggest scare of the day as he had to rally in the final set to beat Bob Carmichael, An Australian who lives in Paris, France, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Seeded players fared better in other matches as third-seeded Tom Okker of the Netherlands downed Jeff Borowiak of Berkeley, Calif., 6-3, 6-4; seventh-seeded Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., eliminated sore-armed Tony Roche of Australia 6-2, 6-1, and sixth-seeded Roy Emerson of Australia beat Brian Gottfried 6-4, 6-2.

Pasarell, will play Okker in tonight's other quarter-final. In quarter-final doubles matches, the fifth-seeded Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., and Lutz will their way into the semi-finals beating Rosewall while Alexander and Australian Phil Dent play Carmichael and Australian Ray Ruffels. Play starts at 5 p.m. EST.

Finals in doubles and singles will be played Sunday. The singles winner will get $10,000 the winner while the loser gets $5,000.

Taylor said he played to Newcombe's backhand "as much as I could. I knew Newcombe started to take charge in the second set Taylor said he "just had to take my chances and serve harder" to win.

Newcombe said he "didn't have very good rhythm on my serve" and "I played some loose volleys in some of my service games."

Carmichael, who worked as a carpenter for eight years in France has travels to tennis tournaments, came within a whisker of eliminating Rosewall.

He opened up a 5-0 lead before the 37-year-old Rosewall began to handle the hard serves and smoking ground strokes Carmichael was hitting for winners.

Rosewall struggled up hill in the deciding set when he double-faulted twice in losing the second game.

In trying for a service break in the seventh, the normally-placid Rosewall missed two key volleys and jumped up and down on the indoor court in frustration.

He finally got the break he needed in the ninth game with an overhead volley and two forehand winners but Carmichale's missed attempts at winners in the final game helped Rosewall to 40-15 deficits.

"He has four shots in that last game that could have gone in their way," Rosewall said holding his fingers inches apart. "We've had some good games and it's given me some trouble."

Added Carmichael: "Yeah. He's been lucky to beat me a couple of times but I've only beaten him once."

Lutz was critical of line calls but praised Pasarell's strong service game: "I was beaten by aces, combined with bad calls."

Okker was happy with his set play that produced points on two volleys while Borowiak said he couldn't get the service break he needed to get into the match because "Tom was just so fast."

Emerson also volleyed well in downing Stilwell who eliminated the sixth-seeded Ashe on Tuesday.

CLC Head Denies Assertion He's Trying to Purge Marxists

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Labor Congress circled wide around any suggestion of a fight with the affiliated Quebec Federation of Labor Wednesday, but it had some ripe questions for its own paid representatives in the province.

It also lashed back at what it termed misleading newspaper reports and blamed the media for the turmoil in its relations with its Quebec wing.

At the centre of the developments are five representatives employed by the CLC in the province. Early this month they were reported to have been threatened with loss of their jobs for allegedly being Marxists.

Montreal's La Presse reported Wednesday that the five had verified the story and, in effect, had made a liar out of CLC President Donald MacDonald.

In addition, they have obtained a promise of full support from the general council of the Quebec federation in any fight with the CLC executive.

To clarify and investigate the report, Jean Beaudry, the CLC's burly French-speaking vice-president, travelled to Montreal in the morning.

Later in the day, Mr. MacDonald issued a statement denying once again the report that he has undertaken a secret purge of Marxists in the Quebec office of the central labor body.

"Newspaper reports are piling rumor on rumor to create a picture which is highly distorted and without any basis in fact," he said.

The Quebec federation, he said, is able to perform freely within its own jurisdiction.

This is a poster advertising the release of Cameron of the Mounted, one of the early efforts of Canada's film industry and one of eight films dealing expressly with the Mounties produced between 1913 and 1949. Peter Morris of the Canadian Film Institute, in his catalogue called Canadian Feature Films, 1913-1949, says in the early days, most Canadian films dealt with Mounties, bears, furhunting, pioneers and snow. Municipalities Want Low-paid Brought Up to Welfare Level

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario municipalities urged Wednesday that wage earners whose incomes do not equal those of welfare recipients be given financial assistance to bring them up to parity. At the same time, they asked for a tight rein on welfare payments.

The Association of Counties and Regions of Ontario, the Association of Ontario Mayors and Reeves, the Ontario Association of Rural Municipalities and the Ontario Municipal Association in a joint-brief to the provincial government made sweeping recommendations on a number of municipal-provincial problems.

High on the list was welfare of which the Ontario government pays 80 per cent of the cost, the municipalities the remainder.

The municipalities expressed gratification at the "tightening of the reins" on welfare payments in young people leaving home. The brief added:

"There is no quarrel with genuine welfare applicants, but we strongly urge continued care in handing out welfare assistance, as a given right, to those who have no qualms about applying and have saved nothing from substantial seasonal salaries.

"Older citizens who have proudly paid their way and now are living on limited incomes should not be required to subsidize that type of welfare recipient."

What was termed duplication of services under the General Welfare Assistance Act and the Child Welfare Act was criticized.

The brief recommended:

—The municipalities be empowered to assist those whose earnings are below those of welfare recipients.

—That benefits be paid to married or unmarried employable men and women only when no work is available in their own trade or profession, or otherwise within their capacity.

—That no maintenance payments be made to those making a seasonal wage greater than their welfare entitlements for any year.

On other points, the brief said:

Ontario's leadership in the field of conciliation among the three levels of government should be continued and "we seek the government's unequivocal support for a tri-level conference within the next year."

The 1968-69 changes in the Assessment Act went through without consultation with the municipalities. The brief said it was pointed out that many properties were under-assessed, some were over-assessed and some were not assessed at all. But the province changes had not improved the situation.

There should be an immediate increase in grants to school boards to keep the education property tax from increasing more than the general property tax. There also should be continued controls to curb assessment and future expenditures on education.

Prince Called 'Young Twerp'

LONDON (Reuter) — William Hamilin, anti-royalist member of Parliament, caused a stir in the House of Commons Wednesday when he referred to Prince Charles as a "young twerp."

Alluding to Britain's power crisis, precipitated by a national coal strike, the Labor MP said it was indefensible that two miners would have to work 50 years underground to earn "as much as we give this young twerp in a year."

The Concise Oxford Dictionary defines "twerp" as a slang expression meaning bounder or cad.

The House Speaker ordered Hamilton to take back his comment. Hamilton did, but said:

"If the monarchy is such a unifying force in our society, is this young man who has trained in the air force, and is now training in the navy, go and spend the next three months in the coal mines."

University Melts Snow

OTTAWA (CP) — The University of Ottawa says snow is no longer a problem on its 85-acre downtown campus.

Its solution is to melt the snow and send it into the Ottawa River through storm sewers. The university says it can melt a truckload of snow in three minutes.

The system is also designed to prevent pollution of the river with such materials as salt.

Toronto Fire Chief Rescues Two

TORONTO (CP) — The left hand and courage of Fire Chief John Smith saved a woman and her daughter from a fire Wednesday in a rooming house in the city's east end.

"I went back in a third time and this time I heard a woman moaning. I just followed the moaning and found the woman on the floor in the bedroom. You couldn't see a thing in there.

"I couldn't see them, but I could hear the moaning as they lay there on the floor semi-conscious. When I grabbed the mother, I went to brace myself with my left hand and I touched the little girl.

"I certainly didn't expect to find them together. I just bundled one under my right arm and the other under my left. I just charged out, hoping I was hitting the right place. It was about 20 feet to the door."

Catholic High Schools Go Public

OTTAWA (CP) — Three Roman Catholic high schools will be integrated into the public school system over a three-year period beginning September, 1973.

An agreement to that effect was reached Tuesday night between the Ottawa board of education and the principals of St. Joseph's, St. Patrick's and Notre Dame schools.

The schools entered negotiations with the public school system because of mounting deficits. The loss in this school year will be about $263,000.

Howard Hughes Said Planning Move to Mexico

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — Billionaire recluse Howard Hughes has moved out of his hotel and may be leaving the Bahamas shortly, an aide reported today.

One source said the 66-year-old industrialist might head for Mexico. He is reported to have been living at the hotel since leaving Las Vegas, Nev., Nov. 24, 1970. He has not been seen publicly since 1958.

A member of the Bahamian Parliament and a Hughes aide denied reports that the billionaire might have been ordered to leave the Bahamas because of the work permit status of his staff.

Reliable sources had reported that immigration officials raided Hughes' ninth-floor suite at the Britannia Beach Hotel Wednesday to learn whether staff members had government work permits. The question of permits had been raised last week in Parliament.

Preston Albury, a member of Parliament, said today he had been assured by Deputy Prime Minister Arthur Hannan and other government officials that the report of a raid was not correct.

Albury said "people like the Hughes people" don't need work permits.

The report of the raid also was denied in Los Angeles by Richard Hannah, publicity chief of Hughes Tool Co. He said Hughes had decided to move out voluntarily, but could not say why.

Wednesday, 10 porters from a local trucking company were seen carrying furniture and other items from the ninth-floor suite.

Among the items the porters carried out were a hospital bed and a blood plasma stand.

After the suite was cleared, the goods were loaded on to three flatbed trucks and taken to Nassau Airport where they were loaded onto a C-46 aircraft, observers reported.

Quebec's Teachers Considering Strike

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec's 70,000 elementary and high school teachers, disappointed after six months of what they call "inflexible" contract talks, may be gearing for a province-wide strike vote.

The strike, if supported by union members of the Quebec Teachers Corp., the Provincial Association of Catholic Teachers and the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers, could occur early next month.

Robert Gaulin, a spokesman for the three unions, told a news conference Wednesday that strike talk is "a reality in many parts of the province."

The teachers could technically strike after March 7, he said, but the unions want to make one more effort at the bargaining tables before officially recommending strike action or other tactics.

Union representatives are willing to increase the number of negotiation sessions with the government in an attempt to speed up contract talks, he said.

Teachers across Quebec will be asked in a referendum March 4 whether they accept or reject the government offers.

"The government is going to have to come up with some interesting new offers if it expects us to continue negotiating in good faith," Mr. Gaulin said.

Mr. Gaulin said the teachers were striving for government concessions in job security and that the negotiations had, as yet, dealt only with non-monetary issues.

The government has released salary offers it made to the teachers last September.

It proposed a 15.1-per-cent raise over three years of the 1971-74 contract. By 1974, this would make the highest salary $17,300 scaling down to the lowest at $5,179.

Alberta Debt Rises

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta's funded debt rose to $203.6 million during the last nine months of 1971, Provincial Auditor C. S. Huckvale reported today.

This is an increase of $36.6 million over the funded debt registered a year earlier, Mr. Huckvale said in an interim financial statement for the nine months ended Dec. 31, 1971.

In addition to direct debt, the province also was guaranteeing $7.4 billion in loans.

The statement showed that when 1971 ended, the province had $50.2 million cash in the bank and investments of $144.7 million for total cash and investments of $194.9 million.

This was a decrease of $23.2 million from $197.4 million on Dec. 31, 1970.

GM Considers Wankel Engine

DETROIT (Reuter) — General Motors Corp. is considering mass production of the Wankel rotary engine for a family of small cars, auto industry sources said Wednesday.

GM has a five-year licensing agreement with the European patent holders of the Wankel engine, a power plant considerably smaller than the conventional engine.

Cigarettes Are Ranked Vagabond to Viscount

OTTAWA (CP) — Various brands of king-size filter cigarettes are ranked among those with both the most and the least tar and nicotine in a study conducted for the federal health department.

In a list of 82 tested brands published Wednesday, one named Vagabond contained the most tar and nicotine and Viscount contained the least. Both are king-size filter cigarettes.

The report is the latest in a series of twice-yearly testings carried out for the department by the University of Waterloo.

The testing shows that a Vagabond cigarette contains 25 milligrams of tar and 1.6 milligrams of nicotine, compared with four milligrams of tar and 0.4 milligrams of nicotine in a king-size filter Viscount.

Also ranked among cigarettes with high levels of tar and nicotine are Buckingham king-size plains, Mannic king-size filters, Pall Mall king-size, and St. Moritz premium filter menthols.

Legislature Plans Opening on Feb. 29

TORONTO (CP) — The second session of the 28th Ontario legislature opens Tuesday, Feb. 29, and, for the first time, some government back-benchers will be targets of opposition questions.

Announcing the date of the new house opening Wednesday, Premier William Davis also revealed that five or six of his back-benchers will be appointed parliamentary assistants. Their new duties will include replying to opposition questions in the legislature.

The new session will open amid an extensive restructuring of the government and civil service. Much of the legislation will provide the statutory means to enact the changes, including the setting up of a new management board of cabinet, headed by Charles MacNaughton, and a new department of inter-governmental affairs, under Treasurer Darcy McKeough.

The Progressive Conservatives enter the new session with a 7-seat majority in the 117-seat house, the result of their Oct. 27 provincial election.

The Liberals, under Robert Nixon who has announced his intention to resign at a leadership convention later this year, have 39 seats as the official opposition.

The New Democratic Party, under leader Stephen Lewis, hold 19 seats.

Lt.-Gov. W. Ross Macdonald will read the speech from the throne opening the new session, which is expected to contain no major new legislation.

It will be Mr. Davis's second session since his government's return to power in last fall's election.

A pre-Christmas mini-session was held last December which dealt primarily with legislation to put into effect proposals for winter works employment.

Legislation will be required to create the post of parliamentary assistants, as well as to combine some departments along the lines of the changes proposed by the committee on government productivity. For example, the departments of mines, northern affairs and lands and forests will be brought under a single department of natural resources under Leo Bernier.

Mr. Davis is also expected to bring in a bill to prohibit a member of the legislature from holding another elected office. The bill is apparently aimed at three of his new back-benchers, Claude Bennett, Ottawa South, Dennis Timbrell, Thrbrke Dou Mills, and Thomas Wardle, Toronto Beaches-Woodbine, all of whom held on to their seats as alderman in their respective municipalities.

The bill would also affect Michael Cassidy, NDP member for Ottawa East, who is also an Ottawa alderman.

College Library Costs Too High

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's 115 institutions of higher learning must centralize information handling and administration of their libraries to cut costs, says a report prepared for Ontario's commission on post-secondary education.

The study, by the consulting firm of Kates, Peat, Marwick and Co., was released Wednesday. It says libraries at the educational institutions are spending about $3 million a year in automation to meet a four-fold increase in the number of users in the last 15 years.

The educational institutions include 26 schools of nursing, 15 universities as well as the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education in Toronto and the police college in Aylmer, Ont.

A student at one university finds it "extremely difficult" to obtain information from another library system, the report says in urging a larger system to handle the increasingly automated information retrieval processes in the institutions.

Prisoners Report Sick

KINGSTON (CP) — Sixty-eight prisoners at Collin's Bay penitentiary reported sick Wednesday to protest curtailment of an open-cells experiment.

Warden John Meers said normally only about 20 prisoners report sick each day. He met with the prisoners' grievance committee to discuss the situation.

Prison officials had been warned of a possible protest after prisoners listed a number of grievances in letters. One letter was sent to Frank Howard, New Democratic Party member of Parliament for Skeena.

Mr. Meers said the prisoners had been allowed open cells in the evening during January.

"The understanding was that they wouldn't congregate in the cells," he said. "The privilege was very badly abused."

The letter also mentioned prisoner dissatisfaction with a new pay-parole program and restrictions imposed in recent weeks on temporary absences and prison program, allowing convicts out for short periods.

The letter said the protest was merely to bring the grievances to the attention of the authorities "before anything happens."

Divers Plan Search Of Battered Trawler

GLACE BAY, N.S. (CP) — Rough seas and shifting slabs of sea ice Wednesday prevented divers from searching around the battered hull of the fishing trawler Gulf Gull for six missing crew members.

So far, only three of the trawler's nine-man crew have been rescued and police said there was little hope that the others would be found alive.

The 86-foot trawler was rammed on to the rocky coast at the tip of nearby Baleine Bay early Tuesday as she punched her way through high seas towards her home port of North Sydney, N.S.

Police said the divers would make further attempts today, however, a helicopter and coast guard ship that helped in the search Wednesday returned to their regular duties and were not scheduled to return.

Ernie Burns, a 17-year-old from New Waterford, N.S., was picked from the deck of the battered trawler Wednesday morning after spending 31 hours huddled in the wheelhouse with fellow crew member.

"The only thing that kept me alive was a quart of rum," he said in a brief interview in a Sydney, N.S., hospital where he was taken for treatment for exposure and frostbite.

Danny Burns, 19-year-old brother of Ernie, and Captain John Dominic of Halifax remained 30 feet to shore through freezing water Tuesday night and were taken to hospital in Sydney.

The missing men were identified as: Morris Saboratt, St. Pierre, St. Pierre Miquelon; Gerald Mullins, Rencontre East, Nfld., Earl Fourgere, Halifax; Fra Costain and John Costain, father and son, Mimingash, P.E.I., and Frank Conrad, New Waterford, N.S.

Ernie Burns said he and John Costain made it into the wheelhouse when the trawler began breaking up after running aground 3 a.m. Tuesday. But during the night Costain was lost.

"We were washed out through a hole in the wheelhouse, but I washed back in and managed to grab hold of the throttle," he said.

Wednesday morning, he climbed to a rail on the sloping deck of the trawler, where he was spotted by rescuers.

He said he thought there was still a man in the hold of the trawler, but the helicopter crew said the vessel's holds were full of water and it would be impossible for anyone to be still alive.

At the time, the youth was wearing only a water-soaked sweater and a pair of pants with one leg torn away.

His brother Danny said he jumped overboard after watching five other members washed over the side by waves soon after the grounding. By the time he reached shore he was so cold "I couldn't even see straight."

But he started off through nearly woods to bring help. He became lost and it was 10 a.m. before he reached a telephone and notified authorities.

Ernie Burns, a routine transport department inquiry into the wreck began Wednesday. A preliminary report will be sent to Transport Minister Don Jamieson who will decide whether a full-scale inquiry should be held.

Adjournment Given In 'Rose Trial

MONTREAL (CP) — Mr. Justice Eugene Marquis of Quebec's Queen's Bench Wednesday adjourned the trial of Jacques Rose to March 1 because of the current strike by Quebec prison guards.

Rose, 26-year-old mechanic, is charged with kidnapping Pierre Laporte Oct. 10, 1970. Mr. Laporte, then Quebec labor minister, was found strangled a week later.

Mr. Justice Marquis adjourned the trial after defence lawyers Robert Lemieux and Jean-Serge Masse complained they were having difficulties meeting their client because of the strike.

Earlier Wednesday, the judge issued an 11-page ruling rejecting another defence motion to have the current list of jury candidates withdrawn because he list did not include "women and the poor."

The motion prompted Rose to tear up an abridged version of the British North American Act and throw it at the judge.

"It's a lot of verbiage which says only that I'm judged as unmily as the rest of Quebecers," Rose said. "We've had enough your constitution."

The judge then said Rose's bjection to crossing picket nes was another reason for postponement.

"I don't want to be a scab," one said when brought into court.

Rose made no objection while he judge read the rejection dgment, but at the end he said:

"You reject our motion, and I reject your decision. I don't accept his version of the British North American Act in half.

Hanigan Succeeds Saulnier

MONTREAL (CP) — Lawrence Hanigan, first elected a suburban city councillor in 1960, took over the top administrative post in the island-wide 30-municipality Montreal Urban Community Wednesday night.

His election as chairman of the executive committee of the urban community came on a compromise vote worked out during a 30-minute recess at a stormy meeting of the 81-member urban community council.

Three votes passed without any solution in a deadlock between City of Montreal representatives and those from the 29 suburban municipalities.

Mr. Hanigan, 46-year-old candidate promoted by the City of Montreal, was elected on the fourth vote and Yves Ryan, mayor of suburban Montreal North, was elected vice-chairman unopposed to satisfy the suburban forces.

Mr. Hanigan succeeds Lucien Saulnier, appointed by the provincial government as the first executive committee chairman of the urban community when it was created Jan. 1, 1970. Mr. Saulnier resigned last week to return to private business.

Cold Coming

Coldest spot in the county was Bancroft, where the low was 21 below. At CFB Trenton, it was five above, at Belleville six above and at Madoc nine below.

Snow flurries were expected in the Quinte district today ushering in light snow tonight and temporarily boosting temperatures, predicted the duty forecaster at Trenton.

However, colder weather is expected for the weekend with lows of five-10 degrees and highs in the 20s.

Daisy Mae (left) played by Linda Walker is receiving some help from Mammy Yokum, Meredeth Rowe, in trying to catch Li Abner in a two-act comedy-musical that is being presented at Centennial Secondary School this week. The part of Abner is played by Ron Hall. Performances start each evening at 8 p.m. in the school's auditorium.

Daisy Mae Lands Abner

By THOM REYNOLDS
Special Correspondent

Daisy Mae caught Abner last night and the little old hillbilly town of Dogpatch USA was saved from government blastings, as students of Centennial Secondary School staged a two-act comedy-musical to an appreciative audience.

Lil Abner, written by Norman Panama and Melvin Frank and based on the characters of Al Capp, made use of 78 performing students but the play utilized over 200 students in its production.

The non-performing students were included in the production staff as technical directors, stage crews, make-up, wardrobe, doormen, prompters, publicity, parking lot attendants and coat-check and refreshment stand workers.

Music made up a large part of the play last night, with 17 musical selections, including eight singing selections. Music for the play was composed by Gene de Paul and lyrics by Johnny Mercer. Music was supplied by the school's Pit Band directed by Monty Emerson. There are 22 members in the band.

The chorus of Dogpatchers was used frequently in the play with scenes containing all Dogpatchers on stage at the same time. The Campone Square Meeting in Capital was one incident. One problem that was encountered during rehearsals of the play was that most of the performers had little singing experience. The play has solos, duets and chorus singing in it.

Choreography for the production was supervised by Mrs. Pauline Lambert, librarian of one of the cast members. The play was directed by Miss L. Arnott and Guy Taylor, both teachers at the school. All management, lighting, sound, lighting, special effects and technical direction were handled by students from the Technical Service Club of the school.

The play was centred around the government decision that Dogpatch would be a nuclear-testing site and that the backward countrytown would have to be evacuated. This news was announced by Senator Phogbound, played by Mike Bradshaw. Dr. Finsdale, played by Brian Kleinsteuber, explains the hopes of the government to be able to set up a test site. This news was a joy to the Dogpatchers as they too would now become world famous.

It's the little old hillbilly woman with the pigeon toes and pipe, Mammy Yokum, played by Meredeth Rowe, that realizes that the move is not a good one for the Dogpatchers. Now to stop the move the Dogpatchers strive desperately to find something necessary about their town in order to preserve it and their unique life-style.

The Dogpatchers then cart items to the doctor for his inspection, hoping to find something necessary. Finally Mammy comes up with just the stuff, her Yokum Berry Tonic. The tonic insures a great manly physique.

While everyone is finding something necessary, Daisy Mae is busy trying to persuade Abner Yokum to catch her in the Sadie Hawkins Day Race so they can get married. Earthquake McGoon is also after Daisy Mae. Daisy was played by Linda Walker, Abner by Ron Hall and Earthquake by Bevin Clarke.

Abner and his tonic go to Washington along with three Dogpatchers to test the tonic. A computer is used to test it, with test films showing the men have grown taller and stronger.

"Whats good for General Bullmoose is good for the USA," General Bullmoose, played by John Williams, is after the tonic so he can start up his own business. Bullmoose goes to Dogpatch and plans to have his secretary linked up with Abner. The Sadie Hawkins Day Race begins with performers running through the aisles trying to catch their man. Earthquake catches Daisy Mae and Bullmoose's secretary catches Abner.

Mammy and Pappy Yokum and Daisy go to Washington with other Dogpatchers to help Abner. Earthquake is able to put a spell on Bullmoose and he confesses to his scheme to do away with Abner and get the tonic rights.

Pappy, played by Stanley Meeks, tells Abner and the other boys who took the Yokum Tonic that he's going to change them back with the Yokum Berry Tonic.

Back in Dogpatch, Marryin' Sam, played by Don King, is preparing to marry Earthquake and Daisy. Pappy and Abner step in with the special potion and Abner announces his intention to marry Daisy Mae. Earthquake relieves himself from the marriage by saying he didn't like her relatives and that she had been after Abner for a long time. Pappy tells Mammy that the potion was just some crock water.

The town is still going to be evacuated by the government over but Pappy finds an old card from Abraham Lincoln in the statue of Jubiliation T. Computer, the founder of Dogpatch, and this proves to be the necessary item that is needed to save Dogpatch from being turned into a nuclear-testing site.

The play will be staged tonight and through to Saturday evening starting at 8:00 p.m. Tickets can be purchased from students for $1.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it.

A X Y D L B A A X E
B L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Ottawa Plans Revision Of Family Allowances

OTTAWA (CP) — The government reiterated today a plan to revise the system of federal family allowances in legislation to be reintroduced to Parliament.

The so-called FISP program for Family Income Security was first introduced last October following a study launched in 1970 by the federal welfare department. A spokesman said the program has high priority.

It is the view of the government that the most important single factor in the attainment of individual dignity and active social involvement is the assurance of a secure income," said the government in the speech from the throne opening a new session of Parliament.

Saying that the program would be reintroduced, the government said it would be consistent with its belief in "the strong sense of self-reliance of Canadians."

A government spokesman said a FISP bill is ready and it has No. 3 priority in the legislative program after a bill on federal-provincial financial relations. The federal-provincial arrangement expires at the end of March.

However, Ottawa and Quebec have been at loggerheads about implementation of the FISP scheme, with Quebec demanding the right to distribute family allowances, deciding who receives them. A spokesman said agreement with Quebec would have to precede implementation of the program.

FISP would replace the existing system of universal payments of monthly allowances to all families with children by a new program designed to gear payments to need.

Payments would be made on the basis of family income, family size and the ages of the children. Allowances would be greater at the lower end of the income scale, diminishing as income increases to a point where families in higher-income brackets would receive no allowance.

'There's Candle in My Soup'

LONDON (CP) — A new twist to an old gag turned up in the Hyde Park Hotel during a power cut-off.

"Waiter," a customer complained, "there's a candle in my soup." Sure enough, there was.

Candles are an essential almost everywhere these days, though one man strolling down Regent St. in a blackout had a new use for them. It was flickering from his hat.

Incoming passengers at Heathrow Airport had a half-mile walk from a jumbo jet to the customs hall when a moving sidewalk and escalators went out of action.

George Lehner of Teddington, Middlesex, was groping for candles in the dark when his life was lightened up by a knock at the door. It was a man from a football pools firm with a cheque for £84,000 ($195,836) for guessing the weekend scores.

Bath residents may have to go bathless. Pumps at the celebrated spa in Somerset cannot keep up with the demand.

One city already has banned baths and others are urging people to run just a little water in the tub.

A Conservative party MP from Derbyshire, Peter Rost, called on the government to ban television for the duration of the power scarcity except for a 30-minute nightly news broadcast. He said TV sets use about five per cent of total consumption.

Queen Given Early Mention

OTTAWA (CP) — The Queen was referred to almost immediately in the speech from the throne opening of the new parliamentary session.

Gov.-Gen. Roland Michener, who read the speech outlining the government's legislative plans, thanked the members of the Commons and Senate in the Queen's name and on behalf of Canadians for their "efforts and accomplishments" during the last session.

Other paragraphs mentioned centennial celebrations in British Columbia, Manitoba and the Northwest Territories.

Under the throne speech in 1969, the one in 1970 also referred several times to the Queen.

Government Shuns Isolationism

OTTAWA (CP) — The government rejects isolationism and pronounces itself in favour of Canadian involvement in world affairs in the speech from the throne read at today's opening of Parliament.

References to foreign and international affairs are mostly couched in generalities.

However, the authors of the government-written document appeared to be at some pain to stress that Canada values good relations with Europe and the United States.

"Canada's lines of communication and understanding continue to stand open in all directions," said the speech read by Gov.-Gen. Roland Michener. "In particular, our ties with our friends in the new Europe and our attachment to the United States remain of the greatest importance."

Relations between Canada and the U.S. have recently been troubled by economic differences arising from measures taken by Washington to improve the American balance-of-payments position.

As for Europe, Canada has been trying hard—so far without much success—to carve out a special relationship with the European Economic Community in order to reduce its dependence on the American market.

The throne speech said trade negotiations with the EEC will continue and consultation machinery will be strengthened.

Negotiations with the U.S., aimed at extending the benefits from "the world's most important trading relationship," would also continue.

Ties between Canada and the U.S. have bogged down because of Canadian refusal to give in to a series of American demands, including an immediate overhaul of the agreement regulating auto trade.

The throne speech acknowledged that a "strong, dynamic and outward-looking" United States is vital to the success of Canada's international endeavors and its ability to contribute to foreign aid programs.

Times Says Canadians Hunger for Attention

LONDON (CP) — In an article in today's edition, The Times says Canadians hunger for international attention; to be seen and talked about. But the cold world looks right past them.

An article by Jerome Caminade, the newspaper's foreign news editor, says Canada has been making strenuous efforts to enlarge its historic vision beyond the United States and Western Europe.

"The world dearly likes to make her mark somewhere. Is she succeeding? So far, I think not," The Times concludes.

The article, written from Montreal, asks whether Canadians are too neutral, too legitimatized and too short of heroics to make an international impact. Perhaps, The Times suggests, Canadians elected Prime Minister Trudeau because they saw in him many qualities they believed were lacking in themselves.

Prison Wardens Listen to Complaints

KINGSTON (CP) — Prisoner committees, established last year, mean prison wardens are listening to complaints that a few years ago would have resulted in a convict being placed in solitary confinement, John Maloney told a panel here Wednesday.

"With the introduction of inmate committees, the inmates are having a lot to say in what we do," said Mr. Maloney, regional director of penitentiaries and a panel member.

However, Donald Clark, warden of Millhaven maximum-security penitentiary, said that the convict committees have no real power in effecting policy.

Both he and Mr. Maloney described them as primarily vehicles of communication between prisoners and prison officials.

Mr. Clark, another member on the panel discussion on prisoners' rights, said the committee system has proven successful in his institution.

Mr. Clark said committees' terms of reference were "that they can make recommendations relating to food, clothing and recreation matters."

The bidding:

Pass	5 ♣	Pass	6 ♠

Opening lead — king of diamonds.

Let's assume you get to six spades and West leads the king of diamonds. How should you play the hand?

In practice, you wouldn't see the East-West cards and this would make the hand that much harder to play. But even if you saw them, you might have trouble — and, in fact, you are hereby cordially invited to try to make six seeing all 52 cards.

The key to the slam is your first play. If you ruff the king of diamonds, you go down, but if you discard a club — as you should — you make the contract.

West retains the lead, but is powerless. Let's say he plays the queen of hearts at trick two. You win with the king, ruff a diamond, cash the A-K of trumps and ace of hearts, then ruff a heart.

When you now ruff the third round of diamonds and play two more rounds of trumps, this becomes the position:

North
♠ J 10
♥ A 7

West
♠ 4
♣ K 10

East
♠ 7 6 3

South
♠ 10
♥ K 8

You lead the spade and West suddenly acquires a king - size headache. Whatever he discards, you make the rest of the tricks.

Note that at the start of the hand you had eleven sure tricks — that is, all the tricks except two. By conceding the first trick you created the situation typical of practically all successful squeezes — that is, you now had all the remaining tricks except one. Ten tricks later this deliberate concession of a trick pays a very handsome dividend.

What The Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Aries (March 21-April 19): Now is the best and perhaps last time to cover recent discrepancies in your work. Review matters as you close out the week.

Taurus (April 2-May 2): Build for the future, don't take chances on current connections, confide little to those you're socializing with.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): You'll be proud of your tact and hospitality.Clam up for once on today's influences. In passing up invitations, you give yourself time to think, while avoiding games and perhaps borrowers.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Concentrate on things you can handle alone; prefer fresh ventures where you have no set habits established. It's a laborious, cross-purposes sort of day at best.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Creative drives hit a delay factor. Use today's limitations for routines, meetings, housecleaning, maintenance.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): In most social contacts it seems you go a little more than half way and must be satisfied with rather subtle or poorly expressed responses.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Organize interviews, showings of your work, applications for changes, new jobs, etc., in this dynamic generally fortunate day. Share hobbies with friends.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Now the future isn't so tightly bound by what has been the case in the past. Your response to speculative possibilities may include a perverse pound-foolish propensity.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Not all vivid ideas go beyond a certain critical point. Switch to something you understand, which worked out well before. Betting has a jinx on it: nobody wins but the people who run the cash register.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Travel may be postponed or is delayed. Use the chance to sort out what is neglected in your office or home desk.

Aquarius (Jan. 2-Feb. 18): Your system works well on general instances of your regular work, but with today's dealings, an exception requires detailed personal attention.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Quietly go conservative with spending and investing habits. Make a survey of resources and coverage, reserves for contingencies.

WELCOMES IMMIGRANTS

MONTREAL (CP) — The Montreal Catholic school board provided orientation classes for 320 students of 45 different nationalities ranging in age from six to 18 between July, 1970, and August, 1971. Of these, 169 went on to regular French-language classes, 89 to English schools and 160 remained in the immigrants' "welcoming" program. The others moved away or sought employment.

Britain Hears Echoes of Past

Almost Half Century Ago, Coal Miners Lost Bitter Showdown

LONDON (CP) — Britain's coal miners are a tenacious, clannish breed of men who traditionally form the militant backbone of the labor movement.

In May, 1926, they slowed the country to a crawl by sparking a general strike. Although their fellow unions resumed work after nine days, the miners stuck it out bitterly for another six months and virtually were starved back to the pits.

The coal dispute, which forced the national stoppage in 1926 took place in circumstances totally different from the modern industrial scene. The coal mines were privately owned and the miners had been told they must accept a 13-per-cent wage cut and work an hour longer each day.

A commission of inquiry under the former Liberal minister Sir Herbert Samuel sat for four months, heard 99 witnesses and came up with a scheme for reorganizing the industry—but one which still involved a tenpenny wage reduction.

Miners' leader A. J. Cook led a revolt with the slogan: "Not a penny off the pay, not a second on the day." Britain then ran almost entirely on coal and Cook believed that a miners' strike would smash the rest of capitalism. On May 1, the owners locked them out.

Two days later, links of solidarity miners forged with other unions in the bitter coal disputes of 1919, 1921 and 1925 showed surprising strength when the general council of the Trades Union Congress called all Britain's major industries out on strike.

The solid response surprised the government and the TUC, which may have feared it was riding a tiger. Train drivers got out of their cabs and went home while dock even running the trains into the depot. Not one of London's 1,400 buses ran on the first day.

The only weak link was at sea, where the National Union of Seamen, under right-wing leadership, voted to carry on.

Yet despite dire predictions of revolution, even bloodshed, thousands of Britons, as author Julian Symons says in his history, The General Strike, found the strike "the most enjoyable time of their lives."

A small city of huts was set up in Hyde Park to distribute food and other essential supplies. Winston Churchill, then chancellor of the exchequer, started a newspaper called the British Gazette. The strikers retorted with one called the British Worker.

The middle classes turned out in force as volunteer labor. Hundreds queued in Whitehall to sign on as truck drivers, special constables and dockworkers.

University students—not a radical group in those days—plunged gleefully into driving trains and trams, greasing railway switches and unloading ships' cargoes.

High spirits marked their activities. One London bus manned by medical students bore this message to potential pickets: "The driver of this bus is a student of Guy's Hospital. The conductor is a student of Guy's. Anyone who interferes with either is liable to be patient at Guy's."

The Conservative government anticipated a "power station shutdown by crews squads of seamen in to stoke the fires. Some technicians stayed at work.

Some sport was affected but nothing was allowed to interfere with the opening of the cricket season.

The conflict sowed seeds of bitterness which proved a hardy growth. After nine days, the TUC climbed down and accepted the Samuel commission proposals without the miners' agreement. The general strike was called off May 12.

Feeling abandoned and betrayed, the miners hung on grimly until October. They lost all they had fought for, having to return to work eventually for lower wages and longer hours.

Their lonely struggle did much to forge a legendary Dunkerque spirit in the pithead villages of Britain. The father of Labor reverely Daily, the present militant, left-wing general secretary of the National Union of Mineworkers, was forced to work in 1926.

Most bitter of all, in 1927, Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's Tory government passed the Trade Disputes Act which outlawed sympathetic strikes and severely limited picketing. The act was deeply hated by all unions and was eventually repealed by then prime minister Attlee's Labor government in 1946.

Welfare May Be Choked Off

LONDON (AP) — In about two weeks, Britain will no longer be able to pay its welfare bills, government sources conceded Wednesday.

The country's system of dishing out aid to the poor, the unemployed and the ill is facing the gravest financial challenge in its history from the coal miners' strike. The government estimates that a continued strike would throttle industry and throw 30 million men out of work.

The bill in unemployment benefits alone for that many workers would come to at least $338 million every week, government experts say. That weekly figure is higher than the total unemployment benefits Britain paid out for the entire year of 1970.

Can the welfare administration cope with such a bill?

"God only knows," a spokesman replied.

Money is only part of the problem. The department of health and social security lacks the manpower to process that many unemployment claims at one time.

If the strike continues, the department is already working out emergency plans to pay unemployment benefits through employers.

Union Head Says Chaos Effective

TORONTO (CP) — Striking electronic technicians prefer "chaos" to a complete shutdown at Canada's airports as a means of backing their wage demands, an official of the Toronto union local said Wednesday.

Pat Carstairs, vice-chairman of the Toronto unit of Local 2228 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, said the 2,200 union members "don't want a complete shutdown."

He said the technicians, who maintain and service guidance equipment in airport control towers, believe "the present chaos at the airports is more effective."

Cyclists Sentenced To Life

CALGARY (CP) — Three members of a motorcycle club were sentenced to life imprisonment Wednesday for the non-capital murder of another member.

Daryle Wayne Johnston, 20, Robin Marquis Brown, 18, and Stephen Gerald Poirier, 20, were convicted in Alberta Supreme Court at the end of a three-day trial in the slaying last September of Robert Gordon McLean, 20, of Calgary.

Admitted as evidence was a statement by Brown that he, Johnston, Poirier and another club member, John Fortin, 22, took McLean to the river and "executed" him for violating a club rule.

Murray, Lightfoot Named Tops

TORONTO (CP) — Singer Anne Murray and singer-composer Gordon Lightfoot have been chosen 1971 female and male vocalists of the year by the Canadian music industry.

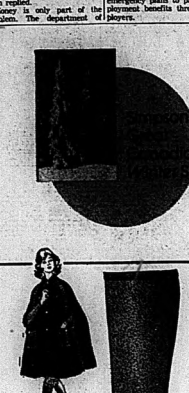
The year's best vocal and instrumental group was The Stampeders, from Calgary, whose hit is Sweet City Woman, was picked as best-produced single of the year as well as earning for producer Darrell Rich Dodson the title of composer of the year.

The announcements were made Wednesday by Walt Grealis, editor of RPM.

Abortion Easiest For Middle Class

TORONTO (CP) — It is still easier for middle-class women to obtain abortions than it is for poorer women, although the need is lessening, a Toronto doctor said Wednesday.

Dr. Cope Schwenger, a professor of public health practice at the University of Toronto, said at a seminar here that well-to-do women formerly went abroad for abortions but the poor turned to illegal abortions or completed their pregnancy.



"There is still a difference," the doctor said. "It is much find it easier to plug into the health-care system."

Miners Get Big Wage Offer

'When he arrives, he'll call you Moe and Chas and you can call him Mr. Nixon!'

LONDON (AP) — The coal strike inquiry board today offered Britain's 280,000 coal miners pay increases which went far toward meeting their demands.

Leaders of the national Union of Mineworkers went into a huddle to consider whether to accept the offer and end the six-week strike that threatens to paralyze British industry by the end of the month.

The miners' employers, the National Coal Board, immediately accepted the settlement terms proposed by the three-man commission headed by Lord Wilberforce, a former High Court judge.

Chairman Derek Ezra of the coal board appealed to the mine union to accept the terms and call off the strike.

The Wilberforce tribunal said it was offering the miners considerably more than the coal board had because it was "in the interests of the nation as a whole."

The increases range according to type of work from £1.50 (£11.70) a week to £6 ($15.60). Miners' present pay varies from £19 ($49.40) to £22 .50 ($74.10) a week.

The coal board had offered £3 a week against the miners' demand for £8.

The court of inquiry awarded 25 more a week for 55,000 surface workers, £5 for 70,000 general underground men and £4.50 for 125,000 face workers, the highest paid men in the industry.

Lounge and Roof To Cost $148,000

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

Harness racing patrons at the Belleville fairgrounds will have better grandstand facilities this year if the hopes and plans of Quinte Exhibition and Raceway officials are realized.

Cost of the proposed grandstand improvement is estimated at $148,000.

The exhibition board is prepared to invest up to $100,000, but would have to ask the city of Belleville and possibly Hastings and Prince Edward counties for contributions to make up the additional $50,000 required.

Planned is the erection of a two-storey lounge addition to the south of the present grandstand, provision of a full roof over the entire seating section, new washrooms, heat and lighting equipment, and an all-weather glassed-in seating section to accommodate approximately 800 patrons.

Quinte Exhibition vice-president Phil Flagler outlined the fair board plans to members of the Belleville Parks Board Thursday evening, noting that the board could be eligible for a federal government capital loan for much of the cost.

But before the Quinte Exhibition Board could expect approval of the federal loan, Mr. Flagler said some kind of a long-term lease for the city-owned exhibition grounds would be necessary.

Also some division of grounds management responsibilities for that part of the fairgrounds west of Sidney Street would be desirable, so as to give Exhibition officials more control over the facility.

Mr. Flagler stressed that improvement of the grandstand facilities at the fairgrounds was imperative if harness racing was to continue.

"You only have to look at what has happened at Kingston and Peterborough," he said.

Upgrading of facilities is a No. 1 requirement to receiving a racing licence and tracks that don't come up to certain standards will be forced out, the fair's official said.

Exhibition manager Ev Gowsell said that in Belleville last year's harness racing returned a profit of about $5,800 over a 17-event racing season.

Euromart Entry Gets 8-Vote OK

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Edward Heath faces formidable problems following his 309-to-301 victory in a crucial Commons vote Thursday night on the Conservative government's policy of leading Britain into the Common Market.

The government was saved in the unofficial confidence vote by support "from five of the six Liberals in the 630-seat House after 15 Tories balked at the risk. Five other Conservatives abstained. The government's overall majority is 28.

The result was a dramatic drop from the 112-vote margin last fall in a Commons vote in favor of the general principle of Market entry.

Thursday night's vote was on second reading — approval in principle — of a bill which makes legal British entry into the European Economic Community by 1973 and empowers the government to amend the necessary domestic legislation without further reference to Parliament.

Technicians May Return
Union's Back-to-work Order Confuses Strike

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Electronic technicians remained off the job at airports across Canada today except in parts of the Atlantic provinces following confusion over a partial back-to-work order issued Thursday by union officials in Ottawa.

A Toronto official of Local 2228 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers said today the back-to-work order was rescinded but Moncton, N.B., officials say it is still in effect.

The order, asking workers on non-critical jobs not connected with department of transport operations at airports to return to work, was issued before the union broke off negotiations with the treasury board saying further mediation is useless.

Union officials in Ottawa said the objective for the return to work by some members was to build up funds to continue the strike. But strike leaders in various regions apparently interpreted the instructions in various ways.

In the memo to local offices, union president Bill Andreoff did not specify which workers should return to their jobs.

Patrick Carstens, vice-chairman of the Toronto unit, said he talked on the telephone with Mr. Andreoff after receiving the memo and said Mr. Andreoff said the order was rescinded.

However, H. C. King, Moncton unit chairman, said Ottawa officials told the workers to go back. "We're going to follow instructions."

Technicians who service airport and marine equipment in New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and the Magdalen Islands returned to work this morning.

A department of transport official in Moncton said today the union directive was rejected in Nova Scotia and Newfoundland.

Mr. Andreoff was not immediately available early today to clarify the situation.

Jordanian Doctor Held for Murders

He was identified in court as Ahmad Alami, 32, an eye specialist at Blackpool's Victoria Hospital where the children were slain early today.

Alami was ordered held in custody until another hearing in a week's time. No explanation for the attacks was given in the brief, formal hearing.

A coroner's court on the killings opened today and adjourned until March 19 after formal evidence of identification of Deborah Ann Carson, 4, and two boys, Martin Langhorne and Nicholas Scott, both aged two.

Alami has been at the hospital since 1970.

Authorities said he was married and his wife recently returned to Jordan.

Wisconsin Bomb Suspect Is Arrested

TORONTO (CP) — RCMP here have arrested a man wanted on a murder charge in connection with an explosion 18 months ago at the University of Wisconsin. The blast destroyed an army research centre and killed a physicist.

Police said Karleton Lewis Armstrong was arrested Wednesday night as he returned from his job as a lathe operator at an east-end plant.

Also sought in the case are Armstrong's brother, Dwight Alan, 20, Leo Frederick Burt, 23, and David Fine, 20. All four were students of the university at Madison, Wis.

The have been received by police that the men were being hidden in Toronto by U.S. students and draft evaders living here.

Nixon May Meet Mao in Hangchow

U.S. sources said this seemed a logical site for a Nixon-Mao conference since Hangchow, the next-to-last stop on the president's China itinerary, is a favored retreat of the 78-year-old Communist leader.

A Hangchow meeting would further underscore the apparent political eclipse of Mao Insofar as Nixon and Premier Chou En-lai are expected to dispose of serious negotiations in Peking before the president sees Hangchow.

The president and Mrs. Nixon, who arrived here Thursday afternoon after a 10-hour flight from Washington, will remain in Hawaii until Saturday after noon. Then they will fly to Guam for an overnight stay before proceeding to Shanghai and Peking.

A major reason for the Hawaii stopover was to allow the Nixons to adjust gradually to the physical and psychological effects of traveling at jetspeed through time zones. The Nixons flew through five times zones Thursday.

China News Agency Attacks U.S. Policy

HONG KONG (Reuter) — China, in its first reference in six weeks to President Nixon's impending visit, launched another attack on American foreign policy today.

The New China news agency, in a report monitored in Hong Kong only three days before Nixon arrives in China, described U.S. attempts to develop relations with China as a "self-contradiction."

The report was a review of Nixon's recent foreign policy statement to Congress.

The brief reference to the Nixon visit was a quote from the president's own foreign policy speech.

While talking about developing relations with China, saying the United States could not afford to be cut off from a quarter of the world's population, President Nixon declared that the United States will not turn its back on its old friends."

This fully shows that he is in the grip of insuperable self-contradiction," the news agency said.

The report claimed that Nixon had described China as America's dedicated opponent and said this showed that the United States had "no wish to change its hostile position towards China."

Chou Tough Bargainer

The Chinese premier is thorough and has an eye for detail. By the time he meets President Nixon next week he will know a great deal about the president's major policy decisions and political career—and probably some details of his personal life.

Journalists who have met Chou in recent months were struck by his extraordinary memory. During his intensive discussions with Henry Kissinger last July he spoke on a variety of subjects.

At 72, this grandson of a Chinese mandarin seems to have lost none of the energy and mental resourcefulness which brought him to the top in the fiercely competitive politics of Communist China.

Standard of Living Reflects Confidence

Canada's standard of living has fallen to 10th or 11th highest in the world since revaluation of national currencies last December, production in other countries has risen dramatically but Canadian skeptism about its own manufacturing capacities has contributed greatly to the decline.

David Quarterman, chief of the electrotechnical division of the Department of Industry, Trade and Commerce was basing his estimate on income per capita figures. He made his remarks to a joint meeting of Quinte-area engineers Thursday at Sun Luck Gardens.

"The last time I computed the figures was a little over a year ago and we were about fifth in terms of gross national product (a measure of the nation's productivity) per capita. Now, since revaluation, I would guess we're 10th or 11th."

"In terms of buying power, our standard of living is not as high as other countries."

Mr. Quarterman said that the upgrading of currencies, by which, for example, the value of the Japanese yen rose by 17 per cent, coupled with stiff foreign competition, already keeping its terms of manufacturers, also have a higher market value. These increases are reflected in a country's GNP and, therefore, its standard of living.

While the trend will continue for some time, Canadians can help their own cause by being "nationalistic enough to give the local fellow a chance." Mr. Quarterman said he was "amazed" when he came to Canada in 1953 from his native England to find there was "no buy Canadian policy such as other countries have."

As a government employee, Mr. Quarterman said there was little he could do to induce patriotic business practices. He was critical of both buyers for not "giving ourselves the opportunity" and leaders who, he said, "don't seem to have the courage to take a chance.

"My only role here as information incentives and moral suasion," he commented.

His presentation to more than 30 of the region's engineers dealt with the topic Canada in the World of Electronics. He discussed possible projections of graphs and statistics before answering questions.

One market where Canadians could reasonably expect to make inroads in the electrical field is the underdeveloped countries. While we have 30 telephones per 100 people, these countries have, in many cases, fewer than one. In addition they account for only 20 per cent of the market currently importing industrial goods, but in which Canada already has a six per cent share and growing.

The electrical industry as a whole employs 138,000 people in Canada, with Northern Electric accounting for 12,000. The bulk of the $1.4 billion worth of electronic products comes from the field of telecommunications and avionics, the remainder divided between entertainment, instrumentation and instruments.

Our current electronic demands, strangely enough, are roughly 30 per cent those of Europe's although the population is only one-tenth as large. Most of our requirements are filled internally, although certain sectors are hard hit by foreign competition, shortages of venture capital.

No Accounting For Expenses

Municipal delegates to conferences and meetings are often called upon to do some entertaining . . . it's all part of the game.

However, if they have to stop and ask every waiter and waiter for a copy of the bill for their expense account it becomes a bit embarrassing.

At least, that was the accepted procedure as reported to Quinte Planning Board last night.

From now on, delegates for the board will be authorized to spend $25 per day without having to account for every penny.

Boy Improved

Ralph Robinson, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Robinson of RR5, Belleville, has been removed from the serious list at Belleville General Hospital. Listed now in "fair" condition, with lower abdominal injuries, fractured right ribs and a fractured right femur, he was run over Feb. 15 when attempting to retrieve a ball from beneath a school bus.

Authority to Buy Gold Mine Land

The Moira River Conservation Authority is taking steps to consolidate its Ackerman Gold Mine property on Moira Lake, which last year it acquired as a conservation area.

Members of the board members voted 5-0 take up an option on a four-and-a-half-acre strip of property that bisected the old gold mine property. Cost of the property will be $2,100.

Authority advisory board member Carl Whittemore, formerly with Deloro - Stellite, said the old gold mine property had been a popular picnic site for many years and urged purchase of the additional land to complete the site.

He said money for all ounces of gold had been shipped from the old mine but it had a historical value that would increase with the years.

Marmora township representative Graham Bell also urged that the acquisition of the additional property be taken up.

He said the old mine property should be preserved and possibly a low profile dam be constructed in the Moira River to add to the site's recreational value.

In other business the authority agreed with a Belleville board of parks recommendation to extend down the request of the Hastings County Board of Education to purchase about three acres of authority property on North Park Street to add to an already owned school site.

Members were told that the city parks board foresaw no problems in the sale. The school board had offered $3,000 for the site with its 600-foot frontage.

Domtar's Switch Would Be Costly

TRENTON (Staff) — The Public Utilities Commission will not order long distance rates cheaper than it now has with the PUC, rates even cheaper than those it now has to buy from the provincial utility.

The public utilities commission meeting here Thursday agreed to release its prime customer to be served by Ontario Hydro, but voiced objection to any possible loss of equity.

PUC chairman Charles Hilton explained that when a utility joins "the wonderful hydro family" it begins making contributions to equity as equity in hydro based on its peak demand for power.

After the advent of this payment process, a municipal utility starts receiving a rate rebate from Ontario Hydro. In Trenton's case this amounts to about $60,000 a year.

With Domtar accounting for about one-half of the PUC's demand, the loss of equity accounted for by Domtar's leaving would be about $15,000 a year.

Commission manager Doug Manlow says current indications are the PUC may have its equity are unprecedented. He stated that when industries in the Canatal Valley become Sarnia became direct line customers Sarnia PUC retained the buildup of equity.

Hillcresters Want Space

So they would like to extend their building onto adjacent property owned by the city parks board.

The formal request for use of the parks board property was before the board Thursday night with the notation that without the parks board land the addition would be impossible.

Board members indicated they would have no objection to the proposal but the matter was tabled for additional information.

Brighton Councillors Ask A-G for Inquest

BRIGHTON, Ont. (CP) — The village council will ask the Ontario attorney-general's department to investigate the recent apparent suicides of three local teen-agers.

Reeve Norrmin Roberts made the announcement Thursday, and added:

Council approved the request after coroner W. O. Elliott said an inquest would be held into the deaths, which occurred in the last three months in and near this village of 2,800 about 20 miles west of Belleville.

Bob Young, 16, was found dead with a 22-calibre bullet wound last Sunday at the site of a new home being built for his parents, who were vacationing in Florida.

A friend, Kevin Haig, 15, was found dead from shotgun wounds Nov. 28, in the basement of his Brighton home. His parents were asleep upstairs.

Harold Rath, 17, a friend of the others, also died of shotgun wounds Dec. 30 in his home in Colborne, a village eight miles west of here.

Dr. Elliott said there is "a strong possibility that marijuana and LSD were factors in these deaths."

Fair

But he said improved grandstand facilities would increase the profit.

Racing alone is usually a deficit operation, Mr. Gowsell noted. It is the lounge facilities, canteen and beer concessions which make the money for race tracks.

Last year a total of $450,000 was wagered at the Belleville track. Some $360,000 being returned to the patrons. The average attendance at racing events was 1974, with the average nightly take per person being $25.50 for a total average "handle" of $36,530.

Improved stand facilities would attract more customers while a grandstand seating section could extend the racing season.

The Glebe Exhibitn presentation to the parks board referred to the possibility of a stable as more of a glorified unit than a grandstand.

It is a fair-weather facility only and needs repairs and renovation to preserve the structure in its present form.

Badly needed are a new washroom and weather facility which would be usable throughout the entire year, Mr. Forrester said.

Also in the planning stage are the fairgrounds is a new two storey building for animals to be constructed at $130,000.

Side of the new structure could be immediately west of Sidney Street in the space now occupied by the cattle horse barn, the open beef cattle shed and the poultry building.

Parks board members took no immediate action on the Quinte Exhibition request but recommended that the estimated $130,000 cost and possibly work out a basis for some form of an agreement.

Chamber Researching Role

Beginning within the next month or so, the Belleville Chamber of Commerce will begin talking to its members and finding out what they want from the chamber.

At the annual dinner meeting held a week ago, a major criticism of the chamber had been the lack of communication between the executive and the members.

"We have got to find out what our members want, we just aren't getting to them enough," said Frank Murray, recent past, president of the chamber's board of directors.

When Frank Followell accepted the office, replacing Mr. Murray in the president's chair, he said, "the priority for my term of office will be exactly that, to ensure better communication between the two bodies".

Meetings are to be held every second month and issues of local interest will be discussed.

After these meetings, perhaps plans of action will be laid out for the board to act on," said Pat Houston, manager of the chamber office.

As a means to catch members attending, a booklet of essays will be published to acquaint the members with discussion topics.

Mr. Roberts said that if drugs are available in the community, "we have to convince them where else." He said the inquest and an investigation might help pinpoint the source.

"Let's hope there can be a clean-up," a nightclub hearing and that we can get at the truth."

He objected to publicity about the deaths that would give a wrong view of the village and have a devastating effect on local businesses.

"This is the best town in the world. If our kids aren't bad, in fact, none of them are, although some may get off on the wrong track," he said.

"There should have been an investigation into the first one," he added.

"Kids don't just get up and go one day . . . Apparently there has been a lot of drugs around. I'm sure there has been an investigation at the high school."

A Grade 13 student at East Northumberland secondary school said the drug problem is there "is the same in every school in the province."

The Haig and Young boys were in Grade 10. The Rath lad dropped out last year and was working for the village of Brighton.

H. S. Ewing, school principal, said there has been a drug problem at the school, "but it's not the worse."

There is no indication of ex-patients using or pushing drugs are among students.

Mrs. Lea Rath, Harold's mother, said Harold "had tried drugs at the high school but quit."

"He did have trouble with drinking," she said, and he asked the local hotel not to serve him."

The inquest into the death of the Young youth will open March 2, E. F. Hills, executive officer for the supervising coroner's office in Toronto said this while it will concentrate on the one case, "you can't talk about one death without bringing in all three."

Second Blow Hits Village

BRIGHTON (Staff) — This village of 2,800, just reacting to a wave of publicity over pending inquest proceedings over the deaths of three youths, has been struck with horror that, police say, is the work of arsonists.

The village council met in special session here Wednesday to discuss action to be taken following reported break-entry into the municipal vault and the burning of a cabinet and the remains it contained.

Discovery was made the previous day that vandals had broken the lock mechanism on the mausoleum's steel door, pried it open and set fire to the coffin.

Council has instructed the village constabulary to take the matter up directly with Northumberland O.P.P. and the crown attorney Jeffrey Bonnycastle and the provincial department of justice.

Arena Deficits Said Inevitable

Modern economic pressures and high development costs have combined to produce similar difficulties for arenas in both Belleville and Kingston.

The Kingston Memorial Centre announced last week that it had incurred a deficit of over $95,000 during the past year's operations and other smaller arenas in the city had also mentioned similar financial difficulties.

Recreation Director for Belleville, Lorne Williams, says the situation in this city is comparable to the situation in Kingston.

"We are now running at deficits of several thousand dollars," Mr. Williams says. "First of all we are running at a deficit per hour, we are not able to charge a sufficiently large sum to handle operating and maintenance costs.

"When you realize that in each of the two arenas in this city there are three full-time employees and one assistant engineer, you start to see the great expense involved in operating the buildings alone."

Mr. Williams says that so far the public has been willing to pay the difference between operating costs and revenues and so the situation is well under control.

The Memorial Arena was forecast, by the Arena Board, to receive approximately $56,000 in revenue from ice rentals, canteen receipts and provincial grants during the 1971-72 season, while operating expenses could run as high as $108,000 which would leave a deficit of $52,000 to be picked up by city taxpayers.

In comparison, the Dick Ellis Arena was expected to have taken in around $21,000 in revenue while paying out about $39,000 for overhead and operating costs. This estimate will not be realized however, since the new arena did not commence operation as soon as was expected.

Recreation director Williams says that the only way in which the deficits could be reduced would be to charge a much higher rental fee to groups using the facilities.

"I'm certain, though, that an increase in rental fee would also mean a heavy loss of regular ice renters," he continued, "Many of the Minor Hockey teams based here are able to charge greatly reduced rental fees by operating on a shoe-string budget.

"Why force these groups 'to resort to other arenas while still losing money on our own centre?" the director asked.

One of the principle sources of revenue at the Memorial Arena has been the two OHA teams that operate from Belleville, The Senior A Belleville Quintes and the Junior B Belleville Bobcats.

At present, the two teams negotiate an agreement with City Council on which approved all rental fee scales, for a twelve month period to be in accordance with each team's requirements.

The two teams pay a higher rent per hour than do the other renters, and that is the ice because both of the teams have permanent dressing rooms and demand specific dates for use of the arena in order to schedule their OHA schedules," Mr. Williams explained.

Both arenas are presently booked heavily during the weekday hours with particulary busy during the day, except, of course, on Saturdays when both arenas are in constant use for minor hockey games.

"Right now we are involved in an exchange program with the Kingston Memorial Arena in which they use the two rinks, Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. and we have the use of school facilities at night and on weekends," Mr. Williams said.

There is talk of a bond issue in this either way, but it certainly does make sense in terms of better use of community facilities."

Salvation Army's Grant For Roblin Lake Camp

Another local young people's camp will benefit from the federal Winter Works initiative program.

Roblin Lake Summer Camp, run by the Salvation Army, has received $18,846 to refurbish many of its 20 buildings at the Ameliasburg site. Twelve men, all carpenters and builders to be supplied by Canada Manpower, will begin work the middle of March if building permits and continue until May 31.

Earlier this week, it was announced that the Boy Scouts had been granted close to $11,000 for work at Camp Sagonaska in Colonel Vandewater Park.

Lt.-Col. Harold Sharp, commander of the Army's eastern Ontario division, said Tuesday an overhaul was long overdue.

"The buildings are very much in need of painting. We work on a very limited budget and there are always repairs. It hasn't been painted in 16 years.

The army hopes to enlarge kitchen and laundry facilities in the 100-year-old central house and complete work on eight overnight cabins begun two years ago.

"The kids will be the main ones to benefit," said Col. Sharpe. "We can't run programs if our equipment is not up to standards."

Last summer, more than 200 underprivileged children from an area encompassing Whitby, Oshawa, Picton and Peterborough were able to spend time at the 18-acre camp. Another some 600 youngsters took part in various programs conducted by the Salvation Army.

Belleville Kiwanis Club sold the camp to the army for $10,000 in 1952 after the late Senator Fraser of Trenton and Harvey McFarland, Sr., raised funds. Through the intervening years, service clubs have generously supported and maintained the buildings.

The camp itself is situated directly opposite Roblin Grist Mill, a plant built before confederation to serve local farmers. Macaffrey from the mill was moved to Toronto's Black Creek Pioneer Village in 1960 and today, only a commemorative plaque and cornerstone of the stonework mark the site.

Salvation Army uses the house built by the mill's owner, Owen Roblin, as a summer residence. Surrounding it are a number of cottages, an auditorium and even a small hospital.

Possible Conflicts Stalls Rental

Possible conflict of interest over rental of a Trenton site by former Trenton Centre Board offices, had a great deal of bearing on the board's vote to reject the site at their monthly meeting last night.

Trenton councillors Peter Aziz and George Brown, co-owners of 19 and A Carwash, at the rear of the Trenton municipal offices, tendered their property to the planning board for a $767.50 monthly rental fee. The building would have been converted into office space for planning staff.

A Lemon?

It may be asked if Texas is the sort of place our defence department should be looking for helicopters capable of functioning properly in cold weather. An Ottawa report says a number of "bugs" have been detected in the first half-dozen of 74 Kiowa air-loop helicopters ordered two years ago from Bell Helicopter Co. of Fort Worth.

Most of these problems are related to cold weather flying conditions and it is reported that some have already been overcome by the aerospace engineering and test establishment at Cold Lake, Alberta.

Surely this must be a costly process. Total purchase price is put at $24 million; modifications will add a great deal more even if negotiations are under way for recovery of the extra cost from the manufacturers of the machine and the engine. The helicopter meanwhile is described by an Ottawa spokesman as the best available for the job. In the circumstances, we would question that appraisal and suggest that even the Russians may have something better. The military helicopters in use in the Soviet Union are large and presumably efficient machines. If for reasons of prestige or politics we would prefer to buy closer to home, then what about Canadian manufacturers?

For example, there is the vertical and short takeoff and landing aircraft — the CL-84 — built by Canadair Ltd. It is an ugly looking craft, but it seems versatile at that. The American army has bought all it and it is reasonable to ask why this or some other Canadian-developed machine could not fill defence needs?

On Looks

Sandra Saunders, who runs a modelling academy in Belleville, has words of praise for the natural attractiveness of our young women. However, she believes they could dress better, find something to wear other than jeans for instance, and we agree.

Winter of course does not lend itself to style, and yet it is a season when we would welcome a little effort in this direction. Looking around there are too many dark hues in community attire. The menfolk, more power to them, have been blossoming out with colored shirts and while we see the ladies in slacks of varying shades the overall sartorial or fashion milieu is one of greyness and dullness.

Jeans worn by girls often seem to go with a rather masculine gait; they are popular of course and while they may be handy winter wear they also affirm the cultivated sloppiness of the younger set. One major element in achieving good looking taste and good grooming is the fact that the buying public are stuck within the rather narrow limits of what is offered by designers and department stores in this country. We wonder if more women do not find themselves bumping into others wearing the same outfit. Furthermore, the quality of much that is offered is of indifferent quality.

Still, an effort is being made to achieve a more attractive appearance, allied to greater spontaneity of manner —less of that bleak northern demeanor so many affect — is well, within the ability of our young people at least to achieve. Unhappily, the older we get, the greyer seem to be both mood and appearance!

Candle Power

Candle light may be romantic for the younger set in Britain, but for most people there the coal miners' strike has to be one big headache affecting virtually very aspect of life in the country.

For the older folk in particular it is a particularly critical time, winter being the raw and damp season it is in the British Isles. But there is a lot of sympathy with the miners who perform a gruelling task that can be unhealthy and dangerous too. Since so much depends on them they should be entitled to better money than they get now.

Ironically the people least affected may be the Irish, who have troubles of an even grimmer nature these days. True, they are probably experiencing power cuts too, both north and south, but for some heating, in the fireplace, they still have their peat. Indeed this must be a boom time for the turf-cutters. "Turf," as it is called there, may be seen in piles in rural areas throughout Ireland. In the south, however, some hydro generating stations are powered by peat fuel.

In the north meanwhile local entrepreneurs could be taking a fresh look at the outcrop coal mined from time to time through the years on the cliffside at Fair Head. The site is near Ballycastle on the most northeastern point of Ireland and just across the road from Marconi's "cottage," where the inventor reportedly carried out some of his early experiments.

Bill C-264 Hangs Fire

Family Allowance Bill Will Be Campaign Issue

By FARMER TISSINGTON

OTTAWA — If a federal election is held in 1972, as many predict, you can bet that a piece of legislation will be a big campaign issue in the last session as Bill C-264, will receive a lot of attention during the election campaign.

The bill, had it been passed, would have provided for increases in family allowances, beginning on May 1. Actually, the government had set a starting date for the program, which is based on the whole family economy security, September, 1971.

Later, it announced that because of advice from a number of private and public agencies, it had decided to revise the allowance program to include families with a large number of children beyond the proposed income maximum of $14,000 a year.

Sept. 13, 1971, the government again raised the hopes of many Canadian families by giving first reading to the bill, and indicating that the target date for repeal of the old act and implementation of the new one would be May 1,1972.

Since then the government has been grilled regularly by opposition party spokesmen, asking them when it was going ahead with passage of the bill as the target date could be met. The answers, from Health Minister John Munro, and other government spokesmen, have been vague, to say the least.

For example, take this reply from Mr. Munro in response to a direct question in the Commons on whether he thought that the May deadline for increases in the benefits:

"In view of the fact that, as I have stated, in all likelihood legislation will not come on until the next session it would all depend on when it was passed and with what speed. It would seem rather difficult to adhere to that type of deadline."

Or take this reply by Andre Ouellet, the House's parliamentary secretary, in response to an adjournment debate on the question as recently as Dec. 7:

The honorable member is aware that the proceedings of the House are unfortunately slow and he will understand that the government would have wished to introduce this bill earlier. It has been going to meet unable to do so by reason of the crowded agenda of the House. It would like to state that the government would certainly like to give priority to this bill when the order of the day allows it to do so."

These answers do not fool anybody. The chief reason the government is not going to meet that May deadline is that Quebec has again thrown its monkey wrench into the works by its demands that the provinces have the right to control security payments.

Quebec's Social Affairs Minister Claude-Castonguay has been in a heated argument with Ottawa for several months, attempting to work out an agreement that will satisfy both parties.

Details of this dispute are too long and complicated for this column. Suffice to say that in his latest pronouncement the Quebec minister adds a threat to the effect that if agreement isn't reached soon the province should keep clearly in mind the alternatives which Ottawa would above all their consequences if such an approach does not receive the attention it deserves.

As the Globe and Mail aptly phrased it, Claude-Castonguay Quebec are rightly growing tired of political brinkmanship. He is ready to wave the club of separatism at every demurral to its demands.

Canadians who recall what the original baby bonus did for the success of the Liberal party will be surprised at the priorities of the present government. The government, which in its wisdom to push through the tax reform legislation, and the farm marketing agencies act in the final days of the last session, finds are of dubious vote-getting value.

How much better, from a political point of view, to have put greater effort into reaching an agreement with Quebec on family allowances so these latter allowance changes could have been sent out in May, perhaps only days before an election?

Or, are Canadians now so politically sophisticated that this sort of arrant bribery is considered so blatant and cynical as to rebound to the detriment of a free-hand government?

Somehow I doubt it.

Plea for Support

Let's Keep Hockey Going in City

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

I sincerely wonder "What has happened to Belleville's hockey fans?" Would Sir William Osgoode give me if I were to paraphrase his words and say that Belleville have so many Belleville-ians owed so much to so few. Belleville's Senior 'A' hockey club, depleted by injuries, and bereft of financial support, has not nothing to justify its carrying on. But determination a nd self-sacrifice on the part of the "few", has kept the Quinte's competitive in a way that should not only inspire pride, but commands some acknowledgement and support.

Credit, too, is due some others of our citizenry and I would like, in the future to utilize your columns to cite some of the efforts deserving of recognition. May I at the start offer praise to the media — your staff — for their efforts on behalf of hockey. Unfortunately it seems, many Bellevillians seldom read the Sports Page. Hopefully this column may reach some of these, and cause them to reflect. I cannot cover my subject in this letter, but possibly I can stimulate some thought and provoke discussion, with the ultimate aim of informing the populace of the facts, and of creating the air of concern of misinformed opinion that presently seems to exist.

There can be no doubt that apathy on the part of society as a whole is at the root of many of its present problems. Nor can there be any doubt that Belleville has its problems. It is my wish that I neither arouse antagonism, nor align the Club on behalf of Sport, made by the many active groups of our city, but for the present I enter the contest to limit credit to the "few", the Senior A players.

The Quintes have played a very successful season as far as hockey is concerned. It could have been better had they had a full complement of players and some fan support. They have had ups and downs on the ice, have shown their ability, have provided excellent entertainment for those fans who witnessed them.

There is a good explanation for the results, which are not as bleak as they might appear. Quintes have decisively beaten every team in the league even recently though short of players. When they have been "off" for a game there have been some brilliant periods of hockey. Not even in the National League can you find players "up" for every game. They would undoubtedly have more "off" nights if they had the distractions and varied responsibilities of our players. No efforts are necessary for Belleville. All it is in order to draw attention to some of the reasons that account for the many near-victories lost in closing minutes when fatigue set in.

It is not an easy schedule facing a player and one who commits himself is worthy of praise. It demands sacrifices of time and money. The players are for the most part of an age group trying to establish for themselves in their job and in their home. Time taken from the latter and growing family, and from work, can tax the patience of spouse and boss. The Senior A schedule often means having to beg off work early to travel four to six hours, play a game and journey home for a couple of hours sleep before sleepily returning to the job for another day. An employer may justifiably look with jaundiced eye on a worker wo may limp in, a bit bleary eyed, one or two days a week, or even miss a shift because of injury. The schedule averages just a game a week, and ideally there should be two practices, so there are few evenings left to belo with family responsibilities. All this for the love of hockey, and the glory of Belleville. (Even though half of the team lives outside of the city.)

It is said that in some areas senior players receive fair payment for each game, but even at that, when the time from work is considered, they don't really have much left over. The award, reward, and stimulus to play is the moral support from their fans. In Belleville, there has been neither the financial nor moral support they deserve. The team has made an effort and in so doing has provided a good brand of hockey. Few fans have been privileged to see it. Financially many of the players and arena expenses are paid, there is hardly enough left to compensate the players for out of pocket expenses.

There are many reasons I feel why Belleville should support the team. It is a sad reflection on our city that we are not interested in sponsoring a good calibre of hockey.

Senior A hockey is having trouble throughout the league in mustering support. Critics feel it is dying. However as a source of players to represent Canada in International competition, it must survive. An attempt is under way to promote the League throughout the province, and possibly it will include an exhibition tour to the European team. Gait this past year on International tour played before capacity crowds in Europe (18,000 or more fans came to see the Canadian hockey). They were well received as Canada's representatives. What better advertisement could Gait have than this? How important that it support and send the best team. If Belleville is to compete in this league we must support our team. If we as sports fans are too apathetic to leave our easy chair in the cold comfort of our living rooms, I would argue that at present, although our spectator facilities are limited considering our population, all the arena is warm and comfortable and never crowded. The player facilities are rather pathetic however, and badly in need of improvement. The action who wishes to excel must literally punish himself. To achieve, he must push his aching muscles to work faster and harder when every breath hurts; when legs are heavy and arms clumsy; and most would be so sweet. But sweeter still would be a show of encouragement, and when it is over, a semi-respectable dressing room for a relaxing shower.

Surely we arm-chair-quarterbacks could personally spend a couple of hours and as many dollars, as our effort to keep hockey represented.

This appeal of course applies to our Junior B Bobcats as well. Hopefully the day will come when the two teams will complement each other, and provide a superior brand of hockey as an incentive to our A's and B league players.

The James Bay Development

Sherbrooke La Tribune: The development of James Bay, Robert Bourassa's new major project is the first prestige that dimmed with his failure to create 100,000 new jobs in the province, risks provoking debates and lively discussions for many months to come.

Launched like a spectacular balloon eight months ago at a meeting marking the first anniversary of the Bourassa government in power, the project was at that time premature.

Premier Bourassa who probably had sensed the impossibility of realizing considerably increasing unemployment figures, spoke victoriously of an investment of between $3 and $6 billion and the creation of 140,000 jobs, if not more.

However, we did not know how many rivers would be harnessed, when the work would start, what the effects on the environment would be.

We still don't know that today. Now there are speaking of investments of $10, maybe $12 billion, without even specifying the number of jobs the project would create.

A study undertaken by representatives of both the federal and provincial governments, made public this week, says it is unable to be definite about the ecological effects of such a project.

The premier of Quebec also said this week that the James Bay Development Corp. will not be able to be operational until the end of March what direction the work will take and which river will be the first to be harnessed.

And all this time the opposition parties are openly declaring that the James Bay development is using the James Bay project to carry out the most spectacular political operation in the history of Canadian politics.

Faced with all these facts and protests, several questions present themselves to the Quebec people.

Is the government absolutely certain that this project is of prime importance? Does it have the resources to carry it out?

Can this project be considered to be really part of a long-term economic development policy? . . .

They speak of investing maybe $5 or $6 billion or $10 or $12 billion in the James Bay project, but what is being spent to create 100,000 jobs which had to close, the CTP plant in Temiscaming, the decrease in jobs in the pulp and paper industry, the chemical industries? . . .

As long as questions of this kind have not been answered, there is reason to doubt the consequences and the planning of the James Bay project, a project which will keep Quebecers in debt for many decades to come.

Ideal of Human Brotherhood Makes Sense, But Elusive

This is Brotherhood Week, its observance of which the following article was prepared for The Intelligencer by Rabbi Bernard Wiesel of the Sons of Jacob Congregation, Belleville.

There are few ideals in our world that make as much sense as the ideal of brotherhood. If that goal should ever be achieved, if the spirit of true brotherhood should ever govern our actions, man would never engage in war or bloodshed and there would be no headlines of fear, hatred and terror.

Yet, in this age of spectacular scientific progress, at the peak of miraculous technological conquests, man remains a pathetic failure. We are as far removed from anything resembling brotherhood as humanity was in the age of the cave man or in the days of Cain.

We place the blame on the notorious credibility gap in government, in the media and in international relations. We moan and complain about the tragic credibility gap between young and old. There is, however, one point we never seem to ponder. That is the credibility gap within ourselves. The gap between our way with words and our way of life. The devastating contradictions between the things we say, preach or pledge, and the things we really do.

The literary market and the arts scored many a triumph in the past few decades. There have been great books, great plays, great songs and great movies. Most of these hits come and go. Obscurity gets to them all, sooner or later. It happens to dramatic actors and to comedians and their jokes. You do not laugh more than once. Yet, one particular joke preserves that rule. It makes a comeback over and over again. "Don't do as I do, do as I say."

There is a good and ugly reason for that survival. It is no joke. It is the sad truth that affects all of us. We ask our youngsters to see who is calling and we make sure that if it is Mr. or Mrs. So-and-So, they are to tell the caller that father is not at home. We expose our children to religious instruction, while we totally ignore any serious religious involvement. We demand from them the truth at all times, while they know that more often than not, we take rather generous liberties with the truth. Their disenchantment results in a loss of confidence that is damaging not only the institution of the family, but disintegrating the moral fabric of many a nation.

One must ask how brotherhood can ever come to life if it is in a coma all year long, to be resurrected only for one glorious week.

No idea has any merit and no ideal has any promise if it is printed on paper or even carved in stone. Great ideas did not prevent the decay of Greece. The spirit of Kant, Lebnitz and Schopenhauer did not prevent the recurrence of the darkest barbarism in the very heart of Europe: and the ideals of the Prophets did not save Judaea from destruction. Ideals must be implemented in life, not just once a year, but day after day; and this must be done by ourselves for ourselves. Our own lives must bear witness that we are what we profess and aspire to be.

It is a hard task: Life offers a variety of tempting and deceiving opportunities. Some are misguided by envy and others are corrupted by greed or convenience, and all are whitewashed by a frightening lack of principles.

Yet, at all times in history, there were those who courageously carried the torch of human integrity into the hall of eternity. One of the earliest champions could have saved his own life for the price of a little compromise. He could neither read nor write and was without a shirt on his back. But he had a king-sized conscience and the courage of a lion. He chose to die, to live on forever. His name — Socrates — became an epic in the history of humanity.

Thomas More was a Catholic. It could be debated whether or not he was right in his resilient stand against a king's divorce and Cromwell's leniency; but he had the courage to stand up against the high and the mighty, and to put his life at stake. In our own history there is the everlasting light of Masadah, where more than 900 of our defenders committed suicide to avoid capture and slavery.

Brotherhood may not be related to death. It is however, at times, related to deadly courage: the courage to identify ourselves with our neighbor, with the man across the street or with the stranger we may never meet, the courage to manifest our belonging to the fraternity of humanity with all of its diversities, colors, faiths and ideals; above all, the courage to brand and reveal bias and bigotry whether or not this happened to be convenient.

It has been said many times, and it must be said it over and over again, that we are all created in the image of God. The Catholic or the Protestant in Belfast, the Buddhist in Saigon or Hanoi, the Moslem in Bangla Desh or Jerusalem and the Jew awaiting his exit visa in Moscow or Baghdad — they all may have their faults, peculiarities, oddities and idiosyncrasies. This is a human privilege. We must learn to grant to them the same degree of understanding and tolerance that we normally reserve for our own little treasures.

Brotherhood is not negotiable. It cannot survive in the quicksand of hidden bigotry, moral larceny, and double standards. We must not overlook the good that can be found in most men. We may encourage it by appraising men for what they are and not for who they are; by remembering their needs and ignoring their roots, and by gracing them with the human consideration that so many of us in this world badly lack.

I pray that we may live up, during the days that this Brotherhood Week may then become shades as people learn that there is one God and one humanity. But there will be no need for this special need, for all days will be days of true brotherhood.

Conservation Authorities Seek More Jurisdiction

The Moira River Conservation Authority would like to see all north shore lands draining directly into the Bay of Quinte become part of the three-area river authorities.

Yesterday at the annual general meeting of the Moira Authority at Canniffon, a special committee was set on to meet with area municipal councils to explore carrying out the proposal.

Because topography now determines the boundaries of river authorities, lands draining directly into the Bay of Quinte are not now part of the Moira, Trent, or Napanee authorities and consequently government grants for conservation and recreation areas projects are not available for these pockets.

Parts of the city of Belleville, Sidney and Thurlow townships, and the Mohawk Indian reserve in Tyendinaga, fall into this category.

Graham Bell, Marmora and Lake representative and former chairman of the authority, recommended a special committee of representatives from the municipalities bordering the north shore of the Bay of Quinte be set up to investigate the matter. Belleville Alderman Robin Jeffrey will act as committee chairman.

Norman Patrick, director of the Conservation Authorities Branch in Toronto, told the meeting that personnel from his department would attend the local meeting set up.

Mr. Patrick, who earlier reviewed the recent cabinet changes made by Premier William Davis and how they might be expected to benefit conservation and recreational programs, said the conservation branch would like to see all lands part of organized river authorities, but said the initiative to have this carried out had to come from the local municipalities.

Alderman Robin Jeffrey noted that the Belleville Parks Board already was thinking along these lines and said a recommendation for the city to initiate discussions would be made Thursday night's meeting of the parks board.

The recommendation asks for the city to initiate discussions with the three conservation authorities and the municipalities to encourage the extension of authorities' jurisdiction over all lands.

The said inclusion of all lands in river authorities was necessary because of the growing need to set aside adequate open space area for public use.

Sidney reeve Jack Bush said his municipality was also thinking along the same lines.

He said his township belonged to both the Moira and Trent River authorities, but most of the township land drained directly into the bay and therefore was not included in either authority.

"We haven't quite made up our mind whether the bay front area should belong to the Trent or Moira authority," he said.

Experts Address Flower Fanciers

Lilacs and geraniums were the topics of discussion at the February meeting of the Belleville Horticultural Society.

Principal speaker for the evening was Jack Schloen, with the Ellsmere Nurseries near Trenton, who reviewed the history of lilac growing, noting that much of the new propagation had been done in France.

This was the reason, he said, that many of the lilac species had French names.

Because of their tendency to spread, lilacs should never be planted close together than six to eight feet and never closer than 20 feet to the house.

Best places to see lilacs in bloom were at the Hamilton Botanical gardens or at Rochester, N. Y.

During the meeting, society president Cecil Rowley called for a minute's silence in honor of Nancy Crawford, city parks board employee who was fatally injured in a car-train accident on Hast Road. Miss Crawford assisted in getting out the monthly society bulletin.

The Society membership is still under way. Memberships are $1.50 single and $2.50 per couple.

My boys in Belleville and Trenton are mighty fussy.

And I'm mighty proud to be able to say so, because I taught my boys that every customer deserves the red carpet treatment. That's why my boys are such perfectionists: determined that the service they give each customer will be every bit as good as the delicious taste of my chicken. And that goes for their staff, too, from the smiling counter girl to the boys in the kitchen who cook "finger lickin' good" Kentucky Fried Chicken. My boys have quite a reputation for being particular, they worked hard to earn it and they're working even harder to keep it. You may not see a red carpet in front of a Kentucky Fried Chicken store but you'll certainly enjoy the red carpet treatment.

Prime Minister, Wife Attend Gala Ball

Mr. Trudeau went dateless to the last such ball in November, 1970.

Mrs. Trudeau, who appeared relaxed and happy, wore a sleeveless, straight-skirted gown in purple and mauve in a geometric pattern.

The couple, after being greeted by Gov.-Gen. and Mrs. Roland Michener, moved from the reception room to the elegant blue and gold ballroom while the Michener's shook hands with 275 other guests — senators, members of parliament and of the diplomatic corps.

The Governor-General and Mrs. Michener opened the ball with a waltz played by the Canadian Forces national band.

Mrs. Michener wore an A-line white brocade gown with pearls and the medal of a companion of the Order of Canada. Her daughter-in-law for the evening, Mrs. Esmond Butler, wore an apricot gown with a gathered skirt.

The Trudeaus danced together, smiling for photographers and chatting. Mrs. Trudeau then leaned affectionately on her consort's dancing partner and her husband danced with Mrs. Michener.

Supper was in the newly-redecorated red-and-white tent room where long tables were decorated with carnations and daffodils.

Among the head table guests were the Stanfields, Mr. and Mrs. David Lewis, Commons Speaker Lucien Lamoureux and Senate Speaker Jean-Paul Deschatelets and their wives. The buffet included glazed ham and chicken and a variety of cold cuts.

However Alistair Gillespie, minister of state for science and technology, may have set a trend for the men with his maroon velvet tie.

Women's Institutes

CHAPMAN — TWEED WI

TWEED—The recent monthly meeting of the Chapman-Tweed Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Lorne Gunning, RR 1, Tweed.

Mrs. William J. Woods presided and Mrs. Harold Foster was secretary in the absence of Mrs. Les Jardine. She also read the correspondence dealing with a Tailoring Workshop, which is being held in April. This will be directed by the home economist, Mrs. E. Struthers.

A request was read from Mrs. Purdy, editor of "Home and Country" for clippings from local institutes. This is to be handled by the publications officer, Mrs. Thomas Lynn. A letter from Mrs. Nobbit was read re a 10 cents per member fee for the Erland Lee Homestead fund.

The president discussed plans for catering to a banquet in March and named a committee to organize this.

Mrs. M. L. Lambert was in charge of the program on "Health."

Mrs. Thomas Kelly introduced Douglas Mumford, who is well-known for his first-aid work and demonstrations. Mr. Mumford gave an excellent talk on mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and demonstrated on the life-like model provided by the Lands and Forests Department.

The members were given a chance to try the method Mr. Mumford stressed the point that this knowledge might be he means of saving a life.

Mrs. Lambert thanked Mr. Mumford and presented a token of appreciation.

A delicious lunch was served by the committee.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. R. Jones.

Thurlow Group Holds Euchre Party

2ND THURLOW — The Neighbors' Aid held its euchre at the Aid Hall Friday evening with Mrs. Gerald Sloan and several assistants in charge. Eight tables were in play. Prizes were won by Mrs. Clayton Sullivan, Mrs. Jay Parks, Mrs. Charles Woods, Mr. Clifford Reid, Mr. Orville Stratton, Mr. Stewart Ray and the lucky draw winner was Mrs. Whalen.

Lunch was served and a social time enjoyed.

The next euchre will be Feb. 25.

Deaf Taught Combined Technique

EDMONTON (CP) — A deaf child should become a confident, self-supporting individual in a hearing society "instead of a welfare drag."

That is the philosophy of the Alberta School for the Deaf, the only school in the province for the profoundly and severely deaf.

The approach used is "a combination of oral method, lip reading, and finger spelling, used simultaneously and reinforced with pictures, illustrations, films, slides, models, maps, charts, toys and individual and amplified group hearing aids.

Dr. Oliva Girouelle, staff psychologist, said that before the combined technique was used, deaf children were just receiving messages from the transmitter—the teacher or parent.

School superintendent Fred Cartwright said that historically schools for the deaf have produced "a very withdrawn type of person who gravitates back to his own type of community (deaf people).

"Because of their fear of being unable to communicate with the hearing, deaf people don't 'speak out' for themselves sufficiently."

The combination method has been used at the school since 1966 and Mr. Cartwright said: "We can demonstrate a definite improvement in the learning of natural language which gives the deaf child the ability to express his ideas voluntarily."

Church Groups

ST. MICHAEL'S CWL

St. Michael's Catholic Women's League held its February meeting on Monday in the parish rectory meeting room.

Mrs. Joseph Farrell, president chaired the meeting and heard reports from the various conveners. Mrs. Vera Morris attended the Valentine tea on Monday at the Hastings Manor. Mrs. James Brennan along with her co-workers who had successfully completed the "Meals on Wheels" project for January were thanked for their efforts. The Valentine Ball held on February 11 and convened by Mrs. T. McCabe was a great success. Mrs. A. Brunner and Mrs. P. Crawford managed the kitchen which was much appreciated.

The World Day of Prayer service will be held this year on March 3 at Victoria Ave. Baptist Church. The theme this year will be "All joy be yours", with the guest speaker Mrs. Phyllis McIntyre.

The meeting was adjourned and Mrs. John McGinnis introduced the guest speaker Robert Temple, well - known Belleville lawyer who showed slides of his trip to Russia and Siberia.

It was most interesting and several of the members asked questions. Mrs. J. Sheridan thanked Mr. Temple.

Coffee and refreshments followed.

Medical Co-ordinator Outlines Changing Concepts of Health Care

Members of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary were given a full, interesting and comprehensive look at the changing concepts of health care delivery being practised in Belleville and district when Dr. R. M. Anderson, medical co-ordinator, spoke to a large group on Tuesday afternoon.

In Ontario and all over Canada there is an increased demand for complete health care by an ever-growing population. There is a serious maldistribution of doctors, dentists and pharmacists throughout the country.

In Ontario the hospital bed ratio is the largest in the world and costs are rising alarmingly. All of these factors create the need for serious study, to bring care up to date and, at the same time control mounting costs. Credit for bringing about many new ideas in patient care was given by Dr. Anderson to Dr. Richard Potter, newly appointed Minister of Health.

Belleville and the surrounding districts are fortunate in that this area is being used as a pilot project where the patient can be looked after efficiently from the time he enters a beautiful, modern hospital which is equipped to handle emergencies, intensive care, active treatment and extended care, until such time as he is ready to be transferred to the newly opened Queen's self-care unit. Here he is well looked after by a minimum number of trained nursing staff and by learns to become self-sufficient.

A hotel atmosphere, with a fine dining room to which patients walk for their meals; a staff which does not wear hospital uniforms; an opportunity to "do for oneself"; all of these help hasten the patient's recovery. This new service is provided at much less cost than that of the active treatment hospital.

Much thought and effort is being given to the program of "Home Care" for patients and this phase of the total program is one that needs some improvement.

Dr. Anderson said that, for these new concepts to be successfully take place, it will be necessary for doctors, nurses and the general public to change their thinking to a great extent.

The experiments in patient care in this district are being carefully watched by every part of Canada. The success of the total care program here could make for great changes across the country.

Dr. Anderson was introduced by Mrs. J. B. Durrant and thanked by Mrs. T. R. Colden.

The business portion of the meeting was in charge of Mrs. J. E. Nelles, president, who, after welcoming the group, requested a moment's silence in memory of a faithful auxiliary member, Miss Edith Lanning.

Reports from the various committees followed. Puppets are being made in large quantities by this industrious group; wool will be supplied to anyone wishing to make baby outfits for the Samaritan Cupboard; 308 attractive and unusual tray favors were supplied for Valentine's Day by Girl Guide Company No. 11. Membership fees are now due and convener, Mrs. A. B. Duffy will be pleased to supply these, Mrs. J. B. Durrant, convenor of volunteers, reported that 81 volunteers had contributed 624 hours during the past month and she reminded members that copies of recent magazines are always in demand for distribution in the hospital.

Mrs. M. F. L. Jones, public relations convener stated that the auxiliary information cards were being brought up to date. Mrs. C. A. Campbell, Opportunity Shop representative, reported a busy month in January and transferred to the Auxiliary treasury the sum of $250.

Mrs. B. E. Burley, chairman of planning and furnishing for the new coffee and gift shop in the hospital announced that a tentative date of September 1 is the goal for the grand opening. Mrs. S. B. Bochnek has been appointed co-ordinator for the shops, with her. Members were asked to start work on items which may be used as merchandise for the gift shop, which will carry quality articles suitable for gifts to patients, babies and staff.

Mrs. C. D. Ashley will head the committee to choose the Provincial life member for this year from the Belleville Auxiliary.

Mrs. S. B. Bochnek will again head the committee in charge of the dinner dance to be held by the Auxiliary in the Fall.

New furnishings, including several comfortable chairs and ash stands will be provided for the Extended Care Unit, by the Auxiliary.

The March meeting of the Auxiliary will be a re-run of the famous "Strip Tea" inaugurated many years ago. Members will be asked to come to the meeting wearing some item which they would like to donate to the Opportunity Shop and there will also be an interesting program.

Following the business, tea was served by Mrs. G. G. Field and social committee.

B and P Club Plans International Night

An interesting speaker, well-known in this area, Chief Earl Hill of the Tyendinaga Reserve, will highlight the program with an address to mark International Night of the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club. The meeting will be held at the Sir Valley Manor Hotel on Monday evening.

Chief Hill, Mohawk of the Bay of Quinte was a councillor for two years and in 1967 was elected Chief and is now in his third two-year term. He is also founder of the Association of Iroquois and Allied Indians and acted as vice-principal of the association for two years; is also chairman of the Claims and Treaty committee.

Being particularly interested in young people, Mr Hill has been instrumental in procuring a park for sports and is founder of the recreation committee on the reserve.

A most interesting candle lighting ceremony will also take place for this special event which is in charge of Mrs. Marion McFaul, vice-president. Visitors from the Cobourg and Trenton Clubs will be present. Husbands of members and friends are also welcome. As many as possible are requested to wear a traditional costume to emphasize the theme of the meeting.

Family Cooking

Vegetables Hidden in Citrus Juices

By ALICE DENBROFF

There's no better way to take vitamin C than with citrus fruits and their juices. The latter is either fresh or fresh frozen concentrate. A yummy way to do a double health job for the family is to combine fresh vegetables with orange or grapefruit juices. The vegetables are so delicious that even vegetable haters surrender and the kids don't know that they are taking in food brimming with nutrition.

SQUASH IN ORANGE

CREAM SAUCE

1 pound yellow squash
1 pound zucchini
1 tablespoon frozen Florida orange juice concentrate, thawed, undiluted
2 tablespoons butter, melted
1 cup sour cream
1 tablespoon flour
Chopped chives

Scrub squash well. Cut slices from stem and blossom ends. Do not pare. Cut into thin slices. Place in small amount of boiling, salted water; cover, and cook about 10 minutes.

Meanwhile, prepare sauce. Stir undiluted orange juice concentrate into melted butter and heat until just warm. Combine sour cream and flour; stir into sauce. Heat, but do not boil.

Serve over hot, cooked squash. Serves three to four.

MOLDED RICE WITH VEGETABLES

¼ cup butter or margarine
2 cups Florida orange juice
3 cups water
1½ teaspoons salt
1 cup raw rice
1 cup sliced celery
1 cup sliced cucumber
1 avocado, sliced or chopped
¼ cup chopped scallion
Orange French Dressing (recipe follows)

Melt butter in saucepan. Add next three ingredients. Bring to a boil; add rice slowly. Cover; reduce heat and cook 25 minutes or until rice is tender and liquid has been absorbed. While rice is still hot, pack into lightly oiled eight-inch ring mold. Place in refrigerator. Chill remaining vegetables in refrigerated rice. Place vegetables in middle and serve with:

ORANGE FRENCH DRESSING

1 can (6 ounces) frozen Florida orange juice concentrate, thawed, undiluted ½ cup salad oil
¼ cup cider vinegar
4 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon Tabasco

Combine all ingredients in jar, bowl, or bottle. Shake or beat until thickened and mix in electric blender. Dressing may be stored covered, in refrigerator. Shake well before using. Makes 1¼ cups dressing.

Recipe serves six.

SWEET-SOUR VEGETABLES

4 tablespoons salad oil
½ green pepper, sliced
1 onion, sliced
½ pound green beans, thinly sliced on the diagonal
2 cups celery, diagonally sliced
1 tablespoon cornstarch
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup water
6 tablespoons Florida grapefruit juice
2 teaspoons soy sauce
1 tablespoon candied ginger, sliced
3 tomatoes, cut into wedges

Heat oil in saucepan, add vegetables except tomato and sauté until tender, about five minutes. Combine cornstarch and salt in small saucepan; stir in water, grapefruit juice, soy sauce and ginger. Heat to boil, stirring constantly, until sauce becomes clear and thickened. Add sauce to vegetables; add tomato wedges. Cook only to heat tomatoes. Serve immediately. Serves three to four.

Ann Landers

Basis of Problem Is Excess Drinking

Dear Ann Landers: I'm so ashamed of my problem I can't talk to anybody about it. My husband and I are both 31. We have had our disagreements, but nothing serious. The basis of the trouble is his drinking. He doesn't get drunk very often but when he does he is like out of his head.

Last Saturday night we went to a party. There was a lot of liquor around and Cliff got awfully drunk. We got home about 3 a.m. He was in no condition to drive and could not have opened the front door with his key if he'd depended on it. The sitter was asleep on the couch. She had arranged to stay all night because we knew we would be getting home very late.

Cliff carried out on the bathroom floor and I decided to leave him there and let him sleep it off. He weighs over 200 pounds and I couldn't have got him to bed if I had wanted to.

At about 6 a.m. I was awakened by what sounded like an argument. I went into the living room and found my husband trying to bite the sitter. She was half hysterical and he was still drunk. Ann, the girl is only 17. I helped her dress and I drove her home.

By noon Cliff had sobered up. He is beside himself with shame and grief. He has never done anything like this before. I am worried sick that he might be mentally ill. Now I wonder if our own daughters are safe with him. They are 8 and 11. Please tell me what to do.—Needles and Pins

Dear Friend: I hope your husband is sufficiently grieved and ashamed to get professional help. If liquor has such a devastating effect on him, he should not have so much as a teaspoon. If Cliff doesn't believe you, please show him this column and let's hope it persuades him to get going.

Dear Ann Landers: I was surprised at your recent advice which makes you out a female chauvinist. When a teen-age girl wrote to say she was terrified of becoming old and wrinkled and asked how to keep her skin youthful, you replied, "The texture and durability of a woman's skin is primarily a matter of inheritance. If your mother had a wrinkle-free skin, your skin has a better chance of holding it."

Obviously you blocked from your mind the genetic composition of every human, which includes male as well as female genes. In my case, I inherited my father's skin. In a subsequent column, will you please acknowledge the fact that men count? Thank you.—Texas Lawyer

Dear Tex: Men count. Some can go as high as ten. Thank you for catching the error. Some girls do inherit their fathers' skins and not their mothers'.

Dear Ann Landers: I like this guy who I'll call Brad. When we go to the movies he just sits there like a lump on a log. I don't care for boys who try to put the make on a girl after one date, but Brad and I have been out together at least eight times. I think it's about time he put his arm around me in a movie.

Do you think it would be out of place if I took his arm and draped it over my shoulders, as a hint? Please give me some advice because I don't want him to think I am pushy. Thanks.—Chilly In Bakersfield

Dear Bake: Hand-holding is more discreet. Tell Brad your hand is heavy and ask him if he'd mind holding it awhile.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOAN CONNELL

Should a child have a lot of friends?

YES; and a child should be encouraged to have many friends rather than one very close chum. This doesn't mean that there is anything wrong in having strong friendships in childhood. Yet when two very young friends are all but inseparable, they frequently will withdraw from activities with other children when either things don't go their way—and if they have each other in tow-or, they won't be so quick to try to get along with other children.

PERHAPS NOT as much as men like to address letters that way when writing a woman whose marital status is unknown. It certainly prevents offending a woman who is addressed as "Miss" when she is married, or vice versa. In a private conversation, most women I've found girls objecting to being addressed as "Mrs." For one thing, many single girls believe that being addressed as "Mrs" may indicate their chances of being called "Mrs."

Does an actor like to play himself?

NO; an actor generally prefers to play a role that is entirely different from his own character. This is more fun a desire to show that he has the ability to be creative in his craft. The actor also likes to have a person view him self from public view. He doesn't want the members of an audience to have the notion that they can get the "total use" just by buying a ticket of admission or by flipping a television knob.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

QUEENSBORO WI

QUEENSBORO — The families of members of the Queensboro Womens' Institute enjoyed a pot luck supper at the Feb. 9 meeting in the hall.

Mrs. Frank O'Rourke was hostess for the meeting which began at 7 P.M. with about 40 people present.

After the supper, Mrs. Roy Rollins called the members together for a small business discussion.

It was decided to purchase both a Muzzle Leaf flag and a Union Jack for the hall and to also purchase more equipment for the hall.

Mrs. O'Rourke was chosen as delegate to the Guelph convention in May.

The rest of the evening was spent in card playing and social chat.

Quick Decision to 'Kick the Habit'

By DORIS CLARK

Earl Cameron, well-known radio and television personality, got up on September 1, 1965, and decided against having his treatment for cigarettes before breakfast. In fact he hasn't smoked since.

That's quite a record after 42 years of smoking—at one pack of cigarettes a day, several cigars, a couple of pipes—"inhaling to my toes." He didn't gain weight or get cranky.

"It's easier than a lot of people think and it was a relief to get rid of all the junk I carried around — cigarette package, lighter, pipe pouch, matches, cigars. And there's no question it's a wealth measure." — Progress Against Cancer.

Dear Doris: I was born in Knaresborough, Yorkshire, where Marion Shipton was supposed to have lived.

Of course whether it is all true or not I don't know, but we, in the town itself, were pretty well set on it. I wish you could see it yourself: The table and chairs all hewn out of the rock, and the floor of the cave all worn where she is presumed to have lived. Also, there is a big cairn from that she was supposed to have combed in.

It was very interesting to believe all this when I was young. There is also a wishing well that really proves to be true, and a rock over which flows water steadily. Anything anyone hangs there and leaves for a year turns to stone.

— Born There.

Dear Born There: The plot thickens. "There are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamt of in your philosophy." (Shakespeare)

Dear Doris: My husband's mother is constantly putting me down. She tends to find others in the family ask what it is she has against me. He has 10 children, but my Joe is her favorite — the baby.

When she hints that she makes sarcastic remarks that I am not a good wife or mother, If I were to ask her what she had against me, she would say she didn't know what I was talking about and that she liked me.

I only go there with him because I don't know a soul in this town, since we lived in the States for years. But she acts as if I'm not there sometimes. She is 71. — Baffled.

Dear Baffled: I can't see changing her much, can you? And you know you are a good wife and mother, don't you?

Better stand off from her a little and keep busy instead of in getting into things in your own community. Make some friends, have some fun; get truly interested in a new church or hobby course, and see what your independence will do for her attitude.

(Is it better to put up with misunderstandings, or to begin talking things over? Let Doris help you. Are the light.)

UCW Meeting

MOUNT PLEASANT-RAWDON U.C.W.

RAWDON — Mount Pleasant-Rawdon United Church Women met for a meeting at the church hall with 55 people attending. Wednesday, Feb. 9. Mrs. H. Ebert Hoard convened the meeting in the afternoon with 39 ladies in attendance.

Mrs. Milton Shaw provided piano selections and the usual reports were given.

Mrs. James Heard reported plans for teas from catering for the Hoard's barn sale.

In the business period, the new schedule of prices for catering and the 1972 financial report leaflet were accepted.

The world Day of Prayer reunion will be held Friday afternoon at Mount Pleasant United Church, March 3 at 2:

The next meeting will be held March 8 with missionary education in Africa.

Mrs. Herbert Smith, convener of Christian and Missionary Education had a large display of items for the new study on Africa. There were maps, and clippings from various magazines and newspapers.

Mrs. W. C. Cox contributed a vocal selection with Mrs. Mac Sharp as accompanist. Those assisting with the presentation were Mrs. Vernon Harry, Mrs. Herbert Smith, Mrs. Douglas Fyear, Mrs. Donald Johnson, Mrs. Raymond McConnell, Mrs. Eldon Chapman and Mrs. Harry McAdam.

Pink was never the color of "my true love's hair". There are no eyes of that shade, unless afflicted. But when it comes to salmon and wine—pink seems to be preferred.

There is a certain gaiety, fun and laughter associated with pink wine... and that's a happy association.

Speech Stirs Quick Debate

OTTAWA (CP) — After Thursday's throne speech, which took a glowing glance over the entire Canadian spectrum and promised much more, the four party leaders today will set the stage for what is expected to be a stormy pre-election session of Parliament.

Few Canadians were left untouched by the praise and promises of the policy-setting throne speech, written for the Governor-General by the government.

But the speech, predictably, didn't impress opposition party leaders.

Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield, saying it was full of generalities, also added that it attempted to wipe out the government's past.

And "even I was surprised by the degree of self-satisfaction."

New Democrat Leader David Lewis said the speech contained the "hollowness and banalities of people who merely want to hang on to power."

The throne speech, said Social Credit Leader Real Caouette, was a repetition of what governments have been saying for a quarter-century.

Mr. Stanfield told reporters that "we are going to have to be aggressive," as he stuck by earlier predictions that an election would be held in June.

And just a few minutes after the MPs returned from the Senate chamber where the speech was read, the arguments were already flaring.

With support from other opposition spokesman, Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) proposed that tradition be changed and an oral question period be held before the House debates the speech.

Self-rule Limited

VICTORIA (CP) — The British Columbia government believes that all provinces should have "every right to govern themselves in any way they see fit, provided they do it with their own money," Conservation Minister Ken Kiernan said Thursday.

"In justice to the taxpayer of the province, we have the right to question how tax money raised in B.C. is being spent when handed over to other provinces," the minister told the B.C. legislature.

He said many of the "have-not" provinces are too extravagant. When B.C. sends a delegation to an Ottawa conference, only two or three representatives are sent, but when other provinces "you would think brought their whole government and probably their families."

Foreign Control Problem Exaggerated Says Crispo

TORONTO (CP) — The problem of foreign control of Canada's economy has been greatly exaggerated, Prof. John Crispo has told the Ontario legislature's select committee on economic nationalism.

The industrial-relations specialist said Thursday the committee should question some assumptions about the economy: that control by American-owned corporations is worse for Canada than control by Canadian-owned firms; that Canada is losing tax revenue to parent companies; that multi-national corporations short-change Canada in domestic processing, research and management.

The committee would need to exercise its power to subpoena documents from companies such as transfer prices before it can come up with long-term answers.

"Unless disclosure degenerates into a burdensome form of harassment or provides undue and unfair advantage to competitors, it is a price corporations will have to pay to clear the air of what I take to be unfair and unfounded accusations."

Prof. Crispo is acting director of the University of Toronto's school of business and director of the Centre for Industrial Relations.

Hughes Visiting Nicaragua

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Howard Hughes was presumably holed up today on the tightly-guarded eighth floor of Managua's Intercontinental Hotel, and a spokesman in the United States said he would remain in the Central American country indefinitely.

Both President Anastasio Somoza's office and Hughes spokesmen in the United States confirmed that the eccentric billionaire flew to Managua Thursday after 15 months living in seclusion in a hotel in Nassau. He came on business, the government said.

In Las Vegas, a spokesman for the Hughes Tool Co. said Hughes's stay in Nicaragua is indefinite. He added that Hughes is considering investments in the country and "considers the economic and political situation good."

Hughes left Nassau after a dispute with Bahamian officials over work permits for the staff that insulates him from physical contact with the outside world.

Bennett Expects Support

VICTORIA (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett said Thursday he is confident the people of British Columbia will support the provincial government's position on equalization payments once they understand the issue.

Mr. Bennett was commenting in an interview for the first time on his Social Credit government's decision, announced Monday by Attorney-General Leslie Peterson, to challenge in court the constitutional validity of the payments.

The premier said that what is at issue is the fact that B.C., with high wages and healthy revenue from natural resources, is forced to subsidize Quebec which does not use its resources properly and pays its workers poor wages.

"That's what I say is unfair, unjust and un-Canadian."

Ontario Wants Share of Funds

SARNIA (CP) — Ontario will want a "proportionate" share of federal funds that might become available for legal aid plans, Provincial Justice Secretary Allan Lawrence said Thursday.

Mr. Lawrence said Ontario's position is that it should not be penalized because it had the foresight to institute a legal aid plan long before the federal government announced it was prepared to participate.

The federal commitment was announced in Thursday's throne speech.

Ottawa Revealed as Ontario WHA Entry, Approached Keon

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Nationals officially joined the World Hockey Association Thursday night.

Franchise owner Doug Michel made the announcement at a news conference, saying: "The orphans have finally found a home."

Michel, a Toronto businessman, had originally planned to base the team in Hamilton but plans for building a new arena there did not materialize.

The 36-year-old Michel did not name either a general manager or coach of the team but was flanked by his associate Bill Page and Buck Houle, former general manager of Hockey

"I don't know anything right now," he said when pressed to comment on Houle's chances. "Buck's a good friend of mine, that's why he's here."

Although the contract for leasing the 9,300-seat Civic Centre was not expected to be signed until March when Michel would be required to post a $250,000 performance bond, he said he had just agreed to a three-year lease with the Central Canada Exhibition Association, owners of the downtown arena.

He said it would take 8,500 fans each night for the club to break even, adding that he expected to sell 5,000 season tickets at an average of $4 before the first faceoff in October.

He would not discuss players, except in generalities, with one exception.

Earlier, Thursday he said he had discussed Dave Keon, captain of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National League, and told the news conference: "I'm sure he's interested." He would not speculate, beyond Keon, on who the players were.

Norway Comes From Blue

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — A relative unknown took a step up Thursday while two leading skiers slackened their grip on the top ranks in World Cup men's competition at Mount Norquay.

The up-and-coming unknown was Erik Haaker of Norway, who posted a time of one minute, 24.58 seconds in the first of two runs in the men's giant slalom. The second run was to be held this afternoon.

Henri Duvillard of France and Gustave Thoeni of Italy, however, emerged from the opening round a bit tarnished. Duvillard, the series leader after 13 of the 20 meets, finished 18th while Thoeni, the giant slalom gold medallist at the recent Winter Olympics, was 28th.

The main problem was soft, sticky snow which fell overnight. Thursday's opening bursts of feverish activity to get the 41-gate course in shape for the races, it was as badly chopped-up by the first 15 of the 98 starters that the race committee almost cancelled the event.

The top Canadian was Alain Cousineau of Brossard, Que., in 29th place with 1:28.7.

All top finishers were in the first group of 15 starters that had a comparatively stable surface to deal with.

Today was expected to be different, when the second order, in accordance with International Ski Federation regulations, must be reversed. The top 16, therefore, would be among the last starters, so would have to work harder to retain their position in the race for World Cup honors.

Today also was to be ladies' day with both runs of the women's slalom scheduled for the morning. The first course was to be 56 gates, the second 52, and there were 43 skiers in the starting lineup.

This time, the luck of the draw saw two Americans, two French and one Canadian get the first five positions, the most favorable in a race over soft snow. Patty Boydston and Barbara Ann Cochrane, both of the U.S., were first and second respectively, while third was taken by Britt Lafforgue of France.

Judy Crawford of Toronto was fourth in the lineup for the first slalom and Michele Jacot of France fifth.

Ley Blames Bosses

TORONTO (CP) — Defenceman Rick Ley of Toronto Maple Leafs says management of the National Hockey League team is to blame for the club's recent troubles.

"You have got to start laying the blame on the management," he said in hospital here where he is recovering from an ulcer attack. He did not mention any names.

"One of our troubles is that some of the guys are trying too hard, some aren't trying enough. I know when I go out on the ice I'm going to make mistakes, but I know I've got to go all out on every shift and if I make mistakes . . . well, that's how you learn."

Toronto has lost 12 of its last 16 games and is tied for the fourth and final playoff position in the league's East Division with Detroit Red Wings, who have two games in hand.

Ley said he has been offered a contract by the New York club of the World Hockey Association. He has a lawyer in Boston representing him and says he is willing to listen.

Surprise Leader

Erik Haaker of Norway, with a time of one minute 24.58 seconds, took first place in the first of two runs in the men's giant slalom at Mount Norquay in Banff Thursday. The second run is to be held Friday. The first run was the first event of the 14th World Cup skiing series meet, which ends Saturday. (CP Wirephoto)

Filion Busy

HAMBURG, N.Y. (CP)— Herve Filion will drive in all 18 races at Hamburg Raceway Saturday in an effort to better his own mark of seven victories in a single program.

The 32-year-old driver from Angers, Que., was tested as morning line favorite in nine races and co-favorite in the 10th as he sought to improve on his seven - victory performance at Windsor Raceway two months ago.

Originally, Filion planned to enter all 20 races of the afternoon - evening marathon-derby, which marks the end of Buffalo's winter meeting. But a commitment to drive Isle of Wight in a $1,500 pace at Roosevelt Raceway Saturday night made him plan a flight to New York immediately after the afternoon card ends.

Esposito's Hat Trick Puts Him on 50 Brink

Toronto Maple Leafs haven't done much lately to ensure themselves a National Hockey League playoff berth but there's growing evidence they have contributed to the post-season hopes of Pittsburgh Penguins.

Less than two weeks ago the Penguins held last place in the West Division with a record of 13 wins in 51 games. Thursday night they beat Buffalo Sabres 2-0 for the fifth win in their last six games.

It was the Leafs who allowed the Penguins to start their rally with a 4-1 victory at Toronto Feb. 9 and helped keep it going Wednesday by allowing another Penguins victory by a score of 4-2 in Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh's victory Thursday moved them into a tie with Philadelphia Flyers in the West Division, each with 45 points. They are three points behind St. Louis Blues and California Golden Seals who are tied for third.

The Flyers dropped a 4-1 decision Thursday to Boston Bruins who were led by Phil Esposito's three goals. In one other game, New York Rangers defeated Los Angeles Kings 4-3.

The Leafs, with three wins in their last 16 games, were not in action Thursday and remain tied with Detroit Red Wings for fourth spot in the East.

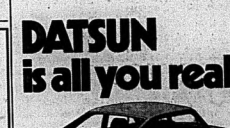
It was the first time Pittsburgh has beaten the Sabres in their 10 meetings since Buffalo joined the league last season. The Sabres had won three and the other six games ended in ties.

Bobby Orr's goal late in the first period brought the Bruins back from a 1-0 deficit and Esposito provided the victory with his 47th, 48th and 49th goals of the season. His 49th was scored into an empty net with Philadelphia goalie Doug Favell out in favor of an extra attacker.

At Los Angeles, centre Jean Ratelle scored once and earned two assists to break one Ranger record and tie another. His 57th assist broke Andy Bathgate's 1961-62 season record for most assists by a Ranger and his 46th goal tied Bathgate's 1958-59 record.



Ratelle's three points for the night gave him 97 for the season, two behind league-leader Esposito.

Bobcats Bolster Playoff Roster With Meagher

Despite the fact that his team recorded a 5-2 win over Oshawa in their Eastern Ontario Junior B playoff opener, Belleville Bobcat coach also received another shot in the legs with the acquisition of Rick Meagher from the Western Ties juveniles for tonight's game.

The speedy centre counted 28 goals for the Belleville all-stars during the regular season, as well as being chosen MVP of the Belleville Yard-men Juvenile Tournament 2 weeks ago.

"We hope to use him all over, maybe with a couple of different combinations and for penalty killing as well," grinned Hunter. The Bobcat coach indicated that Meagher would be the only addition from Western Ties, eliminated from OMHA play by Trenton, dressed for tonight's game.

He noted that any future additions "pretty well depend upon whether or not Jim Cain is available." He certainly don't want to go into Oshawa without a full crew.

Cain, a rugged defenceman has managed to commute between the Bobcats' weekend games. He will not be available for this tonight's contest however, and his spot alongside team captain Bob Hirshfield will be taken by Tim Yohn. The hard-working right winger has already served several stints on the Belleville blue line this season.

Left wing Dave Horwood will be playing despite a knee injury which prevented him from starting the playoff opener, although he did take several shifts later in the game. Although often overlooked he provides steady checking balance for high scoring linemates Brian Coombes and Dave Smith.

Game time tonight will be 9 p.m., at the Belleville Memorial Arena.

Jesse's Slate Clean

TRENTON (Staff) — Earl Jesse's attempt for his third straight provincial Royal Canadian Legion curling title could prove to be the toughest of the entire trio.

Presently on a major stumbling block to the Trenton Branch 110 forces is the London rink skipped by Russ Miller. Both foursome's are undefeated as they head into the fifth round of the championship's hospitel.

Trenton holds a slight edge on the basis of their 4-0 record while Miller's Branch 317 team is 3-0, having received a bye yesterday.

The two unbeaten rinks were slated to meet this morning in the curtain raiser of fifth round play.

Thursday Jesse's defending champions defeated Sutton 7-4, North Bay 10-3 and Kapuskasing 7-5. Their only blot in the unmasking proved to be the most exciting of the round, with some fine play by the Trenton skip pulling his rink back from a 4-1 deficit to Lyle Wilder's Branch 85 challengers.

London managed to edge the same Kapuskasing rink 7-6 while Hamilton's back Burlington team 9-7 in their second Thursday match.

Following the fourth round of play East Toronto holds a third place on the basis of their 5-1 record while Sutton and Renfrew are deadlocked in fourth with 5-2 records. Guelph (1-2), North Bay (1-2), Kapuskasing (1-2) and Burlington (0-4) round out the field of entries.

Matched in the fifth round this morning were London-Trenton, Burlington - East Toronto, Guelph - Sutton, North Bay - Kapuskasing and Renfrew bye.

In the afternoon round it was London - Guelph, East Toronto-North Bay, Sutton-Kapuskasing, Trenton - Renfrew and Burlington.

Belleville snowmobile racer Bill Ireland has managed to parlay a little luck and more than a little skill into a successful racing season this winter. The Polaris rider has managed a win at the Canadian National Exhibition races and a fifth place Kawartha Cup finish among his accomplishments on the Ontario Snowmobile Racing Federation circuit this winter. Ireland will be attempting to add to his laurels in the Kiwanis Wintersma races at the Brighton Speedway Sunday.

Ireland Seeking Split

The split that Ireland will be most concerned with this Sunday won't have anything to do with his religious differences, at least not the one that Bill Ireland will be worrying about.

The former speedboat racer has been making his presence felt on the Ontario Snowmobile Federation Racing circuit this winter. His best showing came at the Canadian National Exhibition races in January where he took first place in the D Modified class against some of the top riders in the province.

Among his other accomplishments have been a fourth-(out of 34) place finish at Bradford and a fifth (out of 66) in his class at the Kawartha Cup races in Peterborough. He also recorded wins in recent races at Belleville and the Picton Winter Carnival.

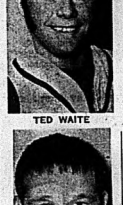
Ireland says his 650 cc Polaris is capable of speeds in excess of 100 mph but expects to "only" reach about 85 mph on the straightaways of the one-third mile oval at Brighton Speedway Sunday at 1 p.m.

Waite Not Enough!

Stinson Construction were not carrying enough weight to stop Central Tech from recording a Quinte Hockey League win last night, but Reid were carrying enough Waite to boast the league scoring champion.

Centre Ted Waite counted two goals and three assists in Stinsons 10-5 loss to Central. His 54 scoring points gave him a nine-point bulge over runner-up Gene Francis.

Linemate Ri c h Rosebush who was picked as the league's Most Valuable Player helped justify the selection by scoring three goals and assisting on another pair.



Central got two goals and three assists from forward Kevin Allen, who was chosen as the most improved player in the league. Dwight Rathwell, Andy Prudden and Tom Pierce each added a pair of markers for the Tanmen, who had already clinched second place before last night's final game. Ed Christopher and Tom MacDonald rounded out the scoring.

In the other game, Belvedere Hotelmen didn't let the absence of Best Goaltending Award winner Claude Carr affect them as they burned in a 4-1 victory over last - place Reid's Dairy entry.

The lone Reid's goal went to Ron Pointer.

Quinte league semi - finals start next Thursday with Belvedere meeting Stinson's at 8.15 p.m. and Central taking on Reid's at 9.45 p.m.

Quintes Must Match Rare Oakville Feat

One of the highlights of the Belleville Quintes' injury and financially - plagued season was a 6-3 Dec. 3 win in Oakville.

It marked the first time in the 8 years senior hockey has been revived in Belleville that a city entry had won a game in the hostile confines of the Oakville Arena.

Since then, the Quintes have kept a perfect record against the Oaks, beating them 6-4 and 7-3 in Belleville.

But, unless they can match their Dec. 3 effort tonight, the Quintes would only have the proverbial snowball's chance of catching one of the OHA Senior A league's six playoff berths.

Going into the final weekend of the 40-game senior schedule, Owen Sound Crescents, out of last year's playoff picture, hold the upper hand of the four teams scrambling for the last two playoff berths.

The Crescents have 29 points, courtesy two defaulted points from Oakville Oaks who didn't show up for a scheduled Tuesday game in Owen Sound. OHA Secretary - manager Bill Hanley today confirmed the forfeit.

The Crescents have only one game remaining, a Sunday home tilt with Woodstock, currently tied with Belleville in sixth spot with 28 points.

The Royals, last year's cellar - dwellers with only three wins all year, have the toughest schedule of the four teams in the playoff hunt, playing in Owen Sound tonight, in Galt Saturday, and at home to Oakville Sunday.

According to the latest league scoring statistics, Oakville and Belleville are in similar positions with regard to individual standouts. The Oaks' Jim 'Obie' O'Brien (25 goals, 29 assists) and the Quintes' Al Ferguson (35 goals, 18 assists) are the only players on either team in the league's top 20 point-producers.

AL FERGUSON

But the Quintes are looking for big efforts from someone like goalkeeper Steve Rexe, or winger Lorne O'Donnell, who came up with four goals in last Saturday's 7-5 win over Woodstock, to keep their playoff hopes alive.

Laver Tougher Inside

TORONTO (CP) — The next time Roger Taylor faces Rod Laver across a tennis net, you can bet Taylor will be hoping it will be outdoors.

"He's a much better player indoors than outdoors," Tay'or said after Laver had eliminated him 6-4, 6-2 in a quarter-final match in the $50,000 Toronto International tournament Thursday night.

"You need a little wind to blow him around a bit," added the Briton, who beat the classy Australian here six months ago in the Canadian Open by frustrating him with high lobs into a cross-wind.

But Thursday night's match was indoors and the top-seeded Laver boomed his first serve in with regularity and clipped the sidelines with winners on his ground strokes.

Laver's win set up a semi-final Saturday with Tom Okker of the Netherlands, who ousted ninth-seeded Roy Emerson of Australia 7-6, 6-4.

Emerson's game seemed to go to pieces after he took an early lead on a service break in the first set. Okker kept the pressure on and tied the match at 6-6, then watched Emerson double-fault twice in the best-of-12 points tiebreaker.

The other semi-finalists will be decided tonight when unseeded Fred Stolle of Australia plays 10th-seeded Charlie Pasarell of Puerto Rico and second-seeded Ken Rosewall of Australia meets seventh-seeded Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill.

Play starts at 5 p.m. EST. The singles and doubles finals will be played Sunday with the singles finals televised live by the National Broadcasting Co. of the United States, starting at 3:30 p.m. EST.

The winner of the singles gets $10,000 and the loser $5,000. The winning doubles team splits $1,800 and the losers divide $900.

In quarter-final doubles play Thursday, the fifth-seeded duo of Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., and Bob Lutz of Tiburon, Calif., had to survive three match points before they eliminated the third-seeded combination of Stolle and Rosewall 5-7, 7-6, 6-3.

Gan Schoolboy Foursome Favored

WELLAND (CP) — The Gananoque secondary school rink skipped by Mark McDonald will be seeking its second straight Ontario schoolboy curling title when the championships open here Saturday.

McDonald's rink of Rick Fair, Bill Fletcher and Randy Neal is the foursome that represented Ontario in the Canadian championships last year, posting four wins and six losses.

Strongest opposition likely will be Bob MacGregor's rink from John Ross Collegiate of Guelph, recent winners of the all-Ontario junior boys' championship, and the Uxbridge secondary school rink skipped by Bryan Acton.

The event is a straight knock-out one involving eight rinks. The champion advances to the Canadian finals at Schumacher, Ont., March 13-17. The draw tor Saturday morning's opening round will be made at a banquet tonight at the Welland Curling Club.

Other rinks entered are : Loyalist collegiate of Kingston, skip Brian Snell; Midland secondary school, skip Russell Howard; Owen Sound collegiate, skip Lloyd Davenport; Chatham collegiate, skip Peter deGroot and A. D. Myer secondary school of Niagara Falls, skip Scott Kitching.

Brundage Begins New Crusade

Controversial president of the International Olympic Committee, Brundage, a Chicago millionaire, is dedicated to keeping the Olympics "pure, clean and honest," an ideal which sometimes leads him into brushes with top sports administrators and their stars.

Little seems to daunt this powerfully-built former champion athlete, not even his advancing years, as he continues his personal crusade to guard amateurism in sport.

He gained a partial success in the Winter Olympics which ended in Sapporo Sunday with the disqualification of Austrian ski star Karl Schranz.

The 33-year-old Austrian was excluded from the Games for alleged infringement of the rules of amateurism by being involved in advertising.

The IOC, and especially Brundage, who has been its president for the last 20 years, is worried about an influx of U.S. basketball players to European countries such as Spain, Italy, France and Belgium.

Spain and France each have about half a dozen Americans playing in national and European championships. Some are said to be applying for naturalization in the countries where they now play.

Brundage is anxious that the basketball tournament at the August Olympics in Munich does not become an American championship because of large numbers of Americans playing for European teams.

He is asking the International Basketball Federation what it is going to do about the problem.

AVERY BRUNDAGE

Golfer Gets Break

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Paul Moran, who has had nothing but problems on the pro golf tour, gets a break today in the second round of the $125,000 Phoenix open golf tournament —he will play on the same course again.

The 31-year-old Moran said Thursday after his five-under-par 66 gave him a share of the first-round lead.

"Then they switched me around on a different track, and maybe with different partners and I don't know what I'm doing and I missed the cut both times.

The format for the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am and the Bob Hope Desert Classic calls for the players to compete over three or four different courses for the first three or four days. Moran was among the first-round leaders in both of those, before failing to qualify for the final round.

Moran, who has never come close to winning a major event in his three years on the pro tour, won $10,971 last year and $14,969 the year before. He had to qualify Monday to get into this tournament.

He was tied for the lead with Jimmy Jamieson, also seeking his first tour title, and Dale Douglass, a 10-year tour veteran. Douglass won on the same, 6,641-yard, par 71 Phoenix Country Club course two years ago and missed the title in Tucson by one stroke last season.

One stroke back of the leading trio was a group of seven tied at 67. They were Gene Littler, Bob Goalby, Australian Bruce Devlin, Fred Marti, Chuck Courtney, Jerry Heard and Richard Karl.

Ben Kern of Toronto carded the best score among three Canadian entries. He shot a 36-35 —71. Gary Bowerman, also of Toronto, finished with 39-35—74 and Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver shot 35-39—74.

"I enjoyed playing with you, Frank, I'd hated to have won something of a poor loser!"

Knicks Rebound From Big Deficit

CHICAGO (AP) — If that old adage holds true — it's not whether you win or lose but how you play the game — the New York Knicks had the best of both ends of it Thursday night against Chicago.

The Knicks won, 102-99, and how they played the game was the whole story.

With some courtside gambling from coach Red Holtzman, the Knicks bounced back from a 20-point deficit to win the game with only 25 seconds showing on the clock in an overtime period.

"We were losing by more than 20 points early in the third quarter," said Holtzman, "and decided I had better start gambling or else it was all over."

Holtzman's gamble was a sacrifice height-for-a-speedy-defense. He pulled Bill Bradley from his forward position and substituted Dean Meminger, giving the Knicks three guards on the floor, including Walt Frazier and Earl Monroe.

"We had to gamble and play the Bulls tight," Holtzman added, "and not give them any good shots. We decided to take a lot of long shots and hope that Jerry DeBusschere and Jim Lucas would take care of the rebounds."

The gamble paid off. Meminger and Lucas combined to hand down 26 shots from the boards, half the home team total for the night, while holding the Bulls' offence to 11 points in the fourth quarter.

The Knicks have won the last five NBA contests that Holtzman said he doubts they can catch frost-running Boston Celtics before the season ends.

Crash Chokes Up Stock Racers

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — "Every time I race past that spot," said stock car driver Bobby Allison, "I'll remember it . . . that's where my pal Friday Hassler got it."

Allison began to choke.

"Friday and me began knocking around race tracks in 1958," he said. "Sure, our business is risky. Sometimes, folks get killed. But you never get used to it."

An eerie gloom shrouded the garage area at Daytona International Speedway as Thursday's sun faded. Pro drivers, men noted for their bravery, wept openly.

Hassler, a 36-year-old Tennessean with four sons, was smashed to death in one of Thursday's two 125-mile qualifying runs for Sunday's $417,000 Daytona 500 stock car race.

His wife, Joannie, was amid the horrified crowd of 40,000.

A blowout on the Dodge driven by David Boggs of Mooresville, N.C., triggered the deadly chain reaction that got Hassler, Boggs and Allison and a dozen more.

Allison, buzzed to victory in the afternoon's second 125-miler, but said, "I was thinking about ole Friday, especially when I raced past the spot where he was killed. I was winning, but I felt sick inside."

Blacula?-- Who Needs It?

The agent called back and explained. Crain now is filming Los Angeles locations which are being billed as "the first black vampire movie."

It had to happen. Producers have suddenly realized that the black 11% population is a lush market for films designed specifically for blacks. No company history is audible a trend like American International, the people who gave you beach party and cycle-gang epics.

Hardworking, 30-year-old Bill Crain views his first feature movie with mixed feelings. "The bright thing is that I got the assignment because I am black. I would much rather have gotten it because of my abilities, rather than the color of my skin.

"But now that I've got it, I'm going to do the best damned job I can."

Crain is typical of hopeful young film makers—black and white—who learn the frustrations of trying to break into the tightly structured movie establishment. Born in Columbus, Ohio, and reared in Los Angeles, Crain graduated in cinema from UCLA with high hopes of making his mark in Hollywood. No Jack Studios, unions and agencies gave him the polite brush.

As with many cinema students, Crain had to leave the country to gain experience. After some little-known work here, he went to Canada in 1963 and got jobs as actor and stagehand in theatre and television.

"In 1970, I decided to come back here because I heard the business was opening up for minorities," said Crain. "I crossed the town, but I couldn't find a job. I couldn't even get an agent."

The break came when he was asked to submit his ideas for Blacula, American International bestirgan Sam Arkoff agreed to give him a chance—"but then I think he scheduled the first eight days of cinema scenes to see if I could handle it." Crain fell behind schedule; then caught up.

William Marshall, as Blacula, enacts a 200-year-old African native who was infected with the vampire urge by the original Dracula, then preserved in a sealed tomb for release at this more convenient time.

Saudy's Blind Eye No Problem

Miss Duncan underwent a 10-hour operation Nov. 1 at the University of California Medical Center in Los Angeles to remove a benign tumor from behind her left eye. Because the surgery was through the top of her head there are no visible scars.

"Yes, it is," she said matter-of-factly Monday.

"They say, well nothing's impossible, but there's no medical proof or reason why it should return."

The optic nerve, she explains, was affected.

The one so young—Sandy's 26—was the loss a terrible blow? That reality, to be honest."

TV commercials helped bring her two movies, The Million-Dollar Duck and Star-Spangled Girl, and the weekly TV series she resumes filming in May or June. Thirteen segments were in before it was cut short in December by her illness.

The record, launched Wednesday by Prince Sadruddin Aga Khan, UN high commissioner for refugees, is to aid refugees all over the world.

It will be sold on every continent.

Set Readied for Next Play

Ted Bairstow, (left) director of the Pinnacle Playhouse talks here with Robert Clement, explaining what he wants as a finished product for the set. Work has been going on steadily for the past few days in final preparation for the next production of the Rainmaker.

Con Man Central Character In Pinnacle Production

"It will make you laugh and cry and sometimes cry for happy. It is that kind of a play," said Pinnacle Playhouse director, Ted Bairstow, talking about the next production, The Rainmaker.

Written by Richard Nash, the play is set in the American west where cows were men and women were looking for husbands.

As the curtain rises, the audience is introduced to the Curry home. It is a prosperous ranch, and shows its distinctly masculine character through the use of brick and wooden beams for the interior.

H. C. Curry, father of the family, played by Maurice Sykes, comes through as the guiding force.

Mr. Curry's sons Noah, "the sensible one" and Jimmy "the dumbo brother" round out the male end of the family, whose two major goals are to survive the drought and to get their sister Lizzie married off.

Lizzie, a little on the plain side and a little smarter than the average, is in her mid 20s. The rest of the family feels that it is at least a little strange that she has no male companionship.

Lizzie isn't completely void of male attention.

File, the sheriff's deputy, played by Rob Garrison, has been wooing Lizzie for some time but is too proud to profess his love for her.

She, in turn, is too shy to make any advances toward him for fear of being rejected.

With this established, the scene is set for the entrance of Starbuck in the title role of the Rainmaker.

Over the years he has called himself a hatfull of names but admits he is partial to the singular name of Starbuck.

"I want a name that is full of the sky with the strength of a man, starbuck," he says to Lizzie during the play.

Played by Clive Hitchon, he is a con man, unsurpassed.

Tales are recounted of him selling tornado rods to a town, saying they would ward off the winds. The town was later blown off the map.

He comes to town claiming that if the Curry family pays him $100, he will deliver 24 hours of rain.

Also being a new man in the place, he is exposed to Lizzie by the hard working brothers.

There is a happy ending to the play, with Lizzie, her family and her new husband all content.

The play opens Wednesday, Feb. 23 with seats selling for $1.25 — students and $2.25 for general admission.

Seats may be reserved by telephoning the playhouse at 967-1442.

The play will have a second run the following weekend.

Canada's Smoking Policy an Example

LONDON (CP) — Britain's doctors, playing a leading role in the country's anti-smoking campaign figure that Canada may provide the world with a model example of what determination can accomplish.

And yet Britain is dwelling among some of them that even the Canadian policy, which is being tried and closely, may not strike at the root of the problem — encourage future generations to turn their backs on cigarettes.

Dr. Charles Fletcher is well ahead of any other country, at least in government-proposed legislation," says Lord Rosenheim, president of the Royal College of Physicians, which established an anti-tobacco organization known as ASH, Action on Smoking and Health.

Rosenheim, who feels that British action is so far inadequate, was referring to the proposed complete Canadian ban on all cigarette advertising as contained in legislation introduced by the government at Ottawa.

This, he feels, would be a healthy step forward, far superior to the British government action which, in addition to the imposition of a health warning on all cigarette packets, requires that some anti-smoking commercials on television be shown. These commercials have been switched from TV to more hours.

Touching on the cigarette-box warning, Rosenheim said in an interview: "I doubt whether this is going to stop people smoking 20 cigarettes a day."

Dr. John Dunwoody, director-general of ASH, agrees though he is convinced that the warning campaign, while still inadequate, is gradually producing some results. Over-all cigarette consumption has declined slightly, he says.

The average British male smokes about 130 cigarettes a week — that is among those who haven't kicked the smoking habit — and what worries anti-smokers is the British tendency to burn the cigarette down to an extremely short length.

"The shorter the butt the more dangerous is the cigarette to health," Dunwoody says in referring to those who smoke.

"All this would be helpful," says Dunwoody, "but I feel that more must be done. We've got to get right down to the school child, with pictures and other means, to impress on the children the dangers of smoking."

ASH intends to send doctors into the schools for lectures Education Council, a branch of government, says it already sends some lecturers into the schools though it concedes that it is limited in the number it can do by lack of resources.

Rosenheim says the council gets about £200,000 from the government annually to campaign against smoking, while about £1.3 million is used to advertise road safety.

"Now, this is out of all proportion and something ought to be done," he says, indicating that more pressure will be brought on the government to increase anti-smoking funds.

The council indicates it is the lack of funds that has forced a halt in TV anti-smoking commercials.

Medical concern over smoking is probably more acute in this country than in many others particularly because of the high incidence of lung cancer. Nonetheless, nationwide the annual death toll of those between the ages of 35 and 64 is 27,500, far more than those killed in road accidents.

"There is no need to marshal all the evidence that to criminalize the cigarette is the major cause of most illness and mortality," he says.

A problem, he adds, is that the government collects about $1 billion a year through tobacco import duties. Finding alternative revenue would not be easy but if the time lost through death and illnesses because of disease brought on by smoking could be calculated, he was sure the loss would be offset by increased productivity.

U. S. Coal Mines' Future Uncertain

NEW YORK (AP) — American coal mines, pinched between higher wages and price increases too small to pay for them, still hope for better things by the middle of the decade.

But right now the pinch is on. Wages rose 15 per cent in a strike settlement approved by the government last week. But the price commission limited price rises to 9.5 per cent.

This left a gap to be absorbed by an industry already wrestling with major problems—increased costs to meet new demands for mine safety, lower production and a shortage of both mines and miners.

To meet these problems, new mines are being brought into production, and the coal companies are actively recruiting young men into the business. The industry's economists see a growing demand for their product.

"But the big problem now is recovering the (labor) contract cost," said an industry spokesman. "We are confident in coal's future if we can break even on finances."

If the break-even is not possible, said Carl E. Bagge, president of the National Coal Association, the pinch will "close some coal mines now operating and destroy the incentive to open new mines which the nation requires to meet its growing needs for energy."

If mines are closed, the present shortage of coal would become worse, and a different situation might become critical. There is also a shortage of natural gas, some alternate for coal, and oil costs are rising.

Many in the industry do not object to the higher pay. The operators pointed out the wage board agreed—that higher salaries are necessary to attract young men into the industry. Coal mines traditionally have recruited from the families of aging miners but fewer sons followed their fathers into the pits. The result was a steady decrease in the number of miners.

Labor rolls have fallen nearly 75 per cent in the last two decades. In the bituminous industry, there were 425,000 miners in 1948, when mine mechanization began in earnest. The number now is only just over 100,000, and many of these are reaching retirement age.

There has been a slight increase in the last year, to hope 10,000 to 15,000 men—as a result of a stepped-up recruiting campaign.

The $1.5-billion cost of the new labor contract is on top of an extra expense of $1 billion to meet new federal mine safety standards. Many small mines are having trouble finding the money for the safety provisions enacted by Congress last year.

Only 5.5 per cent of the permitted increases is for wages. The rest is for fringe payments into the miners' pension fund. This is the spectators hard because it does not contribute much to making the jobs attractive now to young miners.

The pension fund was formed by a contribution of 40 cents per ton of coal mined, paid by the mining companies. The companies, after a strike, agreed to increased payments to 60 cents a ton for one year, then to 80 cents.

"This means that the pay men get nicer into the fund will be $8,300 per day," an industry spokesman said.

"That assumes a mine taking out 35 tons of coal per day and working 225 days per year, which are the industry averages.

"Forty per cent of the cost of mining a ton of coal is labor.

The troubles of the industry go back 30 years, to a time when atomic energy was expected to take over nearly all of the country's power needs. With atomic power plants apparently the coming thing, the mines were allowed to run down and some were eliminated as coal seams were exhausted. There was no incentive to dig mines to supply coal which, it appeared, would not be needed.

For the same reason, no efforts were made to attract young men into what appeared to be a declining industry. However, the unions and management now have started a joint recruiting and training program for young men.

But atomic power—because of technological problems questions of first cost of plants and later ecological objections—was slow to take the place of coal. The industry found that demand did not drop as expected.

Even more tribulations have gripped the industry last year. There was a national strike and export sales fell because of the government intervention overseas. Foreign steel mills which use American coal reduced their orders when they cut steel production.

This was matched by a fall in productivity. West Virginia officials, without assigning the blame, reported that daily productivity per man in the first five months of this year fell from 16.3 tons to 13.7 tons in underground mines, compared with 1970 figures. For strip mining, the decrease was from 34.6 tons per day per man at the start of 1970 to 33.6 tons in 1971. This average for the state is below the industry's countrywide average.

Aside from all the problems, the operators seem fairly optimistic about the future of the industry.

One cheerful note for the industry is the discovery of a new gasification process for converting coal into gas. This would substitute for the natural gas that is so scarce that some industrial users face a cutoff. Seven experimental plants are in operation and more will be built if serious bugs do not appear.

Operators are building better housing at the mines to attract young miners. Gone are the days of the company-owned, identical homes built on muddy streets. Houses offered miners now are varied, landscape , roomy and cheap.

Trawler's Equipment Broken

HALIFAX (CP) — The main navigation aids on the trawler Gulf Gull were out of order when she ran ashore Tuesday with the loss of six lives, Captain John Dominix, skipper of the 96-foot vessel, said today.

Radar and Loran systems were inoperative, he said, but depth-sounding equipment was.

Interviewed at his home here, he said the fact that the shore-based Decca navigation system in southeast Cape Breton was out of service at the same time had no bearing on the ground-ing.

"We knew it was not working," he said.

Hearing Aids Worth Price

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Are hearing aids really worth the money? I am a man 65 years old with a nerve problem in my ears. Not too bad at present but I do have trouble catching certain words and therefore must keep quiet a good part of the time. This can be frustrating.

I have been examined by a doctor and by a hearing aid representative. They both agree on my condition, but of course the doctor does not mention hearing aids. He says nothing can be done and I have to live with it.

The representative says a hearing aid will help. Whom am I to believe? Is a hearing aid worth the money. It is not, by the way, cheap.—H.A.L.

True, a good hearing aid isn't cheap, but there are enough of them in use to provide pretty good evidence that a great many people find them worth the cost.

There are varied causes of loss of hearing and nerve deterioration is only one of them. At the present state of our knowledge, there is no way to bring back the sensitivity of an auditory nerve, so in that sense your doctor is right in saying that nothing can be done.

I am puzzled that he didn't suggest a hearing aid. Are you sure he didn't mention it but you didn't catch the words? Certainly doctors have no objection to the use of such aids.

The hearing aid essentially is an amplifier. It makes the sound louder so your impaired nerves can hear it better. In addition, nerve deafness quite commonly affects some tones more than others, and the hearing aid is designed, if possible, to favor the tones you have difficulty distinguishing.

Best solution I can offer for your dilemma is this. Some hearing-aid firms can set up an arrangement so you can get one for yourself whether the complication helps you as much as you anticipate. Try this before you make up your m'nd.

Remember also it takes a little practice before you start used to an aid and get maximum benefit from it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have two daughters, 16 and almost 17. The younger girl had a rubella (German measles) shot last year at school. Should the older girl also have such a shot before she gets married and becomes pregnant?—P.B.

Yes, it's wise for the older girl to have the shot, unless you are already certain that she has had German measles. A blood test can determine that.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I smoke cigarettes and have a heart murmur. Do you think they would be harmful?—D.L.

There's so much evidence by now that cigarettes cause damage of many sorts, you shouldn't have to ask about it—damage to the lungs, heart, blood vessels.

It isn't so easy to answer concerning heart murmurs, because some indicate damage and others don't amount to much of anything. You'll have to discuss that with your doctor, since I don't know what kind of murmur you are talking about. In young folks, innocent murmurs are quite common.

Diefenbaker Heads Human Rights Group

WINNIPEG (CP) — Former Prime Minister John Diefenbaker was named founder and chairman of the International Human Rights Defence Committee Thursday and immediately pledged to "put the spotlight of truth on the Soviet Union."

The committee will study cases of political arrest and review evidence heard by Soviet courts in the Ukraine and other Soviet satellite countries.

Mr. Diefenbaker, in accepting the position, said: "public opinion has a dominating effect on the U.S.S.R."

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Aries (March 21-April 19): Your good humor may attract a stroke of luck beyond the expected. Exploring unfamiliar neighborhoods, comparing experiences with people from afar brings better information, larger questions.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Cheerfully getting all your chores done early sets the stage for a change of pace and scene later in the day.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Some last reserve thins out and you can make an alliance when before there was no more than a friendship.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): A more likely day for sociable activity would be hard to pick. Make the rounds, gather news and invitations, give some yourself.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Now you are on the upswing from the deepest ebb of your yearly cycle, and you can celebrate with an easy-going day. Older people are more help than younger.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Like as not you are going to draw attention to yourself, so you may as well do it well. Show your work, demonstrate your skills, enter good-natured competition.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You can coax mate, associates, business contacts to meet you half way, both in time, distance, and agreement. But you must take the initiative in nearly everything. Bestir yourself!

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A lively day like this has to be used to the fullest—display your finest manners, and keep moving.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Abandon the idea of a timetable with exact periods devoted to specific activities. It's a free, swinging day in which whatever you do should be done with emphasis or not at all.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Put off heavy chores, fix th yourself deals for more favorable conditions. Too many people show a provocative range of interests and schemes for any routine program.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Get beyond personalities, strive not to be so determined to turn things around for the sake of turning them.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Every moment you can spend getting around, comparing notes, catching up with news and views, is to the good. New friendships offer mutual attraction, mysteries to explore.

SHE GOT LAST WORD

ACTON, Ont. (CP) — An Acton mother got the last word in an exchange with her son who returned after fireman had doused a kitchen blaze. He sniffed the air and asked: "What are you burning for supper tonight, mother?" She snapped: "The kitchen, son, the kitchen."

Navigation Beacon Out When Vessel Grounded

HALIFAX (CP) — A radio navigation system along the south-eastern shore of Cape Breton Island was out of service when a fishing trawler grounded Tuesday with the loss of six lives, a transport department spokesman said Thursday night.

Frank Weston, regional director of marine services for the department, said, however, that "it is only an assumption that the breakdown had anything to do with the wreck."

Mr. Weston said he had been told by department officials that the system in the area was out of service because of the 10-day dock strike by electronic technicians, but there were certainly no lives out in the area marked by the navigation beacon.

The fishing trawler Gulf Gull grounded in Baleine Bay early Tuesday morning. Only three of her nine-man crew have been recovered. The other six are missing and police said there was little hope they would be found alive.

A spokesman for the air-sea rescue centre in Halifax said the search was next before the grounding, involving maritime, Mounties and radio beacon stations for that section of coast were investigating.

He said the stations in Lunenburg, Cape Breton and the Magdalen Islands were sending signals, but they were not accurate. He said the notice was still in effect.

Captain John Dennison, master of the trawler, could not be available for comment.

Contract Bridge

By B. Jay Becker

(Top Record-Holder in Masters' Individual Championship Play)

You are the dealer, neither side vulnerable, and have opened One Spade. Partner responds Two Spades. What would you bid now with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠ 7 ♥ 9 6 4 ♦ A K 8 3 2 ♣ K 10 9 5 3
2. ♠ A J 10 9 ♥ A 10 8 ♦ A 10 6 ♣ 10 8 4 3
3. ♠ K Q 10 9 ♥ A Q J 10 9 ♦ 4 ♣ A K 7 5
4. ♠ A K 10 6 ♥ 8 ♦ K Q J 7 5 ♣ K Q 7 6 3
5. ♠ K Q 7 6 3 ♥ — ♦ A K Q J 9 ♣ A 6 4

1. Four spades. You don't need much from partner to come home with ten tricks, and you should therefore zoom into game even though you opened with only 12 high-card points. The fact is that when you bid an aaemic seven-card suit and partner raises directly, your high-card point count becomes extremely unreliable guide to the real value of your hand. After all, it's tricks that make contracts, not points — and seven-card suits have a habit of producing lots of tricks. You would surely want to be in game if partner had any one of these perfectly normal hands:

♠ A K Q 8 ♥ Q 8 5 ♦ 9 8 3 ♣ A Q 7 2
♠ K 10 7 5 ♥ A 9 6 4 ♦ 7 6 5 ♣ 8 5 3
♠ A 10 8 ♥ 9 8 6 5 ♦ 9 8 3 ♣ Q 6 4
♠ K 10 7 5 ♥ 8 7 6 5 ♦ 9 8 3 ♣ 8 5 3

2. Three hearts. Game. You can't afford to stay out of game, but partner should be given the chance to choose between game in spades or notrump. A notrump would not be forcing.

3. Four notrump. How many tricks can be made depends largely on how many aces partner has — and it is therefore best to use Blackwood at this point. If partner responds five clubs, showing no aces, you bid five spades. If he responds five diamonds, showing one ace, you jump to six spades. If he unexpectedly responds five hearts, also jump to six spades, for seven would be a shade too risky.

5. Five notrump. This is the grand slam force convention. It has nothing whatever to do with Blackwood. Partner is required to respond to seven spades if, and only if, he has two of the three top honors. With only one of them, or neither of them, he signs off in the six level and six spades becomes the final contract.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Prices on the Toronto stock market shifted lower as most sectors recorded losses in active mid-morning trading today.

The industrial index dropped 11 to 208.01, golds 1.46 to 174.66 and western oils .38 to 213.18. Base metals registered the only advance, climbing .22 to 86.87.

Volume by 11 a.m. was 995,000 shares, up from the 695,000 shares traded at the same time Thursday.

Advances held a slim margin over declines, 131 to 105, with 199 issues unchanged.

Trust and loans, oil refining, beverages and industrial mining stocks posted moderate losses as eight of the industrial index 12 sub-groups moved lower.

Steel, paper and forest and communications issues moved moderately higher.

Noranda was down ½ to 33¾, Molson A ⅛ to 23¼, Crush International ¼ to 20¾, Cominco ¾ to 23½ and Texas Gulf Sulphur ⅜ to 118¼.

Dynasty, lost five cents to $7.40, Candle five cents to $1.35, Grandoc five cents to $4.55 and Normac ⅛ to $34.

Among advances, Inlai Canada rose ¾ to $13, Canadian Utilities ⅝ to $40¾, Sherritt ¼ to $14¾, Western Mines 15 cents to 12.65 and Page Petr five cents to $2.20.

Housing Plans Get Top Billing

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal plans for new initiatives in housing and urban renewal received top billing Thursday from government officials interpreting the throne speech.

The housing act amendments would open up a new approach to urban redevelopment based on community participation as well as massive new expenditures to help lower-income Canadians buy their own homes.

The mortgage-market initiatives, expected to be introduced in a series of legislation, would involve establishment of at least three schemes which have been under consideration by the ministry:

—A national mortgage bank, or mortgage exchange, where mortgages would be bought and sold. Such an exchange would be expected to attract small and medium-sized investors to mortgages, because they would become readily marketable like stocks and bonds.

—Tax concessions for trust companies or related institutions set up specifically to invest in mortgages and real estate, with the provision that a percentage—probably half—of their funds be invested in rental housing.

—Variable interest rates on mortgages that would fluctuate annually in relation to rates outside the mortgage market. That is designed to assure mortgage investors that they wouldn't be locked into a low-interest, long-term investment when interest rates elsewhere were rising.

Tough Miners Smash Heath's Wage Curbs

Trip's Gains To Be Scant

HONOLULU (AP) — President Nixon, boning up on China as he prepared to take off today on the second leg of his journey, cautioned again that no quick solutions to U.S.-China problems may be expected.

Presidential press secretary Ronald Ziegler said Friday that next week's meetings with China's leaders will be "only a start of the process of communications."

He said that although the trip to China itself was significant, the results may be reflected in years to come.

The presidential party was due in Guam today.

Ziegler said diplomatic relations between the U.S. and China are not to be expected after this short trip. The point has to be made, he told reporters, that there are wide differences between the U.S. and China. "They cannot be swept away after one week of talks," he said. "But they can begin the process."

He said the president had in mind establishing "an on-going communications belt," a phrase used in briefing conferences before leaving Washington. Ziegler would not say what form this might take.

Coal Is Rushed To Generators

LONDON (CP) — Britain launched a huge emergency operation today to rush coal to picket-free power stations in the wake of a coal strike settlement that will likely stoke the fires of inflation.

But despite every effort to move coal by rail, truck and ship, power plants report they cannot overcome a deepening shortage that will lead to even bigger power cuts next week in candle-lit Britain.

Jubilant coal miners, demonstrating a form of militancy unprecedented in recent years, got almost every penny they demanded in their wage claim. Union leaders urged the 280,000 miners to accept the agreement.

In addition to a wage settlement recommendation by a three-man court-largely in the union's favor—workers will get more holidays and higher overtime pay.

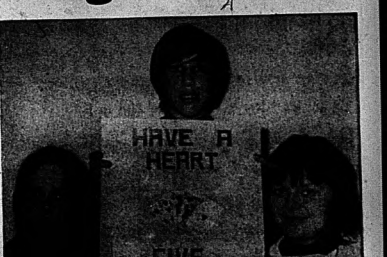
The inquiry commission, under Lord Wilberforce, maintained that public treasury money had to be used to pay the coal miners because they were a special case. But hundreds of thousands of other workers, waiting in the wage-claim line, plan to use the miners' example as a basis for their own demands.

Most national newspapers hailed the coal wage settlement —still subject to a national union ballot—as good sense out many agreed it made a shambles of Premier Edward Heath's determination to keep national wage increases to an annual average of about eight per cent. The coal settlement amounts to about 22 per cent over 16 months.

It also makes a shambles of his union-taming laws designed to discipline militants who use illegal strike action to strangle the national economy and gain demands through use of force.

"It may be," says The Daily Mail, "that the miners have smashed beyond repair the government's own version of an incomes policy with its heavy emphasis of holding down price and wage rises in the public sector."

What may be beyond recovery for Heath's attempt to gain government dominance over price and wage increases. A number of commentators conclude that Heath took on the coal miners and was thoroughly beaten.



In an exercise in brinkmanship, the union chiefs demanded a further £2.60 on top of the highly unofficial record recommended by the Wilberforce tribunal.

At a midnight meeting at 10 Downing Street, the prime minister told them bluntly that his government had gone to the limit. He said the National Coal Board could not pay a penny more.

Still more union negotiators persisted, and it paid off. They dropped their demand for the extra £2.60 but won in return a series of other benefits that will add a further £30.8 million to the board's settlement costs.

Union President Joe Gormley emerged beaming from the negotiations. "We have won more concessions in the last 24 hours than we have done in the last 20 years," he told reporters.

Seeming to assume that the strikers will accept the deal, he said the men could be back in the pits by next weekend.

Wells Hopes Students Will Discipline Own

TORONTO (CP) — Unruly students who disrupt high schools should be dealt with by their fellow students, Education Minister Thomas Wells of Ontario said Friday.

He was speaking to 900 Metropolitan Toronto secondary school teachers.

He told a questioner that students should handle rebellious classmates, and "they will be a lot tougher with those who get out of line than you might be."

He also suggested that schools should develop programs in which students could spend half the day in class and half at work in the community as a means of dealing with "restlessness," those students who come to attend school or do any work.

Warhead Can Dodge

WASHINGTON (AP) — A missile warhead capable of zigzagging through enemy missile defenses is under development by the United States navy and air force, the defence department disclosed Friday.

Pentagon spokesman Jerry Friedheim said scientists expect to begin testing later this year a prototype maneuverable warhead. The warhead, however, that the project is still in the developmental stage" and "not by any means near production."

The weapon is earmark'ng $23.6 million this year for development of the Evader warhead, a $25-million increase over last year.

It is understood that the Pentagon wants to complete development of the new weapon as a hedge against possible improvements to the Soviet ABM system that could give the Russians the ability to shoot down current non-manoeuvrable U.S. warheads.

The new weapon—if put into production—would be adapted for use on U.S. Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missiles, Polaris and Poseidon submarine-launched missiles and with the navy's Ulmo missile when it enters the nuclear arsenal.

Terrorist Bombs Rock Ulster Towns

BELFAST (AP) — A wave of terrorist bombings hit Northern Ireland today with blasts in Belfast and towns throughout Ulster.

Californian Court Bans Death Sentence

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A decision by the California State Supreme Court means the death penalty is banned permanently from the state regardless of any subsequent U.S. Supreme Court decision, says Anthony Amsterdam, the lawyer who successfully argued the question.

California's highest court ruled 6 to 1 Friday that capital punishment violates the state constitution's ban of cruel and unusual punishment and ordered the death sentences of 102 men and five women reduced to life imprisonment.

Among those affected are Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, convicted assassin of Senator Robert F. Kennedy; Charles Manson, convicted in the slayings of actress Sharon Tate and six others, and three female followers of Manson.

Bangladesh Seamen Flee Pakistani Ship

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Ten Bangladesh crew members on a Pakistani vessel in port here jumped ship Friday, saying they were afraid they were in danger because a majority of the crew and officers were from Pakistan.

A spokesman for the 10 said they decided to jump ship in Canada because recently recognized Bangladesh, formerly East Pakistan, which became an independent nation in December after a civil war.

An immigration department official said late Friday the men would not be allowed to return to the vessel. He said it was hoped the ship's agent would make arrangements to fly them to Bangladesh or arrange transportation on another vessel.

Better Flying Weather Helps Toronto's Airport

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Weather-plagued Toronto International Airport, which was the one big trouble spot across Canada Friday in a strike of air technicians which has crippled many commercial flights, has better flying conditions today. However, lack of radar continued to hurt.

Toronto airport, which operated at only 20 per cent of capacity Friday, the big departure day of the week for the busiest air centre in the country, has better visibility for visual operations today, at least until late in a day of intermittent snow.

Snow and rain had some effect Friday, the 16th day of the strike. Most other airports across Canada, except Montreal, reported conditions near normal, although some flights were late.

However, Bill Andreoff, president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, predicted: "There will be no air traffic at all by Sunday." He said the union broke off talks because of the government position.

Spokesmen for the 2,200 strikers of Local 2228 of the union said they had been told by the federal government they will get no more money than a 29-month, 16.5-per-cent increase recommended by a conciliation board, no matter how long they stay on strike.

Union officials grimly predicted a long strike, despite the fact the union has no strike fund and pays no strike pay. Hardship cases can be helped by a welfare fund.

Friday at Toronto was another day of cancelled flights and hours-long waits at departure terminals for passengers, with the control tower radar out of service. Delays escalated up to four hours for planes that left.

More than a third of Air Canada's 150 daily flights at Toronto were cancelled and Canadian and CP Air reported delays of up to five hours as it cancelled two of its 20 flights.

United States airlines operating out of Toronto either drastically curtailed flights or shut down their Toronto operations completely.

At Montreal, almost all Air Canada flights to Ottawa and Quebec City were cancelled today and about half those to Toronto, New York and Chicago. Overseas flights were operating almost normally.

Northern Man Trapped Hours After Mishap

MONTREAL (CP) — Nick Heath was trapped for two hours in his car Friday after colliding with a CP Rail freight train near his company's suburban parking lot.

Mr. Heath, production manager for Northern Electric Co. Ltd., was pinned by his hands to the car's steering wheel and his legs were caught at the knees. The hour after the accident firemen managed to clamber over the wreck to administer first aid and morphine.

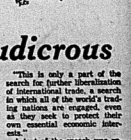
KINGSTON (CP) — David Latimer and Garry Tysick, both of Kingston, were sentenced to a year each in prison, with a further two years on probation, after pleading guilty Friday to charges of arson. They set fire to a store and upstairs apartment for a fee of $500 Jan. 5.

Seventy Killed In Bus Mishap

CAIRO (AP) — The Middle East news agency reported a head-on collision of buses plunged off a bridge into a Nile delta canal Friday and at least 70 persons were killed.

The victims were said to be between 16 and 47 years old. 25 of them girls. Seven other persons, including the driver and the conductor, were reported missing.

Danes' Royal Ballet To Dance in Nude



COPENHAGEN (Reuter) — Denmark's Royal Theatre Ballet will present a new work in which the dancers appear naked.

Ballet director Flemming Flindt, 35, his shapely blonde wife Vivi Gelker, 29, and other dancers will strip in some scenes of the 80-minute ballet which is the combined work of Flindt and French-Romanian playwright Eugene Ionesco.

"This is only a part of the search for further liberalization of international trade, a search in which all of the world's trading nations are engaged, even as they seek to protect their own national economic interests."

Sharp Says Philosophies Not Opposed

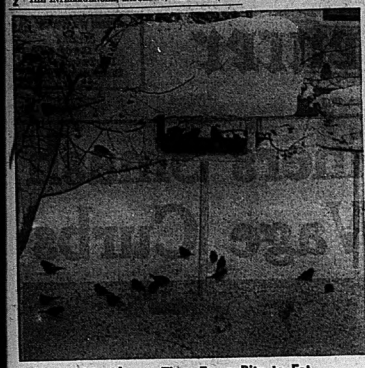
To Let Auto Pact Split Canada and U.S. Would Be Ludicrous

WINNIPEG (CP) — It would be ludicrous if differences over the Canada-U.S. auto trade agreement caused a serious rift in relations between the two countries, External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said in a speech prepared for delivery Saturday night.

"What is involved is not a confrontation between two opposing philosophies of trade," he was to tell a service club in Ste. International convention. "What is involved is not primarily a disagreement as to objectives."

The auto pact, principal issue at stake in stalled Canada-U.S. trade talks, deals with a trade "which goes to the root of the unique economic relationship between our two countries," said Mr. Sharp.

"This is why the differences are difficult to resolve. We are dealing with the operations of multi-national companies owned in the United States and operating in both the United States and Canada and supplying the North American market.



"How are these operations to be carried on in the most efficient manner with the fewest constraints to take the advantage of both countries? How is production—and thus employment opportunities—to be divided so that each of us will have his fair share?"

The problem "did not involve a fundamental difference of principle in trade policy.

"It would indeed be ludicrous if there should be a serious rift in relations because of the difficulty in reaching agreement about the future of the automotive agreement which has been so beneficial to both Canada and the United States."

Canada understood the U.S. wish to correct imbalances in its foreign economic relations. Canada had embarked toward correcting some of these imbalances, "and we are prepared to go further."

He did not elaborate on this point.

It's Always Time For a Bite to Eat

Birds of A Feather Flock to Grubins' Grill

By MARGARET HAVLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Winter guests flock annually to the Paul Street home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Grubin occasionally variating them for the entire season with no thought for soaring grocery bills.

"One winter we spent $50 for wild bird seed," explained Mr. Grubin as he discussed his guest menu of sunflower seeds, wheat and cracked corn.

A naturalist who can identify most of the bird species visiting his feeders, Mr. Grubin no longer totals the cost of "feeding" has feathered friends.

"I don't bother keeping track any more. Whatever it costs it is worth it for it keeps an otherwise dull season interesting and helps to pass the winter with some pleasure," he remarked.

He noted that the winter feed bill of $80, was "a bit unusual" and occurred when a large flock of grosbeaks arrived in early December and remained until the snow melted.

Not all guests check in for such a prolonged stay, Mr. and Mrs. Grubin revealed that one winter a flock of red cross-bills visited for only a few days perching in a large red cedar tree.

"With so many red birds in it the tree looked as if it Christmas," said Mr. Grubin.

Regular visitors to "Grubin's Grill" include bluejays, cardinals, grosbeaks, woodpeckers and many other bird species.

Throughout the winter more than 15 different species usually are counted by Mr. Grubin.

Feeding stations have been erected by Mr. Grubin in close view of a large picture window in his dining room. The birds, undisturbed by this proximity to the sights and sounds of their benefactors, hop from branch to branch in search of the feeder treating in turns. Mr. Grubin noted that his feeding station is modelled from a feeder he and his wife Beatrice saw last spring during a trip to South Carolina. The naturalist measured the American feeder with a critical eye and sketched it, later building a duplicate.

He mounted it on a heavy pipe in his dooryard "the very afternoon we got back from the south." For summer recreation a bird bath crafted from an inverted washing machine lid is positioned on a pipe near the feeder.

BIRDS 13.4, ma Indent en

The well - stocked squirrel feeder was added when Mr. Grubin discovered that this was a simple solution to the problem of bushy tailed treat. When the squirrels played passers in the feeding station.

When this undesirable party crashers they scattered bird seed to the ground in their search for sunflower seeds.

Now housed in their private bungalow and treated to a cache of sunflower seeds these chattering marauders provide the Grubins with hours of entertainment. Squirrels and birds both enjoy the tiny apples found in the Grubins' flowering crab tree each winter. Any fruit left by the winter visitors is promptly gobbled by the robins when they arrive in spring.

Mrs. Grubin enjoys an excellent view of her winter boarders through her kitchen window which overlooks a lilac bush hung with a suet log. This log was made from small sections of trees cut by bearers. Mr. and Mrs. Grubin removed it while cleaning the Milford Mill pond. Mr. Grubin drilled holes in the log and stuffed them with chopped suet. The suet log was placed in a lilac bush to attract birds with gourmet taste.

Mr. Grubin also hangs mesh onion bags filled with suet to trees near his yard. He noted that he fills his feeder with sunflower seeds, wheat and cracked corn which he buys separately in 50 pound lots from a feed store. This mixture, in his opinion, is cheaper than commercial wild bird feeds which usually contain too much millet.

Frequently visitors to the Grubin feeding stations have grown very tame and seem to exhibit little fear of motion from the windows near their "restaurant."

County Refuses Grants

Members of Lennox and Addington county council are sticking to their guns in an earlier decision to cut out all county grants this year.

In a move to help keep the county mill rate in line to the face of rising costs councillors at their January session decided to eliminate all county grants, regardless of from where the requests came.

The indications were the county would save approximately $27,000 by eliminating the grants.

But it was not a unanimous decision and at the February session one councillor—Reeve Harold Creighton of South Fredericksburg township—made an unsuccessful attempt to have it reversed.

He and several other councillors maintained that many organizations could not operate without grants.

But on a recorded vote council voted 10-10 on the motion which would have allowed the return of county grants. According to rules of procedure a tie vote means the motion is lost.

Born in Prince Edward County, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ellis, he resided in the area all his life.

He is survived by his wife, the former Jean Hamilton, a daughter, Mrs. Robert (Lynn) Reese and son, Lee Ellis, all of RR1, Consecon. He had five grandchildren.

He also leaves brothers Ralph, Wellington; Howard, RR2 Belleville; Ronald, Belleville and sisters Mrs. Delbert (Marion) Campbell, Consecon; Mrs. George (Marjorie) Roblin RR1, Belleville and Mrs. Danny (Doris) Doyle, Belleville.

Bearers were Earl Goodmurphy, Art Weir, Charles Clark, Henry Phillips, Arthur Saucier and Walter Carver.

JOHN ROSS McNAUGHT
Tweed

The funeral of John Ross McNaught, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross McNaught, 456 Minnie Ave., Tweed was held Feb. 17 from the Bush Funeral Home in Tweed.

Service in the chapel was conducted by Rev. I. E. Munro with interment in Victoria Cemetery, Tweed.

The McNaught youth died Feb. 5 as the result of a snowmobile accident on Hastings county road 9 about a mile northeast of Tweed.

Besides his parents he is survived by a brother David, and sister Nancy, both at home, his paternal grandfather, 103 Coborne St., Tweed, and his maternal grandmother Mrs. William Pipe, of Hastings Manor, Belleville.

John was a member of the United Church, had attended Tweed High School and graduated from Centre Hastings Secondary School in 1971. He joined the school cadets in 1967 and completed cadet leadership courses at Ipperwash and was promoted to captain in 1969. He had recently passed the Tweed Volunteer Fire Department on which his father is the chief.

Inquest Causes Brightonians To Look Inward at Town

BRIGHTON (Staff) — Village residents are not talking much about the background to the inquest into the death of 16-year-old Robert Young. It is not just a reaction to publicity but; according to the Brightonian, because "there is so little more that can be said — so little more that may lower the families concerned — and I know two of them — do not know any more about this than the kids and adults of the village".

The deaths have consumed the interest of this town of 2,800 and Northumberland-Durham crown attorney Geoffrey Bonnycastle credits this as the principal factor in the decision to hold the Young inquest.

"Apparently, the coincidence of two deaths of young men, friends, so close together in time has prompted interest in the community," he said.

A Brighton merchant said Friday "the people are quick to take drugs as the answer to all this in the hope that the youngsters will get off drugs . . . you know, this may be the last straw that really puts an end to the drug business here."

According to coroner Dr. W. O. Elliott "there is a more possible link between marijuana and LSD were factors in these deaths (of the youths)."

The crown attorney said Friday he is not aware of any connection between drugs and the death of the Young boy. He said he has not received a coroner's report on the death but has had recess to all police information.

H. S. Ewing, principal of East Northumberland Secondary School, has said Brighton has a drug scene but "it is on the wane". Several students polled in the village agree with this assessment.

However, they suggest the community investigate the charge "there is nothing here for kids to do — nothing."

There is hockey," said one youth, "but it is so organized when you're in your teens you're either committed to it or drop out of it."

One girl who had lived elsewhere commented the churches here do not organize youth programs "and there are not many good dances . . . we can go to the show in Trenton."

Students at the secondary school say the library in the village of 2,800 is only open Friday nights and the community's two restaurants usually close by 9 p.m. in the winter. In summer, they say, they are "bastled" when they have to wait for a table in Provincial Park.

Brighton has a new youth centre but one Brighton teenager said it is more for minors: guides, cubs and scouts than the older kids. . . "I don't know what the provincial court) in the best part of the whole place".

Snowmobilers Raise Funds

ATHOL (Staff) — A snowmobile-a-thon to raise funds for recreation facilities in Athol township will be held Sunday over a 40-mile trail. This special event sponsored by the Athol township recreation committee features cash prizes for contestants.

Township residents are being urged to place money for the 40 miles travelled by competing snow machines in an effort to raise funds for improvements to the local baseball diamond.

New lights and bleachers will be added if enough money is earned during the snowmobile-a-thon.

The cross-country trail competition will start at noon Sunday from Athol Central School. The school gymnasium will remain open for spectators during the afternoon and refreshments will be provided.

If the weather is unfavorable for this special sports event the snowmobile-a-thon will be postponed to Sunday March 5, according to a recreation committee spokesman.

IN MEMORIAM

MILLS — In loving memory of a dear husband and father Ny N. Mills, who passed away Feb. 20th, 1969.

Every hour we dearly miss him,
Every day we think of him,
Lonely is our home without him,
His chair, his book, his pipe.

STOKERS — In loving memory of a dear wife, mother and grandma, Alice Stokers, who passed away Feb. 20th, 1969.

How can we explain to others,
The love we feel inside,
How can we tell them you Mom,
And have we try to hide,
The heartache and the sorrow,
The pain that's never ending,
We'll wait our way to heaven,
To be with you again.

Sadly missed by husband Keith, daughter Lorna and son-in-law Al, granddaughter Brenda Peither.

IN MEMORIAM

AUSTIN — In loving memory of a dear husband and grandfather Carroll Austin, who passed away Feb. 19, 1969.

Dearest Dad, you left us suddenly,
There was no time to say goodbye,
But you did not go alone,
For part of me went with you,
The day God called you home,
He gave you a harp and crown,
There was a purpose in his plan,
But why and when we do not understand.

AUSTIN — In loving memory of a dear husband, father, Marty Denyes who passed away Feb. 19, 1969.

No one knows our heartache,
No one knows our pain,
We think of you in silence,
We miss you more than words can say.

Sadly missed by wife Ida, daughter Charles William Austin Sr., who passed away on Feb. 19, 1965.

Life is not the same to us,
Since you were called away,
There's a world of days gone by,
Dear memories we treasure.
The family chair is broken now,
The voice we loved is still,
Gentle hands by God guided,
Comfort and with Grace and great patience.

Lovingly missed by family.

Mount Hope Vault: Scene of Desecration

OPP Helps Investigate Desecration

BRIGHTON (Staff) — Northumberland - Durham crown attorney Geoffrey Bonnycastle said Friday a detective sergeant from the Peterborough OPP district headquarters has been assigned to assist the village's one-man police force in investigating this week's desecration incident at Mount Hope Cemetery.

"Vandals had broken the locks from the steel double doors of the hillside vault in the cemetery, entered and set fire to a casket.

The coffin contained the body of an elderly woman. Police say the fire had burned itself out before it could spread to other areas of the mausoleum that is located about 30 feet from Highway 30 at the northern limks of the village.

The body of Robert Young, 16, who died in a shooting incident last Sunday was placed in the same vault Tuesday after her his funeral and, police say, after the fire was discovered.

He was the third youth in the area to die in similar incidents since November. An inquest will be held next month into his death.

The crown attorney said Friday the date for the inquest has been changed from March 2 to March 9 to facilitate preparations.

Brighton's police sergeant Kenneth Brown said "I have no comment on this — the vault is sealed." A padlock now seals the mausoleum.

Family Planners Start Training of Counsellors

Training of family planning counsellors will soon begin in Hastings and Prince Edward counties to bring birth control information to the public.

Delivery of service is the first priority of the Family Planning Federation of Canada, its executive director, Brian Strehler, told the executive of the meetings and Prince Edward association Thursday.

The counsellors will man a telephone answering service soon to be set up by the local association. They will give information to callers, and if necessary arrange referrals to family physicians.

Funds from the federation will be available to the local association, Mr. Strehler told the executive at a meeting at United Community Services on John St.

The federal government will make a commitment to family planning, and is channelling funds by the parent through the federation, he said. The government has made $400,000 available for a print and radio publicity campaign to motivate people to use the services of family planning associations.

The local association hopes to have its counsellors trained by the time the campaign begins in this district in about three months.

"In many areas, the service is available, but is not being used because the people are unaware of it," said Mr. Strehler.

But, warned Jane Lammel, executive officer with the Family Planning Federation of Canada, association workers should not be tied to an office but should try to get out into the community.

"Don't make people come to us," she said.

Reaching people who are not "telephone oriented" and who never read newspapers also concerned several members of the board of directors.

"We need people who go out to them," said Mrs. Linda Seppanen, president of the local association.

Mr. Strehler said some associations are now using "indigenous workers", people who live in a given neighborhood and who know the residents. These workers, many of them formerly on welfare, are paid to knock on doors and offer family planning information.

"Word of mouth is the strongest influence among these people," said Mr. Strehler.

Lake Put Off Limits

TRENTON (Staff) — Pending receipt of a report it has requested from the Ontario Water Resources Commission, the Trenton Public Utilities has asked Murray Township to suspend recently-issued building permits for new homes flanking the town's reservoir.

In a letter to the township dated February 9, PUC Secretary-Manager Mahler says the OWRC regional office at Kingston will investigate the possibility of contamination of Trenour Lake that may be caused by the construction of approximately 18 dwellings utilizing septic tanks for sewage disposal.

The medical officer of health for Northumberland-Durham at Cobourg has also been asked to delve into the situation and report on the matter.

In a related matter, the public utilities commission meeting here Thursday decided to reinforce its no trespass policy on the township reservoir property.

During the meeting it decided to refuse access to Trenour Lake by area snowmobilers.

"This water is for drinking," said commission chairman Charles Hilton, "I would like to see it used for more purposes than just drinking but the first thing you know people would be lighting bonfires on the ice and leaving empty bottles and cans."

Bush Returned As Chairman

At Thursday's meeting of Quinte Planning Board, Sidney Township Reeve Jack M. Bush was returned to his position as chairman. Belleville Alderman Arnold Orr remains as vice-chairman.

Both were returned by acclamation.

One new face was present at last night's meeting. Belleville Alderman Ben Corke replaced Alderman Robin Jeffrey. Sidney Township public representative Horace Knight appointed for a one - year term, was sworn in for a second term on the board.

Heart Fund Seeks $9,000

Moira Secondary School is contributing proceeds from Friday night's dance to Belleville's Heart Fund drive which this year has goal of $9,000. Presenting cheque to J. Bruce Curtis, manager of Royal Canadian Bank on Front Street, is grade 12 student John Vani. More than 350 canvassers will comb the city this week trying to break last year's record total of $11,000.

National Heart Month, now in its 18th year, has set a goal of $2,716,000, with 85 per cent going to research. Chairman of the Belleville campaign is Mrs. Gwen Brain.

No Meeting of Minds Yet On Moira Ice Control Dam

Engineers for the Conservation Authorities Branch in Toronto and Moira Authority engineers for the proposed Moira River ice control dam have still to achieve a meeting of minds on design plans for the project.

This was learned at the annual general meeting of the authority in Canniton Wednesday, when project engineer Keith Lamon said there was nothing new to report.

Plans for the proposed ice control dam, downriver from the CPR Bridge in Belleville have been up in the air for more than a year, with authority engineers favoring one design and the Conservation Authorities Branch engineers in Toronto another.

Last year's chairman of the authority water control advisory board, Guy Hughes of Tweed, said after a recent trip to Toronto they had failed to reach a decision.

"There was no yes or no for plans," he said, "and it appears the department engineer will not change his mind.

He said another meeting would be held March 3 at Queen's University at Kingston, where a model of the dam design favored by authority engineers is still intact.

"Someone has to find an answer," commented Mr. Hughes.

This design, however, would necessitate the construction of riverbank dykes to control raised water levels but because of stratified rock in the riverbed there would be no danger of seepage and basement flooding.

"The big question is who would be responsible if the raised water flooded basements," noted Mr. Hughes.

"It will be a survival of the engineers," he quipped.

The long proposed ice control dam project would be to eliminate spring flooding in downtown Belleville and parts of more than 30 square feet of the dam site area would have to be acquired.

Grant Would Extend Service

MARMORA (Special—Marmora Village Council decided at the recent monthly meeting to apply for federal winter employment incentive money and, if granted, will use it to provide water to some of the few unserviced areas of the village.s

A bylaw to cover 1972 road village officials for 1972 was passed.

Work superintendent Willia Bishop and his crew were congratulated on the fine manner in which they handled snow removal during the recent storm.

Ralph Neal, Moira Conservation Authority representative, gave a full report on recent activities of that organization.

Council passed a motion requesting that Mr. Neal receive info the possibility of a survey of Marmora Dam being undertaken.

Councillor Bert Gray reported that the Fire Marshal's office had completed its survey of village facilities and that details of recommendations would follow.

Mr. Gray reported the Marmora Fire Department had organized a Blaze for Friday Feb. 11th at the Town Hall; the proceeds for the Phillips family who lost their home in a fire recently.

It was suggested at the council meeting that delinquent water accounts be reviewed and necessary action be taken to collect them.

Clerk William Shannon reported that 95 per cent of the $121,000 (1971) taxes had been collected.

Council moved to increase the wages of village employees from $1.65 to $2 an hour.

Committees Are Named

TRENTON (Staff) — The Hastings and Prince Edward Separate School Board Tuesday announced its roster of committee appointments for 1972.

Chairmen of the five committees for the year will be Rt. Rev. J. P. Sullivan (finance), Rev. J. P. Casartelli (property), Zdenek Kvarda (policy), Paul Fleming and Rev. W. V. Hamilton (board - teacher liaison).

Rev. L. P. Casartelli, Paul Fleming and Gerald Walsh head committees of members of the finance committee while the property committee will include E. L. Charneyko, Rt. Rev. Sullivan and Mr. Walsh.

In previous years, matters of property and finance were dealt with by one joint committee.

Joseph Chapelle, Rev. Hamilton and Austin Scott were appointed to the policy committee. Mr. Czarnecyse, John Grabowski and Mr. Walsh Hugh Campbell and Rex Hunter will hold their appointment to Trenton Memorial Library Board until the end of 1973.

The school board will request that library appointees report jurisdictions on activities of the two library systems.

Cement Firm to Expand

Lake Ontario Cement Ltd., expects to announce major expansion plans in the next two months — but it's not known how — and if — the program would involve its Picton production plant.

The expansion program was revealed in an interview with company president W. M. Bateman, in Toronto, where the company's head office is located.

The Picton plant is the company's manufacturing facility, but it has depots in Toronto, Windsor and New York State, as well as owning concrete product manufacturing operations in Toronto and Windsor.

Bruce Price, manager of the Picton plant, today said any expansion program would have to come from the company presidents.

Mr. Bateman said Lake Ontario Cement is considering several alternative plans for expansion.

"The route we eventually decide to go will determine the amount of money we will be spending," he said.

Sales in 1971 were a record $26.4 million, compared with $22.6 million in 1970. The company has a study of capital need for the next five years, to "enable us to meet the expected growth in demand for cement and concrete products."

He noted the company's capital spending last year was around $1.4 million, principally for pollution control equipment.

Revealing expectations of expansion, Mr. Bateman noted a combination of current optimistic business factors; Higher sales in concrete products and cement; price increases in Canada and the United States; higher profitability, and the fact demand is catching up with supply.

Under such conditions "the need for greater capacity is strongly indicated for the coming years".

The interview was included in a business survey which estimated Canadian cement and concrete products manufacturers expect to spend close to $90 million on expansion and modernization in the next few years.

"All indicators point to increased construction activity," said Taylor Kennedy, president of Canada Cement Lafarge, Ltd., in Montreal.

Other Canada Cement projects include a new plant at Exshaw, Alta., and expansion of its plant at St. Constant, Que.

"All of these projects will be completed and on stream by 1975, enabling us to face the years that follow with modern, low-cost production facilities," said Mr. Kennedy.

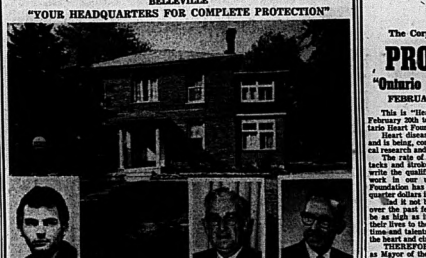
Strings In Park ?

The harmonious sound of classical music could be a bonus for Zwick's Island park ballsers next July if a proposed Opportunities for Youth project gets approval from the Federal government.



The project is in stage a four-week course in viola, violin and cello instruction at Zwick's using the island bandshell as a stage.

The request for the use of the island bandshell, provided the program receives government approval, was before members of the city parks board yesterday.

The request for the use of the island bandshell was made by Eric Lindenberg, 297 Dufferin Ave., a student at Nova scekking approval of the project from Ottawa.

Board members said they had no objection to the use of the bandshell, subject to Recreation - Arena Committee concurrence and to the understanding that major programming would have precedence over the music instruction courses.

PROCLAMATION

"Ontario Heart Foundation Week"

FEBRUARY 20th to FEBRUARY 26, 1972

This is "Heart Foundation Week". During the week of February 20th to 26th, 1972, the Belleville Chapter of the Ontario Heart Foundation will launch an appeal for funds.

Heart disease is the number one killer in Canada today. The disease can be and is being, controlled, but this is only possible through medical research and an informed public.

The rate of progress towards the elimination of heart attacks and strokes depends entirely on the ability to unite, write the qualified and dedicated people who undertake this work in our universities in Ontario, your Heart Foundation has been asked to support over a million and a quarter dollars in grants-in-aid and fellowships.

Until it not been for the concerted drive in heart research over the past few years, life expectancy in Canada would not be as high as it is today. Many thousands of Canadians owe their lives to the devotion of scientists who have devoted their time-and talents towards a better understanding of diseases of the heart and circulatory system.

THEREFORE, by virtue of the authority vested in me as Mayor of the City of Belleville, I do hereby proclaim the week of February 20th to February 26th, 1972, as

"ONTARIO HEART FOUNDATION WEEK"

Freedom's Price

A letter on this page today crystallizes the fear of many that this country — safe, stable and wealthy as it is — may be heading, all unknowing and sooner or later, for a Communist takeover.

"There are so many ways, as indicated in the letter, in which Canadians have been lured into accepting a more permissive society that will be all the riper for the picking by those whose business it is to slowly, subtly yet determinedly erode our principles, our institutions and our democratic way of life. Indeed, as the letter further points out, we could be pretty close to the point or no return already.

Consider the younger generation in this context. We see there is a desire in education and artistic circles locally to boost cultural programs in the schools and co-ordinate existing initiative in this regard. As the Quinte Arts Council, somewhat wordily, puts it: "Unquestionably what is needed is professional leadership at a level sufficiently high that the energies and talents of individuals and participating agencies may be welded together into an effective program thrust. . ." This is all well and good, but we wonder how much thought the schools and the young people receiving their education there are giving to the direction in which this country is heading. As of now we are one of the lucky nations; there is no anarchy here and while some may be poor and too many for comfort unemployed few are really hungry or lacking for the necessities. We have our strikes too, but again we are not in the sort of bind the British are in right now. However, if we are reasonably well off now are we so sure things are always going to be that way? This is perhaps the most crucial question the rising generation must concern themselves with, in addition to fostering interest in the arts, culture, or whatever we desire to call it.

We know there is a good deal of apathy abroad in this country, and it had ironic overtones at a scheduled gathering at Queen's University earlier this week. Stanley Burke, the former CBC newscaster, was to have addressed students on the subject of "Queen's University: Hotbed of Activity." Of the university's more than 8,000 students only 25 showed up and Mr. Burke himself was unable to make it because he was snowed in at his Georgian Bay cottage. Last, the two dozen present were carried on with the program, together with faculty members also participating.

We must increase our awareness and try to counteract the creeping erosion of our social fabric. What else life easier for the criminal element in Canada for example? We must consider the responsibility of people in government for what is happening. Are we benefiting . . . or are we heading for ultimate disaster? There is an election in the offing; on how we vote will provide some of the answers to such questions. Meanwhile let us remain alert to the trends, for the future of this country is at stake.

Untimely

When Prime Minister Trudeau loses his cool as they say, he tends to go overboard. At the annual convention of the Ontario Liberal party he labelled Premier Bennett of British Columbia a "bigot." Mr. Bennett, according to the P.M., believes there are too many French people in Ottawa, and he has even taken Canada off the Trans-Canada highway in his province. That is a new one on us, and a change from the cries of horror we hear about creeping republicanism, downgrading the monarchy and all that. However, we don't think Mr. Trudeau's remark will do him or his government much good, certainly not in British Columbia. Name-calling at this stage of the government's life is not the realm of tact, and unbecoming at any time.

From Afar

The tall, attractive young woman in the warm coat with scarf got into her small foreign import the other day, drove off as the policeman was heading across to her side of Bridge Street to ticket cars which the sign says should not be parked there between 4 p.m. and 6 p.m.

It is an expensive fine there too, not just the routine $1 but somewhere around four or five dollars as we recall from bitter experience. Perhaps the young woman got a blind eye from the policeman, since she was a visitor — from Arizona of all places. But then she may have been from these parts originally for her to be so suitably clad for the February scenes in Ontario.

A Letter Is Better Than The Telephone

Getting the Public's Message Across to the Government

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — So you feel you are a lone voice crying in the bureaucratic wilderness!

Dead right.

You are paying more and more taxes and seem to be getting less and less in "service" what the government likes to call what it does to and for you in value for your money.

Bull's-eye.

The administration appears increasingly remote, callous, arrogant, and if it wastes even a fleeting moment worrying about you at all, it is that you come up with every last tax dime?

Right on.

That is the way of the federal political world after every last election.

But this happens to be before the next election.

So feel wasted. This is the time. Once in every four or — if the government stretches it — five years when you matter.

The government is listening, so speak up. You may even be heard. Indeed, this odds are they will pay no attention while making like they are hanging on every word.

The Opposition, too, Conservative, New Democratic and Social Credit alike, are all up on their tippy-toes listening like mad for sounds from the grass roots.

So let 'em have it.

In writing.

Costs you nothing. Just address it to your MP, care of the Prime Minister, leaders of the three opposition parties, or your MP-to-Parliament Hill, Ottawa, and it gets a free mail ride.

All offices, including those of the individual MPs, are geared to handle — responding, too — the mail.

All started from top to bottom first five secretaries for the MP to a stenographic pool in the opposition offices to the Prime Minister's special 11-member mail corps.

What have you got to lose?

Dodging the phone call has become a refined art in government Ottawa.

In fact, there was once, not so long ago either, a deputy minister of Public Works who through his cunning devices managed to avoid accepting a call except from his minister.

Book your phone calls in for the Parliamentary Press Gallery. Try a round robin by phone, and call him. If you get through you win the works. Nobody ever did. Not even the CBC when used to finance a Friday afternoon "boom-'n-bust" flick.

The deputy was always in conference, in the office of a minister, dictating, on holiday, ill, and (although it was never, never admitted) in the can.

Then there was the press release officer (in the Agriculture Department) who never accepted a call because he considered that one of the responsibilities of his job was to be unavailable.

But the letter. Fall safe counsel.

Don't be brief.

You can be firm, coherent, even very vocal for, heaven knows, even if in person you are, jelly-tongue - tied, with a Mickey Mouse voice and Bambi knees.

Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the taxpayer. Now the time to sound off. Now is the time to be the very mail they have made a career of tossing out.

Hit 'em where it hurts. In the mail "in" basket, and they will discover there is dandruff on those who wear trunk of things, cares, and most important of all, has a vote.

Deputy Ministers Get Switched Around

Queen's Park
By DON O'SHEARN

TORONTO — The switching ahead of deputy ministers which is now underway is not easily rationalized with the mass transfer of ministers which preceded it.

If only for the vitality it should add to government, the move of the ministers could be applauded.

To some extent the same factor could apply with deputies.

When they are moved presumably they will bring fresh attitudes to their new departments.

But there is an aspect which applies to them that isn't important in the case of ministers.

This is that they are specialists. They have been the top administrators in their fields of endeavor.

In many cases this means they have acquired a considerable amount of technical knowledge.

And there must be a question whether it isn't actually wasteful to move them into another branch of government where much of this expertise will be of little or no use.

An example is the transferring of Everett Biggs to the deputy ministership of the department of environment.

Mr. Biggs for several years has been the deputy minister of agriculture.

Mr. Biggs has this. Yet, practicularly none of it will be of value in environment.

The one real asset he takes to this branch is that he is now an experienced and able administrator. But this will be sufficiently exercise this, he must grasp a new and highly technical field.

At the same time John Thatcher, who has this knowledge, is moving in the department of public works.

The knowledge he acquired as an administrator will be of little value there.

It is trying to use modern techniques and apply the managerial system.

However, one has to question whether what is good for business may also apply to government.

Whether it isn't a special case in that so many of its departments are highly technical and if the men in top administration shouldn't have specialist background to act as management experience.

Looking Backward

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Eighty-four members from 12 homemaking clubs in Hastings attended their achievement day at Madoc when the girls exhibited skirts and record books which they had made in the year's project Working With Wool.

The Lawyer's Place in the Commonwealth was the subject of an address by His Lordship Mr. Justice Dalton C. Wells at a dinner given in his honor by the members of the Hastings and Prince Edward Law Association at the Quinte Hotel on Monday evening. His Lordship is presently presiding over the Spring Assizes which are in session at Belleville for the next two weeks.

Messrs. S. Bateman, H. Yorke F. Hall, G. McCreary, J. Moore, G. Stone, J. Ellis, H. McNish, of the Walker Hardware staff, attended the Ranger-Leafs hockey match in Maple Leaf Gardens.

30 YEARS AGO

A. R. Symons was re-elected to the office of president of the Belleville Horticultural Society at the annual meeting of the Association.

Possibly no family in the Belleville district, or even in Ontario, has made a greater contribution toward Canada's war effort than the members of the Whittard family of James St. To date their contribution has been only two sons serving with the Canadian Armed Forces, while the parents have supplied more than 800 knitted articles for the boys on active service. The father is a veteran of the First Great War. "It's the only contribution that I now can make toward the war effort," stated C. H. Whittard to the Ontario Intelligencer, as he modestly admitted that he could knit a pair of socks in a day.

Today In History

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Feb. 19, 1972 . . .

A British fleet of obsolete warships sailed into the Dardanelles 57 years ago today — 1915 — bombarding Turkish forts on both sides of the narrow waterway in hopes of distracting the Central Powers' concentration on the Russian front. Winston Churchill and Admiral of the Fleet, Lord Fisher, more than this. They aimed at a certain strategic objective a passage through to the Black Sea and the commander of the fleet was instructed not to spare his vessels unduly in the effort. However he withdrew when his command reached mountains and the operation was later reorganized at a land invasion during which disastrous Gallipoli campaign.

1909 — Prince Arthur, eighth governor-general of Canada, was born to Queen Elizabeth.

1945 — A midnight curfew on entertainment was imposed in the United States.

1827 — Air service was inaugurated between Canada and Bermuda.

1839 — The Quebec legislature rejected a bill to admit women to the practice of law.

Dollar Crisis Not Yet Over

Quebec Le Soleil: Uncle Sam has once again been submitted to strong pressures in Europe, which leads one to believe that the agreements made in December only resolved the problem on the surface.

In Europe the situation is not getting better any faster. It is therefore in Europe's interest to seek a briefer arrangement, but how?

This is the point on which analysts are bumping their heads while they attempt oracles and more psycho economics. Despite the December agreements, they say, no one has any confidence in the economy . . .

Concerning continued economic growth and higher living standards, the Europeans generally admit that the Americans will benefit more rapidly than the Europeans from an economic upswing over the next few months, so long as too many obstacles don't block the way. . . .

No one can contest the advantages of exchanging merchandise between countries. . . . However, what happens among free countries is that there is a tendency to make the importation rights on certain merchandise disappear while a basic, or subsidy, aids export. . . .

There is also the principle that money (investments) should be kept in circulation at home even if merchandise is to a great extent sold off outside the country. Thus, except for money, exports are more favorably viewed than imports. . . .

But what is an export at the point of departure is an import at the point of arrival. This gives rise to restrictions or contradictory measures such as now exist in Europe.

The Group of Ten wants to expel money exported from the United States but the, money is not leaving in brain-trust is using certain mechanism to put pressure on the dollar and quickens the departure of this imported money. . . .

But who can say if Europe will succeed in eliminating the dollar? One has the impression that Europe is seeking the answer without finding it.

Peterborough's Theatrical Tradition

Peterborough Examiner

If anyone had any doubts that Peterborough was the live theatre town or that the people of Peterborough and district support it, they should look at the crowded theatrical schedule for the next few months.

Winding still here, and the 1971 - 1972 season is not nearly over, but plans for the summer are already being formulated. What has been made public so far promises a refreshing provision for audiences and a healthy challenge for the performers.

A quick glance at plans revealed both Peterborough and Lindsay, not to mention some of the smaller communities nearby, have a few theatrical goodies in store.

In Peterborough, the Theatre Guild tonight presents Dylan Thomas' Under Milkwood which will soon be followed by the Guild's Hay Fever and the Peterborough Little Theatre's The Fair Lady. Two other productions are planned for the spring and summer. The Under Canvas production will be directed by Jim Garrard and will tour the Kawartha Lakes area.

Lindsay Theatre League "Theatre '72 series which this year will be held in Lindsay.

Area residents will be able to see a variety of work ranging from the Canadian Workshop Players as the Brockville Theatre Guild (The Cherry Orchard) to Agatha Christie's The Belleville Theatre Guild (The Rainmaker by Richard Nash).

Also participating in "Theatre '72" will be the Cornwall Little Theatre (Ottawa), the Domino Little Theatre (Kingston) and the Osgoode Township Little School Drama Group.

In the summer, Peterborough's Trent University Youtheatre a group of talented young people from all over the province under artistic director Ron Pitkethly, will tour. The enterprise has already made a name for itself.

In the summer, Peterborough again will have an Arts and Water Festival. Peterborough's big success last year, and which besides other attractions featured performances by the Kawartha Summer Theatre which, under director Dennis Sweeting has not only become very popular in the district but has developed artistic excellence which draws professional and performing talents to Lindsay.

Is Canada Sliding Unsuspectingly Down Road to Communism?

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

A March, 1952 booklet put out by the National Committee of the Labor-Progressive (Communist) Party titled Canadian Independence and Peoples Democracy outlines eight steps which would further the goal of communizing Canada or preparing the populace to accept Marxism. They were: (a) the dismantlement; (b) withdrawal from NATO; (c) the granting of the franchise to 18 year-olds; (d) a new Canadian flag; (e) the writing of a new "democratic" Constitution; (f) the abolition of the Criminal code; (g) co-existence with socialism; (h) "peaceful" trade with Russia; (i) "peaceful" coexistence; (j) the abolition of the Senate.

Some goals have all but been accomplished and accepted by the Canadian people. We have cut back drastically on our defense system. We have withdrawn from NATO. We have a new flag as all but phased out the Maple Leaf. We are discussing Constitutional changes and redistribution of seats. We have changes to the Criminal Code which would have horrified the public — not society at large. With the passing of Bill [illegible] anti-hate [illegible] topic interpretation could be made that would make it impossible to criticize communist in jail for opposing Marxist infiltration or agression.

Who can deny that in 20 years the Canada has been changed and the Canadian communist goals all but achieved? Meanwhile, an unsuspecting public has been lulled into being under the bed for Fascists "peared" into silence.

Pope Paul Issues New Rules For Converts to Catholicism

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul issued new rules today for converts to Roman Catholicism Thursday and radically reversed baptism rites in the church. The new rules allow even polygamists to attend some church services during conversion.

The pontiff also reinstated many traditions and symbols of early Christianity which had fallen into disuse for 18 centuries or more.

He set up the new category of non-baptized sympathizers to include those who show some inclination for Christianity without a full decision to embrace it.

This was the result of experiments in missionary lands, said Rev. Jacques Cellier, African polygamists could be admitted to some services without being requested immediately to repudiate all but one of their wives. That is particularly important, he said, in view of conversion from Islam, whom allows four wives.

Father Cellier, director of the French National Centre of Liturgical Pastoral Work, presented Pope Paul's decree at a news conference.

The new rules also allow for choice between baptism by pouring water on the convert's head or by immersing him in water. They leave it to local bishops to determine other details, such as whether converts baptized by immersion should be named as in early Christian times.

Immersion caused a great deal of discussion in the Vatican, said Father Cellier, but was accepted as a better symbol of the convert's immersion in Christ's death to emerge with Him in resurrection.

Newly-baptized converts, the rules said, can choose any name they like provided it is not offensive for the church. The new rules have been through a test period in Canada, France, Belgium, Japan and Africa.

Christian Living Course Obligatory Before Marriage

A course in Christian living in new obligatory for all couples marrying in the parish of St. Michael the Archangel in Belleville.

The six-week course is now in progress at St. Michael's Rectory, under the direction of Rev. Kenneth Sih.

It will continue until March 26, with sessions every Sunday night.

In addition to the priests' staffing the course, several concerned married Christians and professional men and women in medicine, psychology, finance and related areas are assisting with the instruction.

At the same time, a course for those converting to the Catholic faith is also being held.

The pre-marriage course is also open to married couples who wish to rediscover and deepen the Christian element of their marriage".

Subjects covered in the seven session include communication in marriage, the psychology of men and women, the financial and legal aspects of marriage, sex and sexuality, the relationship of married couples to their parents and community service and the celebration of marriage. The course ends with a Mass, followed by a wine and cheese party.

Room Service Religion Offered

TORONTO (CP) — Dial from your room at a hotel near the Toronto International Airport and you'll get room service religion.

Rev. Brad Massman of the Transfiguration of Our Lord Church, a parish which includes the airport, is chaplain-on-call to guests at the hotel.

"Despair, anger, fear, personal problems and spiritual needs are not items you leave at home," Father Massman says. "They are packed right along on vacations and business trips."

Appointed by his archbishop to serve Catholic chaplain to the airport, Father Massman visited every motel and hotel near the airport, distributing a map indicating the location of his church.

Gordon McKaye, one hotel manager, was impressed and wanted Father Bassman to serve hotel guests.

"People in strange towns where they have no friends or other contacts may help in times of personal distress," Mr. McKaye says.

"Someone at home dies, and perhaps the fellow must be counselled, or even told (about the death). A man finds out on a business trip that he's lost his job and he cracks. An alcoholic fights to stay dry. A man considering suicide needs somebody to care about him."

Father Massman, 36, was ordained eight months ago. Formerly financial manager for the Toronto operations of a United States-owned paint company here, he quit his job to attend a seminary in Massachusetts. The seminary is set up for men over 25 with business or professional backgrounds.

"Having been in business is an asset," Father Massman says about his new role.

Indian Is Bishop

FORT DEFIANCE, Ariz. (AP) — Rev. Harold S. Jones, the first American Indian ever elected a bishop in the history of the Episcopal (Anglican) Church of the U.S.A., says his church here practises Indian self-determination.

"At Good Shepherd Mission, we're in a leadership training program in getting Indian people involved in doing," said Jones, a Santee Sioux Indian and a native of South Dakota.

"Unless we learn to do things for ourselves, we're not going to be involved and operate at full capacity," he said.

He said he will work as an assistant to the bishop, probably in the central part of the state, and will be serving both Indian and non-Indian groups.

He said about half of the total Episcopal communicants in South Dakota are Sioux Indians.

This appears to annul the implication in the 39 articles that only those who receive the Eucharist "with faith" partake of Christ's body and blood.

However, the document, also puts considerable emphasis on the importance of faith for recognizing the Lord's presence in the Eucharist. It also pleases the Anglicans by stressing the role of the Holy Spirit and the importance of the prayer of consecration.

It thereby places the sacrament of the Eucharist in a wider context than just the eating of the bread and wine.

Now that it has agreed on the Eucharist, the Anglican-Roman Catholic commission is working to achieve a similar agreement on the ministry, which will be discussed at the next meeting to be held in Italy in September.

Miss Canada's Life Not All Roses

THUNDER BAY (CP) — Life as Miss Canada is not all parties, beauty and sightseeing, but it is the real thing.

Carol Commisso, 18, of Thunder Bay recently completed her year of reign and was glad to see it end . . . but says she is proud she held it over again, given the opportunity.

The Thunder Bay teen-ager, who received a mink coat, a sports car, a grand piano, a wardrobe and a $1,000 scholarship for winning the pageant in November, 1970, said in an interview her life as Miss Canada was a "one-year self-improvement course" that included a lot of unnecessary restrictions and not enough free time.

Miss Commisso said that at times she was treated like a child, told how to behave and not allowed to use her own intelligence.

"If a girl has been chosen to be Miss Canada and judges have announced over nationwide that it is because of her poise, personality and intelligence, I can't understand why the girl should not be allowed to use some of her brains."

As for the gifts she received, they were in effect sold for by promotional work she did during the year for contributing firms.

"We were so busy doing promotional work for various companies that I never did get to see the inside of many of the places we visited. We raced through the Tower of London, taking three pictures in the process and hardly ever to most of the other places we visited . . . like Buckingham Palace." . . . She did travel to London and spend three weeks in the West Indies—the first two weeks of which were spent completely inside—but the bulk of world travelling, as advertised, was a disappointment.

"I realize that nothing ever is exactly as you imagine it is going to be and, certainly hope I don't sound ungrateful for the past year. I wouldn't trade that year for anything.

"While I must admit I envy the new Miss Canada the travelling she's been guaranteed for the coming year. I know that it will come to a point where she will realize it won't matter where she is.

"She'll be spending all her time in hotel rooms, having interviews and talking with sponsors, or attending one function or another. She'll begin to think all that's expected of her is to do promotional work and sign autographs."

The tall, dark-haired beauty said one thing she had to do throughout her reign was fight "against becoming conceited . . . and I've learned that it's the little felows in this life who are important. They're sincere.

"If I've changed I think it's for the better. I've learned what values in life are important."

While the year brought a new maturity to Miss Commisso, the opportunity "to find out exactly what I wanted to do" remains as the most appreciated aspect of the year.

"After working on various shows I decided I wanted to be part of that industry," she said, and this desire will take her back to Toronto where she hopes to use the $1,000 scholarship for voice lessons eventually to open the door for her as a singer.

Medical Secretaries Hear Home Care Program

The regular monthly meeting of the Quinte Medical Secretaries was held at Education Hall, BGH, and called to order by the president, Mrs. Diana Maxwell. Three guests were welcomed Miss Aileen Miller, Dr. Horne's office; Mrs. Lin Du Pry's office; and Miss Dale Newbury, Med. Rec. BGH. Quinte's 2nd annual clinic day is to be held 15 and a most interesting program is being arranged. Members were advised that an OHIP meeting was to be held at the Holiday Inn in Kingston February 29 at 8 p.m. and all members are urged to attend. This meeting will take the form of a workshop for all medical secretaries to discuss the new Ontario Health Insurance Plan claims procedures.

Mrs. Mae Cathcart, QMSA home representative, gave a brief report of the last QMSA meeting held in Toronto. Membership eligibility was discussed and the local Associations are asked to attempt to increase their membership. Plans for the QMSA annual meeting to be held at the Skyline Hotel, Toronto, May 9 -10 are now finalized and all members-wishing to attend are advised to register early.

Guest speaker for the evening was Mrs. Alison Kuglin, RN, nurse advisor, Quinte Home care program, Belleville General Hospital. She was introduced by Mrs. Dorothy Watson.

Mrs. Kuglin mentioned that home care was initiated in 1953 in Toronto as a pilot project. For the following ten years, Windsor was quite successful and the Department of Health decided that home care in Ontario was an excellent idea and could certainly be beneficial to practice. Now in 1972, there are approximately 20 home care programs throughout the Province of Ontario. Mrs. Kuglin advised that home care has been operating in this area for about one year and covers all Hastings and Prince Edward Counties, a clinical area of approximately 25,000 square miles and a population of 175,000. These programs are administered directly under the Special Services Branch of the Department of Health, except for the home care program of Hastings and Prince Edward counties, which is under the direct attention of Dr. Reg. Anderson, home care co-ordinator. Cost for this program is born 180 per cent by the Department of Health.

Mrs. Kuglin explained that home care is a program "which helps your doctor help you" and is simply a co-ordination of assistants to enable a patient to rehabilitate in surroundings other than in hospital. Patients may be discharged from BGH to the Self Care Unit at the Queen's Motel to a private citizens' residence, or to their home. Patients who are considered by their doctor to be candidates for home care are those that have certain identifiable rehabilitative goals such as orthopedic patients who are able to progress in rehabilitation to a certain level of maintenance. Also considered are patients who are chronically ill with a specific medical condition but have regressed from their normal level of function and long term patients such as those with heart conditions or pulmonary function disorders. They must be willing to be admitted to this program, and their families must also desire this type of care.

The home care co-ordinator arranges all services required by the patient, whether physical or psychological, at their home so would be provided in the hospital (ie.. VON requirement for active nursing care, physio for occupational therapy, medical and surgical supplies; orthopedic equipment, and whether the equipment could function in the home (wheelchairs, etc). The co-ordinator also organizes laboratory tests, homemaker services, transportation or anything else that is required by the patient to rehabilitate at home. They are also in direct liaison with welfare agencies and Family and Children's Services.

The objectives of the program are to provide patients with the ultimate of care in the familiar surroundings of their home thereby releasing a hospital bed to patients who require hospital facilities that cannot be provided elsewhere.

Mrs. Kuglin concluded that success of this program have been most rewarding. A question and answer period followed and Mrs. Kuglin was thanked for her very informative speech by Mrs. Eileen Conley.

Refreshments were served by Diana Maxwell and Gerry West. The next regular meeting will be held in Education Hall, BGH, March 8.

New Policies Regarding Women's Status

OTTAWA (CP) — Policies to ensure the equality of women in Canadian society will be announced during the new session of Parliament.

The throne speech Thursday, outlining the government's legislative plans, contained a one-sentence reference to policies for women's equality in a section dealing with the removal of barriers to full individual participation in society.

"We cannot invite respect for our laws and support for our institutions from persons to whom they are irrelevant or ineffective," the speech said.

"Government activities must reflect the needs of all Canadians, not only the favored." Policies to ensure the equality of women were long overdue.

Some of these policies may come from the report of a government committee established about a year ago to examine in detail recommendations of the royal commission on the status of women.

The throne speech also promises important amendments to fair employment practices legislation.

Changes are expected to include the addition of sex, marital status and age as areas of prohibitions for discrimination in employment and union membership for workers under the federal jurisdiction. Discrimination now is prohibited on the basis of race, color, religion and national origin.

Protection may be added to allow a complaint of discrimination filed by a candidate. This might apply, for example, to a woman who believes she is discriminated against because he is married to a member of a visible minority.

"Chief Dan George's Prayer"

Dear Doris: I have a piece I like which is a copy of "Chief Dan George's Prayer" when he was on "Johnny Carson". I think he was quite wonderful. It sounded like music to me.—Impressed.

Dear Impressed: Me, too. Chief Dan George is a true-to-life figure of a Canadian Indian, making a plea for his people. In a speech in Vancouver, he said: "On the fringe of this big camp where we come to live our culture never melded into yours. . . . Why are we called 'Indians' and you Canadians? . . . We are a people without our identity. We want to be loved, not hated . . . My father taught me to love animals, and he taught me to love human beings. It is a proud feeling to be a man. No Indians have been hanged than mine. . . ."

And what a man! His poem, "A Prayer" is welcomed: and we will be glad to share it for the usual 3¢ cents in a stamped envelope.

Dear Doris: I am 17. I am living with a couple who gave me a home and sent me to school for a year. Last summer my older sister and her husband talked me into going with them.

Their work means lots of travel. I understood they would train me to work with them. After two months they decided it wouldn't work out, so they told me I would have to get a job and look after myself.

I did just that. I live in where I babysit. I'm completely on my own. My sister does not lack me in any monetary way.

Do they have the right to order me not to go out on the odd date or to run my affairs? —Lost Wonderings.

Dear Lost Wondering: In spite of the fact that you are still a minor in the eyes of the law, you have grown up enough to operate independently. Unless your sister is your legal guardian, and takes responsibility for your care and support, she will have a hard time proving any authority over you.

Of course, if you were to go bonsch and start mixing with bad company or breaking laws, it would be a different story.

But you need adult interest in your welfare and sometimes you can turn to when things tough here — age limitations threaten to floor you. The "adult you live with, or a clergyman, or the counsellor at your local family agency — any one of these might be the resource you need.

• • •

Dear Doris: My problem concerns dancing. I am in my early 40's, and would like to be able to follow a partner's dance steps other than my husband's.

I get by dancing with him as I am familiar with his steps, but when there are courtesy dances with other men they are far from being enjoyable because I don't seem to have the art of following.

Dear Two: Join the club of wives who write in with the same complaint — and do what many have done. Take dancing lessons — without your husband. If this means paying a baby sitter, find the money.

What you need is not a great deal but a few lessons from a professional who can teach you to relax sufficiently to bend your steps with whatever unexpected turn your partner takes. You need to have some sense of rhythm. Then you can get by.

An alternative is to get a couple of pals to bring their husbands and admittedly go about improving your dancing with their help, in your own livingroom. You'll find others in the same boat, believe it or not, and you can start some new fun that way.

EXPERIENCE IS THE THEME

"I gather the flowers by the wayside . . . and only the string with which I bind them together is my own." — Michel Montaigne (1533-1592).

• • •

"If I don't write things down — it's hopeless," said one in our group speaking of running a household, "I can't depend upon my memory; but jotting down notes of things to be done and promises to be kept, well it organizes efficient use of my time; frustration is avoided, the household is in order and I'm running a culinary ball," said another. "I too, find note-making a handy habit. I carry file cards in my purse. These can be arranged alphabetically and make for easy reference."

"Being fond of writing," said still another, "my delight is to keep notes of interesting things I read, and more interesting things people tell me. Montaigne, I believe, said the first example I quoted copiously; which means he 'noted assiduously'." He was right.

'Anyone who would like to know the why of the words and examples I have piled up here would put me to great trouble to tell them."

Note-taking we all agreed is a splendid habit for a conscientious observer, keeps one in touch with life, keeps one active, alert, etc. — Yes, but those notes of what was that thing?

Harold Nicolson (whose diaries and letters 1930-39, edited by Nigel Nicolson, is in the Corby Library), whose walk of life enabled him to mingle with the great of his day decided it was a waste of experience to allow conversations, impressions and ideas to fade and remain unrecorded. Thus he made notes and recorded his life as an exercise in contemporary history. His diary an anthology of his daily experience . . . never malicious, discreet, well-disposed.

Note - taking was an obsession with Anais Nin, who as a child took her diary everywhere she went, writing down experiences even as they were happening, making note of every sensation, and feeling. Her "Diary of Anais Nin" edited by Gunther Stuhlmann is, like Corby Library, where in it

Community Honors Couple At Shower

On Thursday evening a large number of friends and neighbors in West Huntingdon community gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thompson for their daughter Gerry, and his bride, formerly Bonnie West of Madoc.

Alex McCurdy was chairman for the program which opened with community singing led by Mrs. Don Thompson. Several songs were sung by the West Huntingdon singing group. Readings were given by Mrs. B. Haggerty, Mrs. D. Cooke, Jim Fargey and by Mrs. R. Ellis.

Jim Haggerty read an address to the bride and groom and D. Thompson and C. Davis made the presentation of a radio cabinet, electric coffee percolator and a lighter on behalf of the community. The couple suitably replied and thanked all who had planned the party.

Lunch was served and a social hour followed.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CORWELL

Should a couple mention separation?

OF COURSE, a husband and wife should be able to bring up the possibility of separating during a fight. It is not a signal that the one who first mentions the idea had been entertaining it all along. Nor does it mean that the couple can begin to think of splitting up. Actually, being able to talk about separating may indicate the couple to take steps to insure that they would never be separated.

Do the middle-aged worry about age?

YES, perhaps more than old people. It could be the uncertainty about when a person can consider himself middle-aged. He keeps moving the dividing line between "upper-end maturity" and outright middle-aged. Yet he cannot conceal the signs from him.

And when he says, more and more, "At my age, I don't need it" . . . refusing to race another with a middle-aged opponent he must before he admits to being middle-aged.

Are kids apt to make the best of things?

YES, more so than adults—which is to be expected since children feel it is better to adjust to their environment than do grownups. Move to a new neighborhood, and the younger your children are the quicker they will find friends to play with, or to do things they will like about their new home. Just don't take away the children's confidence that they are loved and wanted, and they can make themselves at home anywhere.

Ann Landers

Teen-ager Can't Handle Problem

Dear Ann Landers: I feel ashamed that I can't handle this problem alone. I'm 19. I met Mell three months ago. He told me right away that he couldn't get serious with anyone because he had a lot of financial troubles piling and things to accomplish before settling down. I was sure I could change him. Why? Because I really went for him. Every time he called, I saw him — even if it meant breaking other commitments or leaving things undone at home.

Three weeks ago he made some suggestions that I consider disrespectful conduct. In high school I had gone steady with a couple of guys and I felt free to get friendlier than I should have. I've regretted it ever since and decided no more of that. Well Ann, Mell was pretty persuasive so I agreed to give him just a sample. That was three weeks ago and I haven't heard a word since. What do you think?—Wilted Mistletoe

Dear W.M.: The sample was ample.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm not asking for advice. I'm giving some. Why should a woman take a husband who has what he has made her appear inadequate, even undesirable, by cheating? Why should I willingly settle for what's left of a tired old man after he's been at it with other women for years, even introduced one as his bride and shared a pregnancy with her?

When my old goat got fed up with running around, he tried to break off with the lady-of-the-moment. She thought she'd get even by coming over here and giving me all the details of their love affair. When I told her she was boring me—that I had heard it all before from at least four other women—she was shocked.

I don't know how you can continue to hand out that forgive-and-forget junk when a man has gone the alley cat for years. At the age of 50 I threw the bum out and went to work. Now I'm in some self respect. My only regret is that I didn't do it 25 years ago.—Don't Be Long

Dear D.T.L.: Your letter is so full of holes I don't know where to begin. First, a cheating husband does not have his sex appear inadequate or undesirable. He makes himself look inadequate. Second, a man who has slept around for years, introduced another woman as his wife and shared a pregnancy with her, should have forfeited any right to be given the deep-sea brush-off.

If you had written to me 15 years ago with the same story you are telling me now, I would have advised you to throw the bum out.

Dear Ann Landers: The word "vacation" is described in my dictionary as "freedom from duties or occupations; leisure; specific: freed from a regimented program; a scheduled time for relaxation." My programmed activity is suspended. Will you please tell me why programs assign projects which are supposed to be completed on return from vacation? Also why do they schedule exams for the first day back? What kind of a dialog is make the stiffest work during that period which was designated for

QUINTE W.I.

The February meeting of the Bubble Institute Women's was held at the home of Mrs. E. A. Fleming with special speaker, Rev. Cyril Betts. There were 17 members and three guests in attendance.

Rev. Betts, who has spent three years as rector of the Parish of Ameliasburgh, Hillier Parish on the reserve spoke of Indian history and his present day problems.

The Mohawks, who originally lived in Mohawk Island on the shores of the Bay of Quinte in 1784, from whom families were deeded the land around what is now Deseronto and Tyendinaga. The name of Church Tyendinaga has been declared an historical site. The annual re-enactment of the "Landing of the Mohawks" this year will be held Saturday, May 21.

Rev. Betts also had a display of articles that had been made by the Mohawks. He showed the group some old books written in the Mohawk language.

Following the guest speakers presentation, Mrs. J. Parrott thanked Rev. Cyril Betts for his talk and presented him with a gift.

A prayer was read by Mrs. E. Morris which had been composed by John Vanier.

The business meeting began with the roll call.

The officers conference in Guelph was announced for May 3 and 4 and will be held at the University of Guelph.

The editor of Home and Beauty sent a request that branch public relations officers send news clippings to her as the news clipping service recently used has been discontinued.

The president, Mrs. Mitchell, informed the group that 1972 is the centennial of John Mc-Rae, writer of the poem "In Flanders Fields" is to be honored.

Mrs. E. A. Fleming was in charge of the program. She told the group of the ACWW triennial conference held in Oslo, Norway last year. There were 1,100 delegates present at this meeting with many nations and representatives all attending.

The motto was given by Mrs. V. Summerfield.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Fleming and her group.

A social half hour was enjoyed.

Dockers Likely To End Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — West Coast longshoremen were expected today to approve a new contract with employers and end their 135-day strike at 34 ports from Canada to Mexico.

Officials of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union said they would announce the vote today at the headquarters here. The union's 11,063 dockworkers and ship clerks began voting Friday. Early returns strongly supported the pact.

Approval of the 18-month contract could mean a return to work on some docks Sunday.

Economists estimated the strike has cost the U.S. $2 billion in business lost.

In results received late Friday, San Francisco reported 10, with 2,958 longshoremen eligible, reported a vote of 1,646 to 671 in favor of the new contract. Ship Clerks' Local 34 reported a 173-to-72 vote in favor.

The Pacific Maritime Association's 121 employer members were scheduled to [illegible] today to vote on the contract after the longshore vote becomes known. Employer approval is assumed since the union members approve.

President Nixon had with him on his trip to China a bill which he would have ended the strike regardless and settled the dispute by compulsory arbitration. He held off signing it since both parties have said they preferred to settle the question between themselves.

The strike began July 1 on expiration of a five-year contract and ran 186 days before a federal injunction sent the workers back to the job Oct. 6. After the 80-day cooling-off period required by law and two contract extensions, the strike resumed Jan. 17.

The tentative contract agreed upon here Feb. 8 on the eve of Congress' action provides for a 14-per-cent wage boost — 72 cents to $5 an hour—retroactive to Dec. 26. And for the first time it guarantees a 36-hour pay week for full-time workers and 18 hours for part-time men.

ILWU President Harry Bridges has said the contract also provides that if the wage boost is not approved by the federal pay board the longshoremen are free to resume the strike. FMA has said it will support the raise before the board.

Chicago Longshoreman Settle Lengthy Strike

CHICAGO (AP) — A tentative contract settlement ending a six-month strike by longshoremen against six Chicago grain elevator companies was announced Friday by both sides in the dispute.

Spokesman for Local 418, Grain Elevator, Flour and Feed Mill Workers, said agreement on the pact was reached after seven hours of intensive bargaining behind closed doors Friday morning and afternoon.

Details of the pact were not available immediately.

CBC Tells Technicians No Work Until Monday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The CBC Friday night told 426 union technicians in Toronto to stay home until at least Monday, and union leaders blamed the corporation for cancellation of tonight's telecast of the National Hockey League game between Toronto and Buffalo.

A CBC spokesman said members of the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians would be asked to return to work only when the union could give four guarantees:

—NABET members in Toronto will complete their assigned shifts;

—Union members will not interfere or tamper with CBC equipment in future walkouts;

—While NABET members are on the job the CBC must receive "quality performance" from them.

—The union will replace a union member who calls in sick.

Similar demands relating to walkouts have been made by CBC management in Quebec City, Vancouver, Calgary, Halifax and Ottawa, where NABET members were also off the job Friday.

He said union members had not tampered with equipment and were not guilty of breaking the other three guaranties listed by the management.

"We can only assume that this action by the CBC management is revenge for the loss of the opening of Parliament Thursday, Mr. Bolsby said.

Passengers Return From Stranded Ship

Coming off the Chilean rescue ship Piloto Pardo, Helen Burton, 84, remarked: "It's been an awfully uncomfortable experience and the quarters have been cramped, but yet it's been fun." She and her sister Alice, 81, were the oldest of the 104 passengers on board. They come from Oakland, Calif.

Cold Ahead

The Prairies and British Columbia are expected to receive above normal temperatures, while the Maritimes, Quebec and Ontario are expected to receive below normal readings according to the 30-day weather outlook of the United States weather bureau.

Precipitation is expected to be moderate for most of the country, with portions of BC, Quebec and the Maritimes receiving heavy precipitation. This is not a specific forecast and changes may occur. Forecast covers period from mid-February to beginning of March. (CP Newsmap)

Two Soviet Ships Evade New Arrest

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Two Soviet ships seized in United States waters last month departed Adak Island Friday just 30 minutes before the arrival of a U.S. marshal attempting to take one of the vessels back into custody, the coast guard reported.

The ships also left before the arrival of three herring fleet officers who were freed here Thursday after facing charges of illegal fishing activity.

The U.S. attorney for Alaska, G. Kent Edwards, said his office no longer is involved in the case and does not know how the Soviets will return to their ships.

The two ships and the three officers were released from U.S. custody after paying $80,000 in fines and $178,000 in an out-of-court agreement releasing from settlement of criminal and civil charges of conducting illegal fisheries support activities in U.S. waters.

However, a U.S. marshal headed for Adak Island Friday on the same plane as the three Soviet officers to serve papers to detain one of the vessels in a new civil suit filed against the Soviet government by a Seattle firm.

What The Stars Say

By Joane Dixon

Sunday, February 20th

Aries (March 21- April 19): Once you've met the expectations of your community's Sunday customs, it's a good day for satisfying curiosity, gathering friends for short journeys.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Talking shop is the one thing you shouldn't do as you meet all sorts of people with diverse interests. Sentimental ventures take much of your attention.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Promises are all too easy to believe. Don't hesitate to call the turn on a doubtful friend, as nobody is going to pull your chestnuts out of the fire for you now.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): It's so simple to fall into the old familiar weekend rut of habit again. Try something unfamiliar in both place and activity. Young relations have much to suggest.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Everybody around you has heard your current set of stories; either find a new audience or a new repertoire or better, a little of both.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): There's pure satisfaction in doing something for yourself today, at your own speed, instead of having it done for you. A mild surprise turns up in the course of pursuing romantic romantic interests.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Forget people who have been fretting around you all week; enjoy sports, games with people of about you level of skill.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Social activity promises to spill over you space, use up all your handy supplies and make do with what you have.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): In the course of clowning you may blurt out an awkward remark; don't worry, people understand after your moments of embarrassment.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan.19): Activities drag on very late, from breakfast to dinner, unless you do something about what-ever is being proposed. Have the courage to say no and mean it.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Attention to home conditions, local environment, the behavior of people spark ideas and connected actions which will manifest in considerable constructive change.

Pisces (Feb 19-March 20): Sunday now can be a mild and mellow experience, a hope over-true, social relations pleasingly encouraged.

MONDAY, FEB. 21

Aries (March 21-April 19): The week begins with surprises, discrepancies between promises and fulfillment, odd twists of circumstance. Take nothing for granted.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Strive for the right impression, despite adverse comment. Ask questions before you say what you think your mate is about. Wait to see what is intended.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Financial arrangements are best left alone, particularly if guesswork is involved. Anything you do should be kept simple to make sure it's understood.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): A slow start for an eventually important week. Take time to think through the tangles of facts, figures, and theories. Relaxing is the best preparation.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): This is one of those days where there's a real challenge. A direct answer isn't the most suitable course—think before you react.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Look through your home with an eye for safety, extra space. Things like outdated prescriptions must be cleared out. If you travel, select rush hours.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A favor for a friend involves more labor and time than expected. Your thoughts are drawn to thinking and long-range goals, insurance, savings.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Take your day's effort in short intense rushes. Much is gained by superficial changes. Friends are indifferent or in disagreement, but only short-term.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your tact isn't any better at this week's end than it was before. An extra word brings confusion; leave well enough alone.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Documents proving your argument are needed, depending if there are two different things. Tell the story like it is and show proof where you have to. Prefer younger company today.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): No matter how well thought out your system, an exception goes contrary to the major pattern of your theories. Don't abandon the ideas or make drastic changes.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Do what is expected of you, but leave people to their own devices. They have to straighten things out without intervention.

Quintes Must Win Tonight Following 10-6 Loss to Oakville

OAKVILLE (Special) — The Belleville Quintes are down, but definitely not out, following a 10-6 loss to the Oakville Oaks Friday.

The Quintes were given a playoff reprieve when the Woodstock Royals knocked off Owen Sound 4-2 Friday night after the Crescents had been awarded two points for Oakville's failure to show up for their scheduled Tuesday night meeting.

A victory by Belleville tonight would give them an excellent chance of catching, or at least tying for the third and final playoff spot in the OHA Senior A league.

Woodstock is currently holding down fifth place with 30 points, one more than Owen Sound and Oakville and two more than Belleville. The Royals face the second place Hornets in Galt tonight before returning home for a Sunday showdown with the O & K's. Owen Sound have completed their schedule.

A loss by the Royals tonight which seems a strong possibility against the powerful Hornets, would mean that Woodstock would have to defeat Oakville Sunday in order to avoid a playoff with Belleville, should the Quintes win tonight's game with the Kingston Aces.

What it all boils down to, is that the Quintes must win tonight's game against Kingston. If they can accomplish that feat, then Woodstock would have to beat Galt tonight and lose to Oakville Sunday in order for Belleville to be eliminated.

Friday night's loss to the Oaks was a heartbreaker as the Quintes carried a 6-5 lead into the final 2½-minutes only to see the home team pump in five unanswered scores during that space of time.

First period goals by Al Ferguson and Ray Johnston had local after the minutes of play.

Four consecutive scores by the Oaks put them in the drivers seat, by a 4-2 count in the second period, only to see the Quintes come back with three consecutive scores of their own. Belleville went ahead 5-4 when Greg Marchien's shot from his own side of centre ice bounced past a surprised Ian Young at 19.46 of the second period.

Dunc Donald evened the contest at 5-5 after only 35 seconds of play in the third period. But Belleville rallied ahead 6-5 when Gas Housego fired in Carl Boomhower's beat Young with a long shot.

The Quintes were able to maintain the lead until 16.30 when Don Kaapler's shot from behind the net bounced in off Steve Rezo's leg. The fired-up Oaks then went on to score in four more goals for the crucial victory.

Goaltender Steve Rezo could not be faulted for the loss despite allowing 10 goals as he faced 38 shots throughout the contest, while Young was tested 35 times.

Sticking to It

Belleville goalie Bill Cormier gets his stick hand in front of an Oshawa drive in last night's Eastern Ontario Junior B playoff bout at the Memorial Arena, while Oshawa's Tom Newton waits for a rebound that didn't come his way. Despite one miscue, Cormier turned in a number of such stops to rank as one of the major factors in a 4-3 win by the Quintes. The Belleville victory gives them a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven semi-final series.

Bobcats Make Bus Connections

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

You wouldn't think that buses would have much bearing on an Eastern Ont. Junior B playoff game, but somehow the topic kept popping up in the conversation after Friday's 4-3 win by the Bobcats over the Oshawa Crushmen.

For example coach Moe Hunter of the Bobcats admitted to a few anxious moments in the third period, especially when Cormier decided to catch the bus to Trenton.

"I felt like catching the bus to Trenton," returned Bobcats goalie Bill Cormier who committed a faux pas in the final frame when he punned the Oshawa forward Len McAvoy a good 15 feet out of the net only to have him put the puck to linemate Larry Hopkins who fired it into the unguarded cage. The goal narrowed Belleville's lead 4-3 but the Crushmen were unable to come up with the equalizer as straight game in the best-of-seven series.

"There was nobody on him (McAvoy) so I figured on check him before he could shoot. He kept backing up and I followed him until I was too far out," explained Cormier of the defensive miscue. The Trenton native hockey grad had more than words for the lapse, however, by turning in several key stops and saves in the first two periods.

While his goalie might have felt like catching the 4 p.m. bus out of town, defencemen Doug Perry was glad that he didn't have to. "I don't like riding on buses," was one of the reasons, along with a few skate sharpening job, that the rookie rearguard gave for his unspectacular showing over the series opener in Oshawa Tuesday.

The Cloyne performer was the outstanding player on either team in the opening of the first two frames converting Crushmen power-play to horizontal positions with solid bodychecks, then made a major contribution to the Bobcats attack in the final frame.

Perry scored what proved to be the tying goal of the game at 14.39 of the third on a spectacular individual effort. The rugged rearguard carried the puck the length of the ice, deking his check out of position, then circled behind the Oshawa net before reversing his field to ram the puck in the corner before goalie Mark Logan could move to the post.

Perry's somewhat unorthodox scoring position may have provided inspiration to fellow defenceman Tim Yohn who scored the winning goal from a similar position behind the Oshawa cage. "I have no idea how I got in there" admitted Yohn about how he managed to came to be behind the Oshawa goal in the first place.

The converted right winger's goal couldn't have come at a better time for the Bobcats as Oshawa was in the process of roaring back from a 3-0 deficit. Rene Beauchemin had scored at 14.26 to make the score 2-1 before the Belleville rearguard picked up a loose puck behind the Oshawa goal and slipped it into the unmanned corner of the net.

TIM YOHN

The game in general, and the first period in particular, provided the 872 paying customers with some outstanding playoff hockey with the home team holding a 20-26 shots-on-goal advantage over the night.

Rick Meagher, called up from the Western Tire juveniles had counted the only score of the slam-bang opening frame when he picked up a deflected pass at centre and, scooted away from Oshawa defence to beat Logan low on the stick side.

Cormier's work in the first two frames was flawless, particularly when he gloved a wicked first period point shot by Joe Greentree after losing his stick and again in the middle frame when he outgeneraled McAvoy as the Oshawa centre came in alone.

Centre Mark Woodward upped the Belleville lead to 2-0 in the final frame when he cashed in Terry Meagher's rebound from just outside the Crushmen goalcrease. Perry's goal made it 3-0 before Oshawa began their late surge that was nipped by Yohn's marker.

"They (Oshawa) came out hitting, but they took a few penalties at the start, so they had to settle down and play hockey," was Hunter's assessment of the match. While naturally elated with his team's second playoff win in as many games, he refused to make any predictions on the best-of-seven series.

The third game of the semi-final heat will take place at 7.30 Sunday night in Oshawa.

Theisman Stormed Under, But Not Seen

TRENTON (Staff) — Joe Theisman and Russ Miller were both taken by storm yesterday in the Legion provincial curling championship program.

Theisman, the star quarterback of the Toronto Argonauts was unable to make a scheduled appearance at the curling banquet Friday night because of hazardous driving conditions.

Miller on the other hand saw his London rink's perfect record go down the drain as Trenton's Earl Jesse stormed to his fifth straight win of the bonspiel.

A win today gives the Trenton Branch 110 rink, skipped by Jesse, the Royal Canadian Legion's Provincial Command championship for the third successive year.

It will be up to the East Toronto Branch 11 foursome, skipped by Pat Lord to provide the stumbling block in their meeting this afternoon during the eighth round. Trenton received a bye in seventh round play this morning.

Yesterday Jesse's rink came through with a 9-7 victory over London in a fifth round battle of the unbeatens, followed by a 12-4 win over Renfrew Branch 148 in the afternoon round.

In other action Friday Burlington edged East Toronto 7-6, Guelph was laced by Sutton 14-4, North Bay downed Kapuskasing 8-5 and Renfrew drew a bye. The ninth round saw Guelph defeat London 6-4, East Toronto rocked North Bay 15-5, Sutton overcame Kapuskasing 7-5 and Trenton trounced Renfrew 10-4 while Burlington had a bye.

This mornings action saw London-Renfrew, Burlington-North Bay, Guelph-Kapuskasing, East Toronto-Sutton and Trenton with a bye. In afternoon play it was London-North Bay, Burlington-Kapuskasing, Guelph-Renfrew, East Toronto-Trenton with Sutton having the bye.

The bonspiel will conclude Sunday morning at 10 o'clock with ninth-round action between East Toronto, Burlington-Sutton, Guelph-Trenton and Renfrew-North Bay will conclude the round robin competition. The winners will compete in the Dominion championship at Winnipeg in mid March.

Smiths Falls Bears have clinched first place in the Central Junior Hockey League.

Pembroke goals were scored by Pat Hahn, Randy Mohns, Bill Sweeney, Morris Leger, Glen Furgosh and Gale Linton.

Sparks Set To Fly

WINNIPEG (CP) — It took Al Sparks 10 years to capture the Canadian light heavyweight boxing championship and the Winnipeg fighter is determined that no one is "going to take it away in a hurry."

Sparks, who won the Canadian title in 1967, defends it Monday night against Stewart Gray of Toronto in a 12-round bout.

On the same card, Canadian heavyweight champion George Chuvalo of Toronto goes against Jim Christopher, a Detroit fighter who says he intends to beat the Canadian champion twice and then go against Oscar Bonavena.

Sparks, of Winnipeg, says assurances of $5,000 for the bout and a guaranteed return match, should he lose, have not met with his satisfaction.

He says the original contract does not guarantee him a rematch but Ernie Sigesmund, who he will win the title, says he has a paper with manager Ivy Ingerman's signature agreeing to a rematch.

Sparks fears "back-room planning" is under way to separate him from his title, which he has not defended since November, 1970.

He says his uncle won the Marchbrown light heavyweight title and "I won it too, then I spent the next 10 years trying to win the Canadian title.

"Now I have it and believe me, they're not going to take it away in a hurry."

Gray, 31, an older brother of Clyde, the Canadian welterweight champion, has underpressed with 15 wins, one loss and 15 years his elder.

"He can't punch and I don't think he can take one either," said Gray. "I've never seen him really hit by anyone yet. But he'll be hit Monday."

Gray is the winner of 20 of 25 professional fights, 10 by knockouts.

Bowerman Misses Cut

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Bill Garrett flashed a shy, rustic grin as he left the green and a spectator asked him how he stood for the day.

"I'm six under par and four down," Garrett said.

His partner, Homero Blancas, had just gone 10 under par for the round and was on his way to a 91 to the second round of the $125,000 Phoenix open golf tournament Friday.

It was the lowest round Blancas' professional career and the lowest on the pro tour since Johnny Miller had the same score two years ago on the same Phoenix Country Club course, a 6,641-yard, par-71 layout.

That 16-under-par effort gave Blancas a 36-hole total of 131, 11 under par, and staked him to a four-stroke lead going into today's third round.

Tied at 135 were hometown favorite George Bayer, Miller learned the game on this course, veteran Gene Littler, Dale Douglass and Jerry Heard, Bostell had a 67, Littler and Douglass 69 and Heard 69.

Rookie Richard Karl was alone at 136 after a second-round 69, with Bruce Devlin, Oh Chi Rodriguez and Marty Fleckman tied at 137. Fleckman and Rodriguez matched 68s and Devlin fired a 70.

Only one of three Canadians survived the cut. Ben Kern of Toronto shot a 73 Friday for 144. Missing the cut by one stroke was Gary Bowerman of Toronto while Vancouver's Wayne Volkmer skidded to a 150.

Blancas, a 33-year-old tour regular who has collected three titles, needed only 25 strokes on the greens and once had a string of seven consecutive one-putt greens. He had 10 birdies.

Flips Into Race Fans

A Corvette, (38) driven by Don Fraze of Atlanta, Ga., flips over the fence into race fans landing on top of a camper during the running of the Six Hours of Daytona Continental at the Daytona International Speedway. Miraculously no one was injured in the accident as the owner of the camper was out for a hamburger and other fans managed to get out of the way. (AP wirephoto).

Pasarell Overpowers Stolle

TORONTO (CP) — At six feet, three inches, it's hardly cold Fred Stolle a midget.

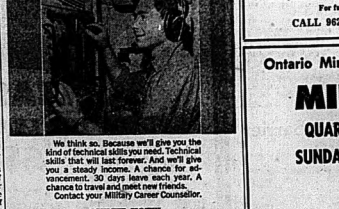
But the 33-year-old Australian veteran wished he was a little bigger Friday night as Charlie Pasarell of Puerto Rico came from behind to beat him 7-6, 6-3 in quarter-final play in the $50,000 Toronto international tennis tournament.

"When you get Charlie down, he goes for winners," Stolle said after the match. "You have got to be a bloody giant to get to the ball because he hits the ball so hard."

The victory by the 10th-seeded Pasarell put him into today's semi-final against Ken Rosewall of Australia who eliminated seventh-seeded Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., 6-2, 6-3.

The other semi-finalists are top-seeded Rod Laver of Australia and third-seeded Tom Okker of the Netherlands who gained quarter-final victories Thursday night over Roger Taylor of Great Britain and Roy Emerson of Australia, respectively.

Top-seeded Laver and Emerson teamed to eliminate Jeff Borowiak of Berkeley, Calif., and Terry Addison of Australia 6-4, 6-4 to advance to today's doubles semi-finals against the fifth-seeded duo of Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., and Bob Lutz of Tiburon, Calif., who won the doubles title at a World Championship Tennis tournament last week in Philadelphia.



Sixth-seeded Ray Ruffels of Australia and Bob Carmichael of France eliminated the fourth-seeded Australian combination of Phil Dent and John Alexander 6-4, 6-3 to advance to the other doubles semi-final against Pasarell and Frank Froehling of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Stolle ran up a 3-0 lead in the first set by breaking Pasarell's service in the second game but the Australian failed to hold his serve after the fifth game and had to break back to tie at 5-6, setting up the best-of-12 point tiebreaker.

Riessen lost his serve three times and Rosewall once in the first set, and the American almost broke Rosewall in the opening game but missed three time at game point on ground-stroke errors.

Okker and Ilaver won't exactly be strangers when they face each other today as they played nine times last year with Laver winning six of the matches.

Rosewall last met Pasarell five months ago and beat him.

Women Find Footing Tricky But Haaker Turns Trick

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Dee Haaker fired in women's slalom and little more than a second in men's giant slalom made the difference in World Cup skiing Friday at Mount Norquay.

The frost was the make-or-break edge which caused more than two-thirds of the women's slalom competitors to be disqualified after the first run, and the slim time factor was the difference between a winner and a loser in men's competition.

Britt Lafforgue, a 23-year-old, 126-pound French terrier, posted a time of 44.23 seconds Friday to capture the women's slalom title with a two-run aggregate of 1:27.83.

Bulls Dump Detroit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kennedy McIntosh of Chicago Bulls made his first start ever in the National Basketball Association Friday night and responded with 23 points, all of them in the second half, leading the Bulls to a 122-97 victory over Detroit Pistons.

In other NBA action Friday night, Houston Rockets downed Buffalo Braves 108-96, Cleveland Cavaliers whacked Cincinnati Royals 125-98, Baltimore Bullets rapped Atlanta Hawks 109-91, Philadelphia 76ers defeated Milwaukee Bucks 133-126, Phoenix Suns topped Boston Celtics 126-115, Los Angeles Lakers defeated Portland Trailblazers 125-114 and Seattle Supersonics slipped past Golden State Warriors 116-108.

McIntosh was pressed into service by the Bulls because Bob Love is sidelined with the flu. He was scoreless in the first half when the teams left the floor deadlocked at 48-48. But he exploded for 14 points in the third quarter and with Jerry Sloan also hitting, Chicago took control.

Sloan finished with 32 points and Chet Walker added 22 for the Bulls. Bob Lanier's 26 and Ed Ly Davis' 24 were Detroit's best.

Carr poured in 36 points and Roberson had 24 and the Cavaliers set a club record with their 1123 points. Nate Archibald had 29 for the Royals.

Houston ran off 12 straight points late in the second period and went on to hand Buffalo its 20th. Rinne court loss in 32 games this season. Elvin Hayes led the Rockets with 27 points.

Archie Clark poured in 25 points and added 10 points by Phoenix' Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

Dick Van Arsdale fired 22 points as Phoenix beat Boston for the eighth consecutive victory for the Suns.

Sport Briefs

MBABANE, Swaziland (Reuter) — Bill Tupe of Kitchener, Ont., fired a 71 Friday for a third-round total of 213, nine strokes behind the leaders in a $13,000 golf tournament. The leaders at 203 were Peter Oosterhuis of Britain with a five-under-par 67 Friday and John Schlee of the United States, who shot 69.

STEAMBOAT SPRINGS, Colo. (CP) — The Firth sisters, Sharon and Shirley, of Inuvik, N.W.T., finished one-two in the women's 10-kilometre cross-country ski race at the Winter Olympic Games at Sapporo, Japan, upset favored Martha Rockwell of the United States.

TORONTO (CP) — (CFTO) (Eaton Broadcasting) has purchased television rights to the Queen's Plate and other major thoroughbred stakes races, John J. Mr. Mooney said Eaton will co-operate with the CTV network to broadcast the Queen's Plate, Prince of Wales Stakes, Breeders' Stakes, Canadian International Championship and the Canadian Oaks over to be named during the next two years.

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Nets signed Marquette basketball center, Jim Chones, to a cash contract for more than $1 million Friday and declared "war is on with the NBA." The declaration, made by Roy Boe, president of the American Basketball Association club, was the first flat statement by any official in the ABA or National Basketball Association to indicate escalation of the battle for talent between the leagues since they went before Congress for approval of a merger.

Men's giant slalom honors went to Erik Haaker of Norway, his second of the 1972 World Cup series. His first win in the opener at St. Moritz, Switzerland, in December.

The three-day meet ends today with a one-run women's giant slalom in the morning, followed by two runs of the men's slalom.

Miss Lafforgue, in eighth place after the 20 World Cup racers picked up a valuable 35 points with her win Friday to move into fourth place in the over-all standings with 71 points, four points down from Isabelle Mir, also of France, who finished in sixth place over-all and picked up six points Friday.

Twenty-five points are awarded for a win, 20 for second, 15 for third, 11 for fourth and eight for fifth. The next five get six, three, two or one.

Miss Lafforgue's time for the first run through 56 gates was 43.6 seconds and her second run, through a 52-gate course, was 44.23 for the winning aggregate.

Barbara Ann Cochran of the United States was second with an aggregate of 1:28.08, Florence Steurer of France was third in 1:28.17, Rosi Mittermaier of West Germany was fourth in 1:29.15 and Gertrud Gabl of Austria was fifth in 1:31.78.

Only 13 women finished the slalom course Friday, primarily because of a disastrous first run featuring a trying gate just before the halfway point on the course.

The course was set by Swiss coach Rolf Hefti and one gate eliminated 28 of the 41 starters in the first run.

"He made a mistake with that gate," said a race organizer. "If it had been over just a foot, it would have been OK."

Finishing the course in itself was an accomplishment. The main problem at the one particular gate was ice. The competitors emerged from a closed gate into an open gate and there was an icy patch just where they had to turn, making them fall or shoot off the course.

Only two Canadians managed to finish the women's giant slalom course. They were Kathy Kreiner of Timmins, Ont., 11th with an aggregate of 1:35.94, and Carolyn Dugnion of Calgary, 13th with 1:37.38.

In the men's giant slalom, Haaker had the advantage of starting relatively close to the beginning of the race which gave him a comparatively easy run over a rut-free course.

Second out of the starting gate in the first run Thursday, with a time of 1:24.58, Haaker had a second-best time of 1:16.51 for a winning aggregate of 2:40.95.

Sepp Heckenmiller of West Germany was second in 2:42.31, Heinz Schnalzl of Italy was third in 2:42.39, Everardo Schnalzl, a cousin, was fourth in 2:42.74 and Roger Rossat-Mignod of France was fifth in 2:43.

Top Canadian in the men's slalom was Alain Cousineau of Brownsburg, Que., with an aggregate of 2:46.81.

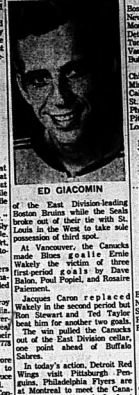
Easy Night for Ed But Seals Still Manage Tie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

For a goaltender who last season stopped 39 shots per game on his way to winning the Vezina Trophy, the task facing Ed Giacomin Friday night at the Oakland Coliseum should have been easy.



California Golden Seals fired only 13 shots at the New York Rangers netminder, but he still let two of them in by the time the Rangers needed a second-period goal by Jean Ratelle to earn a 2-2 tie.

Giacomin, who along with Gilles Villemure posted a combined 2.25 goals-against average last season to win the Vezina with the lowest average in the league, stopped shots in the first period at Oakland.

He allowed one of them to go past Seals' Stan Gilbertson which tied the game after Rod Gilbert had opened the scoring for New York.

In the second period, he faced three shots and allowed one by Ivan Boldirev which put the Seals in front until Ratelle's clutch goal of the season late in the period.

ED GIACOMIN

The Seals came back with a three shots at Giacomin in the final period but he managed to shut them out the rest of the way. In the opposite goal, Gary Kurt of the Seals blocked out 27 Ranger shots throughout the game.

The single point moved the Rangers to within seven points of the East Division-leading Boston Bruins while the Seals remain last of their tie with St. Louis in the West to take sole possession of third spot.

In today's action, Detroit Red Wings visit Pittsburgh Penguins. Philadelphia Flyers are at Montreal to meet the Canadiens. Buffalo meet the Leafs at Toronto, Boston visits Minnesota North Stars and Vancouver plays the Kings at Los Angeles.

Barrie Clinches Sr. 'A' Pennant

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

If Barrie Flyers lose when they visit Orillia to play the Terriers tonight, have some sympathy.

After all, when it takes eight years to finish first in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior 'A' league, you might expect some early morning parties and tired players.

It was quite dramatic Friday night with the Flyers down 2-1 after two periods. They came from behind before 2,730 home town fans to beat Orillia 4-3 to win the championship.

In other games Friday, Galt nipped Kingston Aces 3-2 at Owen Sound Crescents 4-2 at Owen Sound while at Oakville the Oaks thumped Belleville Quintes 10-6.

"It was a long, hard struggle," said playing coach Darryl Sly after his Flyers took the title. "It was a helluva team effort, all year along and again tonight."

Doug Acomb led the winners with two goals and Pete Paterson, Gabbo and Pat Monahan added one each.

Dale Cressman tied the score for Galt with four minutes to play in the third period. Bruce Reier had the other Galt goal.

Woodstock scored three unanswered goals in the third period to beat Owen Sound.

Lever Sparks Niagara Falls

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Don Lever, spark plug of Niagara Falls Flyers, went over the century mark in points Friday by scoring four goals to lead the Flyers to a 10-3 win over Hamilton Red Wings.

The big forward from South Porcupine, Timmins continues to amaze the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league.

Most of the league's publicity goes to the high-scoring Toronto Marlboro line of Bill Harris, Steve Shutt and Rick Gardner but each week Lever continues to lead the league in scoring. He now has 102 points.

In other games Friday, St. Catharines Black Hawks upset Kitchener Rangers 7-5 and Ottawa 67s beat London Knights 4-3 on a disputed third-period goal.

There are two games today: Kitchener at Toronto and Hamilton at Oshawa.

Lever also picked up an assist as the Flyers pumped home six goals in the second period. In the first, he tied all three goals to give the winners a 3-2 lead before 2,132 hometown fans.

Tom Colley, Butch Williams, Gary Holt, Jack Vail, Sean Gross and Morris Titanic also scored for Niagara Falls.

Five players shared the Hamilton scoring. Ron Sedlbauer, Pat Hickey and Bob Neely had a Plumb and Jim Kolelf.

The Knights protested the goal, claiming the whistle should have been blown because of a fight between London's Jay Babcock and Ottawa's Brian McSheffrey, who scored the other Ottawa goal.

London scorers were Ron Thomas, John Held and Randy Osburn.

In Kitchener, 4,022 fans watched the eighth-place Hawks drop the Rangers to fifth place in the 10-team league.

Terry Casey had two goals for the winners and Dan Blair, Bob MacGuigan, Dave Gorman, Jo Jo deVirgilio and Larry Jacques had the rest.

Al Blanchard had two goals for Kitchener and Mike McKegney, Bill Barber and Mike Kennedy one each.

"I finally found a good brakeman. Notice the smooth stop?"

Remparts Close Gap On Cornwall

Shawinigan Bruins, idle Friday night, had to sit back and watch while all the teams in their immediate vicinity in the Quebec Junior A Hockey League standings were on the move.

The Bruins began the night in fourth place, six points behind third-place Drummondville Rangers and 14 behind the second-spot Quebec Remparts.

When the evening's action was through, the Bruins had been bumped in to fifth by Sorel Black Hawks while falling eight and 15 points respectively behind the Rangers and Remparts.

Sorel downed Verdun Maple Leafs 5-2, Drummondville clobbered Sherbrooke Beavers 8-2 and Quebec bounced Trois-Rivieres Ducs 4-1 in Friday's action.

Sorel moved one point ahead of Shawinigan with 56, with the Black Hawks also holding a game in hand.

The Remparts' win enabled the Quebec club to move to within two points of the league-leading Cornwall Royals who have 71 points and a game in hand. The two clubs meet in Cornwall Sunday.

Ramos Wins Lightweight World Crown

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California's Mando Ramos staggered Spain's Pedro Carrasco in the 13th and 14th rounds to win a split 15-round decision Friday night and the World Boxing Council's World lightweight championship.

Those two punches probably proved the margin of victory for the 135-pound winner, since referee Lee Grossman scored the fight in his favor 7-6 and Judge John Thomas 8-5. Judge Dick Young saw it 8-5 for Carrasco.

The 28-year-old Spaniard from Madrid, weighing 134 and looking much smaller than his foe, suffered a jab and hook attack early in the fight to build up points.

Unlike their first controversial fight in Spain when Carrasco went down four times there were no knockdowns in this rematch. Carrasco was cut near his left eyebrow in the 10th and had a double cut under the left eye later but neither was troublesome.

Ramos raised his record to 33-4 and collected $53,000 for his bout. Carrasco, now 126-3-4, earned $60,000.

U.S. Official Says Canada Gets Edge

WASHINGTON (AP) — A high official of the United States treasury department has told Canadian business officials that existing special trade relationships favor Canada and must be changed.

In a speech this week to a closed conference on U.S.-Canadian trade relationships, Paul Volcker, treasury undersecretary, said some of the trade arrangements which must be changed include the automobile agreement with Canada, the defence-production sharing agreement, a special tourist allowance and capital market jurisdiction which favor Canada.

"It is not a question of penalizing Canada, nor of taking any jobs away from Canada, but of recognizing that the adjustment has to be made," Volcker said.

The undersecretary spoke before a conference for corporation executives from the United States and Canada.

Volcker said in the speech that he was "confused and irritated" by reports from Canada that the Nixon administration's international economic moves on Aug. 15, including an import surcharge on goods from Canada, were aimed at stalling jobs from Canada.

"This was not exactly in the forefront of our minds, I assure you," he said.

Rail Traffic Restored

MORRISBURG, Ont. (CP) — Regular freight and passenger service was restored Friday over a section of CNR track damaged a week ago by the derailment of 36 cars of a freight train.

Both east- and west-bound trains have been using the west-bound tracks of the double line since Monday. Clearing and repairing the east-bound track had been delayed by a burning propane tank car which exploded after the derailment.

But the fire died Thursday afternoon, the car was removed Friday morning and final repairs were made to the track.

Some debris remained at the scene of the derailment near this village 20 miles southeast of Cornwall, but the final clean-up is expected to be finished Monday.

Airlines Face Possible Loss

OTTAWA (CP) — Air Canada and CP Air together would lose an estimated $30 million a year if the door to the Toronto market was thrown open to European air carriers, says a transport department spokesman.

The spokesman said Friday that's one of the main reasons the government is taking a tough stand on landing rights in Toronto for European airlines.

"The government is willing to allow more foreign airlines to land in Toronto provided Air Canada and CP Air get benefits which would balance losses in the Transpo market.

Talks began with Italy last November and are expected to resume in early March.

Italy is asking for an amendment in the bilateral air agreement between the two countries which would allow the Italian airline Alitalia to land in Toronto. It now is restricted to Montreal.

Landing rights in Toronto also are being sought by several European airlines including Royal Dutch KLM, Lufthansa and Air France.

Many Stocks Trade At Highs for Year

By PETER LEICHNITZ
Canadian Press Staff Writer

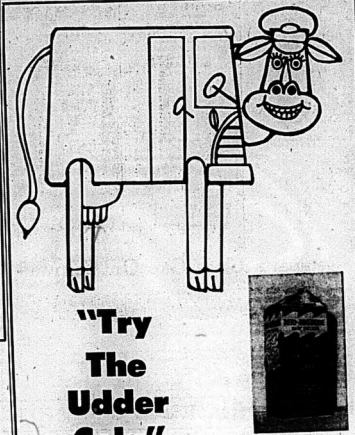
A sudden upswing midway through the week left stock markets littered with issues trading at highs for the year as most sectors on major Canadian exchanges posted strong advances in moderately trading this week.

One analyst said much of the investors' confidence has been based on a continuing flow of 1971 earnings reports.

"It appears as if most investors had prepared themselves for a more dismal summary of the year's activity and now are buying issues they, at one time, thought were over-priced."

A limited amount of bargain buying midway through the week helped lower prices.

At Toronto, the industrial index, a prime indicator of market movements, climbed 1.49 points to 199.52, an all-time high.



At New York, prices were generally unchanged in active trading.

Combined volume on the two exchanges was 5.48 million shares, compared with 6.12 million last week.

CIRCUS BUFF

REGINA (CP) — B. C. Trexler, president of a city carstage firm, has purchased two old circus wagons. The wagons, built in the 1920s, will be remodelled at a cost of $4,000 and put on display at the city's summer exhibition. Tremaine is a carnival-circus buff who spends his leisure time visiting circuses and carnivals, touring circus museums and collecting circus and carnival memorabilia.

Marmora

MARMORA — A Valentine dance on Saturday evening, Feb. 12, sponsored by the Deloro Village Social Association and attended by forty couples including people from Toronto, Trenton, Belleville, Wellby, Frankford, Madoc, Marmora and Deloro, was a very successful one

Dancing music was provided by a four piece orchestra from Belleville known as the Westernaires.

A delicious buffet luncheon was enjoyed at the conclusion of the dance.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mercer's baby son, Scott Richard was baptized in St. Paul's Anglican Church on Sun. morning by Rev. John Leonard. The baby wore a christening gown that has been in his mother's family for over 100 years.

Mrs. Vi Ramsey was in Belleville last week visiting her sister and daughter Mrs. Bert Hall.

Mrs. Pete Ramsey, and their new baby daughter.

Mrs. Blanche Eggleton of the Deloro Nursing Home will celebrate her 87th birthday on Sunday, Feb. 28.

Frankford

FRANKFORD — Mrs. Norma Wood and Mrs. Bruce Reeves welcome home their day from a two-week vacation in Florida. The holiday was a Reeves - Davis reunion which was held in Jacksonville. Ewell was taken on a two-day mid holiday tour of Mexico City which enjoyed by everyone.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Pyear and boys of Guelph were weekend guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Pyear.

Mrs. J. J. Regan has returned home after a short visit with her daughter, Mrs. E. Fleischmann in Oshawa. She also attended the funeral of her deceased brother, Mr. E. Barry of Brighton.

Mrs. Nancy Sheppard and daughter Debbie, of Fordyce, La. Prairie arrived at CFB Trenton on Wednesday for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rouse.

Son of Mufti Held as Killer

BLACKPOOL, England (AP) — A son of the mufti of Jerusalem, the top Moslem religious leader in that Holy City, was charged with murder Friday in the stabbing death of one of three British children who were killed in their sleep.

Ahmad Alami, 32, is an eye doctor at Blackpool's Victoria Hospital, where the slain children were patients. The savage attack on the children remains unexplained.

Members of the mufti's family in Jerusalem confirmed that the accused doctor is a son of Sheik Saad ed-Din Alami. The mufti burst into tears after hearing of the charge.

In Blackpool, Alami was charged with the murder of fourteen-old Christine Ann Casson. He was ordered held in custody until another hearing in a week.

The knifing deaths of two other slumbering children, both two years old, could be added to the charge sheet later.

Coroner John Rudd told weeping parents they had his profound sympathy over the "savage and brutal" killing.

Sally Barnes Named Press Gallery Head

TORONTO (CP) — Sally Barnes, a political reporter for the Toronto Star, was elected president of the Ontario legislative press gallery Friday by acclamation.

She is the first woman to hold the job and her only comment was:

"What have I got myself into?"

Miss Barnes, Belleville graduate of Queen's University, began her career with the Kingston Whig-Standard, and worked for the Ottawa Citizen and the Toronto Telegram before going to the Star.

Work-or-starve Concept 'Dodo'

TORONTO (CP) — "The concept of work-or-starve is an old as the dodo, and that bird has been dead a long time."

That was Ontario Treasurer David Croll, chairman of the Senate committee on poverty, greeting the report a week ago of an Ontario study group on welfare.

What the study group of most people was the report's recommendation that "welfare recipients should be required to take any reasonable job even if it is somewhat below their normal remunerative or occupational."

It brought an outcry from welfare groups and the Ontario Federation of Labor, which said that employers could exploit workers they knew had no choice but to accept a job. The welfare rights groups complained that the concept was a violation of the principles of social justice as well as freedom of choice.

They said the recommendation was tantamount to advocating a "work-or-starve" policy that would substitute substance and employment.

Barry Swadron, the 23-year-old Toronto lawyer who was head of the study group, says the focus on that particular recommendation distorted the purpose of the report, "which was designed to help the welfare recipient. In every way we could think of."

"You can't call it a work-or-starve policy. No one starves these days. There are all kinds of ways people can be helped, all kinds of places to get meals if they're really beat up, such as the Scott Mission, and the Ombudsman's office should be used to report it to."

"I think I'd take any job if I was out of work but people say to me, 'What do you know about being unemployed?' and I have to answer 'not a lot.'"

Mr. Swadron says the recommendation was the subject of "considerable debate" in the study-group members, and finally represented the level at which the group prepared to go.

"I was a fence sitter for a long time," he said. "One day I'd say 'No, you can't expect a man to do this.' The next day I'd question it. It was only after very sharp questioning of myself that I came to that conclusion.

"I can't see how an individual can say 'No, I don't want to do that job' when someone else is doing it. A man shouldn't be able to just sit back and say, 'No, if it is not up my line or if it is beneath me, I won't work'."

Bribes Said More Likely

MONTREAL (CP) — A high-ranking Montreal police officer said Friday that recent charges of bribery and corruption in the city's morality squad.

The officer, Deputy-Director Andre Guay, was testifying at the inquiry into corruption in morality called to investigate Mr. Guay's conduct while he was head of the morality squad in the 1960s.

However most of Mr. Guay's testimony dealt with Mr. Saulnier's conduct as chief of the Montreal police department. Mr. Saulnier was appointed chief in May, 1971.

Mr. Guay said the director's decision to consolidate four divisional morality squads into one group had eliminated many of the factors that made bribery difficult in the past.

"The system we used to have was and still is the best and only way to cut down on corruption," Mr. Guay said.

The deputy director said that under the old system "it was impossible and unthinkable for the owner of a drinking establishment or a bawdy house or a gaming house to pay protection."

Mr. Guay said that in reality there were five morality squads under the old system — one at headquarters under the direct supervision of the director-general and one in each of the four division headquarters.

The divisional squads, under the command of the assistant chief inspector in each district, were not limited in their operations and could make raids in any part of the city.

Mr. Guay said it was the knowledge of the five autonomous groups that made it next to impossible for offenders to pay for police protection.

He said he opposed Mr. Saulnier's decision on June 8, 1971, to cut the number of divisional morality squad officers from 30 to 18, liberating some men for duty at Man and His World, the annual fair.

The four morality divisions were re-organized last year, and then into one squad at the end of July, leaving one consolidated divisional group and the headquarters squad.

"The new divisional squad," the deputy-director said, "can't do the same job. And it has lost its liaison with assistant chief inspectors in each division."

Mr. Guay also criticized Mr. Saulnier's reduction of the number of large-scale raids carried out by Montreal drinking establishments.

Before Mr. Saulnier became director raids carried out on an inter-departmental scale had often turned up violations ranging from under-age drinking to fraud, he said.

The witness said Mr. Saulnier "must have been aware of the results of the raids," but, from the start, he discouraged them.

Wife Wounded Shielding Husband

LONDON (Reuter) — The wife of a former Iraqi prime minister threw herself in front of her husband to save him from would-be assassins in a London apartment today, police reported.

Bullets intended for Gen. Abdel-Razzak al-Nayef, who was premier of Iraq for a brief period in 1958, hit 33-year-old Mrs. al-Nayef instead.

Scotland yard said the general escaped injury and Mrs. al-Nayef was admitted to hospital with a wound in her shoulder. police said they are holding a man in connection with the incident.

An unofficial report said the assassination attempt occurred after a man arranged an interview with the general.

When al-Nayef and his wife answered the door, three men outside drew guns and opened fire. Mrs. al-Nayef threw herself forward and shielded her husband's body with her own.

Al-Nayef was appointed prime minister of Iraq on July 18, 1958, leading a coup which toppled the Yehia government. At that time he held the rank of colonel.

But his premiership lasted only 12 days. On July 30, he was deposed, arrested and exiled.

Law Society Makes Divorce Aid Easier

TORONTO (CP) — The Law Society of Upper Canada, which administers the Ontario Legal Aid Plan, Friday approved an experimental method of dealing with uncontested divorce cases which it hopes will cut costs.

The new procedure will begin in Ottawa next week and if successful may become province-wide, said Sydney Robins, society treasurer.

Divorce cases in the last fiscal year took $2.7 million of the legal aid plan's budget of $10.3 million. In the first nine months of the plan's current fiscal year, $2.2 million has been spent on divorces.

Under the Ottawa experiment, a person seeking a divorce and entitled to legal aid will be given a certificate to consult a lawyer of his choice for advice.

The lawyer, he paid at the regular legal aid rate of $18.75 an hour, will interview the person and decide whether his case is likely to be uncontested.

If further discussions between the lawyer and the husband or wife may be necessary to resolve a few issues that might otherwise be contested in court.

Then the lawyer will certify in writing to the local legal aid office that the case is uncontested and the office will process the divorce petition.

In the courtroom, the petition will be presented to the judge by the legal aid duty counsel, who probably will present several divorce petitions on the same day and will be paid at a rate of $18.75 an hour or a maximum of $75 a day.

Trudeau Mum On Foreign Firms Policy

OTTAWA (CP) — Party leaders lifted the curtain on the next federal election campaign in the Commons Friday, including the strong possibility that Canada-U.S. economic relations will be a main theme.

Prime Minister Trudeau added zest to the election-theme spoking fires by stonewalling opposition MPs during question period on just when the long-promised government policy on foreign ownership of the economy would be revealed.

During a 35-minute speech later, as party leaders had thesay on Thursday's throne speech outlining government legislative plans for the new session, he made no mention of what the policy might include or just when it would be announced.

He did say, however, that his government is not going to make concessions to the U.S. in trade negotiations.

New Democratic Leader David Lewis read this as proof that the government has come to heel instead of legislating on the unresolved policy.... .

Happily, in many years" of Trudeau government would soon come to an end, he said.

Election speculation and campaign-style language have been the rule during MPs' debate from a winter recess to wind up the first session of the 28th parliament Wednesday, heard the throne speech Thursday and settled down into the first regular business day of the new session Friday.

Mr. Trudeau, who has said that elections should be fought on what can be done in the future rather than the record of the past, followed a similar world defence of his record, at the same time depicting opposition MPs as gloom-and-doomers who tear their own flesh and "wail in sackcloth."

Canada had negotiated firmly and honestly with the U.S. after it imposed its special surcharge on imports last August because of its trade deficit. This was the kind of negotiation that would continue, with no demands for "unfair protection or unreasonable arrangements."

The deficit, devalued by Canada in 1970, was to be revalued further in relation to the U.S. dollar.

"I challenge the Conservatives . . . to describe honestly and candidly to the Canadian people what their posture towards the United States would be in this difficult negotiation, declared Mr. Trudeau.

"What they have gone to Washington cap in hand . . . and what they would have devalued the dollar in order to prove their friendship with the United States! We didn't, and we did not endanger Canada-U.S. relations because of it. The United States in any way by not doing so."

Canada-U.S. relations are as friendly and mutually respectful as they have been at any time in our history," Mr. Trudeau said.

"If opposition parties are unhappy about that, or have no opposition to it, they should not let them say so; but please let them hear no more whining about anxiety to the Americans."

He said the government must not fantasies of either unfettered timidity or false bravado."

Mr. Stanfield said the just solution announced by Mr. Trudeau during the 1968 election had become the "secret weapon."

The people were not told about the issues involved in trade talks with the United States, broken off last week by the American after negotiators reached loggerheads over the auto pact and other issues.

"If we are to work out our relations, some effort must be made to spell out our goals, and that effort must be made in the open with the participation of all Canadians, not in the backroom secrecy of Ottawa or anywhere else."

Mr. Lewis said the government had been promising its policy on foreign ownership and investment since before Christmas a.s.a. The postponement showed it would be kept secret until after an election.

Mr. Lewis also said he has information that even when it does come, it will emerge as "a half measure."

Too Late Now To Limit Outlay For Election

OTTAWA (CP) — It is too late now to enact laws to limit political party election expenses in the next general election, Prime Minister Trudeau told the Commons Friday.

It would be impossible to have the legislation take effect for the next election, even if it were passed now, "unless we are going to have the election very late or, indeed, beyond the constitutional time limit," he said in response to a question.

The next election must be held by mid-1973, and it is generally believed the government will call the election for this spring or summer.

Restless Legs Are Annoying

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a friend, 47, who has been in the hospital twice in three years for cirrhosis of the liver caused by alcoholism. He is now back on his feet and claims the doctor says he can have two bottles of beer a day, but he drinks much more. Does this sound logical? —H.V.

Not logical in the least, but it isn't too unusual for such patients to say the doctor said that. I don't know who they think they are kidding. The fact is they should never touch any alcohol.

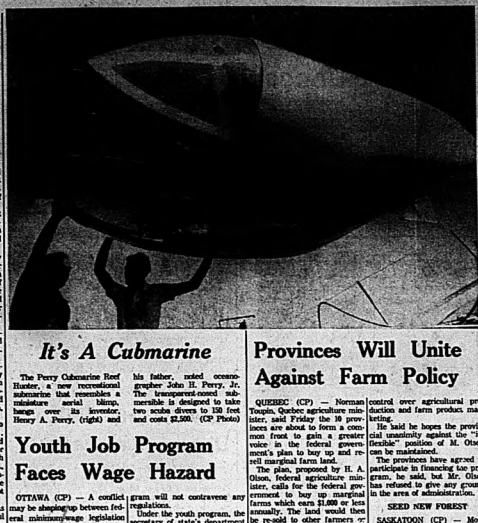
Dear Dr. Thosteson: My doctor told me I had high blood pressure but didn't say how high it was. He gave me some tablets to take. I am 51 and never had any sickness whatsoever. He did not tell me what to eat or do, other than to take the tablets. I am especially interested in what I should or shouldn't eat.—V. A.

What you eat is not of any special importance in controlling your blood pressure, except as you keep your weight under control. Overweight must decidedly be avoided. Also, in some cases, salt should be avoided.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: About six years ago I had what appeared to be a small pimple or bump on my vaginal area. I am 30 now and it is only in the last couple of years that I have learned about venereal disease. I had forgotten about the bump until lately.

It only lasted for a week or so. I don't have a rash anywhere around that age but I can't remember exactly when. Should I have a test for venereal disease now, or is six years too long a time?—L. L.

A small, painless sore or lesion that lasts only a short time is one sign of syphilis. After it goes away, a rash follows. That also disappears. But the disease does not disappear. It may be years later before its consequences show up. So it is still there.



Of course, other things may have caused that bump and the rash. But there is only one sensible thing to do: be tested for syphilis, and, if you have it, get treatment for it at once. Six years is a long time, but it certainly isn't too late to be treated.

Dear Sir: Can you tell me why celery eaten after a rich meal is wonderful in preventing gas or an upset stomach? My 83-year-old mother has had lots of trouble with her stomach, but when she avoids fats and rich food and eats a stalk of celery daily she is relatively free from trouble.—Mrs. T.

Couldn't it be the secret lies in the fact that she avoids fats and rich food, and the celery just makes her think her stomach will behave?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 18 and have been taking a one-a-day vitamin tablet with iron for about two years. Is it possible one can get too much iron from too many vitamins?—M. V. S.

It's possible, but not if you are taking only one a day and have no problems that indicate excess iron from any other source. The amount of iron in such tablets is not large.

Youth Job Program Faces Wage Hazard

OTTAWA (CP) — A conflict may be shaping up between federal minimum-wage legislation and the Opportunities for Youth program.

The relationship between the legislation and the program is complex and some officials say they are unsure whether the legislation applies to the youth projects. Others say the legislation is applicable, but the program will not contravene any regulations.

Under the youth program, the secretary of state's department will provide $40 million in grants this summer to 25,000 youths for non-profit projects.

University students will get a maximum of $30 a week, while high school students will get $20.

Federal legislation provides that all persons 17 years of age and over in work under federal jurisdiction must get at least $1.75 an hour, making a total of $70 for a 40-hour week.

Other requirements are that all workers will get overtime pay at 1½ times the regular hourly rate for any work in excess of 40 hours a week or eight hours a day.

Convict, Wife Die

SACKVILLE, N.B. (CP) — A second person has died following a gun battle with RCMP near here Friday night.

RCMP said James Allan McCarthy, 25, of Port Elgin, N.B. was pronounced dead in hospital in Halifax early today.

Also dead is his 23-year-old wife Margaret Jean, She died Friday night after McCarthy and RCMP exchanged gunfire at Wood Point, about three miles east of here.

McCarthy broke from the Westmorland County jail at Dorchester, N.B., Friday afternoon and accompanied by his wife stole a car.

They made their way to Marysland on the Sackville road where, an RCMP spokesman said, police were fired on when they approached with the aid of a tracking dog.

Efforts were under way today to determine whether Mrs. McCarthy was killed by gunfire from the police or by shots from a 22-calibre revolver held by McCarthy. Police said it has not been determined whether Mrs. McCarthy was shot by police or whether he shot himself.

RCMP are also attempting to determine where McCarthy got the revolver.

Flu Vaccine Can Cause Woe

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Ian Duncan, head of Sunnybrook Hospital's department of microbiology, warned Friday that healthy people getting injections against flu may be as badly off as if they got the flu itself.

Dr. Duncan said the vaccine in use is not very good and many people suffer adverse reactions.

But the vaccine was advisable for some people—elderly people who can get flu that later turns to pneumonia, those with heart trouble and those susceptible all year and every year to the flu.

Big Ship Docks

Built in Japan in 1969, the giant ship had a cargo of crude for the Gulf Oil refinery here.

Opening lead — king of hearts.

The problem of entries is often a prime source of frustration for declarer. He will sometimes find himself with good tricks in one hand — winners or tricks, — and be unable to cash them for lack of an entry to that hand.

Or declarer may have one or more finesses to take, and lack an entry of the entry problem — find himself unable to take them.

There are other situations that arise where the entry problem is absolutely crucial, and all that declarer can do in cases where the lack of the deal deprives him of ready-made entries is exercise every ounce of his ingenuity in creating them.

For example, take this deal where West leads the king of hearts. Let's say declarer wins with the ace, plays a diamond to the ace and exits with a heart, hoping to ruff the heart in dummy and discard some of his club losers on the diamonds.

But East would win the heart and return a trump, and West would take his ace and lead another trump. Assuming best defense thereafter, South would wind up three tricks short of the contract.

However, South can make the hand if he plays correctly. He has to win the heart the opening lead of the king of hearts.

What can West do now to spike declarer's guns? Absolutely nothing. If he plays the ace and another trump, South easily makes eleven tricks. If he plays a heart instead, declarer wins, leads a diamond to the ace, ruffs a heart, discards two clubs on the diamonds and finishes with ten tricks.

Probe of Rict May Continue Until March 6

TORONTO (CP) — Judge Arthur Stoney Vanstal said Friday a provincial inquiry into an anti-Soviet demonstration outside October 25 may run until the week of March 6.

The inquiry already has run four weeks. About 112 witnesses have been heard and there have been 1.2 million words of testimony.

Friday, Constable D. J. Williams of the Metropolitan Toronto Police mounted unit testified that he had to fight his horse to keep it from stepping on a middle-aged couple who were in the crowd outside the demonstration.

Other witnesses have testified that a woman grabbed his horse's bit but fell "under my left foot" when the horse shook her loose. He said she was on the ground between the horse's front and rear legs.

He said that at that point, a man ran out of the crowd and struck the horse across the head with a placard. He swung at the man with his riding crop.

The man let go, dropped to the ground to dodge the swing away by the arm "and they disappeared into the crowd."

Batman And Robin Promoted

NEW YORK (AP) — Ever since they captured a shoplifting trio who had a contract to kill them, city police officers David Greenberg and his partner Robert Hantz have been known to fellow officers as Batman and Robin.

Along with their nicknames they have earned 43 citations each, made 400 arrests that they say have resulted in convictions 93 per cent of the times and recovered $2 illegal weapons while stalking the tough Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn during the last four years.

Friday, the two young members of the police anti-crime unit were promoted to detectives in a ceremony, Police Commissioner Patrick Murphy commended their "imagination, effort and bravery" as he pinned on their gold shields.

Greenberg, 28, who wore a Batman T-shirt at the ceremony, and Hantz, 27, will continue to work the same area.

Giraffe Lost In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — If anybody has seen a 12-foot giraffe running around downtown Montreal, it could be worth $5,000 in reward money to him.

Two thieves walked off with the beast Wednesday from the 30th annual Toy Fair at Place Bonaventure while a security guard was watching.

"They fooled him," Nick Ehrenfeld said. "Some people have been experts."

Mr. Ehrenfeld is a spokesman for Best-Made Toys Ltd., of Toronto, the firm that spent two years and thousands of dollars developing the huge stuffed animal.

Provinces Will Unite Against Farm Policy

QUEBEC (CP) — Norman Toupin, Quebec agriculture minister, said Friday the 10 provinces are about to form a common front to gain a greater voice in the federal government's plan to buy up and resell marginal farm land.

The plan, proposed by H. A. Olson, federal agriculture minister, calls for the federal government to buy up marginal farms which earn $1,000 or less annually. The land would then be re-sold to other farmers or for other development, such as tourism.

Mr. Toupin said the provincial agriculture ministers, at a meeting this week in Ottawa, agreed in principle to the plan, but all are opposed to the proposed administrative set-up.

He said the provinces would end up without any authority over the $150-million, seven-year program, and the plan could eventually lead to federal control over agricultural production and farm products marketing.

He said he hopes the provincial unanimity against the "infeasible" position of M. Olson can be maintained.

The provinces have agreed to participate in financing the program, he said, but Mr. Olson has refused to give any ground in the area of administration.

SEED NEW FOREST

SASKATOON (CP) — More than 1,000 acres of cut-over and burned-over forestry area in central Saskatchewan are being seeded, the provincial resources department says. Forestry branch personnel also planted 40,000 jack pine seedlings on 50 acres burned out near White Gull Lake and seeded another 150 acres where it was found sufficient mineral soil was exposed for a good seed bed.

Peking Talks Start

U.S. Challenges Mao To New Long March

Nixons Given Quiet Welcome

PEKING (CP) — President Nixon arrived in China's capital today, paid his first call on Chairman Mao Tse-tung and opened summit talks with Premier Chou En-lai, all within less than eight hours.

The Spirit of '76, the president's jetliner, touched down at 11:28 a.m. (10:28 p.m. EST Sunday), 13 minutes ahead of schedule. It carried the president and Mrs. Nixon and an official party of 87.

Waiting for the president as he walked down the red-carpeted stairs was Chou, his outstretched hand and smiling face a symbol of a break in more than 20 years of hostility between the two countries.

In 1954, at the Geneva talks which ended the Korean War, State Secretary John Foster Dulles had refused to shake Chou's hand.

But if the reception was smilingly correct, it also was muted — in keeping with Nixon's status as the head of a foreign power which does not recognize China.

The president's visit is being treated as something between a private and a semi-official affair.

There was no crowd at the airport, no banners, no school children waving balloons and flowers.

There was only Chou and a delegation of top leaders which included Yah Chien-ying, now apparently the top man in the army, Deputy Premier Li Hsien-nien and Foreign Minister Chi Peng-fei.

Throughout the 15-minute ceremony, Mrs. Nixon in a red cloth coat chatted through an interpreter with Lin Chia-mei, wife of the vice-premier, who wore a Mao-type trouser suit.

Also at the airport were about 100 foreign reporters and a guard of honor of 200 men from the Chinese army, navy and air force. The Peking diplomatic corps had been told to stay away from the airport since the two countries do not have diplomatic relations.

Peking turned out 500,000 people to greet Premier Pham Van Dong of North Vietnam in November. Several hundred thousand greeted President Nicolai Ceausescu of Romania last year.

Moscow Sees Bid To Divide

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Moscow Radio branded President Nixon's visit to Peking today as part of a deal to split the world Communist movement but Pravda made no comment.

The Communist party newspaper printed a Tass report on the president's arrival in Peking, which noted that it was an American base from which planes took off for bombing raids on Indochina.

Nixon's arrival in Peking was reported in one sentence by Tass news agency without comment.

Hughes in Nicaragua To Sell Some Planes

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Billionaire Howard Hughes is here to discuss the sale of planes and a possible airline merger — perhaps to find peace, the president of Nicaragua says.

Stepping off a twin-jet plane to a 21-gun artillery salute and military band music after a state visit to Panama, President Anastasio Somoza spoke of Hughes's visit as he told reporters:

"Let's not make so much fanfare about the matter. If he wants to be respected and let alone, that's his business.

"If he wants to do business with Nicaragua, I don't have to see him. My lawyers can see his lawyers, my managers can see his managers.

Somoza said the sale of planes would be to him and that the merger would be between the Lenica Airline and Hughes' Air West. Somoza said he has neither seen nor talked with Hughes, but "we have talked with some of his lead men about the purchase and sale of airplanes and the merger of airlines."

Somoza said he extended his personal invitation to Hughes three months ago to visit Nicaragua, and Hughes was "delighted to accept."

"Avon calling!"

Gandhi Nervous

NEW DELHI (AP) Prime Minister Indira Gandhi expressed concern today about President Nixon's trip to Peking and said India will reject any Chinese-American pact that tries to dictate terms to Asian countries."

In a speech, Mrs. Gandhi also praised the Vietnamese for "the dauntless spirit and courage with which they have withstood onslaughts and massive attacks from a powerful nation," an obvious reference to the United States.

Pedestrians Ignore Visitor

PEKING (Reuter) — Peking citizens all but ignored the visit today of President Nixon and his motorcade through the streets of the capital.

Many pedestrians did not even turn and look as the procession of cars went along the main Avenue of Eternal Peace on its way from the airport to the state guest house.

There was little traffic on the mid-way roads as the president drove through the city which was bathed in pale wintry sunshine.

In Tiananmen Square there were only policemen and television crews — a sharp contrast to the thousands of youths and girls in colorful national costume who have previously packed the square to acclaim visiting heads of state.

Observers believe that if the welcome had been one degree less warm it would have been regarded as a slight on the U.S. president.

Peace Goal For Journey

PEKING (CP) — President Nixon opened his dialogue for peace with China's leaders today, held his first meetings with Mao Tse-tung and Chou en-lai, and appealed to them to join him in "a long march" toward universal peace.

"Not in lock step," the president said in reply to Chou at a banquet in the Great Hall of the People, "but on different roads leading to a common goal — a world structure of peace and justice in which all men stand together."

Nixon said if he and Chinese leaders can find common ground to work together, "the chance for world peace is immeasurably increased."

"Let us recognize at the outset we have had great differences at times in the past; we have great differences today . . . neither of us will compromise our principles. But while we cannot do this, we can try to bridge them so that we may be able to talk together."

Premier Chou preceded Nixon to the rostrum at the banquet and said the visit provides an opportunity for normalization of relations and exchange of views on questions of concern.

"This is a positive move in conformity with the desire of the American and Chinese people and is an event unprecedented in the history of relations between the United States and China," Chou added.

"The American people are a great people. The Chinese people are a great people. The people of our two countries have always been friendly to each other, but owing to reasons known to all, the contacts between the two peoples were suspended for over 20 years."

Then, "the gates to friendly contact have finally opened."

Chou proposed the establishment of relations on the basis of five principles he laid down at the Bandung conference in 1955 of Indonesia.

They are: Mutual respect for the sovereignty and territorial integrity of nations; mutual non-aggression; non-interference in internal affairs; mutual equality; and peaceful coexistence.

Chou noted that Nixon said on his departure for China that the United States and Peking have differences.

He added :"We hope to gain clearer insight into the American way of thinking.

"And with this a new start can be made in relations between our two countries."

The unexpected meeting between President Nixon and Chairman Mao, almost immediately after the president had arrived at the end of his eight-day visit, caused a 90-minute delay before Nixon's session with Premier Chou.

White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said the two leaders, meeting for the first time had a serious and frank discussion lasting 60 minutes, but refused to give any details.

The president and the chairman met in Mao's residence near the Forbidden City of the People in Tiananmien Square.

Taiwan Assails Nixon Visit

TAIPEI, Taiwan (Reuter) — The National Assembly of Taiwan today blasted President Nixon with a statement of disapproval as the American leader arrived in Peking to begin his visit to China.

Nixon's trip to Peking for talks with the enemy of the Chinese Nationalists, the National Assembly said, would "deeply and greatly hurt the interests of the Republic of China."

The statement was made in a resolution unanimously adopted by some 1,300 assemblymen attending the fifth plenary session of the nationalist electorate.

The Nixon trip, it said, "will aggravate the suffering of the Chinese people on the mainland instead of indicating American friendship."

Russia's Allies To View Visit

GENEVA (AP) — The European Broadcasting Union said today it has received a positive request from the East European television services to be hooked into telecasts on President Nixon's visit to China. They will be relayed via Vienna to Prague and from there to all East European countries except Albania, China's only European ally.

Reds Attack

SAIGON (AP) — The Vietnamese Communists launched a spate of attacks today that killed two Americans, wounded 10 and destroyed or damaged six helicopters and one tank. Most of the action occurred north of Saigon.

Man, That's Action

Harvey Boudreau is a fast man on the badminton court, but he needed a little help from the photographer to appear two places at the same time. These examples of rapid footwork by the Trenton team's captain, led their courts to a 67-66 victory over Oshawa in the eight annual Doug Grant Invitational Badminton tournament held at Centennial Secondary School Saturday. Britain's Jobless Multiply

Power Cuts Continue

LONDON (CP) — Electricity cuts continued to block out homes and factories across Britain today and threatened to raise the jobless total above three million despite the promise of an end to the coal miners' strike.

Despite a rush to get coal supplies to power plants by truck, train and ship, the central electricity generating board warned it would be "a long uphill battle ... to raise full supplies of electricity."

In the meantime, nine hours a day of power blackouts continued and factories remained on a three-day week. More manpower layoffs due today were expected to raise the unemployment total from 2.8 million on Friday to more than three million, the highest since the Depression years of the 1930s.

Leaders of the miner's union agreed early Saturday to recommend acceptance of a 25 per cent pay raise for their members. They immediately called off the picket duty that kept coal supplies from reaching generating plants throughout the six-week strike.

Ballots went out to the miners today on the proposed pay settlement. They were expected to vote Wednesday. Acceptance would permit a return to work next week.

Sixty Flights To Be Cancelled

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The strike of airport technicians continued to hamper commercial air traffic across Canada today as it entered its 17th day with no apparent end in sight.

In Toronto, an Air Canada spokesman said up to 60 flights would be cancelled today.

Bad weather conditions over the weekend didn't help matters.

A blizzard in Montreal Saturday sharply reduced operations and actually closed the airport for 90 minutes to allow for snow removal. At least 40 Air Canada flights were cancelled out of Ottawa and Montreal Saturday.

A CP spokesman in Toronto said his airline's operations were behind schedule but managed to get through the weekend without a cancellation.

COLERAINE, Northern Ireland (Reuter) — Lord Widgery, lord chief justice of Britain, was scheduled to open his inquiry today into the deaths of 13 persons during the Bloody Sunday march in Londonderry three weeks ago.

He will do it without the cooperation of relatives of the dead, who have said they would boycott the inquiry because they feel it is neither independent nor impartial. Civil rights associations members also have promised not to take part.

Bogside Shots Echo in Night

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland (Reuter) — British troops and guerrilla snipers shrugged it out with gunfire throughout the night and early morning in Londonderry.

Riots broke out in the Catholic Bogside district. Snipers fired 61 shots at 300 British troops and the soldiers fired back in gun battles that lasted till dawn, the army said. There were no casualties on either side, it added.

In one battle lasting an hour troops sprayed gunfire at the bell tower of St. Eugene's Catholic Cathedral during Sunday evening mass.

Gun Pulled On Officer

What began as a routine vehicle chase last night ended with an OPP Constable fighting over possession of a loaded automatic in the hands of a prisoner.

Belleville OPP Constable Robert Jackson observed a late-model Jaguar sports car proceeding east on Highway 401 shortly after 9 p.m. last night. He gave chase to the speeding vehicle, but the high-powered machine eluded him, escaping into the city.

Some time later, Constable Brian Skinner observed the car parked in the Quinte Mall at the rear of Nurshire Nine. OPP district headquarters on North Front Street. The occupants were arrested. Both were searched.

Jacques Blouin, 21, also of Montreal was driven the short distance to OPP headquarters in a second police cruiser. Jacques Blouin, 21, also to Montreal was placed in the rear of Constable Constable Skinner's squad car.

While returning to the office, police report, Blouin pulled a 22 calibre sawn - short loaded automatic on the officer, demanding his release.

The constable refused, a scuffle ensued. The officer was able to obtain possession of the gun.

Blouin will be charged with pointing a firearm. Other charges against the Montreal pair are pending.

Dogs Run Deer In Elzevir

TWEED (Special) — Elzevir township council has received a request that something be done to control dogs running at large and killing deer.

The request was made by a delegation attending the February meeting of the council body. Council will advise the animal control officer and also the separation of lands and forests of the problem.

Wildlife officials at Tweed each year warn about dogs running loose and causing and killing deer.

WHAT IS FEVER ?
Simply stated, a fever is a rise in your body temperature. But, this rise, above the usual norm of 98.6 does not by itself mean that you are ill. Fever is actually a reaction by the body to a great many possible conditions. Colds, injuries, excessive exposure to heat, can effect the portion of your brain that regulates temperature and cause it to rise.
The important thing to know is, whatever the cause, a fever is a signal by your body that there might be something wrong. Always have an accurate dependable thermometer in the house.

Safe Drivers Recognized

A cool head and constant alertness are all part of the game for the men who drive transport, delivery trucks and chauffeur passengers.

To honor these knights of the road, the Transportation Safety Association of Ontario holds an annual banquet in the Quinte area. In give years the native Robert Newell a chance to drive "scientifically" for men and one woman driver.

Each must chalk up a complete, accident - free year on the highways or streets on which they drive.

But being a safe driver does not just mean expert handling of machinery. Safety is also exercising courtesy to others around you," Mr. Newell told the more than 400 guests gathered for the Saturday night awards banquet at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall on Pinnacle Street.

"Every minute you are behind the wheel, drive as if your life depends on it, because after all, you life does depend on the driver ... drive so as to prevent accidents.

"Always be a courteous driver," he emphasized.

Most of the majority were presented with safe driving plies ranging from one to five years, while a handful of awards were raised for more than a decade, or more, of free driving.

Topping this list was Jack Henderson, a veteran Moira-Schaster driver with 35 years safety years. Also included in the 25 year-plus category were Richard Campbell, another Moira - Schaster driver with 31-years, Alex Rushlow, a Moira - Schaster man with 29 years, Leo Peebles of Dartmouth Transport in Colborne with 28 years, and Vincent Campbell, a 25-year-safe driver with Toronto-Peterborough Transport.

The awards were presented by Belleville Police Inspector Ralph Blatchford and OPP Sergeant A. J. Parry.

Big Problem Was Drifting

Quinte district civellers went back to work as usual today—after a weekend marked by one of the heftiest storms of the winter.

Heavy snow, driven by high winds swept the district, causing hazardous driving conditions that lasted through the day.

The combination caused severe drifting throughout the district — county roads were impassable in the morning — reducing traffic volume to a cautious crawl. No serious accidents were reported by police during the storm.

In the Belleville area, 4.5 inches of snow fell from late Friday through to Sunday, and winds gusted up to 45 miles an hour.

Today, light snow was still falling, although predictions were that it would cease by noon, while a few flurries might fall overnight.

Tomorrow, said the CFB Trenton duty forecaster would be sunny and cold.

The snow moved in Friday night, blanketing the district

Snowmobiling Teenagers Are Injured

TRENTON (Staff) — Two Trenton teenagers are being treated today at the hospital here for injuries received Sunday when a snowmobile on which they were riding was struck by an automobile on Telephone Road in Murray township.

Miss Norma Smith, 17, of 67 John Street is in Trenton Memorial Hospital's intensive care unit undergoing examination for possible head injuries while Donald Sizenburg 19, of 14 Weeks Ave., receives medical attention for leg injuries.

Sizenburn had been driving the snowmobile about 10:30 last night on Telephone Road when it came into collision with a car driven by Gary Boutilier of RR3, Trenton.

throughout Saturday. The winds also increased, gusting heavily by night-fall — a combination that created dangerous drifting on highways, county and township roads throughout the district.

Drifting remained a problem Sunday after the snow had lifted. Temperatures also dropped — the high Sunday in Belleville was 10 above.

About 1,000 people were estimated to have turned up at Madoc Fairgrounds to watch snowmobile races. No part of the program — which started Friday night — was cancelled despite weather conditions, said carnivel chairman Mrs. Ruth Burnside.

Today, only one school bus cancellation was reported by Hastings County Board of Education. The vehicle, serving Madoc township school was cancelled because of drifting on country roads.

Snowmobile-a-thon Raises $2,000, Plus

ATHOL (Staff) — A snowmobile-a-thon sponsored Sunday by the Athol township recreation committee has raised more than $2,000 in donations and pledges for improvements to a local ball diamond.

Run over a 40-mile course, this special snowmobile event attracted 50 entrants. Vernon Armstrong, a Cherry Valley resident who is a member of the Athol recreation committee, said that more than $1,500 was raised in pledges.

Members of the Cherry Valley Western Horse Association voted to donate approximately $200 to the snowmobile-a-thon funds.

Mrs. Clifford Fennell and residents who won cash prizes for soliciting the most pledge money also donated their combined winnings of $35 to the project.

The money will be used to provide new lights and bleachers for the Athol ball diamond.

The snowmobile-a-thon was organized by a five-member committee including Clifford Fennell, Leland Ostrander Donald Sarley, Gaye Insley, and Vernon Armstrong.

Mr. Armstrong described the weather as "just great" for yesterday's cross-country ride and said that more than 100 spectators gathered at Athol Central School where the snowmobile-a-thon course began.

Draw prizes were awarded to winners Mervin Bentley, Milford; Shirley Ostrander, Cherry Valley; Stephen Brown Milford; Harley Brumwell, RR1, Cherry Valley; Gary Leavitt, Picton and Lloyd Rankin RR1, Cherry Valley.

Mr. Armstrong noted that members of the Cherry Valley Lions Club were on hand to balance brigade were on duty throughout the afternoon's events.

Courses Added At Queen Victoria

Queen Victoria School's community program is instituting two new courses by popular demand, and changing the schedule of the chess club.

A second course in macrame will be offered, beginning Feb. 23 from 7 to 9 p.m. Mrs. Elizabeth Marshall is the instructor for the knotting course and the fee is $5.

Group guitar lessons for children will start March 1 and continue every Wednesday from 4:15 to 5:15 p.m. The lessons are free, but each must supply his own guitar. Donald Poynter is the instructor.

Because of the large number of children participating, the hours of chess have been changed. Children 15 years and younger are asked to come from 7 to 8 p.m. Tuesdays. The adult group, 16 and over, will meet from 8 p.m. Chess is played in the school lounge and novices and inexperienced players are welcome. Dick Lovering is the instructor.

Men's and women's keep-fit classes have been suspended until more interest is shown, they will begin again in the spring.

Anyone interested in taking the courses is asked to telephone the school office at 968-6316.

Loot Light In Break-ins

City police this morning are looking for a penny-ante thief who broke into the 10 Steve-bank Road home of Leo Tarp some time between noon, Saturday and 6 p.m. Sunday.

After gaining entry through a basement window, the thief ransacked the Tarps home, and stole a decanter of wine, plus $2 in pennies.

Driverless Car Smashes Window

An empty car rolled across Tweed's main street early this morning and took out a plate glass window and some foundation bricks from Belch's Drug Store.

The car is owned by Clarence Thompson, proprietor of Thompson's Meat Market in the village. About 7:30 this morning he went to the village cein laundry and left his car running while he went to get some change. The car rolled in reverse across the street and took out the 13-by-8 foot window in the front of the drug store. Damage is estimated at about $400.

Delay of Decision To Be Explained

TRENTON (Staff) — The town of Trenton has received a report from the community planning branch of the department of municipal affairs explaining why it has taken more than six months reviewing Trenton's new official plan and still has not approved it.

"There are things about the official plan they are not happy about," Mayor Duncan McDonald said today. The matter is expected to be discussed at this evening's regular council meeting.

Council tonight will also hear a report from the Ontario Water Resources Commission on proposed explanation of the proposed sewage treatment plant here as well as a petition from senior citizens, objecting to possible increase in taxi fares in the town.

The resolution will also be introduced in the meeting to cover an agreement by which a Trenton man, Lyle Carr, will build a road to connect Colt-crise St., in the west end around the west side of Mount Pelion to connect with Stanley St. In exchange for this the town will give him rights to gravel located on town-owned property.

It's All in How You Hold Your Face

Four winners — including a brother and sister combination from Centennial Secondary School — were chosen over the weekend in the Royal Canadian Legion public speaking contest. The quartet now proceeds to next Sunday's zone talk-out here, a prelude to the provincial final in March.

Winner in the grade one-six category was Brenda Seto of Queen Victoria Public School who spoke on Chinese life in Belleville. Tops in grade seven-eight was Kendall Werden, Harmony School, telling about stamp collecting. Twenty-nine youngsters took part in Saturday morning's junior competition while nine spoke in the grade seven-eight section during the afternoon.

Sunday was a family affair with Philip LaChapelle winning for grade nine-11 and his sister, Sandra, the grade 12-13 group. Philip competing against three other students, spoke on drama while Sandra who had only one opponent, discussed motivation.

Saturday's judges were Roy Dulmage, retired from Hastings County school board; Gary Thomson, Centennial teacher; and Miss Myrtle Reid, teacher at QEI. Judges Sunday were Bill McConnell, Centennial teacher, and Jack Coates, retired school board employee.

Contestants were treated to lunch by members of Legion branches 99 and 597.

Tweed Winter Carnival Was Rousing Success

TWEED (Special) — Now that the excitement's over and everyone's thawed out, it can be reported that this year's Tweed Winter Carnival was the most successful in its eight year history.

Beginning with a torchlight parade, presided over by Snow Queen Judy Jones, events proceeded at a rapid pace with something for everybody in the three-day program. Chairman Guy B. Hughes breathed a sigh of relief as temperatures stayed well above zero and snow held off.

Miss Jones was chosen queen at the annual Snow Queen Ball held on opening night. Her princesses, also from Tweed, were Michelle Rashotte and Louise Cassidy.

The award for top parade float went to Sawyer-Soil Company with Allan Allore gaining second prize and Royal Canadian Legion third. They received cheques for $20, $15 and $10, presented respectively by the Bank of Montreal, Simon Merrew and Thompson's Meat Market.

Consolation prizes of $5, donated by the Bank of Commerce and the Bank of Montreal, were won by the Kleensweeps, St. Carthagh's School and S. H. Connor Public School.

A Grey Cup ticket stub, 10 business receipts, a 1960 calendar and a shepherd's crook were among the items scavenger hunters were asked to retrieve Saturday. Faye and Carol LeSage won a dinner for four at Land O'Lakes Restaurant, Tweed, by rounding up 20 of the zany missing articles.

Second prize of dinner for two at Kwan's Restaurant, Tweed, went to Barbara Colton and Carolyne Rogers; third prize of five silver dollars to Dean Lough and helpers Greg Carroll, Michael Champagne and Harvey Lough and fourth prize, two silver dollars, to Marlene Baker and Eileen Monaghan.

Skiers were delighted by the luxurious running of cross-country races, events likely to recur in years to come. Among senior competitors, J. F. Edwards captured the 13-mile event and Frank Nesbitt the six-mile.

Intermediate 12-mile stunt winner was Al Maddon with the ladies' intermediate six-mile race going to Cecile Plamondon. Thomas Reynolds captured the six-mile junior boy's race and Karen Reynolds the two - and - a - half mile event for bantam girls.

More than 20 skiers participated with winners received trophies from Spencer Insurance. Chairman of the ski competition was Rev. Ian Munro.

Snowmobiling was as popular as ever with this year's races attracting a record entry of 200 drivers, including some of the province's top men and women. Tweed is fast acquiring a name for having one of the best non-sanctioned races in Ontario, demonstrated by the fact that spectators braved damp weather to see the entire competition.

Sunday morning's pancake breakfast lured between 600 and 800 hungry revellers to the Curling Club where flapjacks and maple syrup were in good supply.

BCI Variety Show Packs Auditorium

Swamp Lake, performed by five very homely girls (men in disguise) and one actual girl, broke packed houses into broad laughter Friday and Saturday nights at Belleville Collegiate Institute's Kampus Kapers.

Both nights were all but sold out for the student spectacular, highlighting all creative activities of the student body.

Entertainment ranged from broad comedy, as when a male dancer in Swamp Lake lost his bra, to grace and precision with the school gymnastic team.

Now a tradition the school's gymnastic team has performed for the event every year since its beginning.

Broken into two acts, the first was stolen with a fine performance by a piano and trumpet duo.

Bob Cronk, playing trumpet and Laura Jenkins performed an old number House of the Rising Sun and a contemporary piece by Chicago called Color My World.

Again the second act was all but stolen with a beautiful singer-pianist duo.

As Laura Jenkins returned to the piano bench, Anne Finkle reached the balconies with her interpretation of the Jesus Christ Superstar hit. I Don't Know How to Love Him.

The finale of the evening came with the teachers taking over the stage to bring to life Mother Hubbard's School House.

Inflation Is King

It looks as if the British coal miners are going to get significant pay raises and we have no doubt they deserve it. However it is inevitable that other sectors of the British economy will be demanding more money too which will mean consumer price increases and a boost to the inflationary cycle in Britain.

But then western economies seem to be able to live with inflation, despite all the dire warnings. Nothing stands still and that includes wage and price levels. It is psychological as much as material: the upward cycle is a reflection of the human need for movement, progress, recognition of worth and so on. The fact that much of the wage boosts is swallowed up by increases in the cost of other goods goes largely unnoticed.

Meanwhile inflation is king. Efforts to control it have not been noticeably successful in Canada and it is no different in Britain; the miners justifiably point to increases in the money being earned by other sectors, as well as by parliamentarians. The same applies here; there are wide variations from profession to profession and the parliamentarians voted themselves more money not so long ago.

Consider the spiralling cost of municipal services. Belleville city council for instance is to continue obtaining its water supply from the Bay of Quinte instead of piping it from Lake Ontario. Yet necessary capital works — the expansion of the Belleville filtration plant — will mean a significant increase in the cost of water in future.

And so it goes. If there is any one point to the inflationary cycle we have yet to hear any economist, let alone government spokesman, admit it. Ideally, the miners in Britain will now produce more coal, for increased production is a necessary counterbalance to increased wages, but whether that will be the case there, any more than it is in similar situations here, is another matter. Perhaps we can merely say, "inflation — heal thyself;" but even that is a tall order.

Need for Caution

The dreadful occurrence in Blackpool, England, when three sleeping children were murdered in their hospital cots and two nurses and a third infant wounded by a knife-wielding intruder, must alert hospital authorities everywhere to the need for tighter security.

How this should be accomplished is a matter for the hospitals and their governing boards, but there can be no argument that entry to a hospital in the early hours, as was the case by the suspect in the Blackpool affair, is not that difficult, and particularly when posing as a staff member. The fact that a foreign-born doctor at the hospital is being held as a suspect does not negate the fact that anybody could enter a hospital on such a flimsy pretext.

In Rochester, N.Y., meanwhile, we see that a Citizens for a Decent Community committee has been established in the wake of the abduction and slaying of three weeks ago of a female girl. As we recall the girl was around seven years and her killer has not been found. The committee is hoping to keep interest in the case alive, in the hope that clues may be found, while at the same time campaigning against pornographic and other undesirable literature which the members are convinced is linked with violent sex crimes.

This is a commendable public response on the part of the Rochester group. There is plenty on magazine shelves in Canada, right here in Belleville in fact, which should concern citizens, and the amount of free reading, incidentally, that gets done by young people and not a few adults is phenomenal.

Charged with Spying

There is no let up in the grand old game of international espionage. It is an industry long established, but just as U.S. Defence Secretary Melvin Laird has been talking of increased Soviet arms spending we read of the arrest in a New York diner (of such are the classic elements of spy fiction) of a Soviet employee of the United Nations. Valery I. Markelov, 32, was seized after receiving classified documents from a Grumman Aerospace Corporation engineer who was working for the FBI.

On Mere Whims Votes Could Be Cast
Allowances Mix-up, A Conscientious MP., and the PM's Hair

by FARMER TISSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — In a recent column I discussed problems the government is having with its bill designed to increase family allowances for some Canadians and how an argument in the Quebec has almost ruined any chance of meeting a May deadline for payment of the increased benefits.

An interesting sidelight to this one which has brought a lot of disappointment to many people and embarrassment to others has been the attempt of some members of Parliament to inform their constituents of the better world to come.

One of these is Ambrose Peddle, a Newfoundland Conservative. Lest fall he hit upon the idea of sending out a circular to all the families in his riding drawing their attention to Bill C-264 and what it would mean to them in increased benefits through the baby bonus.

Mr. Peddle pointed out the amount of allowance to be paid to a family under the proposed new legislation would be governed by several factors such as total family income and number and ages of children. As he believed many persons would be baffled by the complexity of the regulations, he offered to work out for each one who replied how much their allowance cheque would be, starting May 1.

He made up a mimeographed form for this purpose and mailed it out to nearly 15,000 families in his riding of Grand Falls-White Bay-Labrador. As the replies with the necessary family information came in, Mr Peddle and his two secretaries figured out the amount of the new allowance and returned the information to the constituent.

"The plan is so complicated," Mr. Peddle told me, "that the complexity of it defies explantion. The government hasn't explained the plan, except in Parliament, so I felt an obligation to the people of my riding. The letter has no official status, I'm simply providing information. Isn't that what they elected me for?"

That was several months ago. Since then almost half of the 14,000 families have replied and more of the forms are being returned every day. It has been a mammoth job for Mr. Peddle and his staff.

But, according to his woes in recent weeks is the necessity of sending a second letter to the families, pointing out that the legislation has been delayed and stating that the increased family allowance cheques very likely will not be received by the promised May date.

Of course, the Newfoundland MP also can point out that this has not occurred through the fault of his or of his party. But it is a safe bet that many of Mr. Peddle's constituents will fail to appreciate this point. When they don't get those bigger cheques in May, they will remember only that it was Ambrose Peddle who said they would.

Since the prime minister gained national prominence those who count his shoulder shrugs are surpassed in number only by those who argue about his hair.

Several schools of thought have sprung up over the last three or four years. There is the school which claims he is rapidly losing his hair. Another contingent contends he has been getting secret hair transplants. His Ottawa barber has become mildly famous.

The frequency of his shampoos has been charted on the basis of how often his hair looks fresher than usual. Letters to the editor have demanded, on the one hand, that he get his hair cut much shorter and, on the other, that people should mind their own damn business.

But now, from a very high and unreliable source, we have still another version. Writing in the prestigious Christian Science Monitor, their Washington man, Richard Strout, is quoted in the latest follower Mr. Trudeau's December visit to Washington, as follows:

"We watched Trudeau at a bilingual press conference here, sitting relaxed under his waved mop of hair. . . ."

Well How about that!

Is there no way to keep these Americans out of the bathrooms of our nation?

Council to Counter Urban Sprawl

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

May we once again commend Mrs. Robin Jeffrey for her attempt to persuade council to preserve some open land for a natural park north of Belleville?

It is attractive marsh and wooded area with many birds — some unusual — and some wildlife.

Mr. Frank Murray in his recent address to the Chamber of Commerce also spoke on the need for conserving land.

Once the land is lost to the developers we shall not get it back. It is sad that we do not care enough to prevent the complete submerging of Belleville, under an urban sprawl.

Anyone who has visited bigger cities must realize how much green belt land is needed. But it takes foresight and planning by council — and citizens should have some influence on councils' decisions.

MRS. JO REDDICK

Future of The Sandbanks

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Gordon Taylor's chatty little get-together with Leo Bernier on the Sandbanks last week revealed two things — they are good pals and there may be an alternative site to the Sandbanks beach.

Let us hope the negotiations will not be characterized by the usual protracted dickering by the parties involved. Simply stated, it is not good enough for the people of Ontario to lose one of their prime natural attractions over the counters of builders' merchants in the form of cement.

The Lake Ontario Cement Company attitude leaves a great deal to be desired. OK, so they have a legal right to remove the sand due to handling on the part of the provincial government in the past, so they are sitting tight.

What happens when the Sandbanks supply finally runs out. Does the company merely close down or will it find itself an alternative site? You bet your life it will. All these companies have options on suitable sites. How else could they expect to continue in production as they use up supplies?

The government ought not to be too lenient. If a suitable slit of reasonable quality is found the company should accept it without further equivocation.

If this item is left until the dune presently being excavated is demolished, the people of Ontario will have cause to recall the present provincial government with displeasure.

WILLIAM C. HOCKLEY

Action Urged on Vandalism

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I rote with much satisfaction that city council has finally taken action to reduce vandalism in the city. These acts of mutally should have been taken much sooner. Both homeowners and business alike want action to be taken and strong action at that. They should a basis for "punks" be allowed to carry out these acts of vandalism?

We congratulate Ald. Ireland for bringing this before council for action and we most certainly agrees with Ald. Jean Smith that this is a real community problem. However we are most disappointed (and disgusted) with the attitude of Ald. Russell. As a lawyer he should be spearheading action against vandalism! If sentences passed out by the courts are "wrong" and the courts are being plagued with cases, etc., etc., then why doesn't Ald. Russell get together with some of his other law colleagues in the city (even with those in the province) and correct the situations he mentions.

Let us not sit back and be complacent Ald. Russell. Let's have action and rid this city of vandalism. In fact let's rid the province and the rest of Canada of this despicable practice. Let us put "punch" back in the word LAW, where it used to be years ago. Let's use LAW for the benefit of the citizens of this city and this country and NOT for the benefit of the lawbreakers.

More Opposed To Wild Boar Hunting

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

We understand there is a plan underway to have a wild-boar hunting area on property in the township of Seymour, in Northumberland County. Many people in this area are concerned that this proposal will become a reality.

Mr. P. Rapal of Delhi, Ont., the man behind this proposal, has raised the "wild boars" under domestic conditions. So when loose in this "preserve" have to be shot at, killed or injured by a few Great White Hunters who can afford the "slaughtered fees." Is this what we call sport?

Apart from the danger of stray shots by animals, there is equally obvious danger to humans who happen to approach the perimeter of this "preserve".

Hopefully, the citizens of your area will oppose any application to use land in the way planned. Sport of this nature is not needed in this day and age.

Mindless Showoffs Give Snowmobilers Bad Name

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I read with interest the article by D. Buchanan in defense of snowmobilers.

It was a very good article and was well written but, having been done by a snowmobile bug, I feel it did leave out several very important points which I think, are the basis for most complaints.

Those few drivers who exercise care when driving are the good guys. These are not the people who are the targets for complaints. Unfortunately, with the growing number of snowmobiles as mentioned, comes the growing number of operators who show a lack of training and brains. This should make the good guy feel badly because the conduct of the bad driver is such that all operators are tarred with the one brush.

The snowmobile is a noisy monster and there is no denying this. This could be acceptable without problem if most drivers would show some thought while operating.

Now for the points that I feel Mr. Buchanan missed.

A vast number of operators — and I say this advisedly — park their brains and their manners somewhere out of reach the moment they mount their vehicles. They open up and take off like roaring maniacs. I know of no better word. They have no apparent thought of driving quietly in the open spaces where no one would complain or care. They are king of the road the minute they open the throttle. There is utter disregard for people who might be walking. The attitude seems to be — go ahead, get out of my way I'm king.

Snowmobiles make a noise far out of proportion to the machine and revving up is done purposely sometimes to create a noise and to advertise the power potential of the crate. There is oftentimes exhibition driving the moment someone pays attention — even if the viewer has a jaundiced eye. I see these fellows operate every day and night.

It must be admitted that there are a lot more auto accidents than snowmobile accidents but — there are a lot more cars so that cuts that argument. A great many operators think nothing of roaring their machines down the road or street at night when many dayworkers are in bed. I'm sure that a lot of subdued but eloquent language comes into play after their passing. I know that I am prompted thus. A lot of youngsters are allowed the use of snowmobiles when barely out of the kiddie car stage. There are many things done wrong than right presently in this regard.

Now these are some of the things I thought not covered. Wouldn't it be easier to find good guys, especially in clubs, to pass out a few hints on behavior and manners when straddling one of these things? Wouldn't it help to bring about better tolerance if the guilty operators were forced to point to their heads while driving? I don't think that anyone intentionally wants to spoil anybody's fun. However, no citizen needs to be fooled into putting up with the antics of some of these headless drivers without registering a beef. People holler now to be sure but contemplate on who gives the most and loudest howls.

Thurlow Farmer Outlines Views on Fertilizer

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

In respect to the article in your paper on Friday, February 11, written by Brian Amazon entitled Human Waste Fertilizer and Special Articles.

As a resident of Thurlow Township who signed the petition I would like to state that I am fully aware that human waste contains material is a good fertilizer and is probably beneficial in many instances, particularly when used on farm land where it is plowed into the soil.

This is a new method in use with it new homes on the same sewage disposal plants. The last new home is beside Mr. Robinson's Macrae farm.

Perhaps we are unduly concerned, as it was mentioned that tons of this human waste fertilizer is put onto farm land in England — also in Europe. However our climate is somewhat different from England's where it rains that in a long dry summer the soil would become saturated with the continual dumping of thousands of gallons of waste material over a longer period.

We have septic tanks and tile beds and these are closely inspected to protect our water supply and we are concerned with the dumping of human waste plus chemicals nearby which we must depend on for use for drinking water.

It was mentioned in the article that this is the first time human waste had been dealt with and that the sewage sludge should not be dumped so close to a residential area. We are not on farm land. Being such a good fertilizer would it not be better if such were diverted to different farm lands and plowed into the soil, or at least that this transfer station for sewage be in a more isolated area away from residences.

GLYNN G. THOMAS

American Guidance Counsellor Calls for Changes in Methods

William Fiskin, a guidance counsellor from upper New York State, told more than 40 student teachers and staff members of Kingston's McArthur College "guidance counsellors have to change now or they will become obsolete."

The Kingston people were practice-teaching in Ottawa and were invited to the professional development day of the Ottawa Board of Education.

Guidance counsellors from across the city left their offices for the two-day seminars directed at how to better reach the entire school population and not to concentrate solely on crisis situations.

All Ottawa schools were closed for the day to free teachers wishing to attend.

"We must get into a developmental program, and the time is now," said Mr. Fiskin.

Mr. Fiskin's solution to the guidance counselling dilema of ever - increasing paper-work is the institution of the "peer group counselling" method.

"The whole thing revolves around people talking to other people," he said. "Peer groups, or groups of people with a common factor such as age or intelligence, can talk to each other, communicating equally, and offer help to each other."

Mr. Fiskin mentioned that anyone who turns students on to this sort of program must be ready to face the music if something goes wrong. "It is a touchy sort of thing and must be cultivated."

As an example of the technique, he related his experience in a high school where students sat in a study hall and were not allowed to talk to one another.

The system was changed somewhat, permitting students on one side of the cafeteria to talk about anything they wanted, while the other side remained mute.

"As soon as the kids started to cross the room to talk about problems or anxieties, we had a form of peer group counselling," he said.

"What we are doing is setting up a situation where, in this case, students can communicate freely with the people they are most commonly in contact with," he said.

They listen to their friend's problems, and through talking, find a way of solving them.

"It is this serious situation of poor communications that will have to be solved by the guidance people now", said Mr. Fitkin. "After all, talking is your business."

"How do you counsel someone? There isn't an easy answer," he said. Methods will have to be formed from experience which brings us to the problem of inter-staff communications."

Mr. Fitkin said most staff communications problems are much more severe than the problem with the younger student.

"We should be pooling our resources, helping each other to understand the workings of the young person and how best to help with their problems," he said.

"If we don't start doing something in this area, we may find before too long that guidance people will be becoming obsolete and not needed in the system," he said.

The peer group counselling makes it sound as if we are doing away with our own jobs but this is not the case, rather we are permitting a freer flow of information between ourselves. This information can then possibly be passed through a counsellor."

After his address, most of the guidance people attending the session approached to shake hands and smile, but a large percentage remained unconvinced of the merits of peer counselling.

Those in favor swore by it, while those against said it gave too much autonomy to peer group (students).

After Mr. Fitkin's initial address he led a discussion group of about 75 guidance people. Ray Ball, head of guidance in an Ontario County School led a similar group.

Mr. Ball, from the Alex-Pickering area, about 20 miles east of Toronto, spoke to the group on his experiences running a drop-in centre.

The centre had been run from the building of Dunbarton High School (located near Pickering) existing for two years as the most successful endeavor in the Toronto area.

The close of the afternoon's activities came with a combined panel discussion of both Mr. Fitkin and Mr. Ball fielding questions from the audience.

The merits of peer group counselling were illustrated in the drop-in centre activity and tentative plans "may be in the works for another drop-in centre" in one of the Ottawa high schools. At the moment, problems are cropping up through lack of interest resulting in poor attendance.

The Kingston students are expected to complete their practice sessions this week and then return to Kingston.

Quinte District Dentists Open Clinic for Plates

A new, low-cost denture service is being set up by Bay of Quinte area dentists, beginning today.

The denture service will be supplied by dental surgeons and legally qualified licensed technicians residing in the area, at a fee considerably lower than the personalized dentures now being supplied by all dental surgeons.

The new service is offered by members of the Bay of Quinte Dental Society in conjunction with the members of the Bay of Quinte Dental Laboratories and the Ontario Dental Association.

"Our aim is to supply a standard prosthetic appliance of good quality," said a spokesman for the local dental society in announcing the new service.

The fee for a complete set of upper and lower dentures will be $195. This will include a complete oral examination for such pathological conditions as infections, bone diseases, cysts, malignancies, tumors, retained roots and other abnormalities, and x-rays if required for the examination.

If further treatment or examinations are necessary, the patient will be referred to a dentist of his choice on a private patient basis.

This pilot project is one of several now being offered by dental societies throughout Ontario.

In the case of the Bay of Quinte service, however, there will be no central clinic building where the denture service will be offered.

To save capital costs, the service will be offered by designated dentists in their offices on a rotation basis.

The patient wishing the low-cost dentures is asked to telephone 968-4422 or to write to Box 841, Belleville. He will be assigned to a dentist prepared to make the examination and prescribe the dentures. The appliances will be made in the local dental lab.

"The patient will lose the right of choice as to the type of appliance, and the person not supplying the service," said the dentists' spokesman.

"The cost has been reduced by the fact that it is a combined effort of locally qualified and government licensed dental surgeons and technicians working together on a group basis. The aim is to improve the dental health and thus the general physical well being of the citizens of this area."

Because the Bay of Quinte Dental Society includes all dentists in the county, the service will be available over a wide area.

The service is offered to everyone, regardless of age or income.

Cost of either an upper plate or a lower plate will be about half the cost of full dentures.

Train Strikes Town Grader

TRENTON (Staff) — The ore train struck again Friday — so did a grader.

Town police report the public works grader was hit by the train at the Benlock St. crossing shortly after 3 p.m. and that the grader smashed into the side of a house as it was pushed off the tracks on impact.

Aluminum siding on the house at 48 Benlock was heavily damaged in the incident and an interior wall was cracked, police say.

Steering mechanism of the grader was damaged and the piece of equipment was towed back to its garage for repair. The train proceeded to Marmora shortly after the occurrence.

No injuries resulted from the mishap.

Culmer Heads Ag. Society

PICTON (Staff) — Charles Culmer, a prominent Prince Edward County horseman, recently was elected president of the Prince Edward County Agricultural Society for a two year term.

Mr. Culmer, who annually takes an active part at horse shows and fairs throughout eastern Ontario, succeeds retiring president Walter Demille of Picton. First vice-president is Thomas May, Picton and second vice-president is Creighton Carr, Picton.

An election of executive and directors was held last week at the annual meeting of the Prince Edward Agricultural Society.

Theatre Guild Misses Drama Festival Spot

It was learned today that Belleville will have no representation in this year's Eastern Ontario Drama Festival to be held in Lindsay.

The Belleville Theatre Guild was the only local company to compete for a competition berth, but their hopes were squashed last week after an adjudication by festival organizers.

Ron Hartman, a Toronto-based actor and director, had been appointed by festival organizers to preview each of six companies to determine which five would occupy final competing spots.

The five, who will be finalists in this year's production are Ottawa, Osgoode (located near Ottawa), Peterborough, Brockville and Kingston.

Lindsay, the home city of this year's activities will not have representation at the festival.

"The last thing I want to do is offer excuses for our failure to be included in the competition," said director Ted Bairstow. "We have a good play but it just wasn't what the adjudicator was looking for."

A criticism made by the adjudicator was, "it is a very light comedy designed to make people laugh, and I think you people are taking it too seriously."

"At that stage of the game we were taking it seriously," said Bairstow.

The group had been in rehearsal for three weeks, with no set.

Even without a set available to see, adjudicator Hartman claimed the set would be too slow moving. That is action on stage would be slowed through the design of the set.

"He was a very good adjudicator and offered many helpful comments that will aid in the final production of the play," said Mr. Bairstow.

"After comparing our play to the others, he felt that they had a better chance of getting it all together before the festival than we did," the director said.

"I think the play is in good shape, as good or better than anything done so far."

Speaking to members of the company, both acting members and stage hands, most reacted saying, "of course we are a little disappointed, this festival is what we were working for. The show is still going on though, as a good one."

Tickets are now on sale for the Rainmaker. By calling the playhouse at 967-1442, seats will be reserved upon request.

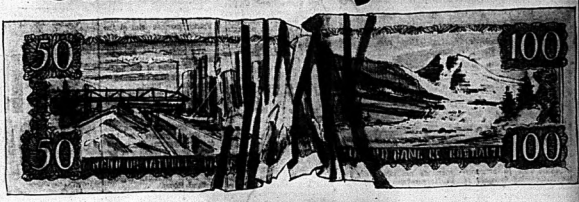
The play opens Wednesday, Feb. 23.

Centre Hastings Education Week

Centre Hastings will again hold its own Education Week banquet this year, in the cafeteria of Centre Hastings Secondary School at 6:30 p.m. March 7.

Richard Needham of the Toronto Globe and Mail will be the guest speaker for the occasion.

An award will be presented again this year to someone who has made a significant contribution to education in the area. The public is invited to nominate candidates for the award, by writing W. G. Beever, vice - principal of CHSS at the school.



Educators or school board members are eligible to receive the award.

Home Economist Works at Centre

EDMONTON (CP) — Canada's first home economist to work in a city community centre has been a success—so successful in fact that the Alberta agriculture department is considering having more of them.

"The department has traditionally provided services designed to enhance family living but these have always been directed toward a rural population" said Frances Cullen, who was appointed an urban home economist in Canada in July, 1969.

"Recently, however, the growth of cities and the multiplicity of choices facing the city dweller have shown that these services are also needed there."

Miss Cullen, a native of Charlottetown, said the urban program offers unlimited opportunities for home economists to help.

She finds, for example, that a young woman with a couple of young children may move to the city and not know another woman. There's no one she can call to ask about relatively simple problems such as where to find the best bargains or more serious problems such as how to find a housekeeper if she should become ill.

"People need people and they need the opportunities that a community centre like this one can provide. Once we get a group going, the women themselves start other groups to meet their own needs and the workers at the centre just become the resources they call on when they need help."

A community centre needs a home economist as well as social workers, child-guidance personnel, family counsellors, nurses and so on, Miss Cullen said.

"After, six months, the demand here was so much I was going like a whirling dervish.

"They see me about balancing the budget or making the most limited—and these are important in keeping the home together."

One of her biggest challenges is getting the people who most need her help to come.

"It's not the kind of thing you advertise and people come out in droves. It's finding the shy and the poor and the ones tied down by pressures. That's the kind of person a home economist can help."

Miss Cullen teaches some courses herself and acts as a guest speaker to other community organizations.

She also takes part in local television and radio programs, running a consumer's corner, and participates in radio open-line shows.

"TV programs take a considerable amount of time for preparation—researching and getting ready to give the talk in an interesting way," she said. "They also bring a lot of requests for further information by telephone.

"But they offer a means of reaching so many more people that it's worth the effort."

Not all those with budget problems are on minimal incomes. Of the 30 cases she worked with in the first few months, 13 were families on public assistance but the other 17 included all income levels, she said.

Through the centre, she serves a suburban community area of about 80,000 persons with incomes at all levels. Public housing and high-rise apartments are included in the area as well as single-family dwellings.

She said she hopes the service will spread to other districts and in other cities.

"But now we could keep 12 more people busy just in Edmonton."

Social And Personal

Previous to her marriage, Mrs. John Mueller (nee Heather Elizabeth Middleton) was honored at several miscellaneous showers, one provided by Mrs. Ray Finkle and another by Mrs. Ken Bluind.

A rehearsal party was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Mueller.

*

A tea and saucer was given to Olive Vance for her birthday. Next party will be at Olive Vance's.

Club Activities

Beta Sigma Phi Gamma Mu Chapter

The February meeting of the Beta Sigma Phi Gamma Mu Chapter was held at the home of Mrs. J. Dolan with 17 members in attendance.

Plans were formalized for a wine and cheese party to be held at Mrs. P. Bishop's home and held in honor of Xi Beta Zeta Chapter.

By unanimous vote, the members agreed to donate money toward a prize for the Rotary Music Festival to be held in April.

The ways and means committee informed members of preliminary plans to hold a rummage sale in March.

Mrs. C. Bowbotham, the president, read a letter from Kingston City Council announcing a German beer fest to be held March 4 at the Round Table. German music, food and beer will be in abundance.

Date squares, made by Mrs. F. Clapp were raffled and won by Mrs. F. Dracup.

Mrs. D. Powdham presented a program involving expression and read an excerpt from "Friendship Book" by Francis Gay.

Following her talk, Mrs. Powdham led the group in two lively discussions, "do we need to speak Pig Latin?" and "the role of Beta Sigma Phi" Bob Mrs. Lois Wishart (cultural director) and Mrs. Allaneen Murray (a past director and social sponsor) offered invaluable insight into the role played by a Beta Sigma Phi member in the community.

Mrs. C. Bowbotham inaugurated Mrs. Allaneen Murray as an honorary member for her many years as an active member director and sponsor.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN WILLIAM MUELLER

Mueller – Middleton

Rev. C. H. Gazeley officiated at the Jan. 22 wedding ceremony of Heather Eliza beth Middleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Middleton, Belleville, and John William Mueller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mueller, also of Belleville in St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church.

Organ music was provided by Tibor Csaszar and Bob Burns was the soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an A-line floor length gown of crushed velvet with French marlbou at the neckline. The veil was floor length, with a three layered tulle veil attached to a flowered headpiece. She carried a cascade of red sweetheart roses mixed with green ivy.

Mrs. Anne Finkle, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. She wore an A - line floor length dress of royal blue crushed velvet with French marlbou trim at the neckline and cuffs and carried a nosegay of white mums.

The bridesmaids, Miss Diane Osborne and Miss Allison Mueller, sister of the bridegroom wore identical gowns to the matron of honor.

The groomsman was Allen Rupert, brother - in - law of the bridegroom. The ushers were Monty Flindall and Richard Ellis.

The bride's mother received the guests attired in a full length gown of sapphire blue satin overlaid with lace. She wore a corsage of white gardenias surrounded with sweetheart roses.

The bridegroom's mother received the guests wearing a mauve jacket and dress ensemble in polyester crimplene. She wore a corsage of gardenias also surrounded by sweet heart roses.

For the wedding trip to northern points in Ontario, the bride donned a navy blue coat and pant ensemble with red accessories. She wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Upon their return, the couple will reside at Bayview Towers, 94 Sidney St., Apt. 302, Belleville.

Engagement Notice

...and Mrs. H. Abbott, Belleville wish to announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Jane E. Abbott to Larry A. Mason, son of Mrs. M. Mason, Belleville and the late Mr. C. Mason. The marriage will take place in St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill Anglican Church, March 18, 1972 at 3 p.m.

Feb 20-27 Is Scout-Guide Week

The week of February 20-27 will be celebrated throughout Ontario as Scout-Guide Week and will emphasize the adventure and excitement of being partners in action.

Community involvement, church parades and winter camping are a few of the activities that will see members of both organizations working together, and the late Lord Baden Powell and World Chief Guide Lady Baden Powell.

All leaders take courses under supervision from Provincial Headquarters. The Quinte area has two trained in trainer leadership in all aspects of Cubbing and all levels, who are Miss Waddington and Miss Lalonde. Others in the area have specialized training in specific areas of the Guiding movement.

The Guides participate in a number of activities including camping at area, district, provincial, national and international level. The most popular of these however is weekend camping in individual company and area groups.

Winter camping is becoming more popular with the girls and Camp Waupoos near Consecon is booked solid throughout the year especially for weekend camping.

In Belleville, the highlight of the week's events will be the Guide and Brownie tea to be held at the Canadian Legion Hall, Pinnacle Street on Tuesday, Feb. 22 from 2 - 4 in the afternoon. In the evening the various Brownie Packs and Guide Companies will put on a display of activities from 7 - 9 when coffee will be served a the patrons.

Women's Conference To Feature Fashions

A parade of spring fashions will be part of an all-day conference in Belleville Wednesday, February 23. The conference for women, sponsored by the Women's Advisory Committee, Ontario Department of Trade and Development, will be held in the Royal Canadian Legion Hall, Pinnacle Street.

The conference will be opened at 10 a.m. by Mrs. Morden Local Women's Advisory Committee member. A panel of speakers will address conference members on a variety of subjects including, food and nutrition, consumer protection money matters, and women in the economy.

The fashion show of some 40 garments will follow luncheon and a question period.

Many of the items in the fashion show will be provided by Eedee Fashion Award winners, Mrs. Norma Wildgoose, well-known Ontario fashion expert, will be coordinator.

The panel of speakers will be made up of Miss M. Francis Hinds, supervisor of food and nutrition, Home Economics Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food; Mrs. Shirley Giles, assistant manager, main branch Bank of Nova Scotia, Toronto; V. J. Simone, registrar collector agencies, Department of Financial and Commercial Affairs and Mrs. Lilah Lymburner, chairman, Women's Advisory Committee, Ontario Department of Trade and Development.

Women's Institutes

MELROSE W.I.

Melrose W. I. is celebrating an anniversary party to celebrate the founding of the Women's Institute at Storey Creek 75 years ago. The Melrose branch, which started in March, 1902, was one of the earliest organized in this part of Ontario.

The party, to be held in the basement of Melrose United Church, Thursday Feb. 24, will commemorate the 70th birthday of Melrose W. I.

Petits Fours Quite Easy to Make

By ALICE DENHOFF

Petits fours—those frivolous little cakes, looking as though they had just come from a Parisian bakery—are actually very easy to make. The job does take some time, though.

Since day-old cake handles best, plan to make the cake one day, to decorate the next. It is much easier, a skilled pastry chef tells us, to frost shapes cut from thin cake. If you haven't a jelly roll pan—15x11 inches—settle for half the batch of our recipe and use a 9x5-inch loaf cake pan. Cut cake sheets into squares, diamonds, rounds, hearts, etc., with small cookie cutters.

To do right by the job, use a candy thermometer when making the icing. Confectioners' sugar must be added when the icing is exactly 116°. If the finished icing stands a few minutes, it thickens. This is desirable when pouring the first coat of icing over the cake bits.

Each one should be glazed completely before proceeding to the next. When all the petits fours have been iced once, make a second batch of the same frosting and use it while warm and thinner to give a final glaze finish.

Use the best shortening, eggs the like in a French bakery, you'll place a couple of vanilla beans in confectioners' sugar container and close it tight. This should be done a couple of weeks before the actual baking.

PETITS FOURS CAKE

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 tablespoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 1-3 cups sugar
3-3 cups shortening
1½ teaspoons pure vanilla extract
3 eggs
¾ cup milk

Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Gradually cream sugar with next two ingredients. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Add flour mixture alternately with milk. Beat batter ¼ minute. Turn into a well-greased, lightly floured 15x12x1-inch jelly roll pan. Bake at 350 F. 30 minutes or until a toothpick inserted in centre comes out clean.

Turn cut cake on wire rack to cool. Trim to full and keep until next day.

When ready to ice, place cake on a pastry board and cut into 30 to 70 pieces, depending on shape. Brush off crumbs and arrange cakes in rows on wire rack. Place rack in a large shallow pan. Quickly pour icing over the cakes (don't be afraid to pour), moving steadily from left to right and completely covering tops and sides of cakes.

Scoop up all the icing that has dripped through the rack, rebeat with one teaspoon water, over hot water to 116 F. Pour over the next rack of cakes. Continue this process until all cakes are glazed. Each time frosting is reheated, add one teaspoon water to replace water that has evaporated.

Make a new batch of icing. While it is still thin and hot, remove the above frosting process with the new batch of icing. When icing has set, decorate the little cakes, if desired.

PETITS FOURS ICING

2 cups granulated sugar
1 cup hot water
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
3 1-3 cups sifted confectioners sugar
2 teaspoons pure vanilla extract
Food coloring

Combine first three ingredients in saucepan. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until sugar is dissolved. Continue cooking without stirring to 226 F. or to a thin syrup. Cool until lukewarm (110 F.) or cool enough to be comfortably held in palm of hand. Add confectioners' sugar to make a consistency that will pour. Stir in vanilla extract and a few drops of food coloring. Enough icing to give 30 to 70 little cakes one coat of glaze.

If you plan to go all out and further decorate the little cakes, make this:

DECORATIVE FROSTING

1¾ cups sifted confectioners sugar
4 teaspoons cold water

Mix sugar with cold water. Place in decorator's tube and make any decorative design you desire. Let stand until set. The recipe makes sufficient icing to decorate 30 petits fours.

Family Pulls Together

By DORIS CLARK

Says Grace, my hairdresser, "I always say that if you want your kids to follow a certain practice, you should be sure you do the same thing yourselves."

"For instance, when Al and I go out, we leave a note to say where we have gone. So when Mickey gets in he leaves the same kind of a note for us. And he is growing up, fast.

"You have to work together on things like this. Supposing he would — or we needed him in an emergency?

"If you don't pull together you aren't really a family are you?"

No, Grace, you aren't.

Dear Doris: I had a hysterectomy operation about a year ago and I put on a lot of weight after the operation. I tried going on a diet but that didn't help and my stomach and abdomen are so big it looks like I'm about seven months pregnant.

I have two spare tires to worry about; not one Can you help me lose the two spare tires? — Two Spare Tires.

Dear Two: There's no magic 24-hour carpet to the ideal weight. Diet plus exercise — without any backsliding — is what does it. And you can do it, in time.

Some do it by actually counting calories and limiting daily intake to 1000. Others prefer my Simple Reducing Diet, which forbids certain calorie-laden dishes and leans heavily on the needed proteins.

In either case you can not to nibble, to substitute natural fruits for sugar-heavy deserts — and a few other things.

The idea is to give your body less food than it needs. So then it feeds on your fat. To decide which fat it feeds on, you help the fat cells to break down where you want them to.

That's what the exercises are for. I can offer you: (1) Simple Reducing Diet (2) Figure Perfect (exercise concentrated where they will do the most good) (3) Tummy Massage, and (4) Low Calorie Menus and Recipes. Each 20 cents — answering to include a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Name with you and age.

Dear Doris: I was wondering how old you had to be to be a foster parent? I really would like to be one because I want to help a poor and starving child. I would like to be a parent of a little girl who lives in India or Vietnam.

I am only 16 years old. If I am too young to be a foster parent, could you please tell me where I can send some money to the children of India and Vietnam. — Sally Sixteen.

Dear Sally: You have to be old enough to be earning money. I have none way to send a certain amount—up to $17—every month to Foster Parents' Plan of Canada, 153 St. Clair West, Toronto, to be used for your foster child. This is quite a requirement for a girl 16.

But there are other ways in which you may express your wonderful sympathy for children. The Canadian Save The Children Fund at 70 Hayter Street, Toronto 2, Ontario, can advise you of how best to contribute what you would like to give to far-off children.

(Doris welcomes your comments and ideas. Write to her, enclosing a stamped, self addressed envelope for private reply.)

CUT A variety of shapes out of a sheet cake, pour two thin coats of icing over them, decorate. Vallii Petit Fours.

Ann Landers

Town Free of Crime: Reader

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in the letter from the 16-year-old girl who asked if there is a city or town in the United States that is safe. Well she was a little girl the dawn of her home were never locked, people went everywhere without fear. But all that has changed. Muggings, holdups, assaults, rape, murder—everything you can imagine has happened in her town in the last five years and people are afraid to walk two blocks from their homes after dark.

I would like to tell that girl about the town I live in. It's beautiful. No one here locks his doors. I have never heard of a rape or a killing—or even a major robbery. I don't know of anyone whose house has been broken into.

Our town is in Maine and I want to live here the rest of my life. I'll bet there are many other peaceful towns in America and your readers have written to tell you about them. I do hope you will choose my letter to print. It would be a fine compliment to the good people here. Thank you.—Contentment In Maine.

Dear Contentment: Here it is, along with my warm regards to you and the other residents. You had no competition, dear. I didn't receive even one other letter from a reader telling me his town was free of crime.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been arguing and we need an outside point of view. Please help.

George won a sales contest and the prize is a five-day trip to Bermuda. Neither of us has ever been there and we are awfully excited about it.

Our daughters, 16 and 12, are mature and responsible. We've never had any trouble with them. When we hear about the problems our friends are having with their teen-agers we count our ourselves lucky. The girls insist it would be perfectly okay to leave them alone in the house. I'm uneasy about doing it even though I'm sure they can be trusted. We live on a safe street in a good neighborhood.

The older girl has been a sitter for two years and she says it would make no sense for us to hire someone to sit with her. My husband's answer: "No dice." What do you say?—The Middle.

Dear In: I say as dice, also. This in no way suggests the girls can't be trusted, but there are darned few safe places these days. Lady, hire an older woman to come in and stay with your daughters. Or perhaps a relative can help out.

Dear Ann Landers: I know you don't believe in love at first sight and neither do I, but listen. Yesterday this dream of a man walked into the office where I am receptionist and asked to be directed to Mr. L's office. The moment his eyes met mine something marvelous happened. When he spoke, his voice was like Johnny Carson's. I knew instantly something big was coming into my life.

Fifteen minutes later he came back and asked if I had plans for dinner. I said no. Well, folks, that was the most divine evening of my entire life. The man is divorced, my age, an atheist (which means we would have no religious problems) and we are in love. He lives in Paducah and promised to be back in two weeks. Please tell me that love at first sight is possible. I was dumped twice last year and I need a dream to hang on to.—Love Eyes.

Dear Eyes: Okay, doll, if you need a dream, this is it. But don't mistake it for reality. Chemistry isn't love. This relationship could turn into something meaningful but love must take root and grow—one day at a time.

Before vacuuming mattresses, loosen lint along the edges of seamings with an old tooth brush. The vacuum then removes the lint easily.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONNELL

Can understanding lead to love?

YES, but not always, of course. Indeed, sometimes a couple can often mistake understanding for love. They figure they are in love because they can see why the other person acts the way he or she does. But unless a man and woman are more concerned about the other person than about themselves; then they are not looking for someone to love as much as they are anxiously seeking someone to care for them.

Is too much 'allowance' made for kids?

NO, not if allowance refers to a tolerant attitude towards children and the understanding that they are, after all, not adults. Too many grownups expect children to be perfect little ladies and gentlemen, without realizing that the youngsters haven't had enough time to develop all the niceties that usually people to get along with each other. Indeed, adults who demand so much of children often have not developed these qualities themselves.

Are 'inner voices' just imaginary?

NO; nearly everybody hears these strange "voices" telling what to do and what not to do at some time in his life. Some people hear them all the time—or at least they think they do. The "voices"—to distinguish them from ordinary perception (ESP) signals—are usually received (not heard) through an unusual arrangement of ordinary perceptions transmitted through the cells ordinary five senses. Of course, they can excite the imagination.

Quintes Force Sudden-death Game With Win Over Kingston

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

"Different strokes for different folks" seemed to hold true for the Belleville Quintes Saturday as they forced a tie for the final OHA Senior "A" playoff position by downing the Kingston Aces 5-3.

Ralph Plane, the Quintes' flamboyant captain and Al Ferguson, the quietly-efficient right winger played true to form in keying the crucial Belleville victory that forced a sudden - death game with Woodstock Tuesday on neutral ice to determine sixth place.

Plane brought the house down and his team alive at the 15.18 mark of the second period with a spectacular unassisted scoring effort that turned out to be the winning winger span out of an attempted check at the Kingston blue line and then blasted a 30-foot slapshot into the bottom right hand corner to give the Quinters a 4-3 lead.

The goal brought Belleville back to life just when it appeared as though the team might be ready to repeat the folding act that cost them a 10-4 loss in Oakville Friday. Kingston had rallied from a 3-1 deficit to tie the score and appeared to be enjoying momentum their way.

If Plane proved to be the spark plug in the Belleville win, Ferguson would have to be the drive shaft. The big right winger got Belleville off to a quick start when he parked the puck behind starting goalie Skip Wing after only 43 seconds of play.

The early tally was the first of three by Ferguson that brought his season total to an even 30 goals. Included in the hat trick performance was an insurance marker at :35 seconds of the third period. Ferguson slipped a low wrist shot under the pads of Mike Lovett, who had replaced Wing after the opening 20 minutes to account for the final 5-3 margin.

While Fergy couldn't put the finger on a reason for his tremendous scoring year, coach Wayne "Weiner" Brown ventured an opinion about his right winger's improvement. "He's shooting more instead of making that little deke that he used all the time, and he's mixing up his play more. Instead of trying to beat the man all of the time and tiring himself out, he's passing off and then getting the puck back."

The fact that it was a "no-thing" game for Kingston reflected in their play. Except for a brief second-period spurt they bore little resemblance to the team that has been burning up the league for the last half of the schedule.

Two of the first-period goals against Wing were of the questionable variety as first Ray Johnston and later Ferguson managed to beat the rookie netminder on the short side. Wing and his replacement, Lovett, faced a total of 45 shots in the game, one less than Steve Rene who turned in a steady performance in the Belleville net.

Centre Bob Clayton, by far the most effective of the Aces scored his team's only goal of the first frame, rapping in a rebound after Rene had made a good pad save of John Ford's point shot.

Dave Flanigan and Dave Field scored in the second period for Kingston to knot the game at 3-3 before Plane and Ferguson went to work. The Aces were minus the services of rugged defenceman Bob Olajas and high scoring forward Pete Kennedy.

The Quintes, themselves lost the services of a player when Brown decided to hang up his skates — again. "I'm dead," whooped the popular coach after taking a couple of shifts at left wing. "I wasn't going to dress at all tonight. We didn't get back from Oakville until 4 a.m. and I had to go to work at six, but that guy (pointing at Lionel Boily) talked me into trying it. was more time."

Well, this time was DEFINITELY the last."

Kingston goalie Skip Wing displays some fancy puckstopping as he turns aside the scoring thrust of Belleville Quinte's captain Ralph Plane in an OHA Senior A hockey game Saturday. Plane didn't let the miss discourage him, however, coming back to score the winning goal in a 5-3 decision that allowed Belleville to complete the regular season tied with Woodstock for the sixth and final league playoff position.

Oakville Picked Over Gardens

Belleville Quintes may have thought they had seen the last of Oakville Aces Friday night when they dropped a 10-4 senior hockey decision to the Oaks.

However they'll be back there Tuesday night to play a sudden-death game against Woodstock Royals to determine the OHA Senior A league's sixth and last playoff berth.

Plans for the neutral - ice game to be held in Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens fell through. OHA president Clarence Schmalz told the Quintes' Lionel Boily the teams would not draw a large enough crowd.

Tuesday's 8.30 game was necessitated when the Royals beat 8-3 to Oakville Sunday in their last of 48 regular-schedule games. Saturday, the Quintes won their schedule — closer 5-3 over Kingston to finish with a 25-25 record.

Woodstock got their 30 points on 14 wins and two ties. Last year, Woodstock's entry finished in the eight-team league's cellar with three wins in 28 games.

It will mark the second time in the six-year history of revived senior hockey in Belleville that a city team has had to play off for a chance at the playoffs.

In their second season of operation, the now - defunct Ma-Hawks lost a playoff berth in a 4-0 sudden - death loss to Oakville at Maple Leaf Gardens.

While it might take four men to hoist the Royal Canadian Legion Provincial Command Curling Trophy, Earl Jesse's Trenton rink finds the burden somehow familiar. The Trenton foursome captured the trophy for the third consecutive year in a four-day bonspiel which concluded Sunday. They now advance to the Dominion finals at Winnipeg, March 20-24. Lending a helping hand are (clockwise) Bre McIntosh, Wayne MacDonald, Wayne McCreadie and Earl Jesse.

Clean Sweep for Jesse

TRENTON (Staff) — It took eight in a row to make three in a row for Earl Jesse's Branch 118 Trenton rink in the provincial command Royal Canadian Legion curling championships which ended here Sunday.

Jesse, the defending provincial champion, swept eight straight games in the four-day bonspiel to record his third consecutive Ontario title. By virtue of the win Jesse's rink of Wayne McBeadie, Wayne MacDonald and Bre McIntosh, have earned the right to compete in the dominion command bonspiel at Winnipeg March 20-24.

London Branch 317 emerged as runners-up in the nine-rink round robin Trenton tournament. Skip Russ Miller's foursome ended play with a 6-2 mark. The London rink had provided Jesse with his toughest opposition before bowing 9-7 in a fifth-round match Friday.

Trenton completed their unblemished record with a 7-5 Saturday win over East Toronto and a 7-2 drubbing of Guelph Sunday.

Third place in the standings went to Sutton with a 5-3 mark. Deadlocked in fourth were East Toronto and Guelph with records of 4-4, while Burlington (2-6), Kapuska sing, (2-6) Renfrew (2-5) and North Bay (2-5) completed the field.

Brotherly Love Stops When Espo Scores 50th

By IAN MacLAINE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Phil Esposito confirmed Sunday a chemical analysis that rubber is thicker than blood.

The Boston Bruin centre steered two goals by his goal-tending brother, Tony, as the National Hockey League's East Division leaders trampled 3-1 over Chicago Black Hawks, leaders in the West.

It marked only the second time this season Chicago has lost at home, both setbacks to Boston.

Elsewhere Sunday, Ken Dryden registered his sixth shutout of the season as Montreal Canadiens blanked Buffalo Sabres 4-0, Jean Ratelle scored twice for New York Rangers' 4-3 win over Detroit Red Wings to become only the seventh player to score 100 or more points in a single NHL season. Philadelphia Flyers and Bob Kelly mauled Toronto Maple Leafs 3-1, defenceman Carol Vadnais' three spurred California Golden Seals' 5-2 win over St. Louis Blues and Minnesota North Stars blanked Pittsburgh Penguins 2-0.

In Saturday's action, the Canadiens tripped Philadelphia 3-1, Toronto defeated Buffalo 4-1 on Darryl Sittler's first three-goal game in the NHL, Boston took Minnesota 6-4 on two short-handed goals, Detroit defeated Pittsburgh 6-2 and Los Angeles Kings downed Vancouver Canucks 5-3.

Phil Esposito, held pointless by Minnesota in Saturday's game, celebrated his 30th birthday by scoring on the power play to tie the game at 1-1 while the Bruins held a man-power advantage. The season then registered its 51st of the campaign to put Boston ahead.

He also assisted on linemate Wayne Cashman's goal, giving him 102 points this year and a tie for the lead in the individual scoring race with Ratelle.

Phil recalled later that brother Tony had stopped him twice last year on breakaways "but if he ever says anything, I now have a little ammunition."

In becoming only the second player in NHL history to score more than 50 goals since 1945 once, Esposito said the records mean little to him.

"I want to win first place and then I want us to win the Stanley Cup," said the Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., native.

"So I'm the only other guy other than Bobby Hull to score more than 50 goals twice? Good. It's a great, great thrill to be classified with Bobby Hull. I think he's the greatest."

Last year Esposito scored a record 76 goals and 133 points. But it was Boston defenceman Bobby Orr that Chicago coach Billy Reay credited with risking the decisive plays in the game.

"We seemed to be going pretty well early in the game but after the Bruins pulled even, and Orr started running things, we didn't have much to offer," said Reay, in his ninth straight game without a loss but only their first win in Memorial Auditorium since the start of the 1970-71 season.

Ratelle, with 43 goals, accepted his 100-point milestone with a shrug and a smile. It was linemate Vic Hadfield, who scrambled into the net behind Detroit goaltender Andy Brown for the puck after Ratelle's first goal that gave him an even 100 points.

The New York star is having such a big season he has no idea how many pucks he has saved.

"I don't know," said Ratelle after the game. "I'll give them to my wife to save. I must have eight or nine.

Toronto Maple Leafs traded defenceman Jim Dorey to New York for rookie Pierre Jarry before Sunday's game, but the move to add scoring punch to the listless club failed to work.

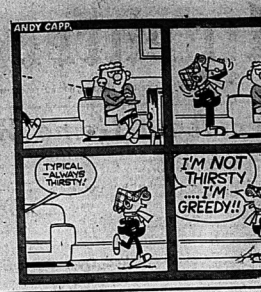
Flamboyant Bob Kelly took a run at every Flyers player in sight and team-mate Bobby Clarke scored twice in leading the hometown Flyers past the fading Leafs.

Kelly explained he wouldn't try the same tactics on Chicago or Boston because they have the defence personnel to take advantage of the situation.

"Leafs aren't that good," said Kelly. "The defence is not as good as Boston's or Chicago's. ... When you rush them, they panic and throw the puck away."

Toronto's ineptness on the power play was evident on two Philly goals.

Kelly crashed Brad Selwood into the boards and the puck popped loose to Simon Nolet who fed Clarke for Chicago's goal. The shot caromed off Leaf defenceman Brian Glennie behind goalie Bernie Parent.



Glennie was also the victim on Nolet's goal that made it 2-1. The Leaf defender, after stopping a Clarke shot, allowed the puck to bounce and Nolet pounced on it.

At Oakland, Vadnais' third goal of the game and his second on the power play, sent the Seals into a 4-3 lead late in the second period.

But the Blues rebounded for the equaliser by Gary Sabourin at 2:42 of the third period when the St. Louis player's shot from the California blueline caught the top crossbar and as rookie goaltender Gilles Meloche ducked.

Minnesota goaltender Cesare Maniago made 49 saves in recording his 13th career shutout and Dennis Hextall and J. P. Parise supplied the offence with two power-play goals.

Ratelle Keeping Pace

Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins and Jean Ratelle of New York Rangers both broke the 100-point mark in the National Hockey League scoring race over the weekend and remained tied for first place with 102 points.

Esposito scored twt goals and added an assist Sunday as Bruins defeated Chicago Black Hawks 3-1. Ratelle also scored two goals and set up the game-winning goal in Rangers' 4-3 victory over Detroit Red Wings.

Leafs Deal Dorey For Ranger Winger

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs announced Sunday that they have traded defenceman Jim Dorey to New York Rangers for forward Pierre Jarry. Both players were to join their new N a t i o n a l Hockey League clubs Sunday night.

Dorey, a 24-year-old native of Kingston, in his fourth season with the Leafs, scored a total of 76 points, including 21 goals, in this three complete seasons and was the leading scorer among Toronto defencemen in the current campaign with 23 points.

Jarry, who plays both left and right wing, led the Central League in scoring with 93 points last season while playing for the Rangers' Omaha farm club. The 22-year-old Montreal native was picked up by New York from Ottawa '67s of the Ontario Association Junior A series in the 1969 amateur draft.

Top Slopers Get Nowhere

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Members of the foreign press reporting on World Cup skiing which ended Saturday left Mount Norquay shaking their heads in wonder as top-ranked Austrian skiers got nowhere in men's competition while the French were all but wiped out.

In women's competition, however, it was a different story as Austrians took the slalom and French women the slalom.

In the men's giant slalom, Norwegian Erik Haaker—a heavy equipment operator when he's not skiing—bulldozed his way down the slope, more than a full second ahead of second-place Sepp Hackelmiller of West Germany.

It was Poland's turn for an upset in the men's slalom, [illegible] Bachleda, an architecture student from Cracow, posted a first-place aggregate of 1:44.45. Jean-Noel Augert of France was second in 1:45.57 and Gustavo Thoeni of Italy third in 1:46.58.

Yvon Duhaime, president of the International Ski Federation's 1972 world champion because of her victory in the women's slalom at Sapporo on top of other excellent [illegible] led the Austrian sweep of the women's giant slalom.

The women's slalom was a mess. Only 14 of the 43 starters survived the first of two runs and even because the course made a sharp dip onto an icy patch just before the gates led to a turn for one gate.

But Annie Famose of France won with times of 43.60 and 44.33 for an aggregate of 1:27.93. Canada's Ann Cochrane of the United States was second in 1:28.09 and Austrian Hanny Wenzel of Liechtenstein third in 1:28.17.

Miss Steurer won the women's combined title because she placed fourth in the giant slalom.

The men's combined title went to Austria's Karl Cordin, who was 14th in the giant slalom and second in slalom.

Skiing Out?

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Canada's national ski team may have to shelve its programs next year because of budget difficulties, "but we hope not," says Gavin Young of Ottawa, president of the Canadian Ski Association.

"As far as money is concerned, we can always use more," he said Sunday. "We are not paupers, but we are getting to the point where we could enter next year with a deficit."

Young was commenting on reports that Canada's World Cup skiers may return to Europe next month with a depleted team.

When asked why it was necessary for the Canadian team to go overseas as much as it does, Young said that it's cheaper to train in Europe.

"It's primarily because of the cost of living."

He said Canadian Forces flights overseas often can accommodate team members and that is saved this way.

It was estimated that it cost about $600,000 to support the ski team last year. Sources of funds include government grants and sales of crests and decals.

Dutchman Still Flying

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Ard Schenk, the Golden Boy of the Netherlands' Olympic Games, won the 1,500- and 10,000-metre races Sunday and became the first man in 40 years to win all four events of the men's world speed-skating championships.

The 5-foot-10 Flying Dutchman's domination of these 68th championships also made him only the third man to win three consecutive over-all world titles.

Schenk' became the old champion's record of two minutes 16.4 seconds in the 1,500 metres by zipping home in 2:03.6, and then won the 10,000 metres in 15:22.8.

He began his sweep Saturday in the over-all European championship and then went to Japan, where he won Olympic gold medals in the 1,500, 5,000 and 10,000 metres.

Crushmen Pull Bobcat Claws

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

OSHAWA — The Oshawa Crushmen took a page out of Gene Fowler's book for the third game of the Eastern Optario Junior B playoffs. They weren't stylish, just brutally effective.

Like the heavyweight boxing champion they took their lumps in the early going, but managed to wear down the Belleville Bobcats in the process to wind up posting a 6-1 win, their first in three games in the best-of-seven series.

The Crushmen were outplayed by the fast-skating Bobcats in the opening period, managing only four shots on the Belleville goal. However they stuck with the aggressive style with which they opened the contest despite the fact that it was costing them penalties and scoring chances.

By the time Belleville answered the bell for the second period, Oshawa's hitting had begun to leave its mark. The Bobcats were a little slower, a little more cautious and ready to be taken out.

Tom Newton broke the scoreless tie at 1:09 of the second period drilling a 30-footer past Bill Cormier. Just 47 seconds later Ross Cavendish upped the count to 2-0 when his drifting shot from the point bounced off the top of Cormier's glove and into the net.

Oshawa's big line ended the match for all intents and purposes by scoring a backhanded goal at 13.19 of the period. The shifty forward stole the puck from Mike Cash and walked in unmolested to beat Cormier to his stick side.

"You have to give them (Oshawa) credit. They played a good game — they were hitting all the way through," related Belleville coach Moe Hunter. "I just hope that nobody here decides to fold."

Hunter was particularly unhappy about the woeful Bobcats' power play which totalled 13 minor penalties. That's 26 minutes, almost half a game, but they scored short-handed and we couldn't score"

Almost as inept as the power play was the work of the Belleville defence. It was beaten badly several times, while Doug Perry played far below his superb Friday night effort and John Mulvihill seemed to lack the drive he showed in the opening pair of wins. Peter Ackerman, the team's goaltending tyrannosaur, continued to be just that.

"They all played badly," assessed Hunter of his defensive squad. "but you have to remember that Oshawa was pressing them pretty well. They had a man in there all the time, hitting."

Bob Harrison replaced Cormier in goal at the end of the second period and was beaten on two goals both of them rebounds on which he had no chance.

At the other end of the rink, Lou Moore turned in a strong goaltending effort in posting his outshot the Crushmen 39-34. The stocky backstop had his bid for a shutout at 11.18 of the final frame when Mulvihill flipped a low wrist shot past him on a three-on-one break.

Right winger Joe Greentree was a standout for the winners slashing two goals and adding two assists to complement his usual hard-nosed style of play. Newton, Beauchemin, Chris and Gary Bore scored the other goals for the winners. Oshawa drew 14 penalties, including a misconduct, against only five for the losers.

The fourth game in the best-of-seven series is scheduled for 8:45 p.m. Wednesday at the Belleville Memorial Arena.

Trenton's team, captained by Harvey Boudreau, right, topped the counts at the eighth annual Doug Grant Invitational Badminton Tourna ment held at Centennial Secondary School Saturday. Belleville Club president Richard Danziger presented the Doug Grant trophy following the final round-robin heat which ended in a 67-66 victory for Trenton over their nearest Oshawa rivals.

Trenton Mixture Takes Cake

Singles strength helped Trenton into an early lead at the Doug Grant Badminton Tournament Saturday but it was their mixed doubles team which finally provided the win.

Trenton managed to edge Oshawa 67-66 to win the championship of the eighth annual team competition. The winners had jumped out to an early lead in the singles events only to see Oshawa close the gap in doubles play.

It was finally decided in the final match of the tournament when the sixth-seeded Trenton entry of Harvey Boudreau and Carol King won the mixed doubles competition to give their club the win.

The final standings in the one-day event were Trenton 67 Oshawa 66, Belleville 29 and Whitby 12.

BCI's Little Men Win Hoop Title

ORILLIA (Special) — BCI Juniors proved that the good little man can beat the good big man as they swept to the championship in their age division of the 17th annual Orillia Blackball basketball Tournament.

"Just about every team we played averaged about six five along their front line, but we managed to keep the ball away from them. If it's possible for smaller guys to intimidate bigger ones, then I guess you could say we did it," lauded BCI coach Bill Miller of his team's effort.

"I know that 'team effort' is a hackneyed phrase to use but that's really what won it for us," he continued. "We didn't get the Most Valuable Player Award and I'm glad we didn't because it wouldn't have been fair to the other four starters."

"One caster always likes to take a little nap before the game!"

The Collegians downed Barrie' Eastview 67-47 in the final game of the junior high school section. Peter LeBaron paced BCI with 16 points, while the other starters included Wayne Giles, Fred Cass, Larry Wilson and Rick Bell. They used a tough ballcourt press to counter Barrie's height advantage.

BCI had beaten teams from Bramalea (67-47), North Bay (94-27) and Hamilton (54-50) to earn Belleville's first title ever at the highly-acclaimed Orillia competition.

Orillia Eastside made it a banner year for COSSA teams by stopping Port Perry 53-47 in the high school senior division. Henry Street of Whitby were beaten 48-39 in the midget final by Burlington, which had eliminated BCI midgets in the first round of play.

Moira Wrestlers Keep Grip on COSSA Crown

PICKERING (Special) — Moira grapplers kept their grip on the COSSA wrestling title by finishing in first place at the Central Ontario high school championships in Pickering Saturday.

Quinte Secondary finished 5th in the competition with Trenton coming 7th and Centennial 13th. The Bay of Quinte entries qualified seven wrestlers for the all-Ontario competition next Friday and Saturday at the University of Guelph.

Jack Brant (91 lbs.), Quinte and John Dworsik (120 lbs.) of Centennial placed second in their divisions. Placing third, but winning the rights to compete at OFSAA through challenge matches were Moira's Brian Spencer (126 lbs.) and Mike Mayo of Quinte in the 178-pound class.

Third place wrestlers who had not wrestled against the runners-up in their class have the right to challenge for a spot in all-Ontario.

Lancer Voyage in Vain

The Loyalist Lancers travelled to the Queen City of Peterborough on Saturday but failed to pick up any wins as the Sir Sandford Fleming Knights took an 85-46 decision in basketball and a 4-3 victory in hockey in Ontario Colleges Athletic Association action.

At Thomas A. Stewart High School, the Peterborough team almost doubled the score on Loyalist as they used a 24-point effort by Dick Batten as well as 19 and 14 point efforts by Wayne St. John and Brian Patterson respectively to overwhelm the Lancers. Doing the major scoring damage for the Loyalist squad were Ed Goody with 14 points and Rick Webster with 13 points.

At the Peterborough Memorial Centre, the Lancers held a 1-0 lead on a goal by Dave Blakely in the second period but the Knights neared back for a 4-1 lead on the strength of two goals by Doug Murray and singles by Ken Winslow and Jack Dickey. Loyalist came back to within one goal of the Knights with markers by Darlen Galt and Reid Mallory but the team failed to tie the game.

The game ended in a donnybrook which resulted in both benches emptying and every body got into the act except the two coaches. Mike Calkins kicked out 24 shots, many of them sensational, in the Lancer goal as the Knights outshot the Lancers 28-26.

Loyalist Curlers Finish Second

A Loyalist College mixed curling team skipped by Bob Gilpin finished second in London in the mixed section of the Ontario College Athletic Association bonspiel staged at Fanshawe College.

Along with skip Gilpin, the Loyalist team consisted of vice-skip Robert Ward, second Kevin Lamport and lead Irene Carver. The team finished second in Section College behind Oakville.

In a game to decide the runner-up spot, Loyalist trounced Cambrian, Sault Ste. Marie, 19-4.

Algonquin College of Ottawa dominated the rest of bonspiel play by winning the men's and ladies' section. A Loyalist rink with skip Ken Morrisey, vice-skip Jim Dillon, second Rose Riley and lead Ray Carmine failed to bring home any wins in men's play.

Loyalist did not enter a team in ladies' competition.

Dryden Walked

MONTREAL (CP) — Members of the Montreal Canadiens used several ways to make it to their National Hockey League game Saturday night with Philadelphia Flyers at the Forum because of a 30-inch snowstorm which paralyzed traffic.

Goaltender Ken Dryden walked five miles to the arena from his home in the Notre Dame de Grace district while fellow team-mate Jacques Laperriere hiked four miles to make the game.

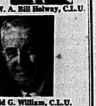
Forwards Jacques Lemaire and Yvon Cournoyer arrived at the Forum on Lemaire's snowmobile while goaltender Denis Dejkerdy and defenceman Guy Lapointe used a tow truck to make it from their homes on the south shore.

Dukes Could Afford to Lose

The Good Guys and Dukes took different paths to the Northern Electric Hockey finals yesterday, as the Good Guys came up with a 6-4 win over the No-Stars while the Dukes were successful in a 7-1 tie to the Hornets.

The Good Guys won their two-game total-goals series by a 7-5 count after the teams played to a 1-1 deadlock in the opener. Al Walker scored three goals for the winners with Dwight Rathwell picking up the other two. Tom Pierce was credited with four assists and Gary Rutherford with three.

For the losers it was Bob Dougherty with three goals and Doug Bolte with one, while Bob Brownlee claimed three helpers.



Despite their loss, the Dukes advanced to the championship game on the strength of last week's 5-1 win over the Hornets. Bill Goodfellow tallied both times past Newton, Beauchemin and Adrian Caddicks replying for the series winners.

The Good Guys and Dukes will meet at noon next Sunday for the sudden death championship game.

Throne Speech Debate Preview of Election

OTTAWA (CP) — Starting today and continuing until the end of the month, the Commons will feature a preview of arguments that will dominate the general election campaign expected this year.

Leaders of the four political parties in the House set the electioneering tone Friday with the opening shots in an eight-day debate on government plans and policies as sketched in a session-opening throne speech the day before.

At least a half-dozen cabinet ministers and a long queue of government and opposition MPs have been polishing their political clichés and oratorical barbs in preparation for a debate scheduled to end a week from Tuesday.

As if eight regular parliamentary days weren't enough for a no-subjects-barred debate on government policies, the hours for talk are extended.

Throne-speech sittings start daily except Wednesday at 11 a.m. EST instead of the usual 2 p.m., adding two hours of debate time most days.

In the course of the debate, cabinet ministers will fill in details of new government legislation, programs outlined sketchily in the throne speech.

Those programs include new measures to help low-income Canadians buy homes, a neighborhood improvement plan for cities, new methods of raising money for housing, federal legal aid, compensation for victims of crimes, increased benefits for farmers and fishermen, equality for women, family welfare, new national parks in the north and a program to preserve Canadians.

The government is expected to publish Wednesday its spending estimates for the financial year starting April 1 which will provide further clues to the extent of its plans.

Steady Sneezes Suggest Allergy

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter has gone to many doctors and they just give her medicine to relieve her sneezing. She sneezes till she gets weak. She is right after outdoors.

But no one has ever said why. Could you give us any remedy? She has lived in North Dakota, Iowa, Texas and Florida, and still she wakes up sneezing, sneezing, sneezing. Is there anything that would help her? She is 20 now.—Mrs. W. M.

Even at this distance I can make a pretty shrewd guess as to what is making her sneeze. She's allergic to something.

Allergic to what? Ah, there's the pinch! It's one thing to say she has allergy, but something else to figure out exactly what she's allergic to.

Right off the bat I'd suggest she go to an allergist, and have him conduct some tests and study her case. If she can work with the same physician for some length of time, she'll have a chance of finding out what is bothering her. If she scoots from one to another, then no body will have much chance to investigate the case thoroughly. Of course, the way she has moved from state to state, maybe she couldn't help some of this switching from doctor to doctor.

Since the trouble persists from Dakota to Florida, we can assume it isn't something in a local climate, but rather some common substance that makes her sneeze. If it happens mostly when she's in bed, a good starting place is to do some simple experimenting to see whether feathers in her pillow bother her. Some people have found this to be so, and they have either switched to pillows stuffed with something else, or used an air-tight "allergy-proof" cover over the pillow. Cats, dogs or birds in the house may be a cause.

Some folks are allergic to wool, others to dust, still others to various kinds of fabrics. Since so many things can be responsible, it takes a physician with experience (an allergist, in other words) to help track down the likeliest possibilities. Some people, for example, are allergic to certain foods—the scent of a lemon or a dash of pepper or even foods without a very strong scent can bring on severe attacks of different kinds.

I would assume that in the past, instead of starting a real search for whatever bothers her, your daughter has relied on what can be done for her in a passing visit.

It's a fair guess that the medicine she has been given has been an antihistamine which serves to reduce the severity of allergic attacks but doesn't do anything about the basic cause.

That's why I suggest she see an allergist, and not expect results from a single visit. It certainly can't be fun to go on having the sneezes to the extent she does.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a very large mole on my breast which is a very dark color and sometimes looks black. I worry about this a lot and wonder whether there are ways you could tell if it was cancerous.—Mrs. X.

Instead of worrying about it, have your doctor examine it. There is no do-it-yourself way to tell whether it is cancerous, but your doctor indicates that it changes color. Any change in a mole is a possible danger sign, and the only reasonable advice I can give you is to have your doctor keep track of it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 41 and for years have drunk two cups of iced tea every day. I have no reason to believe this is harmful, but could it add up to trouble in the future?—P. S. C.

I wouldn't give it a second thought.

Violence in Ulster Is Blamed on Poverty

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto doctor says one of the reasons for violence in Northern Ireland is that people are poor and living in overcrowded conditions there.

Dr. Harding Le Riche of the University of Toronto's school of hygiene said Saturday that the residents of Northern Ireland are bad-tempered and prone to violence because the area is overpopulated and they don't have enough money.

He used Northern Ireland as an example in a general warning about over-population.

Speaking at a lunch meeting of the Federation of Women Teachers' Association of Ontario, he predicted that violence will increase in the world as population increases.

Snowmobile Ride Leaves Baby Blind

TORONTO (CP) — An eight-month-old eastern Ontario infant was blinded by a combination of sun and windchill last winter while riding on a snowmobile with his parents.

Sgt. D. J. Robson of the Ontario Provincial Police accident prevention branch told a weekend seminar on snowmobile regulations the tragedy is an example of what persons accustomed to being indoors during winter can expect when they start using snowmobiles.

In an interview later, Sgt. Robson said the parents had put the baby on the snowmobile in front of them.

Victor Wartig, chairman and past president of the Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs, told the seminar the present provincial registration plate for snowmobiles "should be replaced by a large king-sized decal on each side of the snowmobile" to make it easier to read.

He also said the plates should cost $10 a year instead of the present $4 for two years. He said $2 should go to the department of transportation and communications and $8 to "finance snowmobile trails, provide safety education, and provide whatever else is needed for snowmobilers."

Mr. Wartig said the snowmobile is "the safest recreation vehicle in use, if it is used where it is built to be used—in deep snow."

Aldermen To Appeal

THUNDER BAY (CP) — Three of four Thunder Bay aldermen who were disqualified earlier last week have filed an affidavit in district court requesting a stay of the disqualification order until an appeal can be heard.

Edgar Laprade, George Lovelady and Tom Jones were ordered removed from office by district court Judge W. T. Hollinger for having entered into contractual agreements with the city.

A fourth alderman, Bert Badanai, was disqualified by the same order but is not appealing.

An affidavit notes the possibility of other disqualifications on account of similar contractual agreements with the city.

Queen Leaves Singapore

SINGAPORE (Reuter) — Queen Elizabeth sailed from here Sunday night in the royal yacht Britannia for Hong Kong, western Malaysia at the end of her three-day state visit to Singapore.

Singapore President Benjamin Sheirs and Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew were among the crowd waving farewell to the Queen, Prince Philip and Princess Anne from the dockside.

The royal yacht is due at Klang Tuesday for the third portion of the royal tour of Southeast Asia and the Indian Ocean.

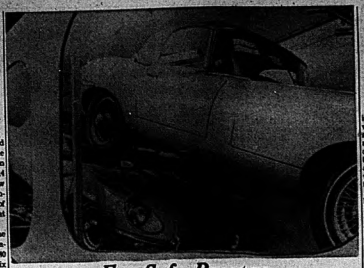
Storm Spread Chaos

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A severe blizzard slammed Eastern Canada during the weekend, paralyzing traffic in Montreal Saturday, dumping 14 inches of snow in northern New Brunswick Sunday and in southern Ontario, forcing closure of many highways and causing at least two deaths.



The storm moved into the area early Saturday accompanied by winds gusting to 40 miles an hour. In its wake, six to eight inches of fresh snow were on the ground in southern Ontario.

Highways were temporarily closed in the London and Stratford areas and others in the Cookville-Barrie-Georgian Bay regions. Some local power failures were reported.

Toronto itself missed the brunt of the storm and by Sunday night most roads in the province were clear for traffic. However, blowing snow and heavy drifts forced CP Rail to cancel its daytime service between Toronto, and Peterborough, though railway officials hoped to have it operating by this morning.

In Kingston there was an added problem as a number of public works employees failed Saturday to show up for work to clean snow from the streets.

In Montreal, where civic outside workers who normally handle snow removal were on strike, only 4,000 fans managed to make it to the Forum for a hockey game between Canadians and Philadelphia Flyers. The rink casualty is jammed by upwards of 17,000 fans for a Saturday night contest.

Striking Snowplow Crews Ignore Appeal by Drapeau

MONTREAL (CP) — Striking city snow-removal teams ignored an appeal by Mayor Jean Drapeau Sunday night for them to return to work after a 10-inch snowfall and winds up to 60 miles an hour crippled the city during the weekend.

In a statement, the mayor asked the 8,000 striking manual workers who belong to Local 301 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees to end the threat to health and inconvenience to the public caused by the work halt.

Michel Lagarere, the local's strike director, said the union has no intention of asking the men to return to work until union officials make a decision "on recent events."

The men walked off the job Friday night after contract negotiations between the city and the union broke off Friday afternoon.

When a 10-inch snow storm hit the city Saturday, officials asked the union for help in clearing streets clogged with abandoned cars and snowdrifts.

The union ordered about 1,000 men from city snow-clearing crews back to work but only a handful of union members showed up to help the hard-pressed private contractors who bore full responsibility for clean-up operations.

At the city garage the men had difficulties with picket lines and only 20 crews managed to get snow-clearing equipment onto the streets.

Sunday morning, union officials ordered the crews to return their equipment to city garages and "to respect the strike until the union officials have completed an analysis of the situation."

Besides snow removal crews the union represents water filtration plant workers, garbage men, building maintenance men and parking lot attendants.

When negotiations broke off Friday, they had been carried on for six weeks under a government-appointed conciliator. By late last week some 50 contract items were still not settled.

Montreal Schools Closed

MONTREAL (CP) — A 10-inch snowfall coupled with winds of up to 60 miles an hour and a strike by the city's snow removal crews resulted in the city's schools being closed, less than half the bus fleet running and the daily newspaper Le Devoir being unable to publish today.

Many downtown streets were blocked with six-foot drifts and abandoned cars, and Police Chief Rene Daigneault urged all citizens to leave their cars at home so as not to interfere with efforts to clear city streets.

Police said there were numerous incidents of vandalism in the downtown area. They reported 76 armed robberies during and after the storm.

Montreal International Airport, closed because of zero visibility Saturday, reopened Sunday. Some 300 flights had been cancelled due to the storm.

An estimated 5,000 youngsters organized skiing expeditions in the Laurentians and Eastern Townships were among those unable to move on provincial highways late Saturday afternoon.

Office workers and shoppers trapped in downtown Montreal were billeted in major hotels which set up mattresses and cots in their lobbies to handle the overflow demand for space.

City police suspended its normal ban on the use of snowmobiles inside city limits and called on snowmobile owners to take their machines to police stations.

Le Devoir, a French-language morning daily newspaper which normally publishes two editions, did not publish.

Only one death was immediately attributed to the storm. A man was killed in a 15-car pileup on the Eastern Township's autoroute.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Prices in most major sectors of the Toronto stock market moved fractionally lower, interrupting the consecutive advancing sessions, moderate mid-morning trading today.

The industrial index was down .70 to 160.13, golds .26 to 174.32 and western oils .18 to 212.09. Base metals were up .52 to 179.72.

Volume by 11 a.m. was 735,000 shares, compared with 905,000 at the same time Friday. However, advances outnumbered declines 121 to 81 with 161 issues unchanged.

Banking, beverage, utility and construction and materials issues posted moderate declines while seven of the industrial indexes 17 sub-groups moved lower.

Communications, merchandising, steel, trust and loan and oil refining issues moved moderately higher.

Bell dropped ¼ to 34½, Tara Explorers ¼ to 3.15½, Consumers' Gas ¼ to 21.99½, Brascan ¼ to 21.7½, Power Corp. ¼ to 27¾ and Victoria and Grey Trust ¼ to 23.

Walker-Gooderham fell ¼ to 19.66, Wiley Oil ¼ to 8.99½, Canada Cement ¼ to 21.9½ and Imperial Oil ¼ to 63.

Conversely, West Life was up 1 to 27.85, Dawson Developments ¼ to 8.75, Cominco ¼ to 32.50½, Texas Gulf Sulphur ¼ to 51.50 and Inco ¼ to 53.25½.

BAN BOOK

PARIS (Reuter) — French authorities, already preoccupied by the alleged large-scale smuggling through France of foreign drugs, are taking no chances on permitting locally-grown produce to add to their worries. An official government decree banned the sale throughout France of an English-language book entitled The Cultivators Hand Book of Marijuana.

Laver Polishes Off Rosewall In All-Aussie Tennis Final

TORONTO (CP) — Wicked groundstrokes and a consistent first serve enabled Rod Laver to polish off Ken Rosewall 6-1, 6-4 Sunday and win the all-Australian singles final of the $30,000 Robinson's Toronto International tennis tournament.

Laver was hitting rockets from the backcourt and his shots either fell in for winners or produced weak returns by Rosewall, setting up easy volleys at the net.

"He didn't miss too many to it."

Rosewall's serving game seemed almost ineffectual as he lost his serve twice in the first set and once in the final set. Laver missed just one game point in the first game of the second set on Rosewall's serve.

Laver said: "I don't like tipping the ball back and waiting for him to make the error. I always have to hit out against Kenny. I've got to try to break his serve every time and make him work harder on his own serve."

The victory was the third tournament win in three weeks for the streaking Laver, a record for the World Championship Tennis circuit.

It also earned him $18,000 to boost his tour earnings over the $30,000-m.r.k. Rosewall, who lost to Laver in a final for the second week in a row, earned another $5,000. Laver won more than $200,000 last year.

Ray Ruffels of Australia and France's Bob Carmichael applied what could have been a perfect day for Laver when they upset him and countryman Roy Emerson in the doubles final 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.

The sixth-seeded winners won $900 each while the top-seeded losers picked up $500 each.

Laver failed to hold service in the sixth and 10th games of the opening set.

Tom Okker of the Netherlands held service all the way while breaking Charlie Pasarell once in each set in winning a playoff for third place 6-4, 7-5. Okker won $2,700 and Pasarell, of Puerto Rico, $2,300.

Tony Roche of Australia defeated Okker provided Laver with his closest brush with adversity on Saturday's semi-final play as he took the only set of the tournament from the Australian in losing 2-6, 6-2, 7-6.

Rosewall returned service much better Saturday than he did in the final as the best Pasarell in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4.

Emerson and Laver reached the doubles finals by beating fifth-seeded Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., and Bob Lutz of Tiburon, Calif., 3-6, 6-2, 6-3 while Carmichael and Ruffels eliminated unseeded Pasarell and Frank Froehling of Fort Lauderdale, 7-6, 7-5.

The $\frac{1}{4}$-a-day tournament drew 27,228 fans, including a near-capacity 5,615 for the final. Gate receipts totalled $105,000.

Dodgers Sign Pennant Hopes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Frank Robinson and Willie Davis, the heart of Los Angeles Dodgers' pennant hopes, have signed their 1972 baseball contracts for a total estimated near $250,000.

Robinson, the 36-year-old outfielder acquired from Baltimore Orioles for four players during the winter, signed Sunday for more than he made with the Orioles and $15,000 less than he was seeking with his new team. Wilts, the longtime shortstop and team leader, joined the Dodgers for a salary in the $100,000 range.

The two stars join only 24 other signed Dodgers. Among the 14 still not satisfied are three of the front fourstarters and Al Downing, a 25-game winner in 1971; Bill Singer, who once pitched a no-hitter and Don Sutton, the hard-throwing baby of the staff.

Robinson and Wilts were the biggest names in a day of player signings that also included Bobby Murcer of New York Yankees.

Murcer, the Yankees' leading hitter last season with a .331 average, signed for $65,000.

Getting Closer

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — "That's two in a row, but I'll get there yet," rookie Lanny Wadkins vowed.

Wadkins lost a sudden-death playoff to Homero Blancas for the title in the $125,000 Phoenix open golf tournament Sunday, finishing second for the second time in as many weeks.

The 22-year-old former United States amateur champion from Wake Forest sank a 10-foot birdie putt that would have won it on the 72nd hole, then bowed to Blancas' birdie four on the first extra hole.

The victory was worth $25,000 to Blancas, a 33-year-old from Houston who scored his fourth tour victory. Wadkins got $14,000 for second.

Blancas, who missed a four-foot birdie putt that would have nailed it down on the final hole, had a last round 69, two-under par on the 6,641-yard Phoenix Country Club course. Wadkins played in the 12th professional event, closed with a sparkling 66 and straight finishes at the end of the regulation 72 holes.

Ben Kern of Toronto shot a final-round 70 and finished well back with a 288 total.

Gananoque Students Repeat

WELLAND (CP) — The Gananoque Secondary School rink skipped by Mark McDonald will represent southern Ontario in the Canadian Schoolboy curling championships for the second straight year.

The 17-year-old skip led his rink to an 8-4 victory over Loyalist Collegiate Vocational Institute of Kingston, skipped by Brian Snell, in the Welland Curling Club Saturday night to win his second successive southern Ontario schoolboy curling championship.

McDonald's rink of Randy Neil, Bill Fletcher and Rick Fair advanced to the semi-finals with a 10-3 win over Bob McGregor's rink from John Ross Collegiate Institute of Guelph in Saturday morning round, then defeated A.N. Myer Secondary School of Niagara Falls, with Skip Scott Kitching, 10-3 in the semi-final round.

The Canadian finals are scheduled for Schumacher, Ont., March 13-17.

TORONTO (CP) — Radio announcer Tony Hodge of London was elected first vice-president of the Ontario Soccer Association at its annual meeting Saturday.

Hodge may move into the president's seat in April if current OSA president John Barnes of Oshawa is successful in his bid to land the senior post with the Canadian Soccer Association.

The meeting also approved appointment of Terry Weatherhead of Toronto as full-time technical director at an annual salary of $12,000. His duties include planning clinics and leadership programs.

STEAMBOAT SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Karen Mecir, 20, of Montreal won the North American 100-metre ski jumping championship here Sunday with Peter Wilson, 19, of Ottawa second. Carol Credin a teammate coach Slavomir Kardas of Oshawa, Ont., placing seventh.

In addition, Kardas won the team title over the United States, Norway and Japan, with a total of 425.3 points.

Mecir had jumps of 91 and 94 metres for 215.3 points. Wilson leaped 92 and 91 metres for 211 points and Kardas produced jumps of 84 and 87 metres for 195.2 points.

LONDON (Reuter) — Ken Buchannan, Britain's World Boxing Association lightweight champion, will meet Canadian champion Al Ford in a 10-round non-title fight in London March 28, promoter Harry Levene said today.

Ford, 23, who is based in the United States, has an impressive record and he has lost only one fight in 40.

OAKLAND (AP) — Jim (Catfish) Hunter has signed a $50,000 contract with Oakland Athletics after winning a point in negotiations with owner Charles O. Finley. Hunter said that Finley offered $45,000 Friday. The pitcher told him: "I'll take $45,000 for my pitching. But I want $5,000 more for hitting." Hunter, Monday, a record 21-11 mound record last baseball season, his 250 with 36 base hits and 103 at bats.

Batman and Robin

Patrolmen Robert Hanzic (left) and David Greenberg stand with some of the weapons they have captured during their work in the New York Police Dept. The two men were promoted to the rank of detective Friday for their work in the tough Bedford - Stuyvesant section of New York, where they have made 600 arrests over a period of three years. Hanzic is known as "Robin" and Greenberg as "Batman" for their capture of men out to kill them. (AP Photo)

Governments Co-operate To Fill Oil Field Jobs

HALIFAX (CP) — The discovery of oil off the Nova Scotia coast has federal and provincial politicians bickering over which of their governments should collect the royalties.

But agencies of both governments are quietly co-operating on an educational program to ensure that indirect benefits will go to Maritime workers.

The federal manpower department and the Nova Scotia education department have worked out an agreement by which the province will undertake to develop training programs for workers in jobs provided by a petroleum industry. The manpower department has agreed to support the plan.

Dr. Harold Nason, province'al deputy minister of education, says the plan deals primarily with construction of permanent platforms and the production side of the oil business.

"As the petroleum industry develops, so will training opportunities and the number of rvad-ily-available trained personnel," says Dr. Nason.

A survey of the worker pool has found that welders, mechanics, fitters and others with basic training can be taken directly into the industry and trained to meet specific needs in relation to their "already available" skills.

It also showed there would be an increased demand in such fields as communications and electronics, marine services and surveying.

Meantime, the manpower department is not waiting for the industry to develop but is planning its part in the effort to place Maritimers in most jobs that would result from a petroleum industry.

W. J. Stewart, manpower director for the Atlantic region, says his department will concentrate on integrating local people into the industry as it develops.

The major job for the manpower department is to identify trades and skills for the industry and establish curricula.

"We must consider our current labor supply for tomorrow's demands," Mr. Stewart says. "We have to build on the material now at hand."

Canada Has Done Its Bit

WINNIPEG (CP) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp departed from the text of a speech Saturday night to say Canada has made its contribution in correcting imbalance in Canadian-American currency and trade.

Speaking to a regional meeting of Rotary International, Mr. Sharp said Canada, for example, floated its currency many months ago and advanced tariff reductions under the Kennedy Round sooner than they needed to be.

"And we are prepared to go further, as we indicated to the Americans some time ago. Regrettably, they did not accept our offer."

Mr. Sharp also said there is widespread speculation that Canadians will vote in a federal election this year "and I am not about to challenge this piece of conventional wisdom."

In conversation later, some of the American businessmen said they were pleased with remarks Mr. Sharp made that were complimentary to the United States.

Kunstler May Aid Armstrong

TORONTO (CP) — A meeting has been set up this week between lawyer William Kunstler and Karleton Armstrong, the 24-year-old American bombing suspect arrested last week in a Toronto rooming house.

Paul Copeland, Armstrong's Toronto lawyer, said Sunday night his client has asked that Kunstler represent him in the United States.

He said Armstrong, wanted in connection with the August, 1970, bombing of a U.S. Army research building at the University of Wisconsin, will probably meet Kunstler Friday.

Kunstler is involved in a conspiracy trial in Harrisburg, Pa., in which Rev. Philip Berrigan and other Roman Catholics are being tied in connection with an alleged plot to bomb Washington government buildings.

Armstrong faces at least five charges in connection with the Wisconsin bombing which killed a physicist and wounded several other persons.

Mr. Copeland said the state of Wisconsin has hired Toronto lawyer Austin Cooper to represent it in efforts to return Armstrong for trial.

He now is being held on a Canadian immigration warrant and U.S. authorities are seeking both deportation and extradition proceedings to get Him out of Canada.

Canada Clings To Onassis

NEW YORK (AP) — Aristotle Onassis told his wife Jacqueline in May 1970, that they ought to separate, but she "saved the day" by following him to Paris and throwing herself into his arms, says the former chief steward aboard the Onassis yachi.

"For the first time in years, she had descended from her pedestal to behave like an ordinary woman, one who was in love with her husband," writes Christian Cafarakis in the March issue of McCall's magazine.

The article is an excerpt from Cafarakis's forthcoming book, The Fabulous Onassis.

The former Onassis employee said Onassis and his wife had had a series of quarrels which culminated in a confrontation at Jackie's New York apartment.

"Onassis simply told his wife that he could not live this way any longer, that he would honor their marriage contract, but that he thought their marriage was a total failure, and it would be better for them to separate," Cafarakis wrote.

Jacqueline, standing very stiffly in a yellow evening gown, apparently accepted her husband's decision without argument. She replied that further communication should be conducted through their lawyers.

Jacqueline into action.

"She flew to Paris the following Monday. . . . She looked exhausted, and when she took off her dark glasses, her eyes were red and swollen from crying."

"When she was told that her husband was out, she sat down and waited. When Onassis finally arrived at about 8:30, she rose, very pale, took a few steps toward him and threw herself into his arms, bursting into tears. It was this gesture that saved the day."

Police Blame Arsonist for Fatal Toronto Fire

TORONTO (CP) — Police today blamed an unknown arsonist for an apartment fire which killed one man and left 30 persons homeless Sunday.

They said the same person started fires in two nearby stor ctories.

Alex McMeekin, a 67-year-old bachelor who had lived in the building for 29 years, was found dead in his fourth-floor bedroom by firemen fighting the first fire. It had broken out about 5:30 a.m. and firemen used aerial ladders to rescue some tenants. Others jumped from windows and some walked or crawled through smoke-filled halls to safety.

Damage in the major fire was estimated at $27,500.

"I smelled smoke, opened the door and the whole hallway was in flames," said Andy Lockie, 21, who jumped to safety from his second-floor window.

Family At Bath Gets Home

BATH, Ont. (CP) — Five days before Christmas, fire destroyed the home of Elmer and Effie Galloway and killed five of their seven children.

Saturday, relatives and neighbors helped the Gallowways and their two surviving children, James, 14, and Pamela, 2, move into a new home.

It was built with $20,000 in donations from area residents and sympathizers and other Roman Catholics in Jackie's New York apartment.

Jacqueline into action.

"She flew to Paris the following Monday. . . . She looked exhausted, and when she took off her dark glasses, her eyes were red and swollen from crying."

"When she was told that her husband was out, she sat down and waited. When Onassis finally arrived at about 8:30, she rose, very pale, took a few steps toward him and threw herself into his arms, bursting into tears. It was this gesture that saved the day."

LONGER LIFE

EAST BERLIN Reuter — East German women now can expect to live for 73 years and men for 68 years, according to figures published here by the official news agency ADN. In 1953 the life expectancies were 68 for women and 64 for men.

'Hockey Night' Is Disrupted

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The dispute between the CBC and its 2,300 technicians continued on several fronts during the weekend with no sign that the two parties were close to an agreement.

Developments included:

—Cancellation of the telecasts of two National Hockey League games played in Canada and the substitution of another played in Minneapolis between the North Stars and Boston Bruins.

—Changes in Toronto that the technicians—members of the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians—had been locked out by the publicly-owned corporation, but members of both groups could return to work if they agreed to sign a series of guarantees of "normal functioning" of the CBC's operations. Only a few workers were on the job.

CBC had planned to carry the Toronto Maple Leaf-Buffalo Bisons hockey game Saturday night but cancelled it and said it would feed the Montreal Canadiens-Philadelphia Flyers game instead.

The second game was on for less than five minutes when the union members walked off.

Bennett Asked to Test Official Languages Act

OTTAWA (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia has been asked by the Canadian Loyalist Association to establish a legal test of the Official Languages Act.

In a letter sent Sunday to Mr. Bennett, association president Crawford of Ottawa said the Act's promotion of French as an official language has caused "jealousy, distrust and friction."

The 1969 federal law gives equal status to English and French in federal government and establishes bilingual districts across the country.

Columnist-broadcaster Walter Winchell Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — As they met on a New York street, columnist Walter Winchell said: "Mr. Hoover, this is Looie." Then he turned mouthpiece Looie (Lupsha) Brooks over to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

The negotiation of the surrender in 1939 of Buchalter and one of his henchmen scoops customarily credited to Winchell was covered by the columnist-radio newscaster of the Dixie Deanna.

Winchell's death at the University of California at Los Angeles Medical Centre was attributed to a prostate cancer. He had been confined at the centre since Nov. 18.

Winchell had lived in seclusion in recent years, mostly in a Los Angeles hotel, and avoided the night life, the action and gossip that he had loved for decades.

From 1929 until the early 1940s, millions of Canadians and Americans heard the nasal, staccato opening of his newscast: "Good evening, Mr. and Mrs. America and all the ships at sea. Let's go, is press." His voice never lost the pronounced accent of his birthplace, New York City.

Winchell punctuated his brisk delivery with the fastest beat from a telegrapher's key. His clangy delivery of his print counterpart in the three-dotted style of the shorthand system he wrote for the New York Mirror and some 800 other newspapers from 1929 to 1969.

"He wrote like a man honking in a traffic jam" was the appraisal of another writer who surfaced in the exuberant newspaper world of the 1920s, Ben Hecht.

In a Winchell column, a gangster was a Chicagorilla; liquor was giggle-water; a prostitute was a bluenose hostess.

The short, sharp-featured Winchell ever had a visual trademark: a snap-brim hat which he seemed never to be without.

His "scoops" became news.

Creditiste Leader Is Named

QUEBEC (CP) — Armand Bois, national chemistry member for St. Sauveur, was named interim Creditiste leader Sunday following a 12-hour party executive meeting which accepted Camil Samson's resignation as party chief.

Mr. Samson, a 37-year-old car salesman from Bourges, announced Feb. 13 that the party leadership would be up for discussion at the annual party meeting March 16-18 and that his decision to stand for re-election would depend on party support.

Party President Phil Cossette said there would not be a leadership convention at the March meeting. The date for such a convention will be announced after a federal election date is set.

Radical Elitists Worry Saltsman

KITCHENER (CP) — Max Saltsman, New Democratic Party member of Parliament for Waterloo, said Saturday the NDP must "take steps to control its "radical elitists". It is to achieve power federally or by 1963.

Mr. Saltsman told the annual meeting of the Kitchener NDP Association the Waffle group poses a "treacherous dilemma" for the party.

Theorists of "planning, not socialism" called "Waffle", which the party was a disservice to the majority of its supporters who wanted to see an NDP government.

Avalanche Kills Three

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Three men trapped by an avalanche in a mountain pass near Revelstoke were among at least 25 persons to die accidentally across Canada during the week-end.

The three men trapped in the avalanche were caught while climbing Mount Edith Cavell in Alberta. A fourth member of the party survived a 2,000-foot fall. The avalanche was started by the collapse of the roof of the snow-cave in which the men were resting.

DEFEND TRESSELLITES

PRETORIA, South African (AP) — The government has ordered all high school students in Transvaal province to take a new course called "youth forbiddity." It includes lessons in self-defence for girls.

Kingston Snowmobilers Make 400-mile Journey

NORTH BAY (CP) — Fourteen members of a snowmobile club, which made the 400-mile trip from their Kingston home to North Bay by snowmobile in about 45 hours, are setting their sights on an even more difficult target for next year.

Bill Baird, spokesman for the group which arrived here late Friday night, indicated in a weekend interview that club members might try a crossing of Sault Ste. Marie or even Quebec City next year.

He said the club, the Kingston Snow Hawks, started out six years ago with only three members, but now has about 400. And until members laid winter to make a trip to Pembroke on the Ottawa River, the club had remained content itself to trips of 100 miles or less.

This year's trip ended just before a blizzard struck Friday night when the 24 weary snowmobilers climbed off their machines at the motel in Callander Bay, about 10 miles south of here.

They had been accompanied for the last 40 miles by members of the North Bay Snowmobile Trailers snowmobile club on weekend hosts.

Mr. Baird said participants for the journey were selected over a period of two months. All had to be expert snowmobilers, in top physical condition and with mechanically-fit machines.

A five-man back-up team followed in a half-ton truck which carried two 45-gallon drums of gasoline, plus oil and spare parts for the assorted machines of snowmobilers. Two extra machines were kept in the truck in case of a breakdown. The same trailer, carrying food, clothes and medical supplies.

"We had enough medical supplies and equipment to bring out a man with a broken back if we didn't even get a cut finger," said Mr. Baird.

The main group and the back-up team sometimes lost sight of each other, but they kept in radio contact.

Mr. Baird said the trip was made to prove that snowmobiles can be safe and useful, if used properly.

Saturday, the Kingston snowmobilers met with Mayor Bruce Gordet of North Bay. They were presented with a tape containing the recorded best wishes of Kingston mayor Valorie Swain. Sunday, the group went home by bus.

Six-month Strike Off

CHICAGO (AP) — Longshoremen officially ended Saturday a six-month strike against Chicago grain elevator companies by ratifying a new four-year contract.

John McQuade, president of Local 4K, Grain Elevator, Export and Feed Mill Operators, AFL-CIO, said ratification came on a 127-to-6 vote and the men, who walked out Sept. 1, will return to work Tuesday at four major companies.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1♥	Pass	2♠
2♦	Pass	Pass	4♥
Pass	Pass	4♠	6♥

Opening lead — seven of spades.

Bidding is a form of science, but—as in many scientific endeavors—one cannot attain absolute perfection. The theoretical must frequently give way to the practical, and some bids are only general-direction shots where the marksman merely has high hopes of hitting the target.

Take this deal played by France and Italy in the European championships. At the first table, South was Jais of France, partnered with Trezel. West was Avarelli, playing with Belladonna.

Trezel was in a difficult position after East said two spades and South showed a minimum opening bid by passing. Afraid of two spade losers, Trezel not unreasonably gave up on the slam possibility by jumping to four hearts.

But when Avarelli decided to sacrifice with four spades, the bid boomeranged. Trezel now marked Jais with a singleton spade and he backed his judgement by leaping to six hearts.

Jais handled the diamonds in the most approved style and scored 980 points, losing only a spade trick.

At the other table, Forquet became declarer for itasy with the North hand, also arriving at six hearts.

But disaster struck in a strange way. The French East led the ace of spades and shifted to a club.

At this point Forquet injudiciously claimed the slam, not realizing that he might lose a diamond trick if either defender had four to the jack.

His opponents naturally contested the claim. The tournament director was called and gave the only ruling he could under the laws. Forquet was prohibited from taking a diamond finesse against the jack and he went down one.

So the French gained 1,030 points on the deal. Crest la guerre.

Tomorrow: Sylvia.

What The Stars Say

By Jeane Dixon

TUESDAY, FEB. 22

Aries (March 21-April 19): A good talker nearby can stir you into a spur-of-the-moment venture. Local news includes a bit of scandal or a preposterous story.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Pitch for what you want and believe in. Career issues are closer to solution. Round up stray possessions, replace needs, supplies.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Be of good cheer; put yesterday and its incidents out of your mind altogether. Find or give a party in the evening.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): While attending normal responsibilities, find something beautiful to consider, renew your spiritual nature. Go somewhere with friends.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Both mood and opportunity hold expansion for goals. Include friends, taking into account the chance they will change their minds.

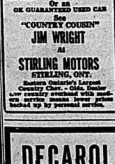
Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): The motif today is the brightest of moods, striving for the best in social contacts. Historic and far-off places reveal depths of meaning if you take a deliberately naive viewpoint.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Feast your senses on beauty in whatever form you find it. Share this with people, as plenty of casual company is around you all day.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Playmates, companions tend to less inhibition—the question is how generously you respond.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Gifts come small today, but very important as tokens of real feelings. While not skipping any significant responsibility, spread out and be sociable.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Younger people create conversations with their experiments. See what can be done to improve your neighborhood.



Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): An idea sprouts in the midst of the most exacting work, and you can't rest until you can try it out. It may take many trials before you get results, so no prior announcement.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Get away from low-serious involvements with career, the outside world, and enjoy what you have.

Father of Documentary Dies

BATH, England (AP) — John Grierson, founder of the British documentary film movement and creator of the National Film Board of Canada, died here Saturday. He was 73.

Grierson was in the United States as a Rockefeller research fellow in 1926 when he was credited with coining the word "documentary."

In 1927 Grierson was invited by the Canadian government to prepare plans for the development of government produced films.

His report led to the creation of the National Film Board.

Nixon's Visit to China Seen Start of New Age

TORONTO (CP) — A former United States diplomat in China said Sunday President Richard Nixon's visit to Peking marks the beginning of a new diplomatic age.

John Melby, now director of the department of political studies at the University of Guelph, described the visit as an event of unparalleled historical significance.

He told a panel discussing China at the Canadian Institute of Public Affairs the Chinese see the trip as the most important step in Peking's emergence from political isolation—"the barbarian leader coming to Peking to pay tribute and atone for his past sins."

He said Americans see the visit "as an important gesture of good will which will get them along the way to getting back their self respect and respect in the eyes of others which has been so tragically eroded because of the war in Vietnam."

"This (the visit) constitutes a striking reversal in U.S. and Chinese policies, a reversal the likes of which we seldom see in history."

He said that among recent presidents, only Mr. Nixon could have brought this about.

"The fact that this is happening is a public policy in the United States is an incredible phenomenon," said Mr. Melby.

"And ironically, the reason Nixon got away with it is because of his anti-Communist record, which has been so clear all these years. The people must never think that if this is all right with Nixon, it's OK with them."

Kingston Man Praises 'Advocacy' for Retarded

TORONTO (CP) — Ron Abrams, a 22-year-old Kingston dishwasher, says it's nice to know that "someone in the community cares about me."

Mr. Abrams was taking part Saturday in a panel discussion at the National Institute on Mental Retardation. The panelists, all from Kingston, were discussing that city's advocacy program which started less than a year ago.

Mr. Abrams, who lives in a halfway house connected with the Rockwood Mental Retardation Centre of Kingston Psychiatric Hospital, lauded the program.

"It's quite a wonderful help in emotional problems and maybe financial problems too . . . If a person when he comes out of hospital doesn't have someone to care about him, then he'll end up in hospital in a matter of weeks.

"If a person doesn't have someone, then there's no point in going out into the community."

Atwood Cohoon, Mr. Abrams's advocate and also on the panel, said Mr. Abrams has been asking if he can become an advocate himself some day and thereby help someone else with an emotional problem.

Wolf Wolfensberger, the psychologist who introduced the concept of advocacy to Canada from the United States, was an observer at the panel discussion.

Trenton Official Plan Turned Down

Plant Areas Exceed Needs

By KEN SMITH
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — An extensive overhaul of Trenton's draft official plan has been ordered by the department of municipal affairs and the town faces a continued stalling of development programs.

After waiting over six months for approval of the crucial document, council learned here Monday the draft plan is unacceptable to de-

Reaction to the new delay has aggravated town leaders who call charges in municipal affairs review of the plan "unfair" and suggest the department send its men into the field to see the realities of the Trenton situation.

Council last night decided to make a rapid study of the situation and present the department with answers, or rebuttal, at an early date.

The department of municipal affairs seriously questions sections of Trenton's proposed new official plan suggesting the draft document devotes too much attention to industrial development, too little to recreational needs.

Nixon Given High Honors As Peking Talks Warm Up

PEKING (CP) — President Nixon continued his summit talks with Chinese Premier Chou En-lai today and tonight saw a Chinese ballet in the Great Hall of the People.

Nixon's second full round of talks with Chinese leaders ended just before 6 p.m. (5 a.m. EST) after nearly four hours, amid signs he is being accorded the highest honors by the Chinese leadership.

A rare display of official Chinese publicity for a head of state honoured in the Peking press which spread the story of the U.S. president's visit for the first time.

During his talks with Chou, the president was accompanied by Henry Kissinger, his national security affairs adviser, in addition to John Holdridge and Winston Lord.

Chinese officials taking part in the talks included Vice-Foreign Minister Chia Kuan-hua.

While these talks were going on State Secretary William Rogers held separate discussions with Chinese Foreign Minister Chi Peng-fei, both of whom were accompanied by a number of aides and advisers.

Despite the general atmosphere of goodwill, diplomats here believe the substantive talks between the two sides will be forceful and tough.

The local press and radio had ignored the arrival of the presidential party Monday, but today the American visitors were the big story.

The whole front page of the People's Daily was devoted to photographs and news of the president's visit under the banner headline: "Chairman Mao Tse-tung Meets President Nixon."

Foreign diplomats in Peking described the display in the People's Daily as stunning.

"It is a very, very sensational looker issue from the Chinese point of view," said one referring to today's six-page edition of the paper.

Robert Kennedy's Son Aboard Hijacked Plane

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Three Arab hijackers held 136 men including the oldest son of the late senator Robert F. Kennedy prisoner today aboard a West German jumbo jet in Aden and planted explosives on the plane to keep the police at bay.

The Iraqi news agency reported from the capital of South Yemen.

Women and children among the plane's 172 passengers were allowed to leave the Boeing 747, but the male passengers and the 15 members of the crew were kept aboard, the West German airline, Lufthansa, said. Among them was 19-year-old Joseph P. Kennedy III.

Diplomats in Beirut said the hijackers were demanding the release of four Palestinian Arabs on trial in Cairo for the assassination of Premier Wasfi Tell of Jordan. The diplomats said they had reports that South Yemen's director of civil aviation had boarded the plane to negotiate with the hijackers.

Iraqi reports said the three hijackers were Palestinians from the Organization of Victims of Zionist Occupation in the Jabala refugee camp which is in the Israeli-occupied Gaza Strip.

The women and children from the plane were taken to a hotel in Aden, on the southwest corner of the Arabian peninsula, and will be flown to Beirut tonight, a representative of Lufthansa reported.

One man also was allowed to leave the plane with his three children because they were travelling without their mother, the Iraqi agency said.

South Yemen authorities allowed the 747 to be refuelled but the hijackers as yet had made no demand to take off for another destination, the report said.

Three Arabs who boarded the plane in New Delhi hijacked the airliner about an hour after it took off from the Indian capital for Athens and Frankfurt. The flight had originated in Tokyo and stopped in Hong Kong and Bangkok en route to New Delhi.

Japan Chagrined, Poland Annoyed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Soviet Union mentioned it briefly and North Vietnam ignored the event Monday but elsewhere President Nixon's first meetings with Chinese leaders captured headlines around the world.

In Japan there were expressions of regret that a Japanese premier didn't get to Peking first, while in Poland Communist boss Edward Gierek chose the occasion to issue what amounted to a call for the overthrow of Mao Tse-tung's leadership.

Tokyo's early editions today carried front page pictures of Nixon greeting Chou En-lai. The Japan Times said in an editorial the significance of the events now unfolding in Peking "is that an opening has been made for a continuing dialogue."

Premier Eisaku Sato was among millions of Japanese who watched Nixon's arrival in the Chinese capital on television.

Sato declined comment, except to say:: "It must be a historic event since he (Nixon) himself says so." His remark was seen reflecting Japanese chagrin at repeated rebuffs by China to efforts at rapprochement.

"...it's the real thing, what the world hopes to see..."

Aldershot Bomb Blast Kills Seven

ALDERSHOT, England (AP) — Seven persons, including an army officer, were killed today in a massive bomb explosion that wrecked the officers' mess of a British paratroop brigade.

Five women civilians working at the big army base were among the dead. Cambridge Military hospital said.

Thirteen persons injured were taken to hospital.

The explosion was believed caused by a bomb left in a car parked outside the officers mess at the headquarters of the 16th Parachute Brigade in this army camp about 50 miles southwest of London.

The brigade's First Battalion was involved in the Bloody Sunday clash in Londonderry Jan. 30.

Synopsis: Cold air has established itself over Ontario once again and allowed temperatures to drop as low as 20 below in Northern Ontario and to the few teens in southern Ontario this morning. In spite of considerable sunshine today strong northerly winds and falling temperatures will make the day seem much colder than it actually is. Skies will be mostly clear over much of Ontario today. Another moderating trend is shaping up in the central United States today and should reach Ontario on Wednesday.

Hijacking Life Term Proposed

OTTAWA (CP) — Air piracy or sabotage would become crimes subject to life in prison under Criminal Code amendments introduced in Parliament Monday.

A passenger carrying a firearm or explosive aboard a civil aircraft without authorization could get up to 14 years in prison.

A two-year sentence could await anyone interfering with a pilot in command of an aircraft. The pilot would have the status of a peace officer under the proposed law.

The new air hijacking provisions would extend the jurisdiction of Canadian courts to include offences committed while a Canadian aircraft is in flight or on the ground, whether in or out of Canada.

The provisions are tailored to recently-suggested international conventions on unlawful seizure of aircraft and the safety of civil aviation.

Economy, Environment Among Davis Priorities

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The economy, restructuring of government and the environment are the top priorities of the Ontario government, Premier William Davis said Monday.

In an off-the-cuff address to the London Progressive Conservative Association's annual meeting, Mr. Davis said his government must create new jobs to strengthen the economy as well as maintain government spending.

"We are doing extremely well," he said of government restructuring.

Contrary to news reports, he added, there were no such things as regional cuts.

"All ministers are equal," he said, and policy considerations are being integrated in all departments.

The government will continue to "move in a constructive way" on environment, which he called a "real priority item."

"And we will be dealing with it (environment) and the other two priorities in the next 12 months."

Congressmen Respect Canada's Right to Control Investment

OTTAWA (CP) — U.S. delegates to a five-day meeting of the Canada-U.S. interparliamentary group urged consideration of an American common market and made representations as to what Canada's foreign ownership policy should be.

An official communique issued Monday said Canada and the U.S. should consider what trade re-alignments might be called for as a result of Britain's joining the European Economic Community.

"This might take the form of similar common market arrangements within North America, or between all the Americas, accompanied by a development of their trade potential with Pacific Rim markets."

The communique says the Canadian delegation "observed that while such solutions obviously merited some attention, their possible political implications were likely to cause certain alarm among Canadian public opinion, and that the present climate suggested that this matter be approached with the utmost caution and discretion."

On foreign ownership policy, the president was accompanied by Henry Kissinger, his national security affairs adviser, in addition to John Holdridge and Winston Lord.

Canada Will Keep Defence Options Open

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada intends to keep open its options on future continental defence arrangements with the United States.

Defence Minister E. J. Benner, in an interview Monday, appeared to suggest that the government may refuse to renew the NORAD agreement unless it takes account of strategic changes in the North American situation.

The North American Air Defence Command, established by Canada and the U.S. in 1954 to counter a Soviet bomber threat, was renewed in 1968 for a further five years. Preliminary negotiations on its future may begin later this year.

Mr. Benson, appointed defence minister Jan. 28 after nearly four years as finance minister, declined to say whether he favors another extension of the agreement.

He noted that the defence white paper published last August pledged Canada's continuing cooperation with the U.S. in joint defence but that it did not spell out what form this might take.

"We will have to keep our options open about the form of co-operation we may enter into in the future, after looking with the U.S. at what 'the future threats appear to be.'

Another extension would depend on whether the wording was "compatible with our view as to what our role should be."

"U.S. delegates expressed hope that Canadian legislation would not have a discriminatory character which would cause resentment in the U.S., and affirmed that they responded absolutely the right of the Canadian government to take any decisions which they wished to affecting the terms and conditions for investments by non-residents in Canada."

The government is expected to announce its policy on foreign ownership about the end of March.

The interparliamentary group consists of Congressmen from both major U.S. parties and MPs and senators from all major Canadian political parties. Their meetings ended Sunday.

Ontario Bans Plan

In an eight page report from the department's community planning branch read to council here last night, senior planner Brian Carney says: "In calculating land use needs for planning the plan uses a population basis of 30 persons per acre which is not likely by the year 1990."

The report states the required industrial acreage for a population of 20,000 is 200 acres. "However, the plan designates 620 acres for this use. There appears to be no basis for this large designation."

Regarding the intention of the official plan to enlarge industrial land use on the east side of the Trent, the municipal affairs verdict is that this land "seems to be more suited for development of tourist or recreational uses such as suggested in the report by the Canada - Ontario Rideau - Trent - Severn Study. This study has indicated the potential importance to the town as a whole of the Trent waterway system.

"The plan does indicate a small area for tourist commercial use," says the department's report, "but this (on Dundas East) is separated from the water and seems to ignore the potential of the waterway system for recreational development."

On analysis, the community planning branch has determined it is "incongruous" to have a "narrow strip of industrial land located on the east side of the river (just east of Mount Pellon) bordered on the one side by an open space area and on the other by residential uses."

Outlining problems now being faced here with relation to construction, the municipal affairs department points out that the official plan should specify how adequate sewage service and adequate water supply will be answered.

Moreover, it recommends the plan take into account the noise factor of aircraft using CFB Trenton in its establishment of land use designations for the area just west of the base.

Councillor Ted Parker told council the municipal affairs' analysis of the official plan draft raised questions that should be answered first. "We will get nowhere until they are answered," he said.

Clerk - comptroller O. W. Larry advised that Quinte Planning Consultants would be preparing a presentation on the department's findings for town council's early perusal.

"What he got to do with this?" mused Councillor Pete Ars.

Councillor George Greer suggested "that Project Planners, the consultants, be invited closely with the town in preparation of the plan" to show a copy of the report "to show them where they went wrong." He was told a copy had been forwarded to them from the department of municipal affairs.

Industry or Recreation

Does Trenton place too much stress on its industries like the plant above? Does it care enough about its position on the river system as shown in the inset photo at the height of the summer season?

Trentonians Disagree With Department Stand

TRENTON (Staff) — "I do not think it is fair," said Cy Macdonald, an area representative to the Lower Trent Conservation Authority as he reacted to the suggestion of the municipal affairs department that Trenton has a preponderant concern with industry, too little with recreation.

Emphasizing that he was speaking personally and not as a spokesman for the authority, the former authority chairman said when he first came to Trenton shortly before the War II the town was broke. "I think they have been forced pragmatically to go for industry — you need money for a tax base," he said.

He said "I know what Trenton's plans are . . . I think they are on the right track with recreation and their sewage treatment program will be sound."

Councillor Ted Parker, himself an industrialist expressed "aggravation" at remarks made in the department's review of Trenton's new official plan and suggested "the planners come down here for a couple of days" to see the Trenton situation first-hand.

"This is what you run into when you have people looking at things like this from Toronto," commented the councillor, who last night urged council to immediately prepare a counter-case for presentation at the hearing.

He said the report contained "some nice new planning phrases" like "hazard land". The review recommended no building on such lands in the hills and suggested no development in areas prone to flooding.

Mr. Macdonald of the conservation authority said today a flood plain study would be "an utilitarian aim" — very costly. When asked by what year he believed one would be completed, he said "about 1975." As far as the phrase "hazard land" is concerned, he said "I do not know the term."

Central Bridge general manager, Richard Burnett indicated he believed the town has a balanced approach to development. "I do not think municipal affairs know as much about things like this as local people," he said.

Ted Parker commented that, if the new plan appears to have a lot of industrial property, it is because several industries already hold large tracts of land. Central Bridge has 53 acres and Domtar's Trenton mill is located on a site about 100 acres in size. Recreation committee member, Councillor Stan Ketchenson, when asked for assessment of the department's longawaited analysis, said "I would hate to say what I think . . . if you would probably print it".

He summed up his feelings on the report by calling it "a farce . . . if it took them eight months to come up with this, it will take eight years to get the plan approved."

He asks "if the department is so interested in recreation, why do they want to expand the sewage treatment plant at the east of our Centennial Park?"

Boy's Alertness Rewarded by CN

Eleven - year - old Milton Armstrong of Bancroft Drive has learned the rewards of putting safety first in his concern for others.

Last summer, after having discovered a broken rail in the Canadian National lines near his home, the young lad, realizing the seriousness of the break, reported his findings to his father. Because the tracks had been inspected that morning by a CN patrol, Mr. Armstrong did not think there would be much wrong. At the insistance of Milton, however, he checked it out, and finding the break to be quite dangerous, he phoned the CN. A repair crew had the rail put back in a safe condition.

On December 16, the day after his eleventh birthday, Milton received from the Canadian National Railways a letter of recognition, reading in part, "Had it not been for your alertness, a train might have been derailed at that point and a serious accident could have resulted."

As a token of gratitude, Ivan Hilborn, area supervisor, presented Milton with a gold wrist watch engraved, "Presented to Milton Armstrong for services rendered to Canadian National Railways. Aug. 18, 1971".

Milton is the son of Bob and Audrey Armstrong and is a Grade 5 student at the Madoc Township Public School.

One Week To Go For Licences

With only a week to go until the Feb. 29 deadline, the local auto licence bureau at Front St. still has about 4,000 sets of plates to sell, or about one third of the normal quota for 1972, immediate Belleville area.

But at the present rate of sales — about 450 plates per day — license issuer George Eben doesn't expect any real last minute line-up problem.

"But there always are a few last minute shoppers," Mr. Eben said.

As a convenience for motorists, the Belleville office is remaining open to about 3 p.m. on Saturday afternoon. About 12,500 sets of passenger car plates are sold in Belleville each year.

Fuse a No-No

John F. Manlow, of 346 Sidney Street, is very proud of his brand new, European car, but last night the vehicle nearly drove him to frustration.

After leaving a dowtn own show, he discovered his gas tank door had been opened, but nothing seemed amiss.

However, when he attempted to start it, the car wouldn't turn over. Someone had removed all the fuses. They also stripped wires from the radio.

Kapers Pianist

In the report of Belleville Collegiate's Kampus Kapers, which appeared in Monday's edition, Kathleen Lynch was incorrectly identified as Lauraine Lynch.

Miss Lynch played a piano accompaniment to a vocalist during the evening's activities.

Trenton Walkout Continues

TRENTON (Staff) — Canadian General Electric employees, in the second day of their walkout which has halted production here, bargaining committees were scheduled to meet this afternoon at the Lions Hall to discuss their course of action.

Spokesman for employees, Donald Hunter, said absence of what production workers consider a reasonable company contract offer prompted the walkout shortly after noon Monday of the 156 members of local 509, United Electrical Workers of America.

Company officials have declined comment on the situation.

Mr. Hunter says employees have been working at the Front St. factory without a contract since last Friday

IN MEMORIAM

DAIGAD — In loving memory of a dear husband and father who died 22 years ago today, February 22, 1950.
Twenty-two years and life departed
You live forever in our hearts.
Sadly missed by wife Mildred, daughter Beverley, son-in-law Donald and grandson Kevin.

WILSON — In sad and loving memory of my dear wife Norma Marie, who passed away February 22, 1971.
There's a face that is haunting us
There's a voice that we're longing to hear
There's a heart that is breaking dearest
because we try to forget every hour
There's a sad but sweet remembrance
Only.
Sadly missed by husband Ken, Jr., and Sandra.
There's a token of affection dear,
There's a memory ever near,
—Allan Wilson.

DAIGAD — In loving memory of a dear husband and father who died 22 years ago today, February 22, 1950.
A million times we've needed you,
A million times we've cried,
If love could have saved you dear,
You never would have died.
Long days and lonely hours
Are the hardest things to say,
But memories of you are always
In a very special way.
Our hearts still ache with sadness
And the tears still flow the same,
We'll pray to God until all our hearts,
Are reunited again.
—Always remembered by wife Mildred, daughter-in-law Bessie and grandson Kevin.

Hees Charges Fuzzy-minded Theorists Running Government

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservatives came out counter-punching Monday in the second round of the Commons throne speech debate, considered a preliminary bout to the anticipated main event—a general election.

Prince Edward-Hastings) dominated Monday's proceedings with sharp roundhouse rights on the alleged wrongs of government handling of the economy.

His thesis: The government consists of "fuzzy-minded theorists" who don't understand how to stimulate the economy because they haven't had any business experience.

"No minister in charge of a senior economic portfolio, from the prime minister on down, has ever had any experience in production or in the sale of products or services," he said.

His argument unravelled before a full complement of MPs. Attendance in the 264-seat House never exceeded 35 during debate, and at one time seconds appeared in danger of slipping below the quorum level of 20.

Mr. Hees, trade minister during the government of John Diefenbaker, said Canada can boost its exports—but by sending contingents of businessmen abroad and bringing hoards of foreign businessmen to Canada, not by sending out trade ministers to exchange pleasantries.

Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin had been travelling around the world claiming he was doing a great job of increasing sales to foreign markets, but his role was of little use except in the case of occasional state trading nations.

Trade ministers talking to other trade ministers wasn't going to sell anything. That required businessmen talking to businessmen.

Mr. Hees said in 1971 and in the first month of this year Canada's trade had taken a severe drop with every country except the United States which was using Canada's natural raw resources to create employment for itself with no great job-creating benefit to Canada.

Mr. Hees followed Mr. Trudeau's Friday statement that Canada is taking a strong position in trade talks with the U.S. by saying that it really appears Canada is giving concessions that aren't warranted.

Canada has a deficit in trade with the U.S. for 18 years and finally, in the last two, had shown a surplus. There was no reason for Canada, given this situation, to bow to any U.S. pressure along the lines that Canada should ease up, that she owed the U.S. any concessions.

"Yet the U.S. government has been able to get the Administration into believing that we have some responsibility to right this balance."

Mr. Hees also complained that the government is borrowing abroad to fuel internal economic expansion program foolishly.

It had subsidized two new pulp and paper plants to the total of $39.4 million while the industry is languishing and pulp and paper plants are closing.

The throne speech debate, which lasts eight days, continues today.

What appears to be a government tactic—having a cabinet minister make a speech on each day of the debate to capture the day's attention—didn't amount to much Monday.

Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson spoke, but got diverted by questions from the Opposition and didn't get beyond outlining past agricultural policy. He said he would speak again during the debate and would comment on future policy.

Trudeau 'Dead Duck' Over Jobs

OTTAWA (CP) — If Prime Minister Trudeau is willing to fight an election on the Liberal government's handling of unemployment, "then he is a dead duck right now," Conservative George Hees told the Commons Monday.

Mr. Hees (Prince Edward-Hastings), Conservative critic on trade matters, described the holders of economic portfolios in the Trudeau cabinet as a collection of "fuzzy-minded theorists" with zero experience in either the production or sale of goods —"what the economy is all about."

When Mr. Trudeau "does screw up his courage" to call an election, Mr. Hees predicted, the people will elect a Conservative government because it knows how to "produce the jobs the Canadian people need and deserve."

The Hees speech came on the second day of an eight-day Commons debate on the throne speech, outlining the government's legislative program for the new session started last week.

Speculation has run high for an election this spring and election talks and challenges have studded the throne speech debate since it began.

The outstanding thing about the government's throne speech is that it contained nothing to deal with unemployment, Mr. Hees said, although 685,000 Canadians, representing 7.7 per cent of the work force, are jobless.

Mr. Hees said government grants to firms should be selective, boosting those industries with steady and growing demand for their products and thereby creating more jobs.

UIC Computer Gives Belleville 'Black Name'

Belleville has "a very black name" throughout Ontario, Belleville Progressive Conservatives were told last night.

Alf Hales, member of parliament for Wellington and chairman of the standing committee on public accounts said at the annual meeting of the PCs of Belleville that the "famous computer" at the Unemployment Insurance Commission office here had given Belleville an unfavorable name among the unemployed in Ontario.

The computer has been blamed in press reports for delays in processing unemployment insurance claims. The Globe and Mail Saturday carried a story saying that 300 blank cheques with no names and no amounts, had been mailed to claimants in the Toronto area.

"It a monumental disaster," Mr. Hales said of the present unemployment insurance situation.

"I was happy to come to Belleville — I wanted to see the famous computer at the UIC building," Mr. Hales told his listeners.

He told the PCs, the manager assured him during a tour Monday afternoon of the UIC that no blank cheques had gone out from Belleville and that "Saturday morning story in the Globe is incorrect".

"This is a sorry mess, but a lot of the trouble comes through the area offices," Mr. Hales said.

"The trouble arose through the government handing in a new act on Jan. 1 when the act didn't go in force and effect until June 27. In my riding I get about 50 complaints a week and it's frustrating. It is so busy I can't get through to the area office in Waterloo. I have to drive over with the complaints and present them personally. People who need the money have to wait eight weeks for it and this creates a great demand on the welfare offices."

Now Hear This

Newsmakers

It was a college reunion last night when Ald. Robin Jeffrey introduced Alf Hales, MP for Wellington, at the annual meeting of Belleville Progressive Conservatives. Ald. Jeffrey, her husband, Roy Jeffrey, retiring president of the group, and Mr. Hales are all graduates of Ontario Agricultural College, now the University of Guelph.

Mrs. Winnifred Steel, president of the Federation of Women Teachers' Association, Trenton chapter, was Hastings County's official delegate at a women teachers' conference held in Toronto Feb. 18 to 20. Mrs. Dorothy Blakely of Hastings County Public School Board office, Mrs. Lana Fisher of Hastings County, uniform president from Queen Mary School and Miss Marion Cameron of Queen Mary School also attended the conference of 3,400 women.

Colin Wilcox, chairman of the Kinsmen pool committee, Monday was removed from the club to proceed with plans for a new, $9,000 filtration system. The decision means youngsters will be swimming in the pool June 24, the day school closes.

Mr. Wilcox said a contract would be let to St. Lawrence Pool Ltd.-of Kingston for the six ton installation.

Police Chief Douglas T. Crosbie will be in Toronto today attending a meeting of the Ontario Police Commission.

RALPH ROBINSON, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. DANIEL ROBINSON of RR 4, Belleville, is now in the children's ward at Belleville General. The boy was run over by a school bus Feb. 16. He suffered lower abdominal injuries, fractured right ribs and a fractured right shoulder.

Madoc Masons Install Officers

MADOC — Vers McMurray has been installed as First Principal of Madoc Chapter, Royal Arch Masons. Other members of the executive for 1972 are: past president, Grant C. Gaebel; Second Principal, Ray Bloch; Third Principal, Roy Frost; treasurer and director of ceremonies, James Kellar; Scribe E. D. Kernohan; Scribe N, John Atkinson; Principal Sojourner, Eugene Pigden; Senior Sojourner, Harry Ashton; Junior Sojourner, William Naylor; Master of Fourth Veil, William F. Hart; Master of Third Veil, Thomas Lloyd; Master of Second Veil, William Emery; Master of First Veil, Percy Naylor and auditors, Carl Whittmore and H. F. Dafoe.

Conciliation For City Workers

City Hall officials are half way home in this year's labor contract discussions with city employees.

Public works employees have tentatively agreed to new contract terms with the city and the agreement is scheduled to be up for ratification at next Monday's city council meeting.

But discussions between the city and "inside" workers at city hall were so far failed to reach an agreement and the matter will go to conciliation through the Ontario Labor Relations Board. A hearing date for the negotiations is still to be set.

City Manager J. R. Reynolds said that work agreements between the city and fire and police departments are not up for renewal this year as they both have still another year to run.

Bear Stolen

John Bowler of 166 George Street, Apt. 11, last night reported a bear stolen from his home.

The plastic bank, containing between $23 and $25 was removed following a breakin, discovered at 5.38 p.m.

Grills Says He's Still In Running

Hastings riding's Conservative member of parliament will be up for re-election if the government goes to the country this year.

"As of now, I'm still in the running," said Lee Grills last night at a Belleville PC meeting. "But I'm giving it a lot of thought."

Mr. Grills admitted he would miss parliament if he retired.

"There have been a lot of thrills and ebbs, but there's nothing I could do that I'd enjoy more," he said.

The Progressive Conservatives of Belleville elected new officers last night for a two-year term. Roy Jeffrey stepped down as president and turned the gavel over to Fred Deacon.

Other officers are: vice-presidents, Mrs. Phyllis Graham, Harold Thompson, Mrs. Phyllis Hume; secretary, Dr. J. B. McSherry; treasurer, Mrs. Mae Caverly.

Directors are Mrs. Joyce Rendell, Gerald Brennan, Mrs. Vera Morphy, William McBride, Mrs. Beth Murray, Charles Smith, Mrs. Lois Rollins, Donald M. Souter, Mrs. Dorothy Newell, Harvey Bronson, Ian Brady, and George Mills.

Poor Reception

Harold Tompkins, well-known country and western disc jockey on CJBQ radio, won't be able to tune in his own station for some time to come.

While broadcasting his late show last night, someone entered his car, parked at the rear of the station, and stole his $100 car radio.

He discovered the theft at 1.14 a.m., after sign-off.

'Communication' Stalls Business

A lack of what he termed "proper communication" is one of the biggest reasons factories impeding business today, a Bell Canada official told Belleville Rotarians Monday.

"Higher management needs information that is understandable easily to arrive at proper decisions," said George Mathieu. "Unfortunately, information is of no use whatsoever."

Mr. Mathieu who is supervisor of data training at the Bell Canada establishment in the Four Seasons Motel, emphasized the swift pace of change in business today and noted that systems currently in use could be outdated tomorrow and must be capable of changing accordingly.

The speaker branded as a "misconception" the notion that the world was being taken over by the machine. Remember, he said, that the machines could function only when given the necessary facts.

He stressed also that training programs were geared to customer needs.

The business world, said Mr. Mathieu, had to come up with revised and sophisticated methods, not only to compete but to provide a better ratio with which to combat rising costs. In the realm of accounts receivable for example, "you must get money back as soon as possible in order to re-invest."

Thanking the speaker, banking Douglas Forbes mentioned how banks were computerizing in order to cope with increasing volumes of paper.

Next week the Rotary Club will prepare material for the forthcoming Easter Seals campaign in aid of crippled children.

Guests at the Rotary luncheon included mayors of the week Christine Fulton of Centennial and Catherine Ryan of Nicholson.

September For Vote Says Hales

A Progressive Conservative MP last night joined the ranks of the favorite political guessing games — predicting the date of the next federal election.

It will be held in the first or second week of September, said Alf Hales, MP for Wellington at the annual meeting of Belleville Conservatives.

He found a supporter for his opinion in Lee Grills, MP for Hastings.

"The economy is at a low ebb — no prime minister would want to go to the country now," said Mr. Hales in discounting rumors of a June election.

"With the money the government has ploughed into the country they expect the economy to improve by the fall," he continued.

"The next election will be fought on policy — policy that will influence the young people of the nation," he said.

The issues, Mr. Hales affirmed will be protection of the environment, preservation of natural resources and the provision of a better quality of life for man.

Senior Citizens Survey Aimed at 4,000 Response

About 4,000 senior citizens in Belleville are to be interviewed in the coming months to determine what they want and how the community can help them.

A 14-man team has been compiling a questionnaire for the past week to get to the heart of the problems facing senior citizens.

This team will be paid through a local initiatives project grant.

The project "is to determine the priority of need areas as seen by the senior citizens of the city," said Isidore Cooperman, director of the United Community Services of Belleville. "This will lead to coordinated community action."

Those to be interviewed are guaranteed "their interviews will be kept strictly confidential and will be contacted before the interviewer arrives at their door step.

Mr. Cooperman said "all senior citizens will be contacted through the mail and in the case where a phone is available, will be telephoned prior to the meeting."

Interviewers will also be carrying identification cards with their photographs.

It is expected the project will continue over the next few months.

Names for the survey were gathered from the assessment office in Trenton by a worker with the provincially sponsored Project 500.

This worker will now become part of the research team.

Capsulizing the scheme, Mr. Cooperman said tomorrow is the result of today's research.

Family Y to Name Directors on Thursday

The board of directors for the Belleville Family YMCA will be elected Thursday night at the annual meeting to be held at the Y at 7.30 p.m.

All members of the Y have been mailed nominating forms which will be processed and voted upon at the meeting.

The meeting is open to the general public and is meant to serve as both an annual business meeting and an evening where Belleville residents can get to know the workings of the Y better.

President of the board Dr. Douglas Horne will recap the past year's activities and make some proposals for the coming year.

Reports will also come from the treasurer and financial committee.

Scattered through the evening will be demonstrations of Y classes.

Two Break-ins

City police have reported two Monday afternoon breakins. Yesterday afternoon, a neighbor discovered the 18 Lemoine Street home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Foote had been entered through a cellar window. The home had been ransacked, but nothing of value has been reported missing.

Mae Caverly, of 41 Elgin Street, Apt. 4, discovered her unlocked, basement storage locker had been broken into. An electric fan, badminton rackets and a pickle-size soft drink hamper, were stolen.

Nixon in China

President Nixon's trip to Communist China is off to a good start. Whatever else Westerners have thought about this largest nation of all — mostly the image has been one of caricature — the arrival ceremonies in Peking were in the correct diplomatic tradition.

In fact it was all so normal, and why shouldn't it be? It was friendly too, as witness the warm handshakes, first with Premier Chou En-lai, who seemed reluctant to let the President go, then with government leaders; and finally, after inspecting the guard-of-honor, with members of the Peking revolutionary committee.

Of course there was none of the fraternal fervor, no milling throngs of welcoming people either at the airport or in that huge downtown square, as when the Premier of Romania and his wife were visiting not so long ago. Still, it had the hallmarks of sincerity and the promise of a beginning to the end of the long years of suspicion and distrust resulting from an earlier era of foreign — including American — exploitation of China.

It is all part of the new thrust in international politics, aimed principally at normalizing relationships with country which, left out in the cold as it were, could be a threat to world peace. On the other hand, recognized for its worth, its ancient traditions, its increasing development as an economic giant, and the industriousness of its people, Communist China can be a force for peace.

Meanwhile we are all coming to know China a little better. Behind the caricature, behind the gross distortions Hollywood has perpetrated over the years, are a land and a people who live and work (perhaps a little harder than the average citizen here) just as we do.

PM's Initiative

Prime Minister Trudeau took a commendable step recently in trying to ensure that Nigeria, Tanzania and Zambia remain in the Commonwealth despite the proposed settlement over Rhodesia.

Canada, like the three countries mentioned, favors majority rule for Rhodesia, but the agreement reached by Britain and Rhodesia provides for majority rule only in the indefinite future. Meanwhile, a British commission is studying the attitudes of Rhodesians to the agreement.

Mr. Trudeau manifested his concern about a possible breakaway by the other neighboring African states by sending his special assistant, Ivan Head, to the three capitals.

This was the kind of behind-the-scenes diplomacy which we hear little about and yet should not go unnoticed. Nor could it be construed as interfering in the affairs of those nations, but rather as a fence-preserving mission aimed at holding the Commonwealth together. It is not often Mr. Trudeau gets any credit from a particular quarter, but this is one occasion where he merits it.

Politicking

We notice that NDP leader David Lewis, still getting plenty of speaking time on television news and party political broadcasts, has taken to referring to the Prime Minister simply as "Trudeau." Mr. Lewis is long on socialism and cant, and short on practical ideas on how to cure the ills for which he blames the government. Calling the Prime Minister by his surname only will earn him about as much respect as Mr. Trudeau himself gained from calling Premier Bennett a "bigot." Parliamentarians should remember their position, where they are at, as it were, and refrain from silly, meaningless postures such as these. If there is one thing voters tire of it is the same old insults, the same old cliches.

No Word?

Hearing of the moves to extradite Mrs. Edith Irving to Switzerland made us wonder what became of Ottawa's efforts to have the hijacker of an Air Canada jet brought back from Cuba to face charges here. Did the Cuban government ever reply, let alone offer any indication it might accede to the Canadian request?

Government Slow to Act So Far

Harder Line Possible on Public Service Strikes

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — For nearly four years this government has been talking — and still is — of "fashioning something" about strikes in the federal public service.

Doing anything would involve changes in the Public Service Staff Relations Act.

And even if the government schedules Parliament to take a sober second look at it, there scarcely could be time to do much more than perhaps continue talking about it before the next election.

Which likely will result in your still having to live with recurring postal, air, railway and CBC strikes — all in the public service — until a newly-elected and hopefully more courageous Parliament gets around to doing that long-promised "something".

When former Prime Minister Lester Pearson conned Parliament into giving the public service the right to strike, he pooh-poohed fears expressed at the time by concerned Conservative MPs that vital facilities, essential to the economy, could be paralysed.

Not to worry, he soothed them, for the public interest, safety and security would be safeguarded by what he described as the "designation" of certain classes of civil servants whose duties were "necessary in the 'essential' services.

But like other Pearson promises, including the "pledge" that no English-speaking civil servant would "suffer" because of the government's bilingual program, it was empty.

And recently when the Air Traffic Controllers struck, enough personnel were "designated to handle emergency services," or so it was explained by both government and civil service spokesmen.

But that did not stop the airports from shutting down or prevent the grounding of all commercial and almost all private aircraft.

So the Pearson "safeguard" turns out to be a protective device for civil service union strikes and not for the public interest, safety and security.

From time to time, Prime Minister Trudeau when he has felt the hot breath of an aggrieved public opinion on his neck, as he has during a couple of the postal strikes, has talked vaguely of "doing something," as the open - ended government phrase goes, in the public interest.

Hard-headed Treasury Board President Charles M. Drury has been more precise as to what that "something" could be.

Push the government and the public far enough, he has once said, the civil service unions, and perhaps Parliament will remove that right to strike, at least in the "essential - to - the public-interest" categories.

Treasury Board to the government is what management is to private business and industry.

It bargains with the civil service unions, and as the government's "management," negotiates for settlement it makes the decision — and ultimately the taxpayer — can live with.

Soft-hearted tolerance or hard-headed prohibition of the right to strike in the "essential" sectors of the public service is a matter of public opinion and political action.

Politicians sensitive to pressure blocs customarily hesitate to confront the unions, so in the crunch, only an aroused public opinion can compel Parliament to move the right to strike where it can cripple the economy.

Straw in the political wind was the penalizing of those postal strikers who walked out illegally the last time the mails were stalled.

It indicates that the government, secure in the feeling of increasingly public support, is becoming more hard-nosed.

Hard-nosed enough, if there is time this session before the election, perhaps to "do something about it" — and if not this time, then after a summer and fall of strikes and more strikes, when the newly-elected Parliament goes to work.

"I don't know if I'd ever make a good grown-up — I don't hate anyone!"

Unemployment Insurance Delays

The Globe and Mail

A single individual named in a report in The Globe and Mail on delays in processing unemployment insurance claims has now been paid the amount due him. That is good. Still, for only one person the general question raised by the article: how many hundreds, or possibly thousands of other people who have made their required contributions over the years are now being bureaucratically denied the benefits to which they are entitled!

Agostinho Mota, a laborer in landscaping and gardening, was laid off November 20. Up to February 9 he had been trying to untangle red tape at the Unemployment Insurance Commission in order to get his rights. Application cards were lost, names were confused, computers failed to function, the money was not forthcoming. But on the day the Globe and Mail account appeared, Mr. Mota had his money — $76 in accumulated benefits — within hours.

Mr. Mota was a more or less random choice of individual to have his case detailed as an example to what is happening in the UIC. Perhaps we should go on a column in this newspaper simply to list all the names of people in similar difficulties. But the real point surely is, if the UIC was to swiftly able to sort out Mr. Mota's difficulties in the face of unfavorable publicity, why are so many other people still left entangled in red tape?

The question is of a good deal more than academic interest to the general tax-paying public. Delays in unemployment insurance benefits simply force people to turn to welfare agencies for money to supply their needs, and no means as yet exist to enable welfare departments to reclaim the welfare payments which eventually become due. The Government would be quick enough to act against any individual or private company that withheld contributions. It is inconceivable that the Commission should not make payments immediately they are due.

A Further Look at the UIC

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

It was with disbelief and disgust that I read in the news-pa per the statement of Mr. J. M. Landry, a Public Relations Officer with the UIC.

Mr. Landry is quoted as saying "the majority of complaints are unjustified". The latter statement was in reference to claimants who have not been getting their benefit cheques.

Mr. Landry further denied that problem cases taken up by MPs receive special service.

At the Bowling Alley here in Belleville the panic that follows an enquiry from any newspaper probe or member of parliament, or an organized trade union of fice, has to be seen to be believed.

Members of the liason branch run round with memorandums with large flags attached marked "RUSH" "URGENT", or "MINISTERIAL ENQUIRY". These claims are penalized with until a payment or definite answer is forthcoming to the claim and regarding the status of his claim or the reason he has not been paid. He, or she, always gets an answer.

It is common knowledge that claimants in Ontario have fared as badly as those in other provinces regarding late payments yet the other day we were all treated to work overtime in order to process 5,000 claims from Quebec as they were in trouble. At the last moment for reason best known to themselves the top brass cancelled the instruction. What a way to run an organization.

The present system will never improve the face-to-face method of payment where a claimant could talk to somebody. As it is he spends hours trying to get a phone call through or, if he is lucky, he might get a written answer to his question from a faceless and nameless individual he will never see personally.

The government created massive unemployment to beat inflation so they knew there would be a great rush to draw benefits. Bryce Mackasey, as head of the Labor Ministry is fully responsible for this state of affairs and not the people who work at the UIC. They only do the best they can with the more than miserable rates that has ever been baked in the name of the public service.

Literacy Boost In S. America

By Antonio de Gouveia in UNESCO Features

In 1900, 41,000,000 Latin Americans out of a total of 210,000,000 were illiterate. By 1970 despite a rise in population to 279,000,000 the number of illiterates had been cut to 39,000,000. Latin America's rate of population increase is the highest in the world. Its population doubled in the past 25 years and is expected to double again before the end of this century — so the success of increased literacy in all the more striking.

Criticism Has A Habit Of Turning on Oneself Winnipeg Scribe Suggests

By David G. Rees
In the Winnipeg Free Press

Every now and then someone takes me aside (for my own good, of course), and proceeds to tell me what's wrong with me. I have, I am told, tactfully, that I'm a snob, a soft touch, an old woman. I talk too much. I'm vindictive. I'm insincere and that I have everything wrong with me except, perhaps, webbed feet.

And having said so, the person telling me this adds, I know you'd much rather I told you about it to your face."

As a matter of honest fact, I wouldn't. I'd rather be said it behind my back. That way I could get it all in chest without unloading it onto mine.

Of course, I know only too well that I'm not perfect. My many faults will keep me busy at least until 2000 AD. But I've found out over the years that people criticize me more for their own good than for mine. The person who criticizes me gives himself a tonic. Every time he tells me about something wrong with me, he himself feels more honest. He has attacked his own weakness. For most criticism is a subtle form of talking to ourselves. We so often see the faults in others that we're a bit worried about having no imperfections.

One of the most chilling critics is the silent one. Feeling rather guilty about spending all that money on the new car, you say: "I figured that my old car was getting dangerous after 72,000 miles, and one has to keep his buying habits up or can't really afford in this world." No response. A silent critic just shakes his head and I fall awkwardly into the hole which I have dug.

Good taste is one of the ways of pretending that we are criticizing people when we are not. It is quite possible to criticize people who criticize me, while looking at myself as if we were making paper cut-outs for a kindergarten anywhere.

"Don't get the idea that I agree with them," he says with unconcern, "but some gives me the impression that he has been reading Freud and that's why he's so critical."

Constructive criticism ways of pretending that we are criticizing people when we are not. It is quite possible to criticize people who criticize me, while looking at myself as if we were making paper cut-outs for a kindergarten anywhere.

"Don't get the idea that I agree with them," he says with unconcern, "but some gives me the impression that he has been reading Freud and that's why he's so critical."

Constructive criticism is a rare thing. Most of the so-called self-made critics who deliver their good, blunt opinions with all the confidence of a politician delivering a frozen snowball: "Well, it's the dandiest bull I've ever had the unpleasantly. The real truth is that there's nothing wrong with the beating about the bush. It has taken civilization thousands of years to develop social shrubs to hide behind. Civilization is not built on just honestly doing what we feel like doing, or we'd still be collecting each other's heads.

I am aware that criticism plays a vital part in learning. It has its rightful place but, like insect powder or spray, it should be used by experts, privately, sparingly, with great caution.

Let me explain. Many years ago I lived next door to the most disorganized man I have ever met. He invariably ran everything unsuccessfully. At one time his wife decided to take up painting. I happened to be at his home the night she shyly produced her first three canvases. She nearly died of self - consciousness waiting for her husband's comments. He gave them. "Look, Margaret, let's be honest," he said. "They're — well, frankly, they're awful. I can't tell the cows from the boulders, but keep at it, honey." Then turning to me and said, "She can get people a dime a dozen — to flatter her — I'm her honest critic. What's the point of lying to people if you're not doing it right?" he asked fearlessly looking out at the mass of weeds in his flower bed.

Margaret smiled thoughtfully., took her paintings and wrapped them carefully. She never painted again.

What this man missed, of course was that even though her efforts were full of faults, she was getting pleasure from the faults in time, and still would be enjoying painting. Getting a hunk of honest criticism at that point would have stopped more people than an upturned garden rake in a dark driveway. We can get honest criticism anywhere anytime. Ask for good honest criticism and people's eyes brighten. They sink back in relief and begin: "Well, if you really want to know, this is not going to be easy," and a long pain crosses their faces. These people have the pain people have to endure to tell me the facts. The truth is surely that for everything that can be accomplished by showing a person where he is wrong, ten times as much can be accomplished by showing him where he is right. The reason we don't do it so often is that it is much more fun to throw a rock through a window than to put in a pane of glass.

Smoking and Its Dangers

Editor,

This letter is being written in the hopes that many TV viewers in this community will take part in on the excellent program produced by the CBC, Smoking: One Way or Quit, which last night showed film of patients suffering from advanced cases of lung cancer and emphysema, and interviews with doctors specializing in research of these diseases.

It is a part of our Health Education program to try and put across to the public the need to quit smoking — or not to start, if such is the case. We have many pamphlets on smoking with facts and information, as well as some giving helpful suggestions to those with a real desire to 'kick the habit'.

These pamphlets and booklets are available free of charge by writing to our office at 311 Bleecker Ave., Belleville, or by phoning 962-9287.

Home Care Program Has Busy Year

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

In an era littered with pepper words, red letter days are apt to slip by unnoticed.

The same thing happened this past week to the Belleville - based medical Home Care Program.

Unheralded, it entered its second year of operation.

A mounting demand for patient care has marked the operation's progress since it started a year ago, hopeful of easing pressure on bed space in Belleville - area hospitals.

In one year, the program's patient registration exceeded original estimates by 85 per cent.

But the fact doesn't surprise program nursing administrator Alison Kuglin. "All it needed was official sanction to boom," she says. "I'm not a bit surprised it has gone the way it has . . . The need was obvious."

Among the professionals to whom the "need was obvious" was a Belleville medical practitioner who saw a partial solution in home care programs already operating elsewhere.

Richard Potter is now Ontario's health minister. But his first election to Conservative backbenches provided the political contact needed to boost such a project to reality.

The design was simple: By coordinating therapy, nursing, domestic and ancillary medical services, the program could offer comforting care in their own homes to patients not deemed in need of active hospital treatment. Red Cross homemakers and the Victorian Order of Nurses were already established community service sources.

"It was projected that we'd do well to admit 200 patients in our first year of operation," recalls Mrs. Kuglin.

A count on Feb. 15 this year showed 375 patients had been registered.

"We have," says Mrs. Kuglin. "Been too successful."

Financially, the program has also lived up to expectations.

It's per diem rate — including all costs — as of December was $11.60. This compares with the current per diem ward rate at Belleville General Hospital of $63.

It's a dramatic cost contrast and in general terms is highlighted by some spectacular individual cases of cost-savings.

Mrs. Kuglin selects one example: "We had a patient who was admitted (to the program) in March 1971. In the previous three years she'd had many admissions to hospital. These had cost well in excess of $11,000. We've had her on our program for seven to eight months . . . her costs are slightly in excess of $700."

The program's territory covers an area of 2,500 square miles and a population of 110,000. This includes all Prince Edward County municipalities, Belleville, Trenton and most Hastings County townships.

(The exception has been the Madoc area, where physiotherapy services are available. The YOH now is establishing a branch office in the area, says Mrs. Kuglin).

Ancillary services include drugs, medical - surgical supplies, diagnostic tests, X-rays, transportation.

"We work closely with all agencies and organizations concerned with health and welfare," explains Mrs. Kuglin.

Its present quarters — a fairly small office area in Belleville General's administrative wing, gives little outward indication of the size or complexity of the operation, agrees the administrator.

The program was given a new thrust in October, Joined to a new self-care unit established for the hospital in the leased Queen's Motel, it became part of a pilot project for the province — an agreement reached through the efforts of Dr. Potter, who had by then become a minister without portfolio.

As medical co-ordinator for the project, Dr. R. M. Anderson says the home care undertaking has progressed better in the Belleville area than similar projects in other communities.

Philip Rickard, Belleville General's executive director, says "the lengths of stay (of patients) have been reduced and it is helping to a degree with the pressure on the waiting list — which is still quite considerable."

Dr. Robert Vaughan, the program's medical director, sees the project as a "gratifying thing to have started. It has filled a definite void."

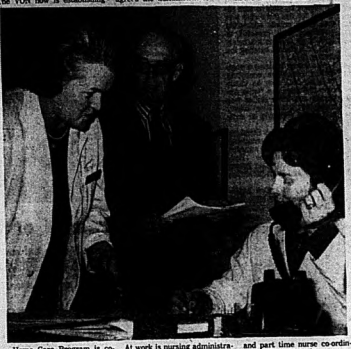
The response of physicians varies "from area to area," says Dr. Vaughan. "Some haven't utilized it at all."

One patient recently admitted to the program — Mrs. Doreen Andersen, of Plainfield — says she believes some doctors "seem hesitant to recommend it.

"I just think it's such a fabulous service," enthuses Mrs. Andersen. "In hospital you become so depressed: your own home makes so much difference."

Elizabeth Hirst, the program's physio - occupational therapist, agrees that home environments seem to make a difference to the people she visits. They are more relaxed, need less supervision.

Entering its second year, Mrs. Kuglin sees the program expanding even more in future.



"I think we're going to be involved in needs that the home care program can meet," she says. Many of those needs can be met by the "neighborly approach."

This could involve people in non-professional roles visiting those listed with the program — ensuring them of a hot meal now and then, or just plain dropping in to visit.

"People are helping meet needs all over the world and forget the needs in their own backyard," adds Mrs. Kuglin. "For instance: We have patients who are extremely lonely. All they need is assurance of a visit from one or two people once or twice a week."

In other words, suggests Mrs. Kuglin, it could be a case of "just plain people, meeting the needs of people."

"And what's nicer?" she asks.

Home Care Program is coordinated from small office centre at Belleville General. At work is nursing administrator Alison Kuglin, medical coordinator Dr. R. M. Anderson and part time nurse co-ordinator Norma Hamilton.

A Program at Work

Trenton OKs Sewage Plant

TRENTON (Staff) — Council last night withdrew a formal objection to proposed expansion plans for the sewage treatment plant here, after receiving a pledge from the Ontario Water Resources Commission.

In late 1971, the town had lodged a complaint against the plan with the Ontario cabinet through fears that an addition to the treatment centre would require much developed park space in Centennial Park, Trenton's prime recreational area.

However, in a communication read to council Monday, OWRC has assured the town it will require no land outside the present 600 - foot square plant compound.

Councillor Pete Aziz told council that he and Councillor George Brown had visited the park for a first-hand examination of the land the plant addition would occupy and found the new boundaries "to be quite agreeable."

"They have given assurance that we can live within the area we have already set aside," said Councillor Ted Parker, who suggested withdrawal of the earlier objection to the expansion at the present site and the call for examination of alternate sites.

OWRC also pledged to council that, if more land were required in future years, it would look to other sites rather than encroach on the parkland.

Letters Doubted Objections

TRENTON (Staff) — The town has received two letters of comment about a rezoning bid that would permit Canadian Tire to build its proposed new east side store but council last night questioned whether these were valid objections that would prompt an Ontario Municipal Board hearing.

Clerk-comptroller O. W. Larry explained to council it only takes one objection to make a hearing necessary. However, there was some doubt as to whether the letters received from Murray Ferguson Jr. of 27 Bay St. and Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Ferguson of RR 1 Trenton (who hold property in the vicinity of the new store site) expressed objections.

The letters called for a wholesale rezoning to commercial of much of the east side below Dundas East and the one from Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Ferguson suggested that the rezoning of one lot to allow construction by Canadian Tire would be an act of favoritism.

Councillor Ted Parker c ed these briefs "I've too ters" that really did not qu tion the rezoning for Canad Tire but asked for even bro er commercialization t would include lands of ot individuals.

Council directed the cle comptroller to discuss co cil's position with the ob tors.

International Night Held

"Our people would like to direct their own destiny," was the feeling expressed by Earl Hill, Chief of the Mohawks of the Bay of Quinte as he addressed the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club's International Night meeting held at the Sun Valley Motel on Monday evening.

Chief Hill, who was born on the Tyendinaga reserve has lived on the reserve practically all his life. In his opening remarks he gave a little of its history stating that out of a band of 2600 Mohawks there are 1300 living on the reserve which is 11½ miles by 3½ miles in area. There are four schools including three one-room schools and the Quinte Mohawk main school. During the past few years there has been a noted upgrading in the educational program including programs on leather craft, beading, first aid, welding, sewing and a driving course for women.

It was felt that through the Association of the Iroquois and Allied Indians, of which Chief Hill is the founder, a better understanding of the Indians' problems has resulted. Many leaders have spoken on behalf of their people who number 300,000 across Canada. At one stage the government only allotted $5,000,000 for education, roads, grants and other expenses, but this total has now reached $300,000,000 but the Indian people a l s o contribute in taxes for this amount. If there was a lesser amount, many of those on the reserve would live in poverty, he said.

In conclusion the speaker stated he had no quarrel with the Department of Indian Affairs, other than minor problems which includes the need for Indian people in an advisory capacity to have something to say in making legislation as to how they should run their own reserves.

The speaker was introduced by Dorothy Ellis and Charlotte Lockyer expressed thanks on behalf of the Business and Professional Women and presented him with a donation towards the rebuilding of the reserve council house.

The International Night meeting was conducted by vice-president Marion McFaul and following a bountiful smorgasbord, Dorothy Brown proposed a toast to International Federation of B and P Women's Clubs. Head table guests were introduced by Jeane Stephenson.

A number of guests were introduced including two Rotary exchange students Dale Lewis and Sonja Johnson from Natal, South Africa, several Rotarians' husbands and others.

An impressive candle lighting ceremony was conducted by Ruth McMullen with yellow candles representing the National Federation, and the green, the countries with Associated Clubs, with all in attendance participating. President Lois Brown lighted the candle of the future and gave the international prayer.

Ruth MacMullen, chairman of the world and means committee reported on the two club projects underway and urged members to work a little harder in the sale of tickets for The Follies Fashion Show sponsored by Simpsons-Sears Ltd. to be held at the Centennial Secondary School on March 15. Help is also required for the other club project which entails addressing envelopes with proceeds of both to go towards a scholarship for a student entering the nursing field.

Also during business a nominating committee consisting of Ruth McMullen as chairman and members Bettie Anderson and Ellen Baker was appointed; also Rita Blaind and Mabel Guilfoyle as auditors.

A number of the members were attired in international costumes and judges awarded prizes to Colombe Sauve (Czechoslovakia), Lois Brown (Turkey) and Ruth McMullen (Japan).

A display of Indian handicrafts arranged by Mrs. Earl Hill was admired by the members.

An Exchange of Cultures

MR. AND MRS. DONALD THOMAS BRUCE

Bruce – Boyle

The Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, was the setting for a recent wedding ceremony of Bonnie Bridget Boyle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Boyle, Foxboro and Donald Thomas Bruce, son of Mr. T. Bruce and the late Mrs. Bruce.

Father McGillivray was the officiating clergyman. Dorothy Grant provided the organ music and Bob Burke was the soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length empire waisted gown of white velvet. Bell sleeves of embroidered satin ra trim highlighted the dress. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and talisman roses.

The matron of honor, Heather Vesterfelt and the maid of honor Bianca Hinderks, wore a floor length gowns of green velvet. The empire styled gowns with long sleeves were complemented by white fur muffs and corsages of talisman roses attached. The bridesmaids, Barb Bruce, sister of the bridegroom, and Coleen Herlihey were dressed in gowns identical the the maid of honor.

Randy Brown was the groomsman, Ken Bruce, brother of the bridegroom, Dennis Marshall and Allan Hamilton were the ushers.

The mother of the bride greeted the guests at the reception held at Knights of Columbus, Belleville, in a two piece suit of black and gold crepe. She carried a black fur muff with an attached corsage of yellow sweetheart roses.

The aunt of the bridegroom was attired in a short sleeved street-length dress of mauve and silver flecked crimplene with a stand up collar. She wore a corsage of white carnations.

For the wedding trip to points east, the bride donned a black double knit pantsuit with black and white accessories.

Presbyterial Executive Of UCW Meets Here

The new executive of Belleville Presbyterial United Church Women met for the first time at Bridge St. United Church, Belleville, with the new president, Miss Helen Sexsmith in charge. Theme of the opening worship service which she was assisted by Miss Clara Adams.

In the Supply and Welfare department it was noted that there is still need for clothing and other help for the Angola Mission. Last year a ton and a half of clothes was sent from the Overseas depot, 500 pairs of glasses, 200 blankets and $100 to buy blankets.

The 1972 annual was evaluated and the date and possible speaker for the 1973 annual discussed.

The next conference will be held April 10-11 in Lindsay. Delegates are president, Miss Helen Sexsmith, Napanee; past president, Mrs. T. W. Spear, Trenton; vice president elect, Mrs. G. William, Marmora; recording secretary, Mrs. S. Stenson, Belleville; corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. Sine, Frankford; treasurer, Mrs. E. Ward, Picton and regional vice-presidents, Hastings South Mrs. Ellel; Hastings Centre, Mrs. M. Burnside, Madoc; Prince Edward East, Mrs. M. Flake, Picton; Prince Edward West, Mrs. W. C. Smith, Belleville and Lennox and Addington, Mrs. D. Simpson.

Standing committee members and respective chairmen were named.

Impressive Ceremony

Guest speaker at the Business and Professional Women's Club International Night meeting, Chief Earl Hill of the Tyendinaga Reserve lights the international Federation candle during an impressive candle lighting ceremony. The event was conveyed by Marion McFaul, vice-president, next to Chief Hill, and looking on with interest are club president Lois Brown and Ruth McMullen who conducted the ceremony.

Spring Party At Albert To Be Held March 21

At the recent meeting of Albert College Women's Guild, plans were made for the annual spring party consisting of dessert, bridge, euchre and slides which will take place at Ackerman Hall on March 21.

There were 34 members at the meeting with the president, Mrs. R. Burr in charge.

The convener of the program, Mrs. E. Hodge conducted a brief devotional period. At this time three vocal selections were rendered by Mrs. Wright accompanied by E. Hubbs at the piano.

Mrs. T. Fuller of Belleville was guest speaker and based her talk on English schooldays in rural Quebec which was most interesting and informative.

At the conclusion of the meeting a social tea hour was enjoyed which included the serving of refreshments appropriate for Valentine's day.

Social And Personal

Previous to her recent marriage, Mrs. Donald Thomas Bruce (nee Bonnie Bridget Boyle) was entertained at a miscellaneous shower with Mrs. Helena Wilkerson as hostess and Miss Barb Bruce as co-hostess.

'Big Mo' Has Voice to Watch

TORONTO (CP) — The Montreal cabinet-maker's daughter, affectionately called "Big Mo" by her friends, was more interested during her school days in playing basketball than singing at the recitals her mother set up.

She doesn't play basketball anymore—she's 41—but contrails Maureen Forrester does earn about $2,500 a recital.

And now that she has children, she gives them her own brand of guidance.

During an interview at her rambling mansion in fashionable Rosedale—an interview interrupted by jangling telephones, banging pianos and the constant flow of guests—one child complained about another:

"Mother, he hit me."

The ex-basketball player counselled casually:

"Well, hit him back."

She carries this direct, forceful approach to the stage.

From her full height of five feet, nine inches, she delivers this lofty assertion:

"If you're going to be a big woman, you might as well look bigger than big on stage. If you're going to be big, be magnificent."

But while she says that her height gives her presence, she also admits it excludes her from certain roles in opera.

"I'm not really the Carmen type. You have to be slim and provocative."

Maureen Forrester has been singing well into 1974.

Recently, she took 12 days off from performances. It was the longest holiday she has had with her husband, Eugene Kash, the violinist and conductor, and their five children, in two years.

This spring, she is scheduled to do Verdi's Requiem with the San Francisco Symphony.

In 1973, she will sing the third starring role of Brungeva in Tristan and Isolde at the Verse State Opera House.

Most of her work is on the concert circuit and she has a repertoire of more than 30 orchestral works in addition to 250 separate songs in seven different languages.

Occasionally, she digresses from the weighty world of opera, and indulges in a bit of light fluff.

She recently taped a segment on the Tommy Banks show at the CBC Edmonton television studio.

As a crowd of worshipping opera lovers waited expectantly in the audience, Maureen Forrester flounced on stage and to the beat of a backup combo, belted out a rendition of the rock 'n' roll number This is My Life.

She roars, remembering it.

"It was hilarious. I laughed to myself while I was singing because the people were so stunned. . . . I'm much more boisterous, hasty, and fun-loving than most people think."

Successful Living

Gifts Never Take Parents' Place

By DORIS CLARK

My friend said, "Mothers feel guilty, so they buy their kids things. They don't give themselves."

She was talking about the ladies who are met with their youngsters enough; the ones who gift-wrap Sally, age four, off to bed by herself never indulging Sally — or herself — with fashioned time, or reading her a bedtime story, or tucking her in with a goodnight kiss.

Yes, mothers, there are such people. And baby sitters can never take the place of Mother's loving hug.

When Susan, age nine, asks Mum or Dad to sit on the bed a minute and talk to her, sometimes that Mum or Dad has something pressing — that may sit — for a minute — no longer. So she misses those precious confidences which mean "giving herself" to her daughter.

Spending a heap of money on expensive toys and gifts never take the place of Mum or Dad.

Dear Doris — Recently in your column several memorial societies in Canada were mentioned, but not the one in Manitoba Society. Actually we have one of the oldest in Canada. The Society 1971 our membership more than doubled to over 1200. — Pearson Plaunfield and Memorial Society of Manitoba.

Well F.P and M.S.: — Very glad to hear about you. I forward your newsletter every latest and have taken the liberty of publishing your article, "The Reality Of Death and Children" in an early column.

Dear Doris: About the Reverend Ferretti and the Pakistani refugees, you ask "what happens now?" I say, "Nothing new." The refugees leaving India doesn't change what is doing.

He always worked among the poor. I sent him used cards, money and parcels way before the war. He runs a mission for the poor. And he keeps getting more and more people coming in, and that is why he appeals to people like me for help. It was like that before the war and it will be so in the future. There are many poor people in India and they suffer from floods, loss of crops. — Wendy

Dear Wendy: Beside which, I gather from his note that it will take considerable time before most of the poor refugees will be able to go back to their ravaged country and be rehabilitated.

Thank you, Dear Readers, from both Wendy and me for responding to a desperate call for help so generously.

Dear Doris: I have an Irish cousin coming to visit me in March and he will be here on St. Patrick's Day. I'd love to give him a party he'll always remember. He is 17, and most of our crowd is around his age.

Would you have some suggestions for games and so on? Seventeenth of Ireland.

Dear Seventeenth: Would I ever! We have a leaflet "A St. Patrick's Party You Can Swing Yourself". Gives ideas for games, decorations, eats. Available for 20 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Doris has studied human behavior and can shed light on your dilemma. Write to her, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)

Club Activities

SENIOR CITIZENS

MADOC—The regular meeting of the Madoc and District Senior Citizens' Club was held last week in the United Church basement with, 41 members and six visitors in attendance.

Mr. Grant Ketcheson showed the group pictures of his recent trip to the British Isles. Everyone found the presentation most interesting. Appreciation of the club was expressed by Mrs. Empey.

Mrs. Broadworth chaired the meeting and the minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. Johns.

There was mention made of several members who are in nursing homes and hospitals.

Mrs. Broadworth related a humorous story. A note was read from Mrs. O'Riordan, thanking the club for her birthday gift which they had sent.

Several matters of business were dealt with. It was decided that a lunch would be in the form of a box social for the next meeting.

Lunch and a social half hour after Mr. Ketcheson's presentation were enjoyed.

SENIOR CITIZENS CLUB — NO. 94

The Belleville Senior Citizens Club had a record attendance for their second meeting in February. Mrs. Kathleen Adams presided at the opening ceremony with Mrs. Lulu Adams, pianist.

The regular members and two new ones were given a cordial welcome and the birthdays for the month for those having a February birthday. Mrs Bowers read the minutes of the previous meeting. The financial statement was given by Mrs. Jackson. Mrs. Ilic reported on the members who are ill and have been remembered by the club.

The president extended thanks for the members to Mrs. Wilma Summers for showing the picture last Friday, to Mr. and Mrs. Bulmer and their helpers for the February luncheon and to Mr. and Mrs. Norway Maracle for the donation of 10 decks of playing cards.

After a short business meeting euchre was played, the winners being Mrs. Ada Maracle, Mrs. Mildred Taylor, Mrs. Eliza Doyle, Mr. Harry Taylor, Mr. Harry Allen and Mrs. Ada Sealey.

The door prize was won by Mrs. Evelyn Russell a new member.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Bulmer and helpers.

UCW MEETINGS

MELROSE UCW

MELROSE — The first meeting of the year for the two units of the Melrose UCW was held in the church recently.

Mrs. Grant McLaren received the report of the nominating committee and conducted the election of officers for 1972 as follows: past president, Mrs. N. Demille; president, Mrs. E. Badgley; 1st vice president, Mrs. G. Stratton; secretary, Mrs. G. Osborne, and treasurer, Mrs. C. Weese.

Mrs. E. Badgley led in the worship service and called on Mrs. J. English for a Bible reading.

Items of business were considered. The members have been asked to cater to the Home Making Clubs which are to hold Achievement Day in the Tyendinaga Township Hall, April 29. The offer was accepted.

The Eureka Lodge, celebrating its 100th birthday, invited Melrose UCW to consider catering to it at the Masonic Hall Temple, Oct. 11. Arrangements will be made to serve the meal.

Melrose group will cater to a small wedding May 20 in the Township Hall.

The treasurer reported the receipts and expenses for the year which showed a balance of $468.54.

Discussion followed concerning the new hymn book. Acceptance of the book was rejected as the majority felt a small congregation as the group's preferred the older hymns.

Mrs. Clare Weese, program convener, presented a paper dealing with Psalms. Readings were given by Bernice Stratton, Ruth Clarke and Vail Badgely. A bible contest concluded the program.

Refreshements were served.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONWELL

Are twins too close to be rivals?

NO; as close as twins can be, even identical twins, they are often keener rivals than brothers and sisters who are not twins. Dr. William R. Homan in "Child Sense" (Basic Books) says, "If one twin is a little stronger, a little brighter, a little prettier, or a little better co-ordinated than the other, it is altogether too easy for him to emerge as the perennial victor, while the other accepts the role of loser."

Is a lost love easily forgotten?

NOT completely; perhaps a million things can bring back the memory of a lost love, no matter how hard a man or woman tries to shut it out. The pain of remembering it, though, will gradually fade as the romance fades into the past, helped along by new experiences and, hopefully, by a new love. Only someone who is shaky about a new love will let the old one stir up wistful mem ories of what might have been if . . .

Does a moody person dislike himself?

NOT unless he knows what it is not to be moody. If he had been happy-go-lucky before, then he should see what now causes him to be struck by his moods. If it is his nature to be moody, though, he generally won't begin to dislike himself unless he takes to heart all the comment he hears that he is such a moody person. Then he wonders if his moods are signs that he is going to be disturbed by mental trouble.

Ann Landers

Hubby Fed Up with Wife's Talking

Dear Ann Landers: My wife is one of those women who just loves to talk. About five years ago I got fed up and told her to shut up. We got into a terrible hassle and in order to appease her a little I said: "When How ard Hughes starts talking again, you have my permission to blab all you want to and I'll never even interrupt!"

I thought I had a safe bet but look what happened. The old coot hasn't shut up for weeks and I'm sick of it. She also has been belittling me among our friends by telling them how wrong I was. Have you got a good answer for me?—Had It In Texas.

Dear It: You don't need a good answer. You need a set of good earplugs. Then practice nodding periodically and saying: "Yes, Howard."

Dear Ann Landers: Here's a little advice to the "other woman" who was kind enough to offer some advice to me—The Wife.

All the stuff he's been handing you is a rerun. I heard it when I was the other woman. I can recite his line by heart. I'm a sag, a complainer and a bore. My relatives are uncouth, my meals are garbage and I never read anything. As a sex partner, I'm nowhere. He had resigned himself to making the best of it because of the children. And then something wonderful happened. You came along. He never knew what love was until you brightened his life. What a cruel trick fate that he didn't meet you 25 years ago, when you were romantic in a little off—18 years ago you were only 13, but he ignored that). I was exactly the same age you are now when he met me. Today, I probably look old enough to be your mother, but then I've been what he is, Dearie.

If you want "Mr. Quality" you can have him but don't kid yourself that it happened. The old coot married again. I offered him his freedom two years ago when he was involved with another young woman and he didn't want it then.

Good Luck to you, honey. Don't say I didn't warn you.—An Ex.

Dear Ex: Two: I wonder how many other women will read this letter a second time for clues. Your message of good cheer will be especially unsettling for the 28-year-olds.

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell that smippy little lady who said she'd rather die than be like her mother that she is already more like her mother than she thinks or she couldn't live in a house for 16 years without cleaning it.

A girl who is old enough to be married to young men is old enough to straighten up a house. To use her mother's laziness as an excuse is pretty stupid.

Maybe that girl's mother is experiencing a difficult menopause. Some women become depressed when they go through the change and they simply haven't the energy to do housework. My sisters and I recently dreamed our mother was 16 back at age two. She didn't clean the house either so we girls had to clean it when we were expecting guests, and how we resented it! Mama died in her middle 80's and it was a real shock to us.

I hope the girl who wrote that nasty letter sees this one. It might open her eyes.—Can't Go Back In Canton.

Dear Can't: Thanks for the eye-opener. Unfortunately some things don't become apparent until it's too late to do anything about them. Your letter is a fine example.

Quebec Films Praised By New York Times

NEW YORK (CP) — A group of films produced in Quebec has drawn praise from the New York Times, which says the film-makers deserve wider recognition.

Reviewer Roger Greenspun uses such phrases as "fresh and unusual" and "evocative and skilfully beautiful" in describing the films shown here at the Museum of Modern Art during the last two weeks.

Among the film-makers, "I don't think anyone's name is likely to be familiar," Greenspun writes. "But some of them clearly ought to become familiar, and to this end the museumshow is a very real service.

"Several of the films, expressing the concerns of French Canadian nationalism, have a revolutionary message," he adds. But the message is "generally a pragmatic plea for freedom or for a chance at a better life."

Conventionally, the best looking and most commercial of the films is Claude Jutra's My Uncle Antoine, Greenspun says. The film depicts life in a small mining town through the eyes of a teen-age boy.

It "handily deals with love, death and desire and pure poetry and coming of age," he says and "its parameters are fresh and unusual." He notes, however, that the film "tends to warm everything in the soft light of a bitter-sweet nostalgia entirely too available to memories."

Much better and tougher, he feels, is A Question of Life by Andre Theberge, in which a young mother in trouble begins meeting the Virgin Mary at her bus stop each morning.

"Theberge takes the Virgin Mary rather casually in stride as does his heroine (Frederique Collins, a delicately lovely actress) whom he follows through a succession of sad, quiet, but essentially witty black sketches."

River Schoonery, by Pierre Perrault, a documentary on people who live on the Ile-aux-Coudres in the St. Lawrence River, draws special praise.

Greenspun says the film "is a document of the story and, best of all, Danny «Kaye narrating, clowning and singing.

The story about the vain emperor being conned into believing his clothes were invisible himself while he walked around naked was reworked into an intricate tale of intrigue, with a wicked court jester, a beautiful princess and all sorts of gags to delight the young audience. The animation was especially interesting—three dimensional puppet like figures that were moved around freely. The story was really spun out, but more of Kaye would have made it more delightful. He sparred and clowned the show, and in between he was the voice of a four-nosed poplet that was his caricature.

With Danny's talent for children's stories, he could have played all the parts, sang all the songs and wound up with a TV classic.

NBC's two-hour World Premiere feature was a piled pyramid gram for a series called Probe. The first segment, Beyond Reason, was exercise and certainly in the character of the hero—to outpoint James Bond and to take up in TV where The Man from U.N.C.L.E. left off.

The cool, tough, unnerving agent, played a little too harshly and arrogantly by Hugh O'Brian, was assigned by his secret organization, Probe, to uncover a museum's priceless diamond collection, stolen by Nazis at the end of the Second World War.

Probe operated by wildly sophisticated electronic devices. One was a radio receiver implanted behind the hero's ear and another—a sending device —was in his teeth. He was constantly, in contact with his computer-equipped superiors—by means of a dime-size scanner that took TV pictures of his activities and relayed his voice, heart beat, temperature and other vital signs as well as those of his enemies.

There was, in fact, so much electronic hokum that it was difficult to follow what may have been a simple adventure tale.

The expensive pilot had many velvious photography, great backgrounds, interesting optical effects and an extraordinarily fast cast including Jeff Corey, Gig Young and Leslie Nielsen.

But the two hours dragged and, with all the mechanical

Allen Special Vetoed

NEW YORK (AP) — A Woody Allen comedy special described as a "scathing and personal attack" on President Nixon has been cancelled by the Public Broadcasting Service.

The show, produced by National Educational Television and scheduled for airing Monday night, was withdrawn for "further review by its attorneys," a PBS spokesman said.

The spokesman said the program also satirized Mrs. Nixon, the president's foreign affairs adviser, Henry Kissinger, and just-resigned Attorney General John Mitchell.

PARIS (AP) — Marie Dubas, former star of the French stage and music halls, died here Monday after a long illness. She was 78.

Trained as an actress and dancer, she had an unsensational career until she introduced a new song, My Legionnaire, in 1936. It made her a star overnight and adopted by the French Foreign Legion. It was sung by countless performers—including Edith Piaf, who once called Miss Dubas "the master of us all."

Miss Dubas toured liberated zones during the Second World War, singing to French troops, and later returned to straight acting with a series of long run plays. She retired in 1958.

According to Mr. O'Connor the Irish are a whirlwind of contradictions; for any general statement one may make about them they can find a dozen opinions to the contrary, complete with similarly citations. He adds that they are fascinating as their reputation and their country as beautiful as its propaganda makes it out to be.

LONDON WAR NOTES: 1939-1945 — Mollie Panter-Downes

For six years Mollie Panter-Downes covered the war for the New Yorker magazine from her home in England. Even at the height of the air war over London when "all that is best in the good life of civilized effort appears to be slowly and painfully being over" she continued to file her fortnightly reports in an understated but dramatic fashion: "The announcements of first, air-raid deaths are beginning to appear in the obituary columns of the morning papers. No mention is made of the cause of death, but the conventional phrase 'very sudden' is always used." Wilderly Shawn, editor of the New Yorker, has assembled Miss Panter-Downes' "Letter from London" columns into a consecutive on-the-spot chronicle of the war in England.

THE WORLD OF GEORGE ORWELL — ed. by Miriam Gross

Two decades after his death George Orwell's writing continues to excite as much interest as when it first appeared. This book provides a comprehensive portrait of the man himself and his intellectual development. Most of the 18 essays are written by close friends and they throw new light on his complex personality, including phases of his life of which very little has been known up till now.

ARMING — FATHER'S BUSINESS — Lillian Beckwith

Lillian Beckwith's new book this time, autobiography — takes us back to the years before she met her father ran a grocer's shop, long before she had ever heard of the Hebrides, let alone thought of The Hills is Lonely — the first volume in her Hebridean series. Her father's shop and her eye for character was already sharp and discernment. And Allan My Father's Business, is full of engaging and appealing personalities. It is a delightful book, full of the scents of childhood: soapflakes and carbolic balls, bacon and tea — a nostalgic world lost in the mists of memory.

ANTARCTIC HOUSEWIFE — Nan Brown

Nan Brown runs a travel agency at Alice Springs but in her engaging book tells the story of her two extraordinary years as a young housewife, one of only three women, on the sub-arctic island of South Georgia in the Falklands. Her husband had been given the job of running the island's radio station. She tells of the life of the whaling industry and her trips across the island; of accidents, festivities and entertainments. She has a marvellously descriptive talent and writes about the dramatic moments of snowstorms and heavy seas, the dangers of whale-killing and avalanches.

ILLUMINATED MANUSCRIPTS — Dr. Miloslav Bohatec

This beautiful book, with superb illustrations, some of which are in full color, introduces the reader to the amazing diversity of the art of illuminated manuscripts in Czech libraries. The author takes us on a fascinating tour round the monastery, palace, chapter and university libraries whose interiors are some of the most splendid in Europe. Most of us may never be able to see the actual manuscripts but through the modern art of color photography we may see something of the beauty of the ancient art of the book.

Ahearne Not Opposed to Europeans Playing Canadian Pros

TORONTO (CP) — Bunny Ahearne, czar of the International Ice Hockey Federation, confirmed Monday that Canada's hockey professionals and European teams may engage in exhibition matches next time this year.

Fred Page, Canada's vice-president in the IIHF, told The Canadian Press during the recent Winter Olympic Games in Sapporo, Japan, that such an exhibition arrangement was in the making, possibly as early as May.

Ahearne added, however, he doubts Canada will return to competition at an international level because conditions that prompted the country to withdraw in 1970 have not changed.

The IIHF president, en route to his London, England, home from Japan, conferred here with Charles Hay, head of Hockey Canada, a government agency, and was to meet with Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League.

"We might be able to get an exhibition series with the pros," the 73-year-old semi-retired Ahearne said, adding that the team could be comprised of NHL players.

"Of course, that was all signed sealed and delivered last year but it fell through because Hockey Canada and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association wouldn't go through with it."

He said arrangements were completed last fall for the Russian national team to play in Canada against the pros and that Avery Brundage, International Olympic Committee president, had decreed the series would not tarnish the Russians for Olympic competition.

The Canadians reneged, he said.

Ahearne said he would prefer the series this year, "if it gets off the ground, feature a Canadian pro team against the Europeans during September with games played in Canada, Russia, Czechoslovakia and Sweden on a round-robin basis."

He said he would not object if the team was an NHL team or an NHL all-star team.

Canada withdrew from international hockey tournaments in 1970 when the IIHF refused to allow professionals to compete. The circumstances still exist and under federation rules Canada would have to qualify for Group A play first competing at Group C and Group B levels.

Hay admitted in a later interview Canada was eager to get back into international hockey on an unrestricted basis.

"As far back as two years ago we felt that the place for Canada to resume participation in international play was to have European teams play a round-robin series across Canada against non-restricted Canadian teams.

"That's what we've been pressing for. That's what Ahearne and I discussed and have been talking about on a continuing basis."

Hay did not indicate what makeup of the team would be if approval is given for Canadian professionals to play against European teams.

"All we insist on is that our team be unrestricted. The only stipulation is that the players be citizens of the country."

Past 100 Points

Ratelle Won't Give Up Chase

MONTREAL (CP) — Despite becoming only the second player to score more than 50 goals in two different seasons and establishing himself as the first player to gain more than 100 points in three different National Hockey League schedules, Phil Esposito can't seem to shake the dogged pursuit of Jean Ratelle.

JEAN RATELLE

Esposito of Boston Bruins and Ratelle, all-star centre with New York Rangers' both passed the 100-point mark in the league's individual scoring race last week and today are tied for the lead with 102 points each.

Esposito's total includes a league-leading 51 goals. He scored a record with 76 last season, and now joins Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks as the only players to score 50 or more goals more than once.

Hull, who now has 39 goals with 19 games left to play, has reached the 50-goal mark four times.

Ratelle led all scorers last week with seven goals and 11 points to give him 43 goals and 59 assists so far this season. He has broken all three New York club scoring records, formerly held by Andy Bathgate, who in 1958-59 set the Ranger goal record with 40 and the point mark with 88. In 1961-62 Bathgate set the assist record with 56.

Defenceman Bobby Orr of Boston maintained his league point edge in third place with 52 points, including a league-leading 45 assists.

Eight more points will give Orr his third 100-or-more point season.

Ratelle's linemates, Rod Gilbert and Vic Hadfield, are fourth and fifth with 88 and 86 points, respectively.

The goaltending lead still belongs to Chicago's combination of Tony Esposito—Phil's younger brother—and Gary Smith with a combined goals-against average of 2.65. Second is Boston's Gerry Cheevers and Ed Johnston with 2.70.

Tony Esposito leads in shutouts with seven.

Parent Could Launch Landslide to WHA

TORONTO (CP) — Alan Eagleson, executive-director of the National Hockey League Players' Association, said Monday night if Bernie Parent signs with Miami Screaming Eagles of the fledgling World Hockey Association it could create a flood of signings by NHL players.

Eagleson, commenting on reports earlier in the day that Parent, a goaltender with Toronto Maple Leafs of the NHL, would sign with the Screaming Eagles this weekend for a reported $750,000 over five years, said:

"If Parent announces he has signed it will be a major move not only for the WHA but for every player in the NHLPA," said Eagleson. "They've all been hanging back waiting for the first one to sign.

"I think we'll see Winnipeg start a major effort to sign Bobby Hull. If Winnipeg gets Hull, it would automatically become as good as most NHL franchises."

News of Parent's pending association with the Screaming Eagles was disclosed earlier Monday in Philadelphia by the Toronto player's lawyer, Howard Casper.

Parent's team-mates, Jim Harrison and Jacques Plante, are also said to be among Casper's clients.

NHL president Clarence Campbell said in Toronto late Monday night the league would take whatever action necessary, including going to court, to protect the contracts of their players.

Asked what damage had been done by Leaf president, Harold Ballard, who was reported recently to have told Parent to get what he could from Miami despite being under contract to Toronto till the end of the 1972-73 season, Campbell replied:

"The Parent case is unique. I have a feeling any effort to get an injunction against him or the opponent might be difficult because of the statements made by Mr. Ballard."

Ballard, however, said the statements attributed to him were not exact and that what he actually told Parent was "when your obligations are completed with the Maple Leaf Hockey Club . . . the only thing I can do is wish you good luck."

"I also told him to get his last week's salary from them (Miami) guaranteed in a trust company or bank," said Ballard.

Junior Owners Outvote Marlies

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series owners, by a 5-to-1 vote, said Monday that Toronto Marlboros should not be able to protect defenceman Greg Neeld in the annual draft of over-age midgets.

Three clubs abstained from the vote introduced by Nick Durbano, owner of Hamilton Red Wings, and one club—Montreal Junior Canadiens—was not represented at the meeting.

Neeld, a 16-year-old with Markham of the Metro Junior B League, moved to Toronto from Vancouver last year when his father, an Air Canada pilot, took up residence here.

The move was considered legitimate and his transfer from the British Columbia branch of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association was processed by the OHA.

"Both branches OKed the transfer," said Tom Smythe, Marlboros' general manager and the lone dissenter to Durbano's motion. "If he's not eligible to be on our list, then he's not eligible to play hockey in Ontario at all."

"It is not a majority vote," said OHA president Tubby Schmalz. He noted that of 10 potential votes, only five were cast in favor of Neeld's removal from the Marlboro protected list.

Esposito Assist Missing in Action

NEW YORK (AP) — Where is Phil Esposito's missing assist?

That was the question bugging National Hockey League officials Monday after the weekly scoring statistics showed Boston's Esposito and New York's Jean Ratelle tied for the lead with 102 points each.

The Bruins, you see, thought Esposito had 103.

"I can only go by the report we get after the game," said Ron Andrews, the NHL's statistician. "Our figures show Esposito and Ratelle both with 102."

Boston won the game 6-4 and originally, Esposito had no points credited to him.

When the Bruins arrived in Chicago for Sunday afternoon's game against the Black Hawks, it was announced that a late change on the last Boston goal had added an assist for Esposito. The point was his 100th of the season, the writers were told.

When Espo scored two goals and an assist in Boston's 3-1 victory over the Black Hawks, the writers missing second grade addition, credited him with 103 points. Ratelle's three points Sunday night in New York gave him 102, and the writers wrote one point less than Esposito.

NHL rules do not permit scoring changes after a game ends. If there are changes on any goal, they must be reported by either the team captain or alternate to the timekeeper at ice level who in turn is supposed to relay the information to the official scorer.

The Bruins say they requested the change on their last goal Saturday night. Unless it shows up on the official scorer's sheet, it will be classified as missing in action.

Hockey Briefs

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Buffalo Sabres of the National Hockey League suspended forward Eddie Shack Monday for not being available to play in Sunday night's game against Montreal Canadiens. Coach Joe Crozier had designated Shack to sit out the Montreal game. But when injured forward Gil Perreault was unable to play Shack was asked over the public address to report to the dressing room. He didn't appear.

Quebec held a 2-0 lead at the end of the first period and led 5-1 going into the final 20 minutes.

The Toyota Half-Ton. What it does depends on what you do.

We can't make up our minds about our Half-Ton truck.

For some people the Hi-Lux is a pickup. It'll fetch and carry a half ton of just about anything. And it won't cost an arm and a leg doing it. For others, it's a willing workhorse which changes into a family runabout evenings and heads for the local drive-in.

Others we know use it for the sporting life. Skiing, snowmobiling, hunting, fishing, camping.

Some even fit mag wheels, racing stripes, bucket seats and pretend it's a sports car.

Well nothing really surprises us. With a 110 hp. overhead cam engine, a smooth all synchromesh four on the floor, rugged rattle-free cab construction and all the extras and accessories you always get on a Toyota, the Hi-Lux Half-Ton is a very versatile vehicle indeed. Owens Against Pros

BOSTON (AP) — If the Olympic Games are to continue "on the premise upon which they were built," then four-time Olympic gold medal winner Jesse Owens says keep the professionals out.

On the other hand, however, Hal Connolly, who won a gold medal in the Olympic hammer throw, says: "Just one washing machine commercial ... would make this task of making the team just a little bit easier."

Owens and Connolly were two of four former Olympians who discussed professionalism in the Olympics on the national television network program, The Advocates, scheduled to be aired tonight.

Joining Owens in opposition to professionalism in the Olympics was Bob Mathias, a two-time gold medal winner in the decathlon and now a congressman from California.

Joining Connelly in favor of allowing professionals to participate was Susie Chaffee, a member of the 1968 U.S. Olympic ski team.

Owens said letting professionals into the Games would destroy the whole conception of inspiring a youngster . . . to seek an Olympic medal.

"Nobody forces you to compete in the Olympics," Owens said in an interview after the taping of the program last week. "You're there because you want to be."

Mathias did not take as strong a stand as Owens, saying he believed it would be all right for an amateur athlete to be subsidized for his training and equipment, "but not money in the pocket."

"If he is making a profit in sports, then he is a professional." He said the Olympic medals "should go to the very best amateur athletes."

"The pros can organize their own events."

Miss Chaffee, who caused a stir at the Winter Games in Sapporo, Japan, earlier this month when she circulated a petition to allow all athletes to compete in the Olympics, said the public has been greatly deceived that amateurism is a good force in the world. . . .

She said many athletes who sign the Olympic code have to arrange themselves to compete. One stipulation she pointed to was that an athlete can train only 60 days a year for the sport he is competing in.

"The youth of the world have to compromise themselves to compete," she said. She said the Games are "condoning perjury."

Connelly said he hoped his outspoken attack on Olympic athletes receiving financial considerations will cause some changes.

Blue One of Missing Big Guns

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Now that Oakland owner Charles O. Finley has traded Reggie Jackson, can Vida Blue be far behind?

Jackson, who has had his share of salary squabbles with Finley before, became the latest relatively early this year, agreeing to a substantial raise over the $50,000 he earned last year when he slugged 32 homers and drove in 80 runs for the Athletics.

Finley has been trying to get Blue, the American League's Most Valuable Player and Cy Young Award winner, for $50,000, substantially less than what Vida wants.

Blue was by no means the only big name still unsigned as major league regulars began reporting for spring training Monday.

Among the missing in the Texas Rangers' camp was slugger Frank Howard and pitcher Juan Marichal was one of several absent San Francisco Giants.

Marichal is a perennial late signer and the Giants appeared more concerned about second baseman Tito Fuentes, seeking a raise of between $10,000 and $15,000. San Francisco hurried rookie infielder Chris Arnold into camp early so that shortstop Chris Speier would have someone to work with until the Fuentes issue is settled.

Heading the Chicago White Sox list of no-shows is slugger Rich Allen, who has been no easier to sign this winter. General manager Stu Holcomb said he hadn't heard from Allen, obtained from Los Angeles Dodgers, in two weeks.

Harmon Killebrew and Rod Carew have yet to reach terms with Minnesota Twins and first baseman Ron Blomberg has an agent dickering with New York Yankees over his contract.

Pitcher Carl Morton and outfielder Rusty Staub still haven't signed with Montreal Expos and 80-per-cent salary increases while Motton, a seldom-used substitute with Baltimore Orioles, wants a guaranteed minimum number of batting appearances with the Brewers.

VIDA BLUE

pitchers Sparky Lyle and Sonny Siebert are still unsatisfied with Boston Red Sox' offers.

Meanwhile, Milwaukee Brewers' general manager Frank Lane announced a get-tough policy with his unsigned players. If they're still not signed by March 1, said Lane, he will subtract $100 a day from his contract offers.

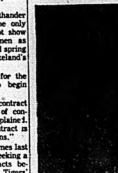
Outfielders John Briggs and Curt Motton and pitcher Bill Parsons are Lane's problems. Parsons and Briggs both want

Lolich Holding Out

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — non-roster players from farm General manager Jim Campbell says he now believes that the money figure rather than a multi-year contract is the bone of contention keeping star pitcher Mickey Lolich unsigned.

Lolich, and fellow lefthander Mike Kilkenny, were the only two players who did not show up among the batterymen as the Detroit Tigers opened spring training Monday at Lakeland's Marchant Stadium.

Full squad workouts for the American League club begin Saturday.



"The amount of the contract is the primary source of concern," Campbell explained. "But the multi-year contract is still hindering negotiations."

Lolich, who won 25 games last year, is reported to be seeking a three-year contract. Pacts beyond a year are against Tigers' policy. According to one source, his salary negotiations are deadlocked around $80,000.

"We've exchanged telegrams in the last 24 hours," Campbell said. "We're not making much progress."

He said Kilkenny, of Bradford, Ont., walked into his office in Detroit not long ago, put his unsigned contract on Campbell's desk, "and we haven't had any communication from him since."

There were 20 pitchers in camp Monday, including five

MICKEY LOLICH

Lefthander Les Cain, expected to be the No. 3 pitcher behind Lolich and Joe Coleman, signed a contract in the morning. Ace reliever Fred Scherman and second baseman Dick McAuliffe signed Sunday leaving six players unsigned: Lolich, Kilkenny, outfielders Gates Brown and Mickey Stanley, first baseman Norm Cash, and infielder Cesar Gutierrez.

Toronto Boxer Lapses Into Sleep After Loss

WINNIPEG (CP) — Stewart Gray of Toronto still was unconscious in hospital early today after being knocked out by Canadian light-heavyweight champion Al Sparks in a title fight.

A hospital spokesman said the 27-year-old challenger recovered consciousness two hours after the fight Monday night but later slipped back into unconsciousness.

There was no evidence of injuries but his condition was listed as "guarded."

Sparks, who Sunday celebrated his 43rd, 44th, or 45th birthday—he says it was his 35th—successfully defended his title with the knockout of Gray at the 34-second mark of the seventh round of their scheduled 12-rounder.

"He said I couldn't punch," the victorious Sparks said afterwards. "That made me work all the harder. I wanted to show him I could punch."

Sparks, who had the fight all the way, stung the challenger at the bell to end the sixth round with a hard right to the head that sent Gray wobbling back to his corner.

The veteran champion set up his knockout punch in the seventh round—the only punch thrown in the round—stalking his man, back-pedalling slightly, then lunging forward with the left that caught Gray flush on the jaw and sent him spinning and falling into his own corner.

Gray, older brother of Canadian welterweight champion Clyde Gray, was unconscious in the ring for about three minutes before he was carried to a waiting ambulance and taken to hospital.

Canadian heavyweight champion George Chuvalo, who had an easy time winning his bout earlier on the card, said Gray looked dazed between the sixth and seventh rounds.

"He stood up, sat down and looked like a drunk man coming into the round.

"I don't think the fight should have continued. . . .

It was the third time in 31 professional fights that Christopher had been stopped.

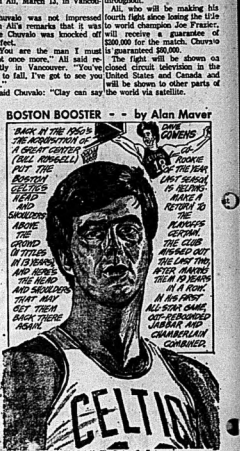
Chuvalo, virtually untouched in the brief bout, said later he did not want to be cut and the only reason he fought was to honor his contract.

The Canadian champion, a member of Irv Ungerman's Toronto boxing stable with the two Grays, said before the fight he wanted nothing to interfere with his second chance at Muhammad Ali, March 12, in Vancouver.

Chuvalo was not impressed with Ali's remarks that it was time Chuvalo was knocked off his feet.

"You are the man I must fight once more," Ali said recently in Vancouver. "You've got to fall, I've got to see you fall."

Said Chuvalo: "Clay can say one thing, but to do it is another."



It will be the second meeting between Ali and the Toronto boxer who lost a 15-round decision to the former world champion March 29, 1968, when they met for the world title.

Chuvalo was badly outclassed but managed to stay on his feet throughout.

Ali, who will be making his fourth fight since losing the title to world champion Joe Frazier, will receive a guarantee of $500,000 for the match. Chuvalo is guaranteed $50,000.

The fight will be shown on closed circuit television in the United States and Canada and will be shown to other parts of the world via satellite.

Thomas Guilty

GREENVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Dallas Cowboy football star Duane Thomas pleaded guilty Monday to marijuana possession and was placed on probation.

Under Texas law, the controversial running back could have received a prison term ranging from two years to life.

The fleet running back, whose silence vied for headlines with his glittering field performances, earned the displeasure of coach Tom Landry who said after the Cowboys' Super Bowl victory last month that Thomas' attitude was a "disruptive force" on the team and indicated he would not tolerate another season of silence.

The judge issued a similar probation order for Thomas' younger brother, Bertrand, 21, charged with the same offence.

Hairy Hockey Players Pose Viewing Problem

by

Maurice Switzer

Sports Editor

When protective helmets first appeared on the hockey scene, many players used as an excuse for not wearing them the opinion that it would be difficult for spectators to tell one player from another.

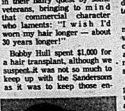
Well, the majority of National Hockey League regulars still do not sport helmets but it's getting increasingly more difficult to tell them apart.

The reason, in a word, is hair.

We have passed from an era when professional athletes tried to see who could appear the most short to one in which they see who can be the shaggiest.

This is not to suggest that below-the-lobe hairstyles, per se, are to be frowned upon. Obsessions with disciplinary action in that direction plague people like Dutch Imlach heart attacks.

Personal preference and self-determination in personal appearance is not at issue here. What concerns me, for one, is that I am beginning to have trouble telling one hirsute hockey player from another.



"Great play by Lapointe." I said after the Canadiens' goal.

"Lapointe was a Flyer. That's Tremblay has the cookie duster."

"What kind of sports writer are you — can't tell one moustache from another!"

See what I mean?

To complicate the view from the press box or arm-chair, the Sandersons and Ungers — younger bloods expected to show off their flowing locks — are being joined in their hairy quest by some veterans, bringing to mind a that commercial character who lamented: "I wish I'd worn my hair longer — about 30 years longer!"

DEREK SANDERSON

Bobby Hull spent $1,000 for a hair transplant, although we suspect it was not so much to keep up with the Sandersons as it was to keep those en-he showed up at the rink wearing a toupee, making him the hockey's first known fallsie-wearer.

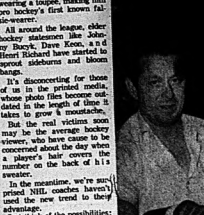
All around the league, elder hockey statesmen like Johnny Bucyk, Dave Keon, and Henri Richard have started to sprout sideburns and blown bangs.

It's disconcerting for those of us in the printed media, whose photo files become outdated in the length of time it takes to grow a moustache.



But the real victims soon may be the average hockey viewer, who have cause to be concerned about the day when a player's hair covers the number on the back of his sweater.

In the meantime, we're surprised NHL coaches haven't used the new trend to their advantage.

Just think of the possibilities: assistant Phil Esposito onto the ice, hidden behind a false beard and rimless spectacles, disguised as some bumbling tryout from Des Moines. Then Tryout from Des Moines. Then WHAM, before the other coach realizes it, he's hat-tricked to death.

We can see the headlines now: "Bruins Baffle Rowsman With Hairy Hockey Sleeper Play."

IN BRIEF: Quintes' veteran (although he hates to admit it) Lionel Bebko can't recall anyone since the days of the McFarland clan and Pat Fergasson's feat of scoring 30 goals this season . . . We extend our sympathy to Gene Fairer on the death of his wife after an illness. Gene started the year as coach of the Quintes before resigning for what he then termed personal reasons . . . Ex-World Champion harness driver Herve Filion, winner of over 500 heats and more than $1,700,000 in purses in 1971, will be making a sulky appearance at Kingsley Classic-tenac Downs this Sunday.

Trophy-Size Serving

Resume Playoffs Saturday

Rollins' Peewees Earn Stars

Rollins' Construction earned their stars Monday as the Belleville peewee all - stars trounced the Allied Chemical bantams 7-2 in an exhibition game.

Bobby Crawford paced Rollins with two goals and two assists, while Jeff Gow and Dave McBride had one of each. Adding the other goals were Ricky Sprague, Howie Coons and Andy Lupenette. Scoring for the house leaguers were Jim Grant and Scrum.

Rollins are slated to open their OMHA quarter - final round with Whitby this Saturday in a 3 p.m. game at the Belleville Memorial Arena.

League president Don Putnam serves up one large size restaurant trophy to sponsor Jim Kosmas and captain Carl Boomhower of Jim's Pizzeria. The Gas House Hockey League team, which Putnam also coaches, compiled an 11-3-2 record en route to their first place finish. The team had captured the league championship for the past two years, while playing under the banner of the Downtown Merchants. The Gas House League completes its regular season schedule tonight with a trio of games at the Belleville Memorial Arena.

Hot Line Cut By Crushmen?

Oshawa Crushmen may have found that the secret of success in the Belleville Bobcats lies in getting on the "hot line".

The Crushmen held the unit of Mark Woodward, Jeff Howard and Terry Meagher scoreless Sunday to record their first win in three Eastern Ontario Junior B league playoff games to date. The Bobcats take a 2-1 series edge into an 8:45 Wednesday game in Belleville's Memorial Arena.

Previous to Sunday's 6-1 loss the Bobcat trio had accounted for six of the team's nine goals with Howard coaching three, Meagher two and Woodward one.

The line's scoring success has accentuated the lack of scoring by the other Belleville combinations, however. Of the other four team tallies, the defence has accounted for three and utility forward Rick Meagher the other.

The seventh high-scoring unit of Brian Cousins — Dave Smith — Dave Horwood has yet to tally a single goal, while Tim Yehn who normally patrols right wing on the checking line, scored his only goal while playing defence.

Rene Gaudette has proved to be the major Oshawa threat, counting three of his four goals, all goals, while Joe Greentree has managed two goals and four assists to date, as the top pointgetter on either team.

Belleville coach Moe Hunter confided that, "I'm a little worried about the Cousins line not scoring, but then they're checking Oshawa's top line, so you check the statistics you'll find that Hopkins line hasn't scored too often either. The top Oshawa unit of Larry Hopkins — Len Lowney — Frank Bathe has accounted for only two goals in the series to date.

Bill Cormier, who has started all three games in the series to date will be in goal for Wednesday night's 8:45 game. Cormier is carrying a 3.43 average in the series to date.

Who Says Oakville Neutral?

Oakville Arena is supposed to be the neutral site of tonight's Woodstock-Belleville sudden-death battle for a senior hockey playoff berth, but the Quintes might be excused for being a bit leery about the OHA choice.

In more than 30 games Belleville senior hockey entries have played in Oakville the past six years, they have only brought home two points once, and that occurred this past Dec. 3 when the Quintes tripped the Oaks 6-3.

Not tonight the Quintes are not playing Oakville, they're playing Woodstock, against whom they sport a 4-2 record this season, including wins in the teams' last three meetings.

The winner of tonight's game will open a best-of-seven first round playoff series with Orillia Terriers Wednesday night in Orillia.

If Belleville wins tonight's 8:30 Oakville game, they hope to play host to the Terriers Friday night in the Memorial Arena, with the third game back in Orillia Saturday.

BELLEVILLE FAMILY Y.M.C.A.

1893 – 78th ANNUAL REPORT – 1971

PRESIDENT'S REMARKS

The Y.M.C.A. is a community organization supported by the community and operated by the community. Its purpose is to develop the spirit, mind and body in body, mind and spirit remains unchained. The "Y" has a flexibility to vary its approach to meet the needs of people its goal. The new emphasis on movement education for young young people is an example of this, as is the phenomenal growth and resurgence of interest in the traditional physical fitness and athletic programs. Our membership statistics suggest that some of the old standards are still timely.

The Belleville Y.M.C.A. during 1971 identified the following major program thrusts for the association:

—Upgrading the quality of physical education services, particularly in the adult physical fitness, and leadership in general sports.

—Accepted for government assistance through Project 300 to extend Y.M.C.A. work into other areas of the community, which was unfortunately turned down. However, we were successful in obtaining such assistance through the generosity of Hillcrest Project and have started work with the new program.

—Co-operate with the Recreation-Area Committee in the joint sponsorship of the Spring at the Memorial Park and Area Festival. Community Services in carrying on a dialogue throughout the city to ascertain needs in recreation and how best the Y could help people meet their needs.

—Continue the expansion and development of the Informal Education program.

—Reducing the Short Term programs vs. Annual Y membership for those participants who prefer to do so.

—Expand the Y's role in the field of personal development and with community interests, with membership support and a dynamic staff, these challenges will be met.

The Y.M.C.A. in the past year has been pleased to serve the community in the following general areas:

—Provide a program of recreation and leadership for boys and facilities for men, women and "Y" Kit training for secondary school students and the "Y" Kit training.

—Membership to 16 deserving youth and to a few adults, on a subsidized basis.

—Use of meeting rooms to community groups.

—Use of swimming pool by scouts and nurses of Belleville Hospital.

—Pool swimming.

—Use of the entire Y.M.C.A. building on Friday and Saturday evenings for summer camper reunions, banquets and other such special programs for youth.

—Use of the pool during the summer months by the Belleville Recreation and Area Committee for canoe and baseball and by Belleville Minor Baseball and Softball and spring for football and track practices.

—Have been successful in obtaining government assistance through the Local Initiatives Program to add 3 full time workers to assist working members in our area.

LOOKING AHEAD

—Redefine the Y's role in the community as it responds to changing community needs and in relation to other agencies, the U.C.E., city, provincial and federal governments.

—Advance in a keen consistent way members of Committees and Directors.

—Study seriously the development of our five acre field with the view of putting it to use for additional services to the community and at the same time, make the "Y" self-sustained.

—Staff for an expanded program.

The year 1971 was notable in the tremendous support shown the "Y" by many within the "Y" family. This support was the greatest ever in the history of the association. Staff, Volunteer leaders, Y's Men, by the Board, Committees and by our hard working staff. All have provided a tremendous spirit of sacrifice and service to others for which I would like to express my thanks and deep appreciation.

S. D. Horne, M.D.
President

INFORMAL EDUCATION

Two series of "learning skills for living" were organized in the Spring and in the Fall, and met with much success. Courses given included Bridge, Investment, Yoga, Golf, Skin and Scuba Diving, 'Learn-to-Swim', Stroke improvement, Life Saving, Upholstering and Self Defence for Women, and Judo. A total of 228 different adult participated in both series.

A third series, "Fall Fantasy", was also sponsored in November and December for ladies, featuring candle-making, sculpturing with scrap iron, professional hair dressing, tricks with turkey, and creative gift-wrapping.

UNDER 8 PROGRAM

In 1971, 598 children, from 9 months to 7 years, benefitted from a learning experience in the "Y" gym and pool. The program encourages and challenges the child to explore his environment and his abilities within it.

According to age, the children are divided into "Wee Folk", "Kindergym", and "Small Fry" groups. Through games, climbing, running, and swimming with other children, they develop self-confidence, coordination, strength and social skills.

SUMMER PROGRAM

Summer is a special program time at the "Y" — in addition to the regular activities, the following programs are offered:

Outdoor Education:

Day Camp for children participated in the Outdoor Education program during the summer months, which consisted of a Kinder Camp and a Community Day Camping.

—Day Camp (4 to 12 years): operated for four one-week periods during which about 200 children and nine leaders enjoyed the natural beauty of the Y's camp property, participating in such activities as nature study, hiking, camp-crafts, and program included exploring, fishing and swimming. The program was a co-operative venture of the Y.M.C.A. and the City Recreation-Area Department.

—Leader-Aimed (4 to 7 years): was centered in and around the "Y" building, with children enjoying games, sonus, crafts, and swimming under the supervision of the City's Health and Recreation Department.

Special Summer Program for Youth — Assisted by the government's Opportunities for Youth program, the Y provided a youth junction with the City Community Development Service in a program during the summer — using the facilities of the Y.M.C.A. facilities United Church and Belleville Public Library.

The program was open to all youth and consisted of basketball, volleyball, and swimming every evening each week and dancing every second Saturday. Hundreds of youth took advantage of the program, with the co-operation of the Belleville Musicians Club, which provided live music. Scores of young people came together to listen to popular music. Scores of youth attended the "Y" every evening through the sponsorship of the city Recreation-Area Dept.

PROGRAM

HEALTH AND FITNESS

Through individual activities, games, swimming, and group fitness classes, hundreds of individuals achieve and maintain good health and physical fitness. All the "Y's" activities proved that "Fitness and recreation go hand in hand" and when gained in a friendly, comfortable atmosphere, can be fun!" when gained in a friendly, comfortable atmosphere,

LADIES' FITNESS PROGRAM

Over 150 women participated in the many fitness classes at the "Y". Exercises are designed to develop strength and flexibility of muscles and joints, with resistance to fatigue. A regular check of progress is kept by personal testing.

SWIMMING LESSONS

—This was one of the most successful years for the learn-to-swim program, with hundreds of children participating. During the year over 146 adults took advantage of the opportunity to learn or improve their swimming skills. By being our program to time with community interest, Canadian Red Cross standards are now offered.

LEADERSHIP TRAINING

More than 50 persons, from 13 years to adulthood find an opportunity at the "Y" to share their skills. Each year many young people are involved in gym and swim classes. Under a program and leadership training course. Youth leaders benefitted from training courses, offered by Belleville, Trenton and Ottawa, and enjoyed an overnight camping trip to Sheldrake Lake.

JUDO

This very successful program attracts kids and adults alike. It is an excellent way to maintain physical fitness and develop skill and self-confidence.

SWIMATHLON

The so called "Y" Swimathlon held the latter part of November was a splashing success. Supported by the CJBQ fund raisers per lap, the Swimathlon drew 24 teams with 144 participants. Results from the poolside on the morning of Saturday, November 27th. It attracted over 200 spectators, many of whom swam the marathon 10 lengths of the pool.

"EARLY BIRD" CLASS

To accommodate those who are unable to use the "Y" for their physical fitness needs at noon or in the evening, the "Y" initiated in the fall an "Early Bird" class that meets from 7 - 8:15 am on Tuesday and Thursday mornings. Participants 12 and 16 men have been taking advantage of this program.

The Y.M.C.A. field has been used for Soccer and Baseball by the Recreation Department and the Moira Secondary School used it for their football practices and Track and Field.

SERVICE CLUBS

Y'S MEN'S CLUB

The service club of the Y.M.C.A. provided valuable support to the "Y" program and the community. The Club assisted the 'Y' with the purchase of a Lifeguard's Chair, 2 pool laddersg with starting a new Kardex system for membership records, and in the purchase of 'Y' Membership to deserving but needy children. Their major annual projects, the Radio Auction and sale of Christmas trees were very successful.

Y'S MENETTES CLUB

The wives of the Y's Men have their own club, again for community service and support of the 'Y'. Their major donation – a fitness testing and exercise bicycle – is in constant use at the 'Y'.

BELLEVILLE CITIZENS SERVE ON VOLUNTEER BOARDS

More than one hundred volunteer leaders served on the various Committees, Boards and Groups giving strength to the Y.M.C.A.'s program of activities.

Pacific Dockers At Work

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — West Coast longshoremen went back to work in force at premium holiday pay Monday to mark the end of a 134-day dock strike, the longest tieup ever in United States mainland ports.

The 24 long-closed Pacific ports bustled with action at the same hour that President Nixon symbolically signed in Peking legislation to stop the already-ended strike.

At the strike's end, 218 vessels were waiting in ports from Bellingham, Wash., to San Diego in southern California.

Cost of the strike was estimated recently by Nixon at $23.5 million daily in lost business. That would place total cost more than $3 billion.

Longshoremen went to work with a 72-cent pay increase to $5 an hour. The first day back also brought premium time-and-a-half wages because of the George Washington birthday holiday.

Silver Dollars Refused

TORONTO (CP) — A cashier at a branch here of the transportation and communications department refused Monday to accept a customer's $70 vehicle licence payment in silver dollars.

"We're not a bank," Carol Bernie told the man. "Either pay with bills or don't bother buying."

The office was "extremely busy," Mrs. Bernie said later. "And we didn't have time for suits."

The man finally paid with $53 in paper money and $15 in silver.

Three to Probe College of Art

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Confederation of University Faculty Associations has appointed a three-man commission to investigate complaints of unjust firings and teaching methods at the Ontario College of Art.

The association, a lobbying body for Ontario's university teachers, does not have the power to enforce recommendations but will present them to the governing council of the college.

C. B. Macpherson, head of the commission, blamed the current situation at the college on "lack of any kind of adequate structures for liaison up and down . . . from the students, faculty, president and the governing council."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
B L N G E F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophe, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

CRYPTOQUOTES

Chargers Rally To Nip Picton Seniors

Centennial seniors pulled out a 64-62 win over Picton to highlight a Bay of Quinte COSSA basketball tripleheader Monday.

Picton had rallied from a three-point deficit to knot the score at 44-44 before the Chargers managed to edge to the victory. David Dent and Bob Henderson paced the Picton five for the winners with Kevin Quinn getting 26 points and Doug Dernnah 22 in a losing cause.

In the junior bout it was Picton coming through with a resounding 73-33 victory. Dave Spine with 17 points and Trupp with 14 led the winners while Charles Vanderwater had 17 for Centennial.

The related Chargers made it two-of-three for their school with a 56-46 win. Paul Passyn with 22 points and Brent Babcock with 21 offset a 23-point night by Rutter of Picton.

Ski Report

Oak Hills Ski Club will be open tonight 6.30-10 p.m. and Wednesday afternoon 1-4.30 p.m. Conditions are reported as GOOD.

Kickers Head South

The Bay of Quinte Soccer League is going south for their annual meeting — at least as far as South Side of CFB Trenton.

The area's major soccer league will hold its annual meeting at the BITO building of CFB Wednesday night at 7.30 p.m.

Among the issues to be dealt with are election of officials and team entries.

Transplanted Curler Does Alberta Favor

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP) — Transplanted Albertan did himself and his former province a favor at the Canadian seniors curling championship Monday.

Gordon Walker, who lived in Edmonton for 25 years, skipped his British Columbia rink—his team'ladies are all Saskatchewan natives, but live in Victoria — to a 7-5 victory over Alberta causing a three-way tie at the top of the standings between B.C., Quebec and Alberta.

Saskatchewan and Manitoba have 2-2 records, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island are 2-3, Northern Ontario 1-3, Ontario 1-4 and Newfoundland winless in four starts.

In today's fifth round, starting at 10:30 a.m. EST, it's Saskatchewan versus Quebec, Ontario against Ontario, B.C. opposing New Brunswick, Manitoba playing against Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island against Northern Ontario and Newfoundland receiving the bye.

While Walker was helping himself in a game of first place, Alberta defeated New Brunswick 9-6, Nova Scotia walloped off, previously-undefeated Saskatchewan 8-7, Manitoba, shellacked Prince Edward Island 13-1, Prince Edward Island beat Northern Ontario 8-7 and Ontario had a bye.

Walker, who replicated Al Hackner's feat of winning it in 1965 and 1969, was ahead 6-5 going into the last end. Ken Wolden of Montreal threw his last rock which edged past a guard and stayed for shot. Walker, who could see only about an inch of the rock, threw his last stone and caught a piece of the Quebec rock, knocking it out of the 12-foot circle to count.

Earlier, Weldon defeated Slim Otterson of Calgary 9-7, handing Alberta rink its first loss.

The rinks were tied after seven ends, but the 55-year-old veteran skipper scored four points on the eighth and stole one on the ninth when Otterson's draw was light. Alberta faced four Quebec rocks when the Calgary skip threw his first rock on the 10th. He was light again and Weldon had the game.

Otterson did better in the 11th round, picking up two on the ninth for his win against Bob Oke of Moncton.

Walker's win was his second of the day. In the third round he defeated Don Bedell of Halifax 11-7, picking up two threes and two twos along the way.

The Nova Scotia rink came back against Saskatchewan, however, in the next four ends, but picking up two each time as he knocked off Gene Squires 8-7.

Squires said he had a chance to take the game in the eighth end but the rock would have given him a three. However, he blew it and got only a two.

Squires had an easy time in the seventh draw, bealing the inexperienced Newfoundland crew 16-2. Lew Budden of Buchanan picked up on the sixth as the Saskatoon foursome was scoring heavily.

The experience was the same for the easterners in the night draw as they were pounded 13-1 by Manitoba—again scoring only on the sixth.

Manitoba had the fourth-round bye.

Prince Edward Island evened its record 2-2 with a 9-8 win over Ontario in the third in the morning draw and a 10-7 victory over Ontario in the night draw.

UNHINDERED BY VEHICULAR TRAFFIC, a couple takes to the streets in skis in Montreal after a 10-inch snowfall coupled with a strike of city employees virtually disbanded the city's subway system, which has not shut down since the strikes.

The clogged streets affected access to the city's two largest hospitals, the Montreal General and the Royal Victoria. Both are situated on the southern side of Mount Royal.

"We're all closed off" a spokesman for the Royal Victoria said. "We haven't been able to take emergency cases since

Montreal Traffic Slow Though Plows Are Out

MONTREAL (CP) — Rush-hour traffic inched along early today despite a return to work by the city's snow removal crews.

The crews began reappearing on city streets shortly after midnight for the first time since Saturday's 18-inch snowfall and an early today most of the main downtown streets were open.

Union leaders ordered the snow removal crews back to clean up the snow-clogged roads for "for humanitarian reasons" after meeting with Quebec Labor Minister Jean Cournoyer and city officials. About 500 men were involved in the return to work.

The men are among 8,000 blue-collar workers who have been on strike since midnight Friday. Police and firemen, members of Local 301 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, are protesting lagging negotiations for a new contract.

But the crews were concentrating solely on plowing the streets and there was no talking or sanding done,leaving traction, especially on hilly north south arteries, still poor.

The Montreal Urban Community Transportation Commission reported most of its 140 bus lines were operating.

A two-inch snowfall, whipped around by high winds, left about 14 inches of snow on the ground early this morning.

All public schools on the island had been closed by Saturday's storm, but none announced their intention to remain closed today.

Less than half the city's buses were in operation Monday night and Jean Arpin, city roads department director, announced all garbage collection was being discontinued because of street conditions.

The city had sought labor department intervention in the dispute because the strike is illegal one and the city is not empowered to seek an injunction forcing the workers to return to the job.

A union spokesman said he did not know how many of the men would obey the union's order to return to work. The union had issued an appeal to return during the height of Saturday's blizzard, but the men did not show up.

The spokesman said the first men to return to work late Monday night were unable to start snow plowing which were blocked by huge snow drifts.

By 6 a.m. all of Montreal was threaded their way single-file to work along foot-beaten paths. Others waited for the services which was, at best, irregular. More than 500 cars left on the streets were still not back on the road.

The buses which did run were mainly on lines which feed the city's subway system, which has not shut down since the strikes.

The clogged streets affected access to the city's two largest hospitals, the Montreal General and the Royal Victoria. Both are situated on the southern side of Mount Royal.

"We're all closed off" a spokesman for the Royal Victoria said. "We haven't been able to take emergency cases since

Victims' Relatives Decide to Testify

COLERAINE, Northern Ireland (CP) — Relatives of the 13 persons who died in Londonderry on Sunday three weeks ago changed their minds Monday night and will testify at a British government inquiry into the deaths.

They made their decision at a secret meeting after a day of incidents in Northern Ireland which included the deaths of four men when their car exploded outside Belfast. Security officials said the men may have been on a bombing mission.

The relatives had decided earlier to boycott the inquiry, which opened in the town of Coleraine Monday under Lord Widgery, lord chief justice. They said then they regarded the investigation as being neither impartial nor independent because Widgery had served in the British army as a brigadier during the Second World War.

Nine Roman Catholic priests, who tended the dying and wounded during the shooting also announced they would testify.

Observers believe that following the example of the families of the dead, many other residents of the Londonderry Catholic area will decide to do so.

Thirteen demonstrators were killed by British troops or opposing gunmen may have been mistaken for targets, ricocheted and struck unarmed bystanders.

Defence department lawyer Brian Gibbens, addressing the court suggested that indications that the 13 victims had been killed by ill-disciplined troops.

The shootings by troops took place during a period of 18 minutes and 106 bullets were fired by a total of only 21 out of 108 officers and men of the paratrooper regiment participating in the action.

Principal counsel John Stocker said the clothes of all 13 dead were checked for explosives after the tragedy and the tests proved negative in every case except one.

Gibbens said the army plan of action was aimed at preventing the march—illegal under Northern Ireland's emergency laws—from leaving the Bogside and another Catholic area of Londonderry, the Creggan Housing Estate.

In the event of shooting, platoon commanders were to ensure that the rules set out in an official yellow card for soldiers were adhered to. These rules provide for aimed shots at an identified target only to be fired.

Altogether 1,200 regular troops, including the parachute unit, were on duty at the Londonderry trouble centre Jan. 30. The allegations of murderous shooting had been made against the paratroops.

The first battalion of that regiment was in reserve as an area for soldiers to scoop up hooligans. This arrest action was to be launched only "on the specific command of the brigadier and only when the hooligans had been separated from the marchers," Gibbens said.

Brig. Pat McLellan waited behind a mound in a jeep equipping a helicopter signal that the main body of marchers had left rioting youths behind. Only then were the arrest forces ordered to move.

This, Gibbens said, was to enable peaceful members to "roll out of the area."

"It was not the army's intention to open fire at all. The troops were fired on . . . immediately on alighting from their vehicles."

It was possible, however, that the first audible shots had been fired at troops by gunmen earlier.

"It was gunmen who fired the first shots," the lawyer asserted, "and the troops replied only when they could identify a gunman or a bomber."

On several occasions when fired on they did not return fire because they "could not positively identify their target."

Gibbens said all ranks believed responsible in a disciplined manner, using minimum force to perform a difficult task under fire.

The car explosion in which the four men died Monday night occurred on a traffic circle east of Belfast.

Remains of the wrecked car were strewn over a wide area. Police believe the car was a bomb.

Nine prominent Catholic politicians escaped injury Monday night when a bomb exploded during a meeting in a restaurant in Dungannon, 40 miles from Belfast.

British troops found a large cache of ammunition on the roof of a school in Belfast Monday.

During the operation three explosive devices were thrown at soldiers patrolling outside the school. No one was injured.

Witness Called Agent Provocateur

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Ramsey Clark, chief defence lawyer in the Harrisburg conspiracy trial, says the government's key witness was "an agent provocateur" for the FBI.

Clark, the former U.S. attorney general and onetime boss of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, also described the witness as "a sad person who's made a living a way of life."

The charges came Monday as Clark made his opening statement in the trial of seven anti-war activists who are accused of plotting to kidnap presidential adviser Henry Kissinger in an effort to force an end to U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Among the defendants are Rev. Philip Berrigan, a Roman Catholic priest who allegedly masterminded the plot from his prison cell in Lewisburg, federal prison, where he was serving a sentence for destroying draft board records.

After a month of jury selection, the first day of the trial's fifth week Monday was confined to opening statements.

Father Berrigan also tried to fire Clark as his lawyer so he could make an opening anti-war statement but Judge R. Dixon Herman of the U.S. district court turned down the request and said only the lawyer could speak for the priest.

All but one of the defendants are family or former Roman Catholic priests and nuns. The seventh is a Pakistani graduate student.

Chief prosecutor William Lynch told the jury that the former Boyd Douglas kept the FBI "advised as to what was going on."

"Naturally he did not so advise Father Berrigan," Lynch said. Douglas and Father Berrigan were roommates.

Douglas is not expected to take the stand until next week.

Todd and His Daughter Going Home

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (Reuter) — Former prime minister Garfield Todd and his daughter Judith, held in detention for five weeks by security authorities, are to be freed from jail and detained instead on the Todd ranch, Grace Todd said today.

"I expect them to come home today," Mrs. Todd told Reuter in a telephone interview.

"They are being restricted to a very small area on the ranch but at least they will be home with me instead of in jail."

Todd and his 23-year-old daughter—both outspoken opponents of the Rhodesian government—have been held in separate jails without trial since Jan. 18.

Their detention provoked widespread protests, but the government refused to outline any charges against them.

Prime Minister Ian Smith has accused the Todds of having had links with riots that broke out after the British Pearce commission arrived to test opinion on the Anglo-Rhodesian settlement proposals.

Wife-slayer's Leave Debated

OTTAWA (CP) — The fact that Yves Geoffroy, convicted wife murderer, got out of jail on special leave to marry his girlfriend, then disappeared, wasn't in question in the Commons Monday.

Just how he did it was—and drew two explanations.

"Absolute corruption," boomed Eldon Woolliams (PC —Calgary North), his party's justice critic.

Spectacular error, said Solicitor-General Jean-Pierre Goyer, but with "no irregularities or illegalities."

Mr. Goyer Monday told the Commons of the bizarre circumstances that led to the release of Geoffroy, sentenced to life for the murder of his wife, from Montreal's St. Vincent de Paul jail to marry Carmen Lavoie.

Miss Parent was the chief Crown witness, a hostile one, at the trial that resulted in lawyer Geoffroy being convicted of strangling his first wife and setting fire to her bed in an attempt to cover up a murder.

Shortly after he was sentenced, Geoffroy started work on an appeal, aided by Raymond Denis, former political assistant to two Liberal cabinet ministers in the mid-1960s who was sentenced to two years in jail after conviction for attempting to bribe a lawyer into not opposing bail for narcotics trafficker Lucien Rivard.

When Geoffroy was granted a 90-hour leave from jail for his marriage last Dec. 31 he had served 11 months of a life sentence.

The marriage was performed that day, with Mr. Denis acting as Miss Parent's witness. Then the couple disappeared.

The minister said the main reason for the release of the convicted murderer was that "undue credence was given a report on the situation by social worker Micheline Corcoller.

Mr. Goyer said Miss Corcoller recommended Mr. Geoffroy's marriage on grounds that Geoffroy's two brothers, caring for his three children, suffered serious heart conditions and the children would be left destitute if the brothers died.

Miss Parent, if the marriage was allowed, could support the children, the marriage giving her the right to be their guardian.

Only after the flight did officials learn that statements about the health of the brothers was based on "hearsay," Mr. Goyer said.

Rice Fine Food, Not Fattening

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You have made no mention of the calorie count of rice—almonds, brown or otherwise.

Do you know, sir, what this means to a Greek-American and, I expect, housewife foiled by many an Italianmeatballmeister? I am doomed to a life of being ridiculed for our ponderous, portly bottom bellies, victims of our insatiable need for a meal embellished with rice?

Lamb without rice! Now I ask you, is that fair! Please, sir, rectify this obvious and horrendous oversight. Devote a line or two to the defence of the noble dish of rice—including calorie count, of course. Yours for more and better pilaf or pilau as the Persians say.—G.G.V., Jr.

P.S.: Potatoes I don't need!

Ah, my dear sir, it is you, not I, who pats the undeserved blame on rice. It isn't rice that causes the "P-P bellies" of which you write. But it can be what you put on the rice, or don't, that makes all the difference.

Nearly two-thirds of the people of the earth find rice an excellent, essential food. I like it, too.

There's no reason it can't be used, moderately, in a weight reduction program.

But how about the lamb you eat with it? How much lamb and how much fat?

The food value of rice is comparable to that of a similar amount of potato, and, if you've read my advice carefully, you know that I have defended, and not prohibited, the use of potatoes. Even when you are reducing, you need some solid nourishment.

Where the potato gets its bad name is not from its natural calorie content but the stuff people insist on putting on it.

Take an ordinary she potato, and if you drench it in butter, float it in a sea of gravy, fry it, or add tidbits of sour cream, you multiply the calories several times over.

It isn't rice that builds those "P-P bellies." It is the fat, and the sugar, and some of the time it's just too much of everything, instead of being satisfied with enough.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: On my last checkup, my doctor said I had high blood sugar. What is it? What does it mean? He didn't give me any medicine but did tell me I could come back in six months. Is it serious? What can be done for it?—R.T.

From the amount of information you give me, I can do no more than guess. Did he say "high blood sugar" or "high blood pressure"?

If he said "sugar," then he suspects you may be developing or have developed diabetes and wants to check you again in a few months.

Why not ask him which he said—sugar or pressure?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I do not fully know the facts about gonorrhea and I think I may have it. The inner walls of the vagina turn red and itch and a grayish, milky substance is always coming out.

Please rush answer in the paper. I cannot tell my parents about this. It has been going on for about eight months. I am 15.

Maybe it's gonorrhea, maybe not. There are various forms of vaginal infections other than the familiar venereal diseases. There isn't any answer I can "rush in the paper" except to tell you that, whichever type of infection you have, it has to be diagnosed and treated, and nobody can do it except a doctor.

Tell your parents, if necessary, that you have vaginitis or a discharge, but whatever you tell them, be sure you see a doctor.

Labor Body Protests Denial of Insurance

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Labor Congress protested Monday what it termed "overzealous" enforcement of regulations denying unemployment insurance benefits to workers laid off as a result of a labor dispute.

The congress said it agrees no benefits should be paid to workers taking part in a strike, "but lately we have noticed that the administration pendulum seems to have swung far away from the neutral position to a point where it appears that interpretations by commission officials are almost invariably solely claimant in their nature."

An official of the commission said in an interview that workers laid off as a result of a strike are refused benefits unless they can prove they have no interests involved in the dispute.

Morality Squad Arrests Decline

MONTREAL (CP) — A high-ranking Montreal police officer said Monday there has been a "steady decline" in morality squad arrests since Jean-Jacques Saulnier became police chief in May, 1971.

Andre Guay, 45-year-old deputy director of operations, was testifying at a Quebec Police Commission inquiry into Mr. Saulnier's conduct while he was head of the Montreal morality squad in the 1960s.

Mr. Guay, whose testimony Monday concerned Mr. Saulnier's conduct as police chief, quoted statistics compiled by the department showing that in the first six months of 1971 there had been 2,642 morality arrests, and 1,671 morality arrests in the last six months of the year.

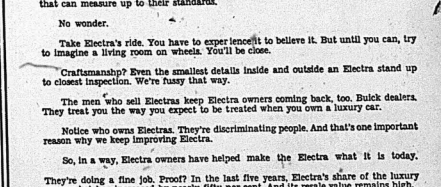
At first there were some members of the club who claimed they could fathom the workings of Sylvia's mind, but it did not take them overly long to disabuse themselves of this strange notion.

They discovered soon enough that Sylvia's purely personal interpretation of how to apply the general principles that govern the game resulted in an approach far different from that of any player we had ever seen before.

Take this deal which arose when Sylvia played in her first duplicate at the club. Perhaps she should not have been permitted to participate because of her very limited experience, but most of the members felt that Sylvia would add considerable zest to the game—and they were certainly not disappointed in this regard.



Sylvia was West and found herself on lead against four spades, a contract that was reached at all 12 tables. All the other West players (two by the queen) or a low diamond, and in every case declarer had no trouble coming home with ten tricks.

Sylvia had of course heard of the rule about leading the highest card of a suit her partner had bid, but since her partner had not bid any suit at all in this hand she came forth with the highest card of her own suit: the king of hearts.

As a result of this fantastic play, poor South could no longer make the contract. He won the king with the ace and returned a trump, but Sylvia took her ace and led the jack of hearts. East ruffed dummy's queen, returned a club, and Sylvia proceeded to cash the ace of clubs and ten of hearts to put the hand on declarer.

Tomorrow: An extraordinary play.

Why Electra Owners Keep Buying Electras!

Electra 225 Limited Sport Coupe

Once they've owned an Electra, there just doesn't seem to be another automobile that can measure up to their standards.

No wonder.

Take Electra's ride. You have to experience it to believe it. But until you can, try to imagine a living room on wheels. You'll be close.

Craftsmanship? Even the smallest details inside and outside an Electra stand up to closest inspection. We're fussy that way.

The men who sell Electras keep Electra owners coming back, too. Buick dealers. They treat you the way you expect to be treated when you own a luxury car.

Notice who owns Electras. They're discriminating people. And that's one important reason why we keep improving Electra.

So, in a way, Electra owners have helped make the Electra what it is today.

They're doing a fine job. Proof? In the last five years, Electra's share of the luxury car market has increased by nearly fifty per cent. And its resale value remains high.

As they say, Good news travels fast.

What The Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON
Wednesday, Feb. 12

Aries (March 21-April 19): The tendency is to blurt out dramatic outlines of a wild story, leaving out the content along with the extenuating circumstances. Let others do the talking.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Accept an uphill spell as hindrances are probable in financial matters, not to be taken personally, but as a general condition. It isn't permanent.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): The way you speak of yourself, the presentation of your work matches the difference. Disregard quibbles of friends, low levels of family co-operation—they will pass.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Revive activities, budgets; make definite campaign plans to get what you have to offer on to market.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Pull in your horns a little to avoid needless clash with friendly rivals or serious competition. Don't do what others are doing for the sake of conformity.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Friends divulge your secrets to the most unlikely listeners. Cope with self-important people by projecting serenity.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Strive for prudence in today's contrary currents. Any error has far-reaching echoes. Take the day off if you can manage it.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Friends who suggest complex ventures aren't prepared to pay the tab; that's your chore if talked into a fling. Nothing is certain where people's feelings are concerned.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Overlook casual provocations. Cope with your own temptations; those of others are not your problem.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): There is more than expected involved in your plans, extra personalities. Be calm, detached. An immediate response isn't very helpful.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Gaps in your schedule fill up as you find targets for your efforts, channels for self-expression, people to co-operate in larger enterprises.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Being a busybody comes almost first nature today. If somebody is doing a job, let him do it

Interrupted-trial Concept Proposed

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's 1972 package of Criminal Code amendments, unveiled Monday, would introduce broad new latitudes in the Canadian court room.

Foremost among them would be the interrupted-trial concept recommended by the 1969 commission on corrections under Mr. Justice Roger Ouimet of Montreal.

The interrupted trial means no sentence and no record. A judge would be empowered to stop the trial when a person was found guilty or pleaded guilty.

At that point the judge could grant an absolute discharge or a conditional discharge where this was in the "best interests of the accused and not contrary to the public interest."

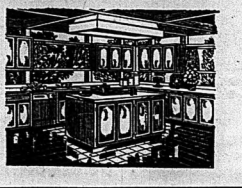
Judges also would have the discretion to order that a sentence of 90 days or less be served intermittently, enabling a person to work or a string of day while spending the night in jail.

The heavy impact of the high breath-test law on those who make their living by driving—travelling salesmen, truck drivers, delivery men—would be lessened.

Cody antiquities that allow prosecution for attempted suicide and enable judges to prescribe the lash as a punishment would be repealed.

Also due for repeal would be vagrancy, "the poor man's crime," and its tag-end section that has enabled police to pick up prostitutes.

A new clause would make soliciting by a male or female for the purpose of prostitution altogether by John Turner, who left the Justice portfolio for finance three weeks ago.



Other antiquities that allow offence. The current law has been criticized as discriminatory against women.

White House Veto Bars Lake Cleanup

$141 Million Outlay For Sewers Blocked

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada-U.S. plans for a concentrated attack on Great Lakes pollution have suffered a setback with the disclosure that the White House has vetoed a $141-million sewer disposal program proposed by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

The EPA report accompanying the request was made public by Representative Abner J. Mikva (Dem.-Ill.) who said in a House of Representatives speech that the U.S. still was "spending more time and money polluting the Great Lakes than we are spending to revitalize them."

To emphasize the urgency of the fight, the EPA report said of Lake Erie:

"A mat of algae two feet thick and a few hundred square miles in extent floats in the middle of the Lake in mid-summer, oxygen levels in areas of the lake bottom are reduced to zero, displacement of indigenous fish populations by scavenger and trash fish is widespread . . .

Control of pollution from storm and sanitary sewers is one of about a dozen major projects being negotiated for a massive Canada-U.S. war on lake pollution.

The negotiations started as a followup to an International Joint Commission report more than a year ago and was to have been completed by the end of 1971, but still is being negotiated.

Other areas to be covered by the pact include ship pollution control, pollution from agricultural runoff carrying insecticides and the like.

EPA said it was told the program was vetoed by the president's office of management and budget because of the large federal budget deficit.

"With a national budget of $246.3 billion and a deficit of more than $23 billion, it seems that $141 million to fight pollution in the Great Lakes was too much a fiscal burden for the country to bear," said Mikva.

"As a result the battle against pollution will continue to be a losing battle . . . It is like refusing to spend six cents after just spending $100."

The EPA said in its report that completion of separate storm and sanitary systems throughout the Great Lakes region would eventually cost between $8 billion and $11 billion, which Mikva conceded was "certainly a substantial amount even spread over many years."

Chou Visits Nixon House

PEKING (Reuter) — Premier Chou En-lai and President Nixon held four hours of talks today, the third time they have conferred during the presidential visit to Peking.

For the first time the talks were at the state guest house where Nixon is staying, emphasizing the cordiality end prestige teratment the U.S. president is receiving in Peking.

The talks ended at 6:05 p.m. (5:05 a.m. EST).

Nixon and his wife then went to the 18,000-seat Capital Gymnasium for an exhibition of gymnastics, table tennis and badminton.

The earlier conversations, on Monday and Tuesday, took place in the Great Hall of the People in central Peking.

Chou arrived at the guest house at 2 p.m. (1 a.m. EST) and was met outside by Nixon.

Their talks lasted four hours, ending at 6:05 p.m. (5:05 a.m. EST). The length of the conversation was taken as an indication that the U.S. leader and Chou were making a searching examination of a wide range of issues.

Chou spotted a group of American photographers behind the president when he arrived at the guest house.

"You are all taking photographs of me," he said. "You should take more of your president."

Nixon commented with a grin: "If they had them, they'd burn them."

The two leaders then went inside to hold their talks, which are being paralleled, as on Tuesday, by discussions between State Secretary William Rogers and Chinese Foreign Minister Chi Peng-fei.

The change of venue for the talks emphasized the cordiality and prestige treatment Nixon is receiving during his time in the Chinese capital.

Their nearly four hours of discussions at the Great Hall Tuesday—second day of the eight-day visit—was longer than expected, indicating that the two sides were getting deep into the substantive issues that sharply divide their nations.

Pat Nixon Sees Acupunture Used

PEKING (AP) — Barebeaded in a snowstorm, Mrs. Richard Nixon today visited an agricultural commune where she saw a 68-year-old woman getting an acupuncture treatment, based on the insertion of long needles into the flesh.

A grey-haired woman lying on her side on a cot had more than half a dozen needles protruding from her right arm and leg.

The woman said those limbs had been so numb before she began a week-long series of acupuncture treatments that she could hardly walk around her small home. Now she can cook, she reported.

Airlines Learn to Live With Radarless Airports

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

With only six out of 35 Air Canada flights out of Toronto International Airport cancelled up to 11 a.m. today, and all 13 outgoing CP Air flights on schedule, Canada's major airlines appear to have adjusted to operating out of airports without radar facilities, halted by a strike of technicians.

Air Canada had short-haul flights cancelled to Montreal, Chicago, Cleveland (two), Thunder Bay and New York as the strike of electronic maintenance men moved into its 19th day.

A transport department spokesman said only a few regularly-scheduled flights moved after midnight out of Toronto. A backlog of Air Canada operations had been cleared Monday night by scheduling flights between midnight and dawn — a period normally under curfew.

The department had approved the after-curfew flights, began last weekend because of the strike and bad weather.

An Air Canada spokesman said Tuesday night the airline is operating at 90 per cent of capacity despite the strike which has hit radar, navigation and communications equipment at airports and en-route.

This contradicted a forecast last week by officials of local 2228, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, that by Sunday no planes would be flying.

The transport department employs 1,178 of the 2,311 members of the local, those who service the equipment. Most members of the bargaining unit employed in other government departments have returned to their jobs.

At Montreal, Air Canada said it operated 65 per cent of its flights Tuesday, with all overseas and holiday flights to the south operating normally. One-to-three-hour delays were commonplace for domestic flights.

Toronto airport usually handles about 600 arrivals and departures a day and Air Canada alone accounts for about 370 of these. Air management officials would not say how many flights were handled Tuesday, but added that operations were improved.

Bail Given Gerald Hill

PICTON (Staff) — Herman Gerald Hill, 32, of Foxboro, has become one of the first Ontario residents released from custody while awaiting trial for noncapital murder.

Appearing before Mr. Justice Henderson in court here today, Hill was released on bail until the preliminary hearing, scheduled for Feb. 29 in Belleville.

Mr. Justice Henderson sternly warned members of the press against premature divulgence of details surrounding the release.

Hill was charged with the Jan. 30 shooting death of his wife, Betty Marie Hill, 30, at their home.

The Canadian Press reports a similar case in Elliot Lake, Ontario, near Sudbury.

Release of a prisoner charged with murder was made possible under the new Bail Reform Act, instituted Jan. 1, 1972.

Dublin Makes Arrests After Aldershot Blast

ALDERSHOT, England (CP) — Police pressed a vast hunt today for the men responsible for the IRA terror killing of an army chaplain and six civilians in a bomb blast that wrecked an officers' mess in this military centre.

As British authorities checked railway stations and airports, searched cars around Aldershot and questioned scores of Irishmen living in this country, leading members of the underground Irish Republican Army and its political branch were arrested in Dublin after their leftwing group had claimed responsibility for the Tuesday bombing.

Among those rounded up by Irish police shortly after midnight Tuesday night was Cathal Goulding, chief of staff of the "official" faction of the militant guerrilla organization.

General Secretary Tony Heffernan and two other members of the official Sin Fein also were taken in under the same special law which empowers authorities in the republic to detain any person for 48 hours without charge.

This use of the Offences Against the State Act by police staging sweeps on targets in Dublin and its suburbs set off predictions that Prime Minister Jack Lynch may be launching a major crackdown against IRA units which long have used Southern Ireland as a base for their terrorist operations in troubled Ulster.

In follow-up raids later today in Dublin, Irish police arrested three more men including 20-year-old Cathal Goulding Jr., son of the Marxist chief of staff.

The latest arrests came in a surprise raid on offices of Sin Fein. Some 25 Irish special branch security police said they found guns and ammunition on the premises.

Lynch, who shares the IRA's aim of uniting Ireland but is against the use of force to achieve it, denounced the Aldershot bombing as "cowardly and senseless."

The blast at the Aldershot headquarters of the 16th Parachute Brigade killed five walkresses, a gardener and Capt. Gerry Weston, 28, a Roman Catholic chaplain.

Euromart Poses Problem for Reds

MOSCOW (Reuter) — With the enlargement of the European Economic Community, the Kremlin faces a potential long-term problem it has never before had to consider.

Ever since Czar Peter the Great opened Russia's eyes to Western Europe more than 150 years ago, the Western part of the European continent has always been divided.

France, Germany and Britain have each been powerful for many of those years, but the three of them have never been united.

Now they appear set to become closer to each other than ever before, following the historic ceremony in Brussels last month in which Britain, Denmark, Ireland and Norway signed a treaty of accession to the EEC, climaxing long negotiations.

If and when the resulting, enlarged 10-nation Community moves toward the political unity ardently sought by some West Europeans, this could be a far more powerful check to Russia than any it has ever faced in Europe.

Britain is cast as the villain in the enlargement of the Common Market, final is branded by the Soviet press "the Trojan horse of the United States in Europe."

Reporters' Testimony Varies As to Who Started Firing

COLERAINE, Northern Ireland (CP) — Contradictory evidence on the outbreak of shooting, in which 13 civilians were killed in Londonderry Jan. 30, was heard Tuesday by a British government tribunal investigating the deaths.

Press and television reporters told Lord Widgery, chief justice of England, they saw from their various vantage points firing begin both from massed marchers and from Britain's parachute regiment.

The testimony came during an illegal march organized by the Northern Ireland Civil Rights Association. The association is boycotting the investigation.

On the second day of an inquiry expected to last several weeks, evidence was taken for five hours.

Kieran Donnelly, a photographer with the Irish Times of Dublin, testified that he was standing near a barricade when he saw a man shot.

"I was amazed," he said. "There was no apparent reason for opening fire."

Donnelly said that later he heard another shot and a man fell dead near the barricade.

Peter Beggin, BBC cameraman, said army squads appeared to be fired on from an eight-storey apartment building called Rossville Flats.

Jeff Morris, a photographer for The Daily Mail of London, said the first shots he heard were from a paratrooper.

Morris also said he was seized by two paratroopers and held for a time against a wall with a rifle butt against his neck. He was carrying three cameras round his neck. When he said "Press," a paratrooper kneed him in the groin.

David Capper, a BBC reporter, said the first shot he heard seemed to be from a revolver in a crowd of civilians.

Later, he said, two armored cars chased a crowd of 2,000. Soldiers leaped out and began shooting.

Gerald Seymour, a reporter with Britain's independent TV network, said he heard a paratroop officer tell his men not to return fire unless it was directed at a specified target.

David Phillips, a producer with the same TV crew, said he had heard a long burst of machine-gun fire, apparently from the Rossville Flats area, before he heard single shots of the type fired by the soldiers.

Madoc Family of Six Homeless After Fire

MADOC (Special)—A Madoc family of six, including three children, was forced out into 26-below temperatures early this morning when fire destroyed their two - storey frame home.

The house, at the corner of Rollins and St. Lawrence Streets, was completely destroyed, with only a chesterfield and a basket of seven young pups, being saved from the flames.

Only the fact that the parents had not yet gone to bed prevented what might have been a more serious tragedy.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Briggs were still up when about 4 a.m. they smelled smoke which they discovered coming from the walls of the bathroom.

They roused their three children — Garry, 14, Debbie, 13, and Timmy, 8, who were sleeping upstairs, and throwing overcoats over their pyjamas got them outdoors to safety.

Also living at the Briggs home was William McBeath, Mrs. Briggs' father.

The Madoc volunteer fire department doused the flames and thought they had the blaze extinguished, but it broke out again and firemen had to be recalled.

The house was completely gutted with the roof and rafters burned away.

Mr. Briggs had been working for Ontario Hydro but is currently unemployed.

The home was covered by insurance but the amount of the loss has not been estimated.

Province Will Reduce City's Roads Subsidy

The decision of the Ontario Government to reduce road subsidies to municipalities could conceivably cut the amount of road work done in Belleville this year unless the city agrees to paying a higher percentage of the costs on its own.

Premier William Davis referred to the planned subsidy cuts in a speech yesterday to the Ontario Good Roads Association in Toronto.

But, according to a Department of Transportation and Communications official, the cutback will only affect supplementary requests for grants put in by municipalities.

Today, City Engineer Wilbur Purcell said the province has now approved an amount of $293,000 in subsidy dollars for road work in Belleville this year.

"This means we can spend double that, or more," the city engineer said.

Subsidy approval received by the city is $93,600 for construction and $210,000 for road maintenance. The province pays 50 per cent subsidy on road costs.

Normally, in addition to the regular road bylaw, the municipality makes a supplementary request for approval for subsidy assistance on additional work.

This year, however, the province has indicated that no further subsidy approval will be given for road maintenance work.

"We have been told that the $210,000 subsidy for maintenance is final, but I feel we can expect additional subsidy for supplementary road construction costs," the engineer said.

However, if no further approval for construction subsidy is received, road grant money to be received by the city this year will be about 13.5 per cent below the 1971 approval.

In advising the city of the reduced subsidy, officials of the Department of Transportation and Communications suggested that the municipality go ahead with planned road work this year the same as in 1971.

If this was done and no further grant was approved, the provincial contribution to city roads this year would be 43 per cent instead of the normal 50 per cent.

Pair Faces More Charges

Further charges have been laid against a Montreal pair, arrested by Belleville OPP Sunday night, following a high-speed chase on Highway 401 from Toronto to Belleville.

When OPP arrested Jacques Blouin, 31, and Joseph Claude Allan, 21, shortly after 9 p.m. Sunday at the Quinte Mall, each was placed in a separate cruiser, for transport to the nearby provincial police headquarters.

While en route, Blouin pulled a concealed, palm-size .22 automatic and demanded his release from Constable Brian Skinner. The constable reached into the back seat and obtained possession of the gun, pinning the prisoner.

Blouin has been charged under the kidnap section of the criminal code with attempted forceable seizure. He also faces a charge of pointing a firearm.

Both men have been charged with possession of stolen motor vehicles.

When arrested, they were standing near a 1970 Jaguar, reported stolen from Toronto.

Trenton Reunion

Lieut.-Gen. Edwin Reyno, deputy chief of NORAD, last night renewed acquaintance with Bill House, Trenton Rotary Club's founding president. Gen. Reyno who lived in Trenton in the 40s, returned as guest speaker for an inter-service club banquet to mark the fiftieth anniversary of Rotary in the town.

Snowmobile Rider Dies of Injuries

TRENTON (Staff) — Seventeen - year - old Miss Norma Smith of Trenton, injured in a snowmobile-car crash Sunday, died yesterday afternoon at Trenton Memorial Hospital.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frances J. Smith, 67 John St., had been in the hospital's intensive care unit undergoing treatment for injuries since the time of the mishap on Telephone Road.

Miss Smith was passenger on a snowmobile driven by Donald Steenburg, 19, of 14 Weeks Ave., that was struck by a car as it crossed the Murray Township road. Driver of the car was Gary Boutilier of 213 Trenton.

Mr. Steenburg is in hospital here receiving treatment for the injuries received in the accident.

Newsmakers

Manager of Belleville's newest company is Dennis Coughtrey. He's in charge of Canada Lawrence Pool Co. of Kingston. Mr. Coughtrey says he'll have 20 employees — all from Belleville — working at the 220 University Ave. office when the summer swim season arrives.

George Sutherland, RR 1, Stirling, is the 1972 chairman of the Hastings County Milk Committee.

Other members of the committee executive are Percy Reid, vice-chairman and Joseph Thompson, secretary-treasurer.

The annual meeting of the committee held at Stirling saw the election of five committee members with two of the names, Ray Donasa of Stirling and Zachary Robinson, Eldorado, appearing for the first time.

Three-year members of the milk committee are Charles Trevorton, Rainfield; Lorne Hagerman, Stirling; Ray Donnan, Stirling; Donald Marting, Tweed, and Clifford Kenneth of Eldorado.

Two-year members are Percy Reid, Campbellford; Gordon Bailey, Stirling; Grenville Slee, Frankford; Joseph Thompson, Stirling and Ronald Graham, Shannonville.

One-year members are Dr. R. B. Murray, Stirling; George Sutherland, Stirling; Kenneth Thompson, Rednersville; George Wood, Madoc and Robert Barklitt, Frankford.

Roger Forchuk, a student at Guelph University, has been awarded the position of Y recreation director for the Hillcrest area.

All plans have not been completed, but it is expected within the next week to 10 days, programing will begin in the Hillcrest Public School through a mutual effort of the Hillcrest ratepayers, the public school and the YMCA.

Prisoners Still Loose

WARKWORTH (Staff) — Search continues today across Ontario for two inmates who failed to return from temporary absences granted them as part of their rehabilitation program at Warkworth Institute.

Missing are Robert Dale, 23, of Ottawa who had been serving a seven year and nine month sentence for armed robbery and being unlawfully at large and Keith Durward 20, of London, serving four years for armed robbery. Both were scheduled to be back at the institute by 7 p.m. Sunday.

Dale had his sentence extended about a year ago for failing to return from an earlier temporary absence.

Provincial police have been alerted to be on watch for the truant prisoners.

Canada Has 3 Options In NORAD

TRENTON (Staff) — Lieut.-Gen. Edwin Reyno, deputy Defence Command, speaking here last night, outlined three options for a possible revised Canadian participation in NORAD.

They were: —participation in an airborne warning and control system with the United States.

— acquisition of one of two varieties of new interceptor now being developed by American.

— participation in the Safeguard phase of the U.S. antiballistic missile program.

He said these are not the only options. Moreover, he said the NORAD commitment may remain unchanged when it comes up for renewal in 1973.

He told the audience the Trenton's annual inter-service club dinner that the airborne warning and control system will utilize an eight-engined version of the Boeing 707 to house radar and other warning system stations.

This plane, he said, will be operational in 1977.

Referring to the interceptor possibility, he said it may be possible to have some of the contracting for production of these done in Canada.

The planes, he said, are an all-weather F-14, and the new F-15, "one of which is expected to go into full production."

Canada's number one man in NORAD also gave arguments for becoming part of the first phase of Safeguard (which goes into operation in 1975) are that it would give Canada access to technological data, give economic benefits to Canadians and give us a chance to influence future U.S. military thought.

However, Gen. Reyno said there are counter-arguments that participation would affect our position at Strategic Arms Limitation Talks.

Canada's present five-year NORAD agreement with the United States expires next year. It has no effect on termination of the 10-year agreement signed in 1957 at the organization's inception.

Last night's gathering was held to commemorate the fiftieth anniversary of the Trenton Rotary Club. William House of Trenton, the club's first president in 1922 was one of the head table guests.

Museum's Guitar Unique Antique

By BRIAN AMARON
Staff Reporter

It's only three feet tall, the wood is cracking and five strings have lost their tuning, but the little Spanish guitar discovered in the Hastings County Museum's collection of non-exhibit room is proving to be a most noteworthy object. The instrument, made in Malaga, Spain, during the 1700s is the only one of its kind left in the world.

Another, similar guitar, dating back to the same century, can also be found at the 240 Church Street museum although several examples by the same manufacturer still exist. Perhaps more exciting is the hand-made, coffin-like wooden case in which this better preserved specimen has been kept for the past 200 years.

The rare piece, identified by Carol van Feggelen, a teacher of classical guitar at the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto, has undergone attempts at restoration. Unfortunately, repairs have been somewhat haphazard and the guitar appears to be coming apart at the joints. But its unique craftsmanship — frets are carved into the wood and the tuning pegs have mother-of-pearl inserts — make it a treasure despite its battered appearance.

Mr. van Feggelen, after resurrecting both guitars during a visit here last fall, returned in January to authenticate his findings.

Now he has offered to completely restore the guitars in return for their use during the fall and winter semesters at RCM. He will give demonstrations to his students, the instruments eventually back to the museum for display each summer.

In addition to heading the department of classical guitar at RMC, Mr. van Feggelen is a noted composer and interpretor of traditional guitar music. His hobby is restoring old guitars and he is particularly enthused by the discovery here.

"They'll never sound the way they did originally but they should come back to a fairly good state," he said. He has advised museum officials that restoration should begin soon or the guitars will be beyond repair.

Part of the Cooldery collection donated to the city almost 18 years ago, the guitars would be relatively worthless if not for their rarity. Both are a rich, brown color, probably polished rosewood or walnut.

Inside each guitar is a label bearing the name of the manufacturer, although a magnifying glass is required to make out the inscription on the Malaga specimen. With some effort, the name Fernando Del Almo can be seen, together with an ornate, printed design featuring an undraped semilla.

The other guitar bears the inscription: Por Jose Benedid, Calle de Sn Augustin No. 85, Cadiz. Translated, it provided the musician with an address to which he could send his tune of woe or satisfaction.

The case is equally interesting. Painted flat black, it is angular in design with the various wooden pieces precisely cut to fit together neatly and inconspicuously. Inside is a navy felt lining and pockets for storing strings and picks.

A reconstruction will be made shortly to Mayor J. Russell Scott, custodian of the guitars, to turn them over to Mr. van Feggelen for restoration.

Monty Closson, 21, of Rossmore, wants to be an airplane pilot, but until his dreams come true, he'll have to be content with building and flying radio-controlled model aircraft. The replica of the J-3 Cub he's holding here, flies out of sight and returns at his command. When he's not engaged as an attendant at a Belleville gas bar, Monty spends as much time with his hobby as possible. His present plans include entry of his working model into the annual Rotary Science Fair to be held in the armories in the spring.

Speaking Finals This Weekend

At Sir John A. Macdonald Public School in Belleville this weekend, finalists from seven counties, Frontenac, Hastings, Leeds and Grenville, Lennox and Addington, Northumberland and Durham, Peterborough and Prince Edward, will compete in the Zone Finals of an Oral Communications Festival.

The secondary school finals will be held Friday, Feb. 25 at 1:30 p.m. and the elementary finals Saturday, Feb. 26 at 1:30.

The champion in each of three sections of these festivals (elementary prepared, secondary prepared and secondary impromptu) will qualify to enter the Ontario Finals in Toronto on March 20. Each of the participants has won at local elimination festivals and county finals.

Hastings County will be represented by: Miss Kerri Thompson of Park Dale School in the elementary prepared, Leona Caurneyea of Nicholson Catholic College in the secondary prepared, and Sandra LaChapelle of Centennial Secondary School in the secondary impromptu.

The public is invited to attend these festivals, which are co-sponsored by the Ontario Public School Trustees' Association and Ontario Hydro.

Decorated Bottles Animal Helpers

The girls at Harry J. Clarke school in Belleville have come up with a useful and profitable idea for empty jars.

Two of the girls, Darcye Cuff of 11 Forest Hill Crescent and Faye Wills of 7 Southwood Crescent, got the idea of decorating various size jars with jewellery, shells, etc. The jars proved ornamental and useful as pencil holders, flower vases, etc.

The girls then got the idea of selling them as a project to raise money to donate to the welfare of animals. Their friends soon joined in and began canvassing shops for donations of suitable supplies.

When Avon Jewellery Ltd. donated a large box of jewellery, they were all set. They raided their kitchen cupboards and were on their way.

The jars were sold privately at a price range from 75 cents to $4.75. A total of $50 from this project was donated to the Quinte Branch of the Ontario Humane Society Feb. 19.

Shirley Yanover, proprietor of The Door in the Wall on the Foxboro Arcade is promoting these useful ornamenta and has a variety of them on sale.

Trenton CGE Workers Favor Strike Action

TRENTON (Staff) — Members of the United Electrical Workers local at the Canadian General Electric plant here voted 85 per cent in favor of going on strike.

Production halted at the Trenton electric motor factory Monday at noon with a legal walkout by the 196 workers.

A union statement says the main issue is wage parity with Peterborough CGE employees. According to the statement, females receive 67 cents an hour less here than in Peterborough for similar work; males 41 cents an hour less.

At the West St. plant, minimum hourly wage for women is $2.26.3, for men $2.62.

Company officials have declined comment.

Canadian General Electric and employee representatives have been in a period of collective bargaining since December. Expiry of the company's contract with the union local came last Friday.

Social Discipline

A letter on this page takes issue with the idea of Ontario Education Minister Thomas Wells that students might be better able to enforce discipline in the schools than the teachers.

We do not suggest that teachers should abdicate their responsibility here, but is it such a bad idea that students be given more role in this regard? After all, it is the rule in public (private) schools in Britain. For a start there is greater discipline in such establishments than there is in the average high school in Canada, and part of this is due to the discipline exercised by prefects who are themselves students.

We seem to recall also that during a teachers' strike in Sweden students kept things going. We have the example here at home too of high school students helping primary students with some aspects of their work — reading for instance.

As for motorcycle gangs, such groups or types are relatively few in number. If any of them attend school we have yet to see them. Many are dropouts and, incidentally, of psychopathic bent. Such men, boys, can indeed be dangerous, but as we say they are not generally to be found in groups at school where they could menace a class or other students.

It is more discipline that is needed in schools. If students can be enlisted to help enforce it so much the better. It should be a co-operative effort by teachers and students. Best of all there is a need of self-disciplne by each and every student.

Olive Branch

Montreal Gazette cartoonist John Collins expresses a thought of many of us when he depicts President Nixon sitting down to tea with Chairman Mao and he is saying, "I thought you were an imaginary figure — like Howard Hughes."

Chairman Mao incidentally, is not shown in the cartoon — only Mr. Nixon and on the centre of the table is a tea pot and on the wall behind him a scroll labelled "Pacific Olive Branch." The fact Mao's presence is taken for granted heightens the legendary status of the man.

There was the time of course a few years ago when rumors circulated that Mao was ill, even dead. Pictures released by the Chinese showed a man purporting to be Mao taking part in the famous Yangtze swim, but no one was certain of their authenticity.

Now it can be sure. The President and Mao talked for an hour the other day. The caption of another cartoon, by Wicks, sums up the meeting best perhaps. Nixon and Mao are standing side by side, and they are singing the familiar lines, "the real thing . . . what the world hopes to see . . ."

Opening Night

Belleville theatre guild director Ted Bairstow and his fellow thespians have given us a lesson in how to accept judgment gracefully. A guild comedy production failed to win a berth at this year's Eastern Ontario Drama Festival in Lindsay and Mr. Bairstow had this to say: "The last thing I want to do is offer excuses. We have a good play but it wasn't what the adjudicator was looking for."

A criticism made by the adjudicator was, "it is a very light comedy designed to make people laugh and I think you people are taking it too seriously.

"At that stage of the game," admitted Mr. Bairstow, "we were taking it seriously."

Tonight, however we will see the play. It is The Rainmaker which opens tonight. Director Bairstow says he thinks the production is in good shape, and is as good or better than anything done so far. Good luck to Mr. Bairstow and his performers.

Public Speaking

It has been public speaking time again — by the young participants in the contest sponsored by the Royal Canadian Legion. This kind of competition is of inestimable value to the youngsters, for there is such a welter of sloppy speech abroad that it affords plenty of room for improvement. Abominations such as "C'm 'ere" and, "Where are you goin'" are all too common in everyday speech. The public speaking contests are a buffer against such debasement tendencies of latter-day communication between individuals, as well as a means of cultivating an assurance of manner among the young contestants.

Americans Vote in November
The Mysteries of the U.S. Electoral System

(Editor's Note: The United States holds a Presidential election this year. To many Canadians, the U.S. election system is a mystery. To help readers understand the events over the next few months, a two-part series of articles has been written by our Ottawa correspondent.)

By FARMER TISSINGTON
Ottawa Bureau of
The Intelligencer

OTTAWA (Special) — Voters in the United States go to the polls on Tuesday, November 7 this year to elect a President. Between now and then a great deal of political activity will be taking place in our neighborist country — much of it confusing to Canadians.

The U.S. Presidential election system has a few similarities to our own method of choosing a prime minister every four or five years, but there are far more differences than there are similarities.

One of the most obvious is the fact that U.S. voters know to the exact day when they will go to the polls to elect their President. Their constitution calls for the vote on the Tuesday after the first Monday in November every four years. While there have been suggestions that Canada adopt a similarly rigid time - table, Canadians still indulge in the pleasant guess about the date of our general elections.

The pattern of the U.S. Presidential election system is well established. It begins a couple of years before polling day, when candidates for nomination for the two major parties start to be seen and heard. As the day of decision draws nearer, these candidates start campaigning in an effort to capture the support of delegates to the national party conventions.

Some states hold preference primary votes which the candidates may or may not contest, depending on how they think they will fare. The delegates to the conventions are chosen either at these primaries, at state or district conventions, or by state committees, or by a combination of these methods. The delegates then go to the parties' national conventions in the summer to select their Presidential and Vice Presidential candidates.

Finally, comes election day. Unlike Canada, the winner does not take over the office almost immediately. There are still three other steps which extend well into January of the following year.

On Monday following the second Wednesday in December, a state "college" meets in each state capital — called the Electoral College — and votes for the President and Vice President. Then, in early January, there is the formal election of the President and Vice President when the President of the Senate, in the presence of members of both Houses of Congress, counts the votes sent in by registered mail from each state. Finally, in the third week of January, the elected President and Vice President are inaugurated and formally take over the administration.

The Presidential primaries confuse many Canadians. These votes express either presidential preference and/or elect delegates to the convention. These delegates may be pledged to one candidate, or they may be free to vote as they wish.

Some general regarded the party conventions as a combination of a three-ring circus and a revival meeting and felt this was not the right way to select a candidate for President. In an effort toward greater democracy, the presidential primaries were established in some states after 1900.

The general purpose was to allow voters to elect delegates to the convention and to indicate which Presidential candidate they preferred. It was a popular method for a time but the movement is now on the decline. President Harry Truman called them "eyewash" and many agreed. Only 15 states — less than one-third of the states — have primaries and the rule governing them are not uniform. In some states, voters may cast ballots only for candidates of their own party. In others they may vote for either party.

Perhaps the most important reason they are losing favor is ineffective is that they don't always influence the national convention. Estes Kefauver entered 15 of the 16 primaries held that year and won all but three of them. Yet, at the national convention, he dropped out of the race after the first two ballots. On the other hand, President Kennedy entered most of the primaries in 1960 and his string of unbroken victories gave him a lot of strength at the convention.

One consideration is whether a candidate should enter a primary and directly challenge a favorite son candidate in his own state. Often it is decided to ask for second preference support at the national convention after the favorite son has been eliminated. This avoids ill feeling among delegates.

Before Americans can vote in a Presidential election, they must register. This is roughly equivalent to the enumeration of voters in Canada and is designed, among other things, to prevent people voting more than once. People must appear before municipal or election officials; show that they meet the legal requirements as to voter and have their names placed on the voting list. In some states, these lists are permanent, while in others, voters are required to re-register at intervals.

The big fight in the past number of years about registration has had to do with voting by Negroes and in the past many devices have been used, particularly in southern states, to prevent registration, and thus voting, by Negroes.

Women have had it easier. The vote was extended to them in 1920.

Parents Against Students Disciplining Themselves

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

We write in reference to the Canadian Press item in last Saturday's Intelligencer, wherein a remark was attributed to the Hon. Thomas Wells, Minister of Education. According to the article, Mr. Wells told a professional teacher that students should handle rebellious classmates, and "They will be a lot tougher with those who get out of line than you might be".

I hope Mr. Wells was joking when he said surely students who disrupt high schools should be dealt with by their fellow students. If not, perhaps he was misquoted? Whatever, I'm sure that when the rest of the policymakers in the "Big Blue Machine" are made aware of this little gem, a correction will be forthcoming.

However, better safe than sorry. And just in case Mr. Wells was serious about his suggestion that adults should give up their disciplinary authority and revert to the law of the jungle, we urge all who read this letter to write to your Member of the Legislative Assembly, Queen's Park, forcefully and strongly protest such irresponsible statements from the minister and chief spokesman of the largest branch of provincial government.

We in the Quinte region are indeed fortunate to have top-flight representation at Queen's Park, in the person of Dr. R. T. Potter. I know he will ensure that your letters are effectively used for the purpose for which they are intended.

There was an excellent recent example of self-rule, when a meeting of parents sang out in judgement on and executed three members who were alleged to have violated the club's code of "fair play" or conduct. In fact, Mr. Wells' philosophy has almost unlimited possibilities. Perhaps, after the children are put in charge of the schools, we could take the next logical step and abolish the judiciary. The strongest argument we could dispense "justice" in accordance with the wishes of the people.

Our teachers are not zookeepers, nor our children animals. Teachers are well paid and trained to cope with the problem child (who frequently is a problem because he is brighter than most, and tends to ask questions that the teacher is either too imbecile or too dumb to answer).

The Prime Minister of Canada is rebellious, wears his hair long and uses a four-letter word offensive to many ears in the House of Commons. But by his fellows asked to discipline him? Is he even forced to make a public apology? Nope. The Just Society instead says, "Let's make a book out of the Great Man's statement". So they print a facsimile on T-shirts, pennants, buttons and blue jeans and sell them at the corner store.

No, Mr. Wells, you cannot eliminate the problem by eliminating the person. And that's precisely what would happen if the law of the jungle were allowed to prevail at school. There were problem children 'a hundred years ago' when we went to school, too. But the teacher and/or the parents accepted the responsibility that was rightfully theirs. Today, the driving discipline (sometimes where it hurt the most). Not since the Dark Ages was the survival of the fittest even considered by thinking people.

School teachers' salaries have seen a great increase in the past 60 years, according to Superintendent Silas Sills in an address to Thurlow Township who with her husband is observing their diamond (60th) wedding anniversary today. A former public school teacher in Thurlow, Mrs. Sills, a spry little lady of 80, recalls that for her first year of teaching she received the sum of $150. "And I had to board and find other expenses out of that."

The German Army made an experimental retreat between Arras and Soissons 25 years ago today—in 1917 during the First World War.

It was a test for the general withdrawal to the Hindenburg Line, carried out in March. The invaders voluntarily gave up more Frenchheld than had been regained by the Allies in all the bloody battles, and retired to a chain of concrete bunkers. Except for the Dieppe capture of Vimy Ridge, all the Allied attacks of 1917 were disastrous and brought the French army to mutiny.

Canada's Farmers Report
Their Marijuana Crops

Watertown Times

If a character analyst decided to enumerate some of the finer qualities of the Canadian farmer, honesty probably would rank right up near the top.

Not only are more and more Canadian farmers growing marijuana as a cash crop, they are telling government officials all about it.

But they are on safe ground in revealing such information. Because, in this instance, the authorities with whom they are dealing are government census takers — bound by law not to reveal any details, especially to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, who are in charge of drug control.

Like all farmers, our Canadian neighbors raise certain cash crops to provide extra income. They might include cotton oats, corn or hay — even the production of goat-milk and honey.

However, this illegal marijuana is providing its growers with the highest yield per acre of any crop in Canada. Not only that, but the demand is full, ed ahead of such pharmaceutical crops as foxglove, which is used to make digitalis, and an acre of marijuana brings in sev, eral times more profit.

Maybe the Canadian government will decide to add pot to the list of crops for subsidies. Or, possibly they would give farmers for NOT growing marijuana — like the U.S. pays for NOT growing wheat or raising hogs.

Meanwhile, the Canadian government is real busy protecting its own marijuana farm in Ontario which is under the target of repeated raids and pilfering.

Prevention Requires Emphasis

Peterborough Examiner

Every time Cupid occurs, people try to learn from it and decide whether it could have been avoided or not and whether the lives lost could have been saved.

Such is the case with the fire that broke out in a Peterborough home recently taking the lives of five people and injuring others.

Tragedy involving our neighbors or friends always seems to be more tragic than the misfortune of others who live far away. Yet, we must not forget that during that same weekend 19 people lost their lives in various fires across the province.

Which fire can be prevented and which fire cannot be prevented is impossible to say. But most experts maintain that a fire can largely be prevented.

Fires or conditions in which fires can break out are created by people and therefore it's people who have to be warned of carelessness.

Being careful is especially important in cold weather when we provide a better environment for fires than do newer houses.

So once again, most fires can be prevented.

We have an excellent fire department in Peterborough which is always ready to give help or advice in fire prevention.

Ask the experts. Maybe your house can be inspected so that there will be less chance for a fire to start. Many people are so busy with their daily lives in their homes that they no longer recognize them as fire hazards.

When they do, it's usually too late.

Cost Of Beating Pollution

Ottawa Journal

Pollution drives people to live in the suburbs to avoid smog and congestion. Then more pollution is added by their commuting. Children in large industrial cities in Japan are being bussed to the country to get away from dark skies and toxic air. The lack of trees, plants and flowers in industrial cities has driven out many species of birds and insects.

Pollution has even changed some attitudes towards weather. In polluted cities fair weather is no longer considered good. In fair weather is still and smoggy, City dwellers prefer windy days that swirl the smog away.

But the trend can be reversed in Britain has proved it when it passed the Clean Air Act in 1953. Since the controls were imposed London has found itself enjoying 15 per cent more sunshine in December, once an almost totally smoggy month. Close to 10 per cent more sun. The act has changed the dreary Midlands; Sheffield, once Britain's dirtiest city, is now one of the cleanest. No comes to mind when considering the immensity of the task. A world-wide survey estimated at least 1,000 deaths were caused by pollution in the past 10 years, and uncounted thousands of other deaths brought on more quickly by it. Pollution can be beaten, if we'll only try hard enough and are willing to pay the cost. If life is to remain worth living we have no choice.

Women's Advisory Committee Opens Sessions In Belleville

Don't panic over scare headlines about food additives, pesticides, chemicals and harmful foods. Belleville women were advised today.

"Find out what is behind the scare headlines; ask about unfamiliar foods," advised Miss M. Frances Hucks, supervisor of food and nutrition with the home economics branch of the Ontario department of agriculture.

Miss Hucks was one of the speakers at a meeting sponsored by the Women's Advisory Committee to the Ontario department of trade and commerce. The all-day session, that saw the top floor banquet room of the Legion Hall almost filled to capacity with local women, also included talks on credit buying and money management.

"No country in the world is better looked after in the safety of what we eat," said Miss Hucks in reference to the federal government's regulatory powers under the food and drug act.

But she admitted homemakers are confused by the rapid and accelerating changes in food marketing and the products available.

Changes she cited included the increased number of convenience foods, the replacement of family meals by midmorning and afternoon snacks and the enrichments of standard food products such as bread and pastas.

Because family food habits are changing, and the three square meals day are being replaced with snacks and carried lunches, more enrichment will be incorporated into foods such as doughnuts and chocolate bars in the future.

There will be more emphasis on nutrition and on safety, Miss Hucks said. Food safety, she said, relates to continued investigation on additives, pesticides and harmful chemicals now being detected in some foods by refined analytical techniques.

"We owe it to ourselves to have a sound basic knowledge of food so we won't panic at the headlines," she told her listeners.

But, although homemakers are now more conscious than ever before of the money they spend on food, the proportion of the total family budget spent on food has decreased over the last 25 years. Twenty - five years ago, 25 cents of every $1 of family income went for food; today the amount is 17 cents.

"Food prices have not gone down; family income has gone up," said Miss Hucks.

The family of the future, whose food preferences are already under study by supermarket planners, will be younger, richer, smaller and busier than ever before, and many of the young homemakers will never roast a chicken, bake a pie or shake up a bowl of applesauce, Miss Hucks said.

A conference for local women sponsored by the Women's Advisory Committee of the Ontario department of trade and development was held today at the Legion Hall, with speakers discussing food credit and money management. Chairman was Mrs. Vera Morphy (standing) a member of the Ontario council. Sharing the stage with her were, from left to right, Mrs. Shirley Giles, assistant manager of the main branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia in Toronto, Mrs. Lilah Lymburner, chairman of the Women's Advisory Committee and V. J. Slonaz, from the department of financial and commercial affairs.

Emphasis on Recreation In Waterway Transfer

TRENTON (Staff) — The Trent-Rideau Waterway System was officially transferred yesterday to the department of Indian affairs and northern developments from the federal department of transport. The announcement was made by Indian affairs and northern development minister Jean Chretian in the House of Commons.

He said the transfer of the canal systems was determined because of recreation considerations.

A statement from Northumberland-Durham MP Russell Honey says the waterways will be administered by the national parks branch of the department and that the Trent-Rideau will eventually be designated a national park.

"The emphasis on the waterway will now shift from transportation to recreation and conservation," he stated, adding that he and Peterborough MP Hugh Faulkner "had made representations in favor of this decision for several years."

Meanwhile, the Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority is being shifted from one department to another as part of the current revamping of Ontario government.

The land management branch of a new department of natural resources will assume responsibility for the authority from the present department of environment.

Officials say one benefit of this will be that conservation authorities will be part of the same department as lands and forests administration and that this will give authorities greater access to the expertise of lands and forests specialists.

Trent Waterway To Become Park ?

TRENTON (Staff) — "The Trent-Rideau will be a national park — I know that is the intention," Northumberland-Durham MP Russell Honey said today.

He explained that yesterday's announcement that the twin river system would become the responsibility of the national parks branch of the department of Indian affairs and northern development will mean immediate effort to make the Trent-Rideau a national park.

The MP said that the national parks branch will be doing planning studies on the river systems in the next few months, while they set boundaries for a national park region.

He estimated that the Trent-Rideau will be a national park "within six months to a year."

Flu Kills Three

SANDY LAKE, Ont. (CP) — An inquest starts Thursday into the death of one of three persons during an influenza epidemic that swept this remote northwestern Ontario Indian community earlier this winter.

Coroner Irene Hunt, the inquest, to be conducted by Dr. W. G. Robinson of Dryden, Ont., to the adequacy of federal government health services available to the 1,100 residents of the six-week epidemic, which hit the Deer Lake area 300 miles northwest of Thunder Bay in mid-December.

The deaths claim it took the health and welfare department three weeks to get a doctor into Sandy Lake, despite two formal requests from the nine-copper band council. By the time the first doctor arrived, three Indians had died, more than 1,000 had the flu and 28 were in serious enough condition to be taken to hospital.

The only medical services available at that time on the reserve, accessible only by air, were three nurses at a community nursing station.

The inquest will look specifically at the death of 20-year-old Edna Linklater, who died in late December while being flown from North Spirit Lake, a satellite Indian community 40 miles southeast of here, to hospital at Red Lake, 140 miles south of here.

The inquest was ordered in January by Dr. H. B. Cotnam, Ontario supervising coroner after the Union of Ontario Indians demanded action from him and former attorney-general Allen Lawrence.

Crown Attorney Ted Burton of Kenora said he expects 10 or 12 witnesses will be called during the inquest, expected to last two days. The jury will be composed of four Cree Indians and one white, said Mr. Burton. The evidence will be translated into Cree and English.

Plastic Ship

The minesweeper HMS Wilton, believed to be the largest plastic ship yet built, moves down the slipway from the Vosper Thornycroft yard in southern England. The ship cost $5 million and 100,000 square yards of glass fibre cloth were used in construction. The decks, bridge, deckhouse and mast are also entirely plastic. (CP Photo)

Rescued Woman, Beaten by Police

TORONTO (CP) — A London, Ont. man says he tried to help a fallen woman at an anti-Soviet demonstration here Oct. 25 but was dragged behind police lines and beaten unconscious by four Metropolitan Toronto policemen.

Ihor Horich, arrested at the Ontario Science Centre demonstration to protest Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin's presence at a Canadian Manufacturers' Association dinner, told an inquiry into alleged police brutality he attempted to help a woman who had fallen as mounted policemen entered the demonstration.

Mr. Horich, whose causing a disturbance charge was dropped in provincial court Monday, told Judge Andrew Thomson Tuesday he was hit in the stomach and blacked out.

When he woke up, he said, his jacket, raincoat and a $30 wrist watch were missing, later, his glasses were returned at the police station where he was taken.

Mr. Horich said he ducked behind a sign on an apartment building lawn because a mounted policeman rode towards him with his riding crop raised, as he stopped to aid the woman. He said he was seized by two foot policemen behind the sign and dragged behind police lines.

Earlier, Patrol Sgt. John Spridgeon testified that a member of the mounted unit had to flail at the hands of demonstrators with his riding crop or he would have been pulled to the ground along with his horse.

Sgt. Spridgeon said the incident was an example of the "great deal of abuse, both physical and verbal" the policemen suffered at the hands of demonstrators outside the Ontario Science Centre where Premier Kosygin was speaking.

He said he radioed for the mounted unit to be sent in after demonstrators broke up police lines for a second time. He said the unit appeared almost at once because the order apparently already had been given.

Woman Betrayed Landing at Dieppe

TORONTO (CP) — The 3,000 Canadians killed in the Second World War raid at Dieppe died because of information given to the Germans by a woman agent married to a high-ranking British embassy official, says a writer who spent five years researching German espionage material.

Ladislas Farago, author of Patton, a biography of United States General George Patton, said he first stumbled on the woman's role in the 1942 Dieppe raid when he found a notation in her German intelligence file dated August, 1944.

Mr. Farago, who has just published a new book, The Game of the Foxes, a story of German espionage in the Second World War, said in an interview he has given the woman's name to the British authorities, and that she is living in Lisbon.

Mr. Farago said the woman was the daughter of a Dutch art expert who lived in Frankfurt and used to buy and sell paintings for German Luftwaffe chief Hermann Goering.

The writer said German archives contains a message from the woman warning that allied forces planned a breakthrough between the French towns of St. Lo and Avranches—an accurate forecast of the thrust there led by General Patton.

He said German intelligence chose to ignore the warning despite a note from the German secret service case officer handling the communication which said:

"This information must be regarded as absolutely reliable since it comes from the same agent who tipped us off about the Dieppe raid."

Mr. Farago said he checked back "and found a signal in her file at the end of July 1942 warning that a big raid was to be expected between 'Dieppe and the nearby coastal town of Fecamp.'"

Mr. Farago said there was little effective Nazi intelligence on Canadian soil during the war, because of a successfully planted double agent, code named Bobbie.

He said the agent was sent to Canada in 1940 by the Germans to become resident director of espionage activities but because British intelligence already had broken German spy codes, he was picked up on arrival.

"He was forced to become a double agent and invented a fictitious network of 20 agents across Canada, feeding back information, including enough genuine material to make him believable."

Telegrams Nearing Extinction

TORONTO (CP) — The telegram, once considered a vital means of communications, is becoming a victim of ease and ease in technology.

If the number of telegrams continues the decline at the same rate it has for the last 10 years, a messenger should deliver the last one early in 1981.

But Canadian National-Canadian Pacific Telecommunications, which merged their operations four years ago, says they do not plan to let the service die.

Dermot Daly, director of development for Canadian National, says there is "nothing we can do about falling business" except budget for it and concentrate on a hard core of loyal users by "trying to make that service economical."

The two companies expect the decline in traffic, now about six per cent a year, to slow to about three per cent during the next 10 years.

The telephone, and more recently telex, are two major factors responsible for the decline in telegrams.

There now are about 22,000 telex subscribers in Canada and the number is expected to increase to 40,000 by 1980.

The bulk of telegram business is made up of small businesses too small to subscribe to telex and individuals who want to cable money.

Student Knifed

TORONTO (CP) — Roger Leger, 22, a University of Toronto student, was in critical condition in hospital after being stabbed near the heart with a butcher knife Tuesday.

Police said Mr. Leger was attacked by a man high on speed who was visiting his apartment.

Michael Rule, another visitor, overpowered the attacker, and locked him in a room and called police.

Bodies Found

MONT GABRIEL, Que. (CP) — Quebec Provincial Police are investigating the deaths of a well-known Montreal comedienne-actress and a doctor whose bodies were found in a hotel room here.

The bodies of Marie-Claire Nolin, 28, and Dr. Hyman Schipper, 28, both of Montreal, were discovered early Monday morning. Police said they appeared to have died Sunday.

Autopsies were performed on both bodies but the exact cause of the deaths was not immediately made public.

Mont Gabriel is 30 miles north of Montreal.

Barracks Fires Will Be Probed

MONTREAL (CP) — A military board of inquiry has been set up to investigate two major fires at the Canadian Forces Base in St. Johns, Que., 22 miles southeast of here.

"We definitely haven't ruled out the possibility of arson in either fire," Capt. Georges Gingras said Tuesday.

The second fire in a week at the base destroyed a barracks block Tuesday. More than 400 technical students sleeping in the wood-frame structure were safely evacuated.

Damages have been estimated at between $300,000 and $400,000, Capt. Gingras said. Last week a fire in an adjacent barracks caused more than $10,000 damage.

Arab Hijackers Free Passengers, Hold Crew

ADEN (CP) — Arab guerrillas and their 16 airline crew hostages stayed cocooned inside a bomb-primed Lufthansa jumbo jet today—more than 36 hours after the plane was hijacked over Italy.

All fears mounted for the safety of the crew—nine of them stewardesses—the 112 passengers, including the teen-age son of the late senator Robert Kennedy, were either near their home or waiting for a rescue plane to arrive from West Germany.

Fifty women, children and an elderly man, released by the five hijackers Tuesday, arrived in Beirut, Lebanon, early today aboard a Yemeni DC-8 and later left for Athens, Greece, on their way home.

They and the male passengers walked to freedom after Yemeni Premier Ali Nasser spent nine hours at the Aden airport, at the southern end of the Arabian peninsula, bargaining with the guerrillas.

There was confusion over the motives for the hijack. Al spokesman for the Yemeni mission announced in New York that the guerrillas were demanding release of five Arab guerrillas jailed in West Germany.

But a West German justice ministry source said in Bonn there are no Arab political prisoners in Germein jails.

Three of the women passengers who arrived in Beirut said the hijackers told them the plane was seized because West Germany "gives arms and money to the enemy of the Arabs-Israel."

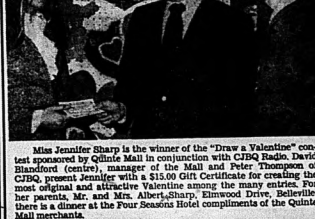
Diplomats in Beirut said they had reports they were demanding the release of four Palestinian Arabs on trial in Cairo for the assassination of Premier Wasfi Teli of Jordan.

Joseph Kennedy III, eldest son of the U.S. senator assassinated by Palestine immigrant Sirhan B. Sirhan in 1968, said in the airport lounge after his release: "I do not think the plane was hijacked because of me. I am not certain I was going to be aboard."

He boarded the plane in New Delhi to fly home after a tour of India and Bangladesh with his uncle, Senator Edward Kennedy.

One of the women passengers said the hijackers seemed surprised when they discovered the Kennedy name among the passengers.

Joseph Kennedy's confirmation of earlier reports that the commandos had planted explosives aboard the Boeing 747 raised fears for the safety of the crew—all believed to be West Germans except for two Japanese stewardesses.



For 18 hours Kennedy and 117 other male passengers were held aboard the jumbo jet parked on a runway at sweltering Aden airport.

In Washington, Ethel Kennedy, said she was "relieved and heartened" at the news of her son's release but added: "I'll feel better when I see him right here. I will be happiest when he gets home."

Thank God" said his aunt, Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, in New York.

Sweet Endeavor

Company 9 Guides Mary Wells, Clarice Vandervelde and Amy Vastra proudly display a trefoil anniversary cake which the company had made and decorated for the annual Guide and Brownie tea held Tuesday at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall. The cake will be served to members of Company 9 at the special Thinking Day ceremony.

Rev. A. L. Sutherland receives a cup of tea from Division Commissioner of Guides Mrs. Betty Colden, while Mrs. Doris Bannon District Commissioner attends to pouring duties for the large number of patrons who attended the annual Guide and Brownie tea held Tuesday afternoon at the Legion Hall. Rev. Sutherland was on hand to officially open the event.

Guide, Brownie Events Held at Legion Hall

Rev. A. L. Sutherland of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, opened the Belleville Division annual Guide Tea Tuesday afternoon with a stimulating talk emphasizing the value of Guiding to the community.

Guests were received at the door by Mrs. T. R. Colden, the Divisional Commissioner. Assisting here were the six District Commissioners: Mrs. Ada Schreider, Belleville Northwest; Mrs. Ada Sizenburg, Belleville Central West; Mrs. Marguerite Donahoe, Belleville West; Mrs. Beth Mason, Belleville Northeast; Mrs. Doris Chartrand, Belleville South and Mrs. Bunny McLean, Belleville East.

Pouring tea were: Mrs. R. Jeffrey, Mrs. J. Chicke, Mrs. C. D. Ashley, Mrs. A. Bannon, Mrs. M. Haig, Mrs. R. D Arnott, Mrs. C. Semark and Mrs. J. Kuntze with Mrs. E. Robertson as convener for the event.

The head table was decorated with the traditional Girl Guide dolls dressed in Guide uniforms by Guides as a 'Gold Cord' project. The Guides from the 9th Company St. Columba made a large cake in Guide symbol with yellow and blue icing.

Bordering the tea room were displays representing the handicraft of Guide Companies and Brownie Packs from the Quinte area depicting a variety of colorful showpieces.

Individual tea tables had the traditional blue Guide table cloths with petite Guide and Brownie figurine centrepieces created by the Para-Dale Brownies last year and updated with a 60th anniversary miniature banner made by the Corbyville Guide Company.

The talent of these girls varied from a crocheted vest to carved soap, miniature puppet show, or arranging a colored kernel corn roaster or a whiskered coconut kitten mosaic. The home baking table provided abundant varieties of goodies for those with a sweet tooth.

Various short plays and campfire songs performed by the Belleville area Guides and Brownies rounded the day's activities on Tuesday evening at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall.

Ticket sales totalled over 1,000. The proceeds will go towards the uniforms, camping grounds and any other need for all the Belleville area divisions.

Several short plays were put on; one in particular was set around a disc jockey at Crystal Palace, England. Interviewing people on the street enacted by the Guides in the East Company 9.

Members in the audience were asked to sing along with the girls throughout the entertainment.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONNELL

Is honor enough to prevent cheating?

IT could be, except that the principle of integrity is rarely drilled into anyone any more. At least it doesn't seem to be according to one old bus passenger who is shocked whenever he rides with high school or college students after they have taken an important examination. He is startled to hear how casually many of them admit they cheated. They boast of cheating as though they would lose esteem if they did not cheat.

Must a wife have her own way?

YES; and so must a husband, if the couple can expect to have a happy marriage. Giving in to each other is one way to express their love; yet if a husband and wife are each to have their own way, they must want the same thing. That is why it is so important for a man and woman to determine that they are right for each other before they marry; then there is more assurance that they will both have their own way most of their time together.

Are all parents proud of their kids?

MOST of them are, and justly so, since there is little harm in mothers and fathers being proud of their children. Nevertheless, there will be times when a father will have mixed feelings if a son or daughter doesn't make the most of exceptional intelligence. A girl, say, may seem to use her ability for her own personal gratification in petty matters rather than apply it to enlarge her outlook and interests in order to live a fuller life.

Peanut Butter Great Ingredient

By ALICE DENHOFF

Although we are apt to think of the peanut as a typically North American food, its origin actually lie deep in the Andes of South America. This tasty legume was known in the Americas Colonies before 1750, but centuries earlier it was grown and enjoyed by the Incas of Peru and it is from these people that its beginnings that some of today's most delicious new gourmet recipes derive.

Well, it's a long, long way from the Andes to Georgia and Alabama where much of our fine domestic peanut crop is grown, so with that thought in mind we combine North and South America with recipes that are very different from the usual peanut dishes.

BRAZILIAN PORK WITH PEANUT SAUCE

3 pounds lean rib roast of pork
1 onion, chopped
4 tomatoes, peeled and chopped
1 quart stock or water
¼ cup peanut butter
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Roast pork in slow oven (325F.) about 1½ hours or until well browned. Remove meat from pan. Place pan on top of range, add onion and saute a few minutes. Remove all fat from pan. Add remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Add pork roast; simmer, covered, 20 to 30 minutes or until pork is done.

Place meat on serving platter and keep hot. Place sauce in electric blender and blend until smooth, or quickly blend sauce until smooth with beater or whisk. Reheat sauce if necessary. Spoon over roast.

To round out this delicious pork dinner, serve with small roasted potatoes and a crisp green salad.

Serves four.

Another interesting Brazilian recipe is:

BRAZILIAN CHICKEN WITH PEANUT SAUCE

1 frying chicken, cut up
½ cup flour
Salt
Pepper
½ cup shortening
2 tablespoons minced onion
3 cups chicken stock or water
½ cup sherry, if desired
1 small piece cinnamon stick
1 teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
Dash garlic powder
½ cup peanut butter
2 tablespoons cornstarch

Dust chicken in flour seasoned with salt and pepper. Fry chicken slowly in hot shortening in a 10-inch skillet 20 to 25 minutes, or until pieces are well browned. Add onion; saute two to three minutes. Pour off all fat feft frying pan. Add chicken stock or water, sherry if used, cinnamon stick, sugar, salt and garlic powder to chicken. Simmer 10 minutes or until chicken is cooked. Remove chicken and keep hot. Add peanut butter to gravy, blending in well. Stir cornstarch to a smooth paste with two tablespoons water; gradually stir into gravy. Cook, stirring constantly, until gravy thickens and boils one minute. Serve hot over chicken with hot fluffy rice.

Serves four.

Now, let's move west from Brazil to Peru and do a dish that derives from there:

PERUVIAN VEAL IN PEANUT SAUCE

2 pounds boneless veal shoulder or breast cut in 1-inch cubes
½ cup flour
Salt
Pepper
½ cup shortening
1 onion, chopped
1 garlic clove, chopped
2 cups stock or water
2 cups (1 pound can) solid-pack tomatoes
½ cup peanut butter
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
6 carrots, pared and quartered
1 package frozen peas or 1 pound can peas, drained
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Dust veal in flour seasoned with salt and pepper. Brown slowly in hot shortening in a large Dutch oven. Add onion and garlic. Saute two to three minutes. Pour off all fat from pot. Add stock, tomatoes and peanut butter. Simmer, covered, one hour, or until meat is tender. Add remaining ingredients; simmer, covered, 15 to 20 minutes longer, or until carrots are tender.

For thicker gravy, blend 1½ tablespoons cornstarch to smooth paste with two tablespoons water; stir into liquid and cook, stirring constantly, until gravy thickens and boils one minute.

This recipe serves six with a dish that, like the preceding recipes, finds peanut butter in a unique combination from a peanut butter and jelly sandwich.

PEANUT BUTTER replaces ground peanuts in authentic South American chicken, veal, and roast pork dishes.

Ann Landers

Masquerade Should Be Ended

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 24, have a good job, enjoy good health and am a happy homosexual. I'm what is known as a closet queen, which one would guess I go both ways. My parents are all the time finding lovely girls for me to take out. I pretend to be grateful for their match and beginning to think it's not worth the trouble.

The problem is this: When I take out the same girl more than once, my boyfriend gets very upset because he's afraid I am going straight. If you think this letter too weird to print let me tell you it's a common problem in the gay world and a word of advice from you would be a big help. Please make it suggest that I seek psychiatric help. I do not consider homosexuality an illness, in fact, I am a lot healthier emotionally than many of my heterosexual friends. Thank you.—Gay Blade

Dear Blade: In light of your apparent adjustment why not put an end to the masquerade? People are becoming more understanding and I say it's about time society stopped viewing all homosexuals as loathsome freaks. Another reason I suggest you put an end to the duplicity is because it's unfair to use girls as a cover. You'd be surprised if you knew how many naive women fall in love with homosexuals and are heartbroken when they learn the truth.

Dear Ann Landers: If I am evil-minded, crazy or both please tell me. My wife says I am out of my mind. If you say I am, I will get some counseling.

Our daughter is nearly 11. Carol and her Uncle Jim have become inseparable this last year. He is my wife's brother, a handsome bachelor in his 30s.

When Carol was a small child she showed a special fondness for her uncle and it has grown through the years. He takes her to the movies, biking, ball games, and has always been a willing and available baby sitter.

A few weeks ago he asked if he could take Carol for a weekend to a city several hundred miles away to see a circus. I said no, my wife said yes—so they went.

Now I'm beginning to wonder about this closeness. It doesn't seem natural for an attractive bachelor to have no lady friends. At the same time, a 10-year-old girl is only a child. I have a couple of nieces and I can't imagine myself in any role other than an uncle. I need some outside views. Will you give me your views on this?—D.B.H.

Dear D.: I think Uncle Jim needs psychiatric help and your daughter will be needing it before long unless something is done. There is no point in telling you now that you and your wife should not have permitted such togetherness, but I make this point for the benefit of other readers who learn from this column.

I suggest that you start now to unwind the relationship gradually by engaging a sitter, and replacing Uncle Jim in some of the activities which he has preempted. You must make no accusations or you will meet with bitter resentment and angry denials. But get going.

Successful Living

Too Understanding?

Dear Doris: My husband has recently taken a friendly interest in a "girl of the streets" whom he met in a restaurant. He helped her by lending her some money and after that she kept phoning him. At the present time she is in jail on a theft charge.

Doris, is it possible to be too understanding? My husband always did compliment me on my soft heart but there is a limit. He is greatly infatuated by this girl and couldn't stand the thought of never seeing her again, but says it would be simply as a friend.

He wants to send her a birthday gift while he is in prison. He says he feels sorry for her because of her orphan background and loneliness. He wants me to put my name on it with his. — Horns of a Dilemma.

Dear Horns: If you and your husband have had a good relationship to now, I'd say go along with the purchasing of this one gift. Signing your name with his would be subtly declaring that you are a pair and plan to stay that way.

You might undertake to steer her to the help she needs but don't let that include a continuing friendship with your husband. He can get over her.

• • •

Dear Doris: While your column is primarily for women readers, I think you will agree that male readers should be drawn into the articles more frequently if living is to be successful. — A Male Who Is Enjoying You.

Dear Male: Couldn't agree more. We surely need participation from both men and women when it comes to human relations.

Women are more prone to put words on paper and to seek the help that is there for them than men are.

A great pity! Yet in our culture we seem to encourage the idea that a man must be able to handle anything — just anything — that happens to him. Many men scorn to seek help.

There was a day when that event applied to seeking medical help. Comments like your and columns like mine are written for everybody — and though fewer men than women write to me, I do have reports of good readership among the males.

Dear Doris: Is it the proper thing for the bride's mother to bake the wedding cake? — Getting Excited.

Dear Getting: No reason why you shouldn't, and something to be proud of if you do. Sometimes an enthusiastic mother will do the actual baking and a kind of the fruit cake, and then get a professional bakery to apply the fancy icing.

If you are too busy with other things — and this might well be the case — you could get your favorite bakery to do the whole thing.

Art Exhibit A Success

TWEED — The many district friends of Mary Schneider, the well-known Canadian artist who operates a summer art school at nearby Actinolite, (near Tweed), will be interested to know that she is holding a highly successful showing of prints, drawings and watercolors at the Ottawa Art Gallery at the present time. The exhibition will be in Peterborough, April 1 to 26, and at the Haliburton Guild of Fine Arts, May 8 to 20.

This is the first public exhibition in Canada for Mrs. Schneider. A number of the watercolors are scenes from around the Actinolite area not include the Actinolite chutney, the red rocks, Storring's bridge and the marsh.

Mrs. Schneider has a number of oil paintings hung in art galleries in Canada, Europe, and has exhibited in art shows in Europe, Canada and the United States since she first took part in the art-present time. The exhibition will be in Peterborough, April 1 to 26, and at the Haliburton Guild of Fine Arts, May 8 to 20.

This is the first public exhibition in Canada for Mrs. Schneider. A number of the paintings on exhibition at the Pollock Gallery, in Toronto.

The gallery exhibition at Cobourg was officially opened by His Worship, Mayor William Dennison of the City of Toronto.

SPOOKY TEETH

LONDON (CP) — The British General Dental Practitioners' Association reported that a startled housewife was awakened by music in her bedroom. Her dentist solved the mystery — the gold and amalgam in her fillings plus the acid in her saliva had set up a radio receiving system.

Celebrates 105th Birthday

SWIFT CURRENT, Sask. (CP) — Esther Bateman celebrates her 105th birthday today. Mrs. Bateman, a resident of the Swift Current nursing home, said in an interview Thursday she has lived a long life because she has been happy and healthy. She was 103 when she was admitted to a hospital for the first time.

Mrs. Bateman came to the Swift Current area in 1915. Eight of her 11 children are still living and she has 37 grandchildren and 29 great-great grandchildren.

Hellyer and Broadbent Belabor Liberal Policy

OTTAWA (CP) — Former Liberal cabinet minister Paul Hellyer and New Democrat Ed Broadbent pulled out all the verbal stops Tuesday in a Commons tussle to see who could most strongly denounce government economic policies.

Mr. Broadbent (Oshawa-Whitby) jumped into the lead when he called Prime Minister Trudeau "incompetent, callous, bumbling, glib and smug," possessing a distinguished mind that had gone to mush.

Mr. Hellyer (Toronto Trinity) stormed from behind with a less personal attack.

He said the government performance would rate a grade of F-minus in the academic world.

Mr. Broadbent said a little later that Canada's economy is the worst-managed in the western world, and government encouragement of unemployment when it was known young people would need work was "either gross stupidity or subversion."

They were speaking on the fifth day of the eight-day throne speech debate which follows the government setting out of its plans and policies at the beginning of each parliamentary session.

The debate continues today.

Both Mr. Broadbent and Mr. Hellyer condemned the government campaign to halt inflation at the expense of employment, but on different terms.

Mr. Broadbent said a little inflation is not necessarily a bad thing.

Pensioners could be protected from it through cost-of-living escalator clauses in all pension plans. And unorganized workers could get organized.

The people the government was really trying to protect from inflation, he said, are investors "who want to be able to clip their coupons at the same dollar value at which they invested." He called on the government to drop its attack on inflation and push for a full-employment economy.

Mr. Hellyer said both low inflation and low unemployment rates are important, and could be achieved if the government would limit wage increases for big unions and price increases for big business to the annual increase in the cost of living.

But the absolute unemployment rate was at 7.7 per cent in January and the annual inflation rate was back to 4.9 per cent.

Mr. Broadbent accused Mr. Trudeau of a "playful and malleading use of statistics."

The prime minister had said that the number of new jobs created in Canada in the final quarter of 1971 had exceeded those created in Germany, the Netherlands, Sweden, Belgium, France and Italy.

But he had failed to note the new unemployment rates in those countries, and the fact that there are 1.3 unemployed persons for every one job available in them, compared with 11 unemployed persons for every available job in Canada.

Bride of Prisoner No Sensation-seeker

OTTAWA (CP) — Carmen Parent and Yves Geoffroy lived together for nine months before he was imprisoned for life Oct. 13, 1970, for strangling his wife.

Geoffroy, a 28-year-old notary, later pleaded in a letter from prison for permission to marry Miss Parent and regularize an embarrassing situation.

The letter last June 28 touched off a series of decisions that led to the marriage last Dec. 24.

Neither has been seen since.

Solicitor-General Jean-Pierre Goyer Tuesday night tabled in the Commons the June 28 letter from Geoffroy; an Aug. 19 report by Montreal social worker Micheline Cornellier, recommending the marriage, and a

Nov. 2 letter from Rev. L. A. Nickels, chief chaplain for federal prisons, authorizing it.

A Montreal social agency was asked by the penitentiaries service to investigate the prospects for the marriage and Miss Cornellier was assigned to make a report.

Her report strongly recommended the marriage. She admitted that it might appear bizarre that a 27-year-old physics teacher would want to marry a man recently sentenced to life in prison but this wasn't necessarily abnormal.

"Miss Parent seems certain of her feelings for Mr. Geoffroy and is not at all the adventurous type" simply out to cause a sensation, she said.

Bulldog Lady

Mrs. Flossie White, nicknamed the Bulldog Lady, shows off two Alcan strain bulldogs at Edmonton. She gets most of the credit for breeding the strain, the Canadian counterpart in the canine world to the British bulldog. Alcans have wide shoulders, deep chests, pear-shaped bodies, big heads, strong legs and narrow hindquarters. (CP Photo)

Imports from Taiwan Second to Japan's

OTTAWA (CP) — Taiwan, whose old nationalist government of China is no longer officially recognized by Canada, emerged last year as Canada's second most important supplier of imports from Asia.

Year-end import figures released Tuesday by Statistics Canada show Taiwan supplied $80.7 million worth of goods, narrowly edging out Hong Kong's $80.2 million for second place. Japan remains Canada's major source of Asian goods, shipping $531.8 million in goods here last year.

Imports from mainland China totalled $19 million in 1970 and grew last year to $23.3 million, but this was still short of the $27.4 million Canada bought before officially recognizing Peking.

Marmora Personals

MARMORA — Two front windows of Pud's General Store in Malone were blown out by force of the wind about 3 a.m. Sunday morning, giving some indication how strong the winds were Saturday night and Sunday.

A birthday party in honor of Mrs. Blanche Eggleton who celebrated her 87th birthday on Sunday was held at the Deloro Nursing Home. Mrs. Eggleton received many cards by mail and several phone calls wishing her happy birthday in addition to the best wishes extended by the patients and staff at the home and several friends who called to see her.

Mrs. Don Robertson and grandson Tim Black visited Miss Janice Black in Ottawa on the weekend.

Queensboro

QUEENSBORO — Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Declair and baby of Kingston were weekend visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Declair.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lynn and children of Cobourg spent the weekend with Mrs. W. J. Lynn.

Mrs. Frederick Feeney of Peterborough and Miss Joanne Feeney of Belleville spent the weekend with Mrs. Frank Barry.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Rollins and Gloria of Latchford were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson.

Questions And Answers

By The Ontario Motor League

QUESTION: We are planning our first trip to Florida's east coast and would like a brief description of the main resort areas so we'll know which ones to visit.

ANSWER: Daytona Beach is the first large resort you'll arrive at on the east coast of Florida. The beach is 23 miles long, 500 feet wide and made up of gleaming white sand. And every inch of it is public and free. There are 475 motels along the beach, many with efficiency units, where you can cook your own meals. Also, there are very good shopping plazas nearby. Temperatures are generally between 65 and 70 at this time of year in comparison to 75 to 80 degrees farther south at Miami and Fort Lauderdale. Therefore, it is more inexpensive here in the winter because of the cooler weather compared to the other large resort areas farther south. The motel rates are liable to double at Daytona Beach during Speed Weeks in the first part of February, culminating in the running of the famous Daytona 500, this year on February 20. The fact that Disney World is just 75 miles away by Interstate 4 has made Daytona Beach popular this year.

Fort Lauderdale is 175 miles south of Daytona and the temperature of air and ocean should be much warmer. This also has a beautiful six-mile stretch of beach and more miles of canals than Venice. You can find very expensive and also reasonable motels and hotels at this popular spot. Boating is a way of life here. Some 15,000 people own boats and 10,000 more boats visit each year, using the Intercoastal Water way from the north. You can take a Jungle Queen boat tour for $3.50 to look at these beautiful yachts as well as having a look at the canals. Fort Lauderdale has the second most active night life, next to Miami Beach, among the east coast resorts, and it is only 25 miles north of Miami Beach, making the attractions there readily available.

Miami Beach is still the king of Florida resorts, a narrow strip of sand jutting out into the ocean, with Biscayne Bay on one side and the Atlantic Ocean on the other. There is an awesome array of glittering high-rise hotels and condominiums towering over the beaches. This is a 24-hour resort where many wealthy holidayers vacation and isn't suitable in the winter for anyone on a budget. It attracts 3½-million tourists annually, and is definitely no place to excellent shopping, horse racing by day and dog racing by night, and by far the largest array of sight-seeing spots in Florida. Nearby is the Seaquarium, Monkey Jungle, the 70th - Century Vizcaya Mansion, formerly the James Deering estate, which is open to the public from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., the Parrot Jungle, Fairchild Gardens with helicopter rides, and Crandon Park on Key Biscayne, a 1,000-acre lot of tropical splendor with a 2½-mile public beach, ideal for ocean swimming, a 22-acre zoo and good picnic facilities. Hotels on the ocean range from $50 a day and more in the winter, but you can get less expensive accommodation a short walk from the beach.

The least expensive time to visit Fort Lauderdale and Miami is after the first of April, when rates are cut drastically.

A drive along State Highway AIA, the scenic highway along the coast of Florida, will give you a look at all the beaches.

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT — The Bible study group of Bayside convened at the home of Mrs. Jack Stan of Trenton on Wednesday with a good attendance of members. Mr. Lyle Webb spoke to the ladies on work he is doing with the young people of Trenton. Mrs. Muriel Dillabaugh entertained with a solo, accompanied by Mrs. Stan at the organ.

Mrs. Jean Miller attended the Commissioners' meeting at the home of Mrs. E. Trueman of Roseland Acres, Trenton, when she received her warrant as Commissioner for Bayside Brownies and Guides, presented by Mrs. Trueman.

Mrs. Terry O'Connor Oakville spent a few days with her parents Dr. and Mrs. Clifford Millar. Miss Carolyn O'Connor who spent several weeks with her grandparents returned home with her mother, Mrs. O'Connor.

Service was held at Westminster United Church on Sunday despite the heavy snowfall on Friday and Saturday but with a smaller attendance. Miss Linda Johnston was organist throughout the service.

MRS. J. WILLMER, 20 Ilkley Crescent, Ottawa 12.

Mrs. Willmer who shops for a family of six, including four sons, says: "I shop Loblaws every week mainly because of the fresh produce and the meat—the latter is very good here. I've tried other stores and I read the ads but the meat and produce always bring me back to Loblaws. I find that on the whole things are fresher here than in other stores". About prices, Mrs. Willmer says: "I find Loblaws prices comparable with the others but on the meat and produce particularly, I find Loblaws quality is much better. Also I like the service at the meat counter. I can have roasts and things specially cut to suit the size of my family. And I do like being able to buy really good vegetables. I hate to buy produce that is limp when I get it—here at Loblaws the produce is always fresh".

Double Trouble

Dave Jones and Lorne O'Donnell gave Woodstock Royals' goalie Ron Boomer plenty, but not enough to worry about Tuesday as Belleville's Senior A Quintes lost their bid for a playoff berth in a 5-4 sudden-death game in Oakville. The Royals won the game in the second overtime period.

Lose 5-4 In Double Overtime

Quintes Come to Abrupt End

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

OAKVILLE — Belleville Quintes' senior hockey season came to an abrupt end Tuesday night but they're not going to "wait 'til next year" to improve their lot.

Immediately after the Quintes dropped a 5-4 double-overtime decision to Woodstock Royals in a sudden-death game to decide the OHA Senior A league's sixth and final playoff berth, there were indications the days of waiting until September to put a Belleville senior hockey team together were over.

"We hope to meet next Monday and meet at least every other week," commented Dr. Harold Williamson, spokesman for the Belleville Quintes Sports Foundation, the non-profit group that assumed management of the team when it lost its sponsor in December.

"Our objective during the summer is to try and ensure that before the season starts we have enough capital to cover team expenses. We want to operate on a share-the-wealth basis, but we want to be able to give the players something to share."

Lionel Bolty agreed with a suggestion that new players are desperately needed to pump life into Belleville's ailing senior franchise.

"Our goal for new players is to get them right now — as soon as they're done their leagues or jobs. We've got a line on three or four players right now but we can't mention any names at this stage.

The veteran senior leaguer said he planned on forming a committee of "about 10" former hockey players to help in the recruiting drive.

"We've done a lot of work to finish out this year. We were working when it didn't even look like we had a chance to make the playoffs."

Until late in the third period of Tuesday's marathon Ice Oakville game, it appeared the Quintes had that chance well within their grasp.

Gene McLaren and Wayne Weller gave the Royals a 2-0 lead before the game was seven minutes old, but Al Ferguson's first of three goals at 16.41 seemed to turn the tide in Belleville's favor.

The Quintes controlled the play while Ferguson's second goal at 13.34 of the second period on a perfect two-on-one setup from Lorne O'Donnell put them on an even 2-2 footing, and Dave Jones put them ahead early in the third when he batted in a Ferguson rebound.

With the game and sixth place apparently sewn up, the Quintes were stunned when Jim Marts' harmless shot ricocheted in off Steve Rexe's stick with less than four minutes remaining in regulation time.

"How can you blame Steve?" asked coach Wayne Weiner" Brown. "He's kept us in there so many times."

One of those times came in the first overtime period, when the redhead robbed Jones with a sliding save that sent the Woodstock wing to the bench shaking his head.

But at 9.22 of the 10-minute session, Jones didn't miss and the Royals had a 4-3 lead and the game in their grasp.

Partisan cheers from Royal supporters were still echoing when Dave Jones got a crucial draw in the Woodstock zone with Steve Rexe pulled for an extra - Belleville attacker.

The draw went right onto Ferguson's stick, and into the Woodstock net to tie the game 4-4 with only 12 seconds left in the overtime period.

The Quintes' season came to an end at 6.22 of an ensuing 20-minute sudden-death period when Don Jones deflected a pass past Peter Rexe.

Greg (Marchen) had him taken out," described the disappointed Belleville goalie. He just shot it between his legs. I never, even saw it. That's the kind of goal that usually wins in overtime."

Woodstock drew five of the game's eight minor penalties, none of which figured in the scoring, and were outshot 47-36 by the Quintes.

A sparse crowd, which included some 50 Belleville supporters who made the trip on two Boomer Club buses, failed to yield a gate sufficient to pay the usual $100 rent each team for expenses.

The Quintes' last bus bill of the season was $128.

Spectator Suing Colts

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A spectator who scooped up a ball during a National Football League game said was felled by linebacker Mike Curtis said Tuesday he wants $250,000 damages.

A nationwide television audience saw Donald Emrik, 30, of Rochester, raced onto the field Dec. 12 during the Miami - Buffalo-Baltimore Colts game and grab the ball before being blocked by Curtis, who plays for the Colts.

Emrik claimed he suffered pinched nerves and a bruised spine and hip and as a result had been relieved of his job.

His lawyer, James Kemp of Rochester, said notice of the $250,000 suit was being served on the Colts and Curtis but a club spokesman declined to say whether the papers had been received.

CAROL VADNAIS

Bruins Deal Trio For Vadnais

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Bruins announced today they traded defenceman Rick Smith, right winger Reg Lezech and a minor league player to California Golden Seals for defenceman Carol Vadnais and another player.

Milt Schmidt, general manager of the Bruins, announced the National Hockey League trade, which also involves defenceman Bob Stewart of Boston's Oklahoma City club in the Central League, and centre Don O'Donoghue of Oakland's Baltimore affiliate in the American Hockey League.

The Bruins said Vadnais will play for Boston against the Golden Seals at Oakland tonight.

They said that Smith, Leach and possibly Stewart will be with the Golden Seals tonight.

Bobcats Stand On Threshold

An 8.45 Memorial Arena game with Oshawa Crushmen tonight could be the doorway to their playoff success.

Going into tonight's fourth game of their best-of-seven series with Oshawa, the Bobcats enjoy a 2-1 edge, and a win on home ice would give the third-place Eastern Ontario Junior B League Leaders a win away from upsetting their Memorial City rivals.

Meanwhile, in the other first-round league series, pennant-winning Peterborough Lions continued to make a shambles of fourth-place Kingston Frontenacs, downing them 6-4 in the Limestone City to take a 3-0 lead in the series.

The Lions won the first two games by 7-4 and 8-1 scores. Fourth game in the series is in Peterborough tonight.

All-Stars Draw Blank

Two city all-star minor hockey teams drew a blank in OMHA playoff action Tuesday, one literally and the other figuratively.

Blake Street Imperial midgets were held scoreless as Alex evened the best-of-five second-round series 1-1 with a 4-0 win.

Meanwhile, Belleville's Kinsmen Bantams dropped a 7-1 loss to Lindsay in the opening game of a best-of-three quarter-final series. Second game will be played Friday night at 8:15 in the Memorial Arena. John Murphy scored three goals in a losing Belleville cause, with Rick Growden adding a single.

In an exhibition game, the Wilson Concrete Tyke all-stars downed in three third-period goals to earn a 4-4 tie with Moe's Milk Novices. Bodeo, Townsend, Mitchell, and Taylor scored for the Tykes, while Hanlon scored twice and Benfield and Noble each for the novices.

Ski Report

Oak Hills skiing facilities will be open from 1-4:30 and 6:30-10 Thursday.

Conditions reported GOOD.

Chuvalo Claims Fatal Fight Went Too Long

WINNIPEG (CP) — Light-heavyweight boxer Steward Gray, knocked out by Canadian champion Al Sparks Monday in a bid for the title, died Tuesday night in hospital.

The Ryerson native of Windsor, N.S., fighting out of Toronto, had been conscious only briefly after the Monday night fight and underwent two hours of surgery Tuesday to relieve pressure from a severe concussion.

His death at 10:15 p.m. CST came almost 24 hours after he was knocked out in the seventh round by a left thrown by Sparks, a ring veteran.

A spokesman for Winnipeg General Hospital said the exact cause of death would not be known until after an autopsy was performed.

Gray had won 13 fights, lost 11 and had two draws prior to Monday night.

George Chuvalo, Canadian heavyweight champion and a close friend of Gray's, called the death "tragic . . . such a waste."

"I just can't understand it. He was a well-conditioned fighter . . . it meant so much to him."

Sparks, who spent several hours at Grey's bedside Tuesday, was not available, but Ken Dunang, his former manager and long-time friend said: "We were always afraid, God forbid, that this could happen.

"Words actually describe how we feel."

Dunang, the only man in Sparks's corner Monday night, said "I'm afraid this is going to affect him very much."

The Manitoba boxing and wrestling commission opened a hearing into the incident earlier in the day and is continuing its investigation today.

Norm Coston of the commission said Ivy Ungerman, Grey's manager who returned to Toronto a few hours before the boxer died, is expected to appear before the commission. He said if Ungerman does not appear today, a subpoena will be issued.

Winnipeg police also have launched an investigation.

Grey had been declared physically fit by both the Manitoba and Ontario boxing commissions before the fight.

While Gray was in critical condition in hospital, there was some doubt in the minds of those connected with him whether the fight should have been stopped before the fatal seventh round.

Chuvalo said the fight should have been stopped.

"I know it is easier looking at it through hindsight, but Steve came out in the seventh like he was drunk."

Ungerman said he knew his boxer was in trouble after the fifth round when Sparks' stinging right to the head buckled Grey's knees.

"He seemed confused," Ungerman said "when the bell went for the seventh he left slowly, and then he just posed. I knew there was in trouble."

The only punch thrown in the seventh round was the left by Sparks that ended it, officially, at 24 seconds.

Gray, brother of Canadian welterweight champion Clyde Gray, is survived by his wife Carmella and two young children.

His death caused Chuvalo to postpone his scheduled March 13 bout against former world heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali in Vancouver. Chuvalo said, however, that "hopefully" a new date can be arranged.

"But I'm in no shape to fight right now for a little while. I couldn't . . . let alone train for it."

"It's a tough business" Chuvalo said, but Gray's death "doesn't alter my thinking on boxing. I've seen fighters killed in the ring before.

Sports on All Fronts

TORONTO (CP) — Standardbred trainer-driver Bill Wellwood's appeal of a $300 fine and a 30-day suspension was upheld Tuesday by the Ontario Racing Commission.

The suspension was imposed Feb. 7 after judges at Greenwood Raceway made a positive finding in a urine sample taken from trotter Eli Dares following a race Jan. 28.

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Green Bay Packers traded backer Donny Anderson to St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday for power runner MacArthur Lane. Dan Devine, Green Bay coach and general manager, had no comment on losing Anderson, who was signed for a reported $600,000 out of Texas Tech in 1966.

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions of the Western Football Conference today announced the signings of import defensive end Mark (Butch) Bresina from the University of Houston and Canadian flanker-back Peter Parker, who played with Otterbein College of the Ohio Conference.

Parker, 24, is 5-10 and 180 pounds, a native of Oakville, Ont., he played high school ball in Ontario before going to Otterbein in 1967. He holds the school's career and season records for most passes caught and most yardage gained.

Originally the property of Toronto Argonauts, he signed with the Argos last season but suffered a knee injury and later became a free agent.

Fifth Loss in Extra End

At Least Newfies Interesting!

PRINCE ALBERT (CP) — Lew Budden of Newfoundland, who has an unenviable, unblemished record of five straight losses at the Canadian seniors curling championship, changed his strategy Tuesday and provided spectators with the most interesting match of the day.

Alberta and Quebec are tied for the lead with 6-1 records of 5-1 followed by British Columbia, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia at 4-2.

Budden lost again Tuesday, going down 10-7 to Don Bauld of Halifax, but he managed to tie it in the 10th and force an extra end.

None of Budden's foursome ever have competed in a national or international event. They began curling about nine years ago by teaching themselves the game from an instruction booklet put out by a bank.

So far in the tournament they had been soundly beaten with scores of 18-3, 11-5, 16-2 and 13-1. but Budden said Tuesday he changed his strategy after they got a bye in the morning game and watching others play.

Previously, if he got a rock to the house, he tried to guard it but in the afternoon game he decided to try to draw to the other side of the ice.

Budden, from Buchans, Nfld., scored on the first and third ends with his new style and was ahead 4-1 after three ends. Bauld, a 25-year curling veteran from Halifax, counted two on each of the fourth and seventh and was ahead 7-6 after nine.

Newfoundland tied it in the 10th and Budden managed to draw to the eight-foot in the 11th for shot rock, but Bauld was dead on to hit and stay for a three-count with the final rock.

Although the interesting action was the battle between the low men, the giants of the tournament continued to win.

Stan Ottenson of Alberta and Ken Weldon of Quebec tied with 5-1 records although Alberta has yet to meet some of the stronger western rinks while Weldon is scheduled to face teams with poorer records in the round-robin play.

In the sixth-round draw, Ottenson of Calgary defeated Ken Mcnaughton of Vernon, representing Northern Ontario, 9-4. Weldon downed the Manitoba rink led by Don Brownridge of Winnipeg 10-7.

Neither Ottenson nor Weldon had any difficult moments.

In other games Tuesday, Bob Ogle of Moncton, led his New Brunswick rink to a 6-5 victory over Gene Squires of Saskatoon. Ogle counted on the final end when Squires was light with his attempted draw rock.

Gordon Walker of Victoria led his British Columbia rink to a 9-4 victory over Stew Brown of Guelph, Ont., scoring three in each of the third, eighth and ninth ends.

Prince Edward Island had the bye.

In this afternoon's draw at 2 p.m., EST, Quebec meets Newfoundland, Ontario takes on Saskatchewan; Northern Ontario is against British Columbia. Alberta plays Prince Edward Island, Manitoba meets New Brunswick and Nova Scotia has a bye.

Strongest Field on Tee

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The magic names of Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino head the strongest field this year as the PGA circuit pro golf's richest event, Jackie Gleason's $200,000 Inverary Classic.

The event is new on the pro tournaments," Trevino said of the huge purse.

The big money lured almost all of the game's great names with only Billy Casper, George Archer and Al Geiberger among the missing.

Other international stars include England's Tony Jacklin, former U.S. and British open champion, Australians Bruce Devlin and Bruce Crampton, Bob Charles of New Zealand and Canadian George Knudson of Toronto.

But Palmer, Nicklaus and Trevino—all of whom skipped the tour last week—are the big guns. All three topped the $200,000 figure in money winnings last season with Nicklaus setting a record of $244,000. Nicklaus also won the National Pro-am earlier this season.

Rookie Making Money

NEW YORK (AP) — Rookie Lanny Wadkins, with a second straight second-place finish, has rocketed into the top ten in professional golf's money winning list, still paced by Grier Jones.

The former U.S. amateur champion, who lost to Homero Blancas in a sudden death playoff last weekend in Phoenix, has season earnings of $36,189.

This puts him in the No. 6 position in the PGA dollar standings, a notch ahead of Jack Nicklaus, the defending champion, who is seventh with $33,793.

Jones, who picked up only $261 in the Phoenix Open, he'd No. 1 place with $53,36. He is followed by George Archer, $31,190, and Bob Murphy, $46,946.

Fourth is Bob Rosburg with $41,579 and fifth is Miller Barber with $37,200.

Rounding out the top 10 be hind Nicklaus are Paul Harney, $33,793, John Miller, $30,467, and Homero Blancas, $29,322.

Parent First Shot

DETROIT (AP) — The first shot has been fired in the so far undeclared war between the World Hockey Association and National Hockey League, and it was a direct hit in Toronto.

Bernie Parent, the young Maple Leaf goalie, acknowledged Tuesday he would jump to the fledgling WHA next season for a guaranteed $750,000 contract that will be paid even if his new team, Miami Screaming Eagles, or even the whole league never gets off the ground.

"Anyone would be stupid if he'd get an offer like this and turn it down," said Parent, who sat out Toronto's 5-4 loss against Detroit Red Wings Tuesday night.

"At my present salary, it would take me 10-15 years to make the kind of money I'm going to make with Miami. Even if this new league doesn't get started, I'm going to get my money and that's all I care about."

Parent said he would finish the current season with the Maple Leafs "if they want me." He said he had not heard from anyone in the Toronto organization but had heard some of the comments they made.

"Harold Ballard president of the Leafs said that if I'm going to make this much money in the WHA, he wasn't going to interfere."

Parent was drafted by Calgary of the WHA but was not interested in playing there. Rights were transferred to Miami and the deal was worked out by his lawyer, Howard Casper, of Philadelphia. The contract with the Screaming Eagles covers five years.

"By the time the five years are up," said Casper, "he'll be a millionaire, or close to it.

Parent is the first player to jump from the established NHL to the new league. Steve Arnold, personnel director for the WHA, indicated that more would follow but said he hoped there would be no more announcements until the season is over.

Habs Blow Three-goal Lead, But Leafs Were Even Worse!

By IAN MacLAREN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, Montreal and Vancouver, the three Canadian teams in the National Hockey League, learned Tuesday night one game goes 60 minutes. The result: Three losses.

But, while the two established clubs, Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens, were blowing solid leads, the expansionist Canucks held their own with the rough and rugged Boston Bruins before losing 4-3.

Detroit Red Wings came from four goals down to nip Toronto 5-4 and New York Rangers ripped six third-period goals past Ken Dryden en route to a 7-3 win over Montreal.

The normally listless Toronto club forged a 4-0 lead, supported by the aggressiveness of newcomer Pierre Jarry and Paul Henderson's two goals.

Jarry tangled with Detroit's rugged Bill Gilbert at 19:25 of the first period. Both players took minors and fighting majors.

A second-period donnybrook involving Toronto's Norm Ullman and Jim Harrison, Detroit goaltender Al Smith and teammate Larry Johnston apparently took the starch out of the Leafs.

The Wings responded with five straight goals, Mickey Libett's second of the game and 22nd of the season at 10:53 of the third period the winner.

Centre Henry Boucha, signed by Moodjy, the Wings and playing his first professional game after helping the United States Olympic team to a second-place silver medal at the Olympic Games earlier in the month, scored Detroit's first goal.

The Rangers were behind 3-0 by the mid-way point of the first period at Montreal. Canadiens' centre Pete Mahovlich scored once on a power play and again with his team shorthanded.

The Canadiens were still in command after two periods. Then the roof fell in. Jean Ratelle scored twice, Vic Hadfield added his second of the game, defencemen Brad Park and Jim Neilson counted and Pete Stemkowski produced the winner.

Ranger defenceman Jim Dorey, involved in the straight player trade that sent rookie Jarry to Toronto last Sunday, got little opportunity to know his new team-mates in his first start in a New York uniform.

He was crashed into the boards by Montreal defenceman Pierre Bouchard in the second period and suffered a shoulder separation.

Ratelle, who also assisted on Hadfield's second goal, now has 102 points and a lie for the NHL scoring lead with Boston's Esposito.

The Bruin centre, who year set records for goals and points (152), scored his 52nd of the year, at Vancouver as the visitors opened a lead.

But the battling Canucks responded to the challenge moments after Esposito scored Boston's fourth goal in the third period, bedlam broke on the ice.

Bobby Schmautz of Vancouver and Bruin defenceman Awrey triggered the fisticuffs. Schmautz was given major, misconduct and disallowance while Awrey escaped with a minor and misconduct.

Ahearne, Campbell Meet

TORONTO (CP) — The presidents of the National Hockey League and the International Ice Hockey Federation met Tuesday to discuss interlocking play between the NHL and European teams.

However, no decisions or agreements were reached, said NHL president Clarence Campbell.

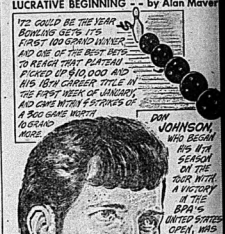
IIHF president Bunny Ahearne, who stopped here on his way home to London, England, from the Olympic Winter Games in Sapporo, Japan, said Monday he had discussed a proposed Canada-Europe hockey tournament with Charles Hay, head of Hockey Canada.

The prospect of such a Canada-Europe exhibition tournament was first mentioned by Fred Page, former president on the IIHF, at Sapporo during the Olympics.

Ahearne said Monday he would prefer the tournament, if it could be arranged, take place this fall with a team of Canadian professionals meeting the Europeans on a round-robin basis with game sites shifting among Canada, Russia, Czechoslovakia and Sweden.

Taking Gamble ?

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Philadelphia Flyers goalie Bruce Gamble, in hospital following a heart attack two weeks ago, is scheduled to go home Sunday.



"I feel real good," Gamble said Tuesday at Merritt Hospital, "but I'll just have to rest through the summer."

The 33-year-old National Hockey League goalie said there is a chance he'll return to the Flyers next season, "but that will have to be determined later."

Gamble's wife, Virginia, has been staying here the last week. The Gambles live in Hadfield, N.J.

The goalie was taken to hospital here Feb. 9 before a game against California Golden Seals.

What To Look For in your first full-sized car!!

First, Congratulations...

The moment that comes in the life of every successful person your first full sized luxury car.

You didn't get here by throwing your money around. And you don't want to start now. You want all the room, comfort and convenience you can get for your automotive dollar.

The very things that have made LeSabre the Buick we sell more of than any other.

Because it's a lot of full-sized luxury car for you. It has the room inside you expect of a full-sized car. Spacious, stretch-out room set on a 124 inch wheelbase. Room for a family. Over 18 cubic feet of trunk room. A Buick 350 cubic inch V8 engine is standard. Powerful and efficient on regular, low lead or no lead gas. And LeSabre is equipped the way you expect a car of its class to be equipped — three speed Turbo Hydra-Matic transmission, standard. Power front disc brakes, standard. Variable-ratio power steering, standard.

Plus all the extra things that make a Buick a Buick, like nickel-plated exhaust valves in the engine, a Full-Flo ventilation system, a semi-closed cooling system, thick plush carpeting and more.

And don't forget resale. Now's the time to think about it. Buicks have always had traditionally high returns at trade-in time.

See your Buick dealer now. Look over a new LeSabre. And see for yourself what you ought to look for in your first full-sized car. It's all there. Buick's seen to it.

Process Is Developed To Recycle Waste Oil

CALGARY (CP) — Potential industrialists are being turned into marketable products by Turbo Resources Ltd., a Calgary firm which has developed a process for recycling waste oil.

Bob Brown, president of Turbo and a petroleum engineer, started the company in 1968 when he and three partners took over a recycling plant in Edmonton, then operated by Hartlen Oil Ltd.

Mergers followed and Turbo became a manufacturer and marketer of petroleum products.

It's now aiming to become an integrated oil Independent which will include some exploration activity.

But it will return the original idea.

"We think that our recycling industry will be one of the future because of the ecological problems that are going to exist in this world," Mr. Brown, 35, said.

"We refine waste oil like an oil company refines crude oil. . . . Even a quart of oil can cause serious pollution. We're trying to gather all of this oil in and put in into a form where it is reused and can be continually reused without causing this pollution."

Mr. Brown said waste oils have either been burned, resulting in air pollution, or used on road surfaces where they eventually pollute water supplies.

Turbo's Edmonton plant produces about 1.5 million gallons of lubricating oil annually. About half of this is recycled material.

The company produces some recycled oil for lubricating the wheels of railway cars. It also purifies oil from diesel locomotives and puts in additives to prepare it for reuse in the engines.

Other recycled oil is produced from base oil stock and blended to meet government standards for oils sold in barrels or cans.

On the surface, you may think hamburger looks pretty much the same in all stores. But is it? And how can you tell if it measures up to the taste and value you want? HERE'S HOW: Look for a bright red colour...a fresh cut texture. Next learn to judge the perfect ratio of fat to good red beef. Government regulations insist on 70% lean beef, 30% fat. WE DO BETTER THAN THAT!

By the way. Our beef hamburger is just that. Beef. Nothing else. Fresh ground at regular intervals during the day. And we guarantee it for taste, tenderness and flavour or your money back. QUESTION: Should you judge a store by the fresh hamburger it sells? ANSWER: You'd better!

North to Get Three Parks

TTAWA (CP) — Canada's newest national parks to established by Parliament ing the next few months will ude the highest mountain k in the country, a waterfall o as high as Niagara and Penny Icecap.

orthern Development Minis- Jean Chretien, announcing lications of the Northern arks parks in the Commons oday, said they will increase area devoted to national ks to 40,000 square miles n the present 31,300 square s, and will raise the num- of national parks to 28.

They will rank among the ld's most spectacular na- al parks," Mr. Chretien said during the throne speech debate.

The minister also announced that his department is taking over responsibility for eight canals from the transport department. They will be developed as recreation areas while protecting their park, wildlife and historical values.

Locations of the new parks:

—An 8,500 square-mile area in the Klaune region of the southwest Yukon near Whitehorse. It will include Mount Logan, the highest mountain peak in Canada, one of the world's largest non-polar icefield systems, and the St. Elias Mountains.

—A 1,840-square mile section along the South Nahanni River —one of the country's most spectacular wild rivers—in the Mackenzie district of the Northwest Territories. It will include Virginia Falls, twice as high as Niagara, three major canyons reaching 4,000 feet in depth, and many caves and hot sulphur springs.

—An 8,200-square mile area on the Cumberland Peninsula in Baffin Island in the Eastern Arctic—the first national park established above the Arctic Circle. The area is noted for its fiords and deeply-carved mountains dominated by the Penny Icecap.

A power development along the Nahanni was scrapped with the park being located there, and mining claims in the Klaune are to be subject to negotiations.

Mr. Chretien conceded that getting to the new parks poses problems now.

"But we are thinking of the future, of 100 or 200 years from now."

Erasing RCMP Enrages West

EDMONTON (CP) — Another North West Rebellion—of sorts —has broken out over the federal government's plans to make the Royal Canadian Mounted police known simply as the police.

To many, the force represents a romantic tradition with particular meaning for the West. It was here that the North West Mounted Police were formed in 1873 to uphold law and order.

The Northwest—where the protests against the planned name-change are centred—was enshrined in the force's name until 1920. The name was changed to Royal North West Mounted Police in 1904 and 16 years later became the present Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Bu Harries, Liberal MP for Edmonton — Strathcona, summed up western protests over the decision to replace the initials RCMP with just the word "police" on the force's buildings and vehicles:

"Ottawa doesn't understand that, to westerners, the RCMP is a municipal and provincial police force, not just another federal body," he said.

It has been the main law enforcement body in rural and small western towns and cities for almost 100 years. Ontario and Quebec long have relied on their own provincial police forces and so do not have the same affinity for the RCMP.

Mr. Harries and Marcel Lambert, Progressive Conservative MP for Edmonton West, both have protested the change to Solicitor - General Jean-Pierre Goyer.

Mr. Lambert said in an interview that it would be degrading to think of the internationally-known RCMP as "merely the national police force."

Former prime minister John Diefenbaker has attacked in the Commons any changes involving the force. He has said the changes are being made to get rid of the word "royal" and that following the next election, the force would be replaced by a "security police force."

Mr. Goyer replied that there was no plan to remove the word "royal" from RCMP buildings, vehicles or uniforms. Nor was there a plan to alter the duties of the RCMP.

Todd, Daughter Jailed in Home

SALISBURY (Reuter) — Former prime minister Garfield Todd and his daughter Judith are out of jail after five weeks of military confinement but now face detention in their own home.

A security police escort transferred the pair Tuesday from separate jails to detention within a closely-guarded area about a mile square on the Todd family's 50,000-acre farm 250 miles southwest of here.

Later, Grace Todd, sitting in the farmhouse lounge with her husband and daughter after the long separation, said in a telephone interview: "It's heaven. I'm sitting here just looking at them."

Asked whether either could come to the phone, she replied: "No . . . they are not allowed to speak to anyone outside. They are not allowed any visitors and they are not allowed to write letters."

Todd and his attractive 28-year-old daughter, both outspoken champions of black African nationalism, have been held without trial since Jan. 18.

Despite widespread international protests, the Rhodesian government has refused to outline charges against them, although Prime Minister Ian Smith recently accused the Todds of having links with riots that broke out in parts of the country last month.

ETV Future Still Unclear

OTTAWA (CP) — The educational television picture is still unclear after months of discussion between the federal government, Alberta, Ontario and Quebec.

The federal government said in December certain conditions must be accepted by the provincial governments before it would change a policy that denies broadcasting licences to provincial agencies.

But State Secretary Gerard Pelletier said last week he is examining a Quebec proposal that would alter one condition—the authority of the Canadian Radio-Television Commission over provincial educational TV agencies.

Alberta Education Minister Lou Hyndman aptly summed up the current situation in a recent interview:

"The whole area of educational TV is a bit up in the air and uncertain."

Alberta and Ontario already are active in educational TV and Quebec has declared its intention to get into direct educational broadcasting.

Talks are most advanced with Quebec, where Communications Minister Jean-Paul L'Allier said recently he accepts all federal conditions except the one concerning the CRTC, the federal broadcasting regulatory agency.

Mr. Pelletier said last week that Mr. L'Allier recently submitted a proposal that would make the council of provincial education ministers and the CRTC jointly responsible for deciding whether programs are educational.

The state secretary said the federal government is considering the proposal.

He said Mr. L'Allier apparently objects to giving the CRTC sole authority for deciding whether programs are educational under a definition set out in an agreement between the federal and provincial governments two years ago.

The state secretary told the Commons in December the authority of the CRTC must be maintained in any deal with the provinces.

Another condition was that any provincial educational TV agency would have to be as separated from the provincial government as the CBC is from the federal government.

CKEY Refused Purchase Bid

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Radio-Television Commission has turned down a bid by radio station CKEY Toronto to buy radio station CJOE London.

The CRTC said Tuesday the purchase would result in a "concentration of ownership to an extent which the commission does not believe would be in the public interest."

The CRTC said the Maclean-Hunter group has extensive radio and cable television holdings in southern Ontario. Through holdings in other companies, it owns radio stations CFOX Chatham, CKYM and CHYM-FM Kitchener and 50 per cent of CFOR Orillia.

Maclean-Hunter also controls cable TV systems in Toronto, Mississauga-Streetsville, Hamilton, Ajax-Pickering, Guelph, St. Catharines, London-Lambeth, Wallaceburg, Sarnia, Owen Sound-Meaford, and Collingwood.

Quebec Broadcasting System Is Proposed

QUEBEC (CP) — Proposals for a provincial government news agency and for a broadcasting system run by the province to strengthen information links between Quebecers were heard by the Quebec national assembly's communications committee Tuesday.

Marcel Leger, Parti Quebecois member for Montreal Lafontaine, said in a written brief that coverage of Quebec regional news is "fragmented." A provincial broadcasting system was needed partly because of "federal censorship" of the CBC's French network.

Liberal Hits Nationalism

OTTAWA- (CP) — Liberal back-bencher Harold Stafford lashed Communist Tuesday with a forcefully-argued speech against economic nationalism.

Speaking on the third day of an eight-day debate on government policy, the member from the Lake Erie riding of Elgin said economic nationalists are drugging Canadians, who are in dire need of U.S. technology.

The Americans, he said, spent $40 for every dollar spent in Canada on research and development. U.S. technology was advancing so quickly that the total resources of the Canadian government could not match it.

Canada, he said, should be looking to a North American common market.

The Americans had "first-class brains and the greatest capital," Canada fortunate to share a common border with such a country, could be associated with it, maintaining its dignity and independence.

Mr. Stafford said the nomic nationalists were reading the temper of the Canadian people, perhaps because of them were academics earning fat salaries.

"The average Canadian does not live in fear of the cultural economic domination of United States."

Request for Money Has Bizarre Twist

WELLAND (CP) — A case that set historical lore on enforcement agencies in motion ended Tuesday in court here when Nicholas Samac, 25, of nearby Port Colborne was found not guilty of public mischief.

Court was told the incident began last Nov. 11 when Samac sent a telegram to his parents in Yugoslavia asking for $3,000, adding that if he did not have it by Nov. 15 "the people will kill me." He asked that the money be cabled to a bank in Port Colborne.

Upon receipt of the telegram, his mother went to the Canadian consulate to investigate. The story got into Yugoslav newspapers which carried a photostat of the telegram.

Interpol and the Canadian department of external affairs became involved and a request was sent to the RCMP who then forwarded it to the Niagara Regional Police for investigation.

Samac admitted he had sent the telegram and gave a statement saying that the phrase "the people will kill me" was used only as a means of expediting the money. He told police nobody had threatened him.

Assistant Crown attorney Peter Cauhoun contended the telegram was sent to mislead the recipient and added the Yugoslav newspapers were misled as a result of this message, damaging the Canadian image abroad.

Defence counsel Robert Reilly maintained Samac did not want to get the police involved at all. The one who raised the hue and cry was Samac's mother in Yugoslavia and the department of external affairs, he said.

He said intent to mislead the police was essential to the charge and it had not been proved.

Judge Marc Gérard said he was satisfied Samac had intended to mislead no one but his parents and certainly did not foresee the consequences of his act.

He said while Samac was "definitely guilty of telling an untruth to his mother" he had to find him not guilty as charged "and let his mother deal with him."

Free Trade Auto Pact Said Insane

OAKVILLE (CP) — It would be insane to enter into an automobile free trade pact with the United States, says Dennis McDermott, Canadian director of the United Auto Workers.

He told a gathering of area mayors Tuesday that Canada should be prepared to use its natural resources as a trading weapon if the U.S. decides to scrap the auto trade pact and ada in the Canada-U.S. auto pact.

They all said they would support the union's campaign to persuade the federal government not to bow to U.S. demands on the auto pact.

Mr. McDermott said it would be impossible to rely on the auto industry in Canada to protect Canadian interests in the matter of volume or production here.

"We have had 30 years of dealing with them and their record of social irresponsibility. If we rely on their sense of decency we will face a period of massive uncertainty."

Millhaven Guards Are Acquitted

NAPANEE, Ont. (CP) — Three Millhaven penitentiary guards have been acquitted of assaulting a prisoner who failed to appear at the trial because he is in a Buffalo, N.Y., jail.

Charged with assaulting Norman McCaud, 30, during his transfer last April from riot-torn Kingston penitentiary to Millhaven, were guards Grant Snider, 41, of Harrowsmith, Bernard William Evans, 28, of Kingston and Lesley Earl Landstra, 31, of Odessa.

McCaud failed to return to Joyceville Institute farm annex, north of Kingston, after being given a six-day pass to visit his mother in Toronto.

He is being held by police in Buffalo, where he is charged with unlawfully being in the United States.

Farmers Want Own Market

WATERLOO (CP) — A delegation of Mennonite farmers will apply tonight for a permit to build a farmers' market divorced from the Kitchener market.

A spokesman for the group said Tuesday the application will go before the Woolwich Township Planning Board for the rezoning of a seven-acre field on a farm a few miles north of Waterloo.

Some Mennonites were unhappy with the decision to level the present Kitchener market to make way for a $15-million downtown urban renewal plan. The new plan provides that part of a parking garage will house the new market.

Supporters of the Woolwich Township site, which must be rezoned from agricultural to commercial, say it offers a chance for those Mennonites who still use a horse and buggy to again become part of the market scene.

Old order Mennonites say heavy traffic of the city centre presents too much of a hazard for their horse-drawn vehicles.

The Mennonites have offered $3,000 an acre for the property and have an architect lined up to help build a brick and steel structure 220 by 60 feet.

Police Saw Woman

TORONTO (CP) — A coroner's inquest was told Tuesday that police officers looking through a mail slot saw Evelyn Murphy lying on the floor of an apartment, but they didn't feel they had the authority to try the door to see if they could get in.

Const. George Mann testified that he and Const. Harm DeWolde went to the apartment after police had received a call from James Murphy, husband of the dead woman, but left when they got no answer at the door.

"I didn't think I had any right to try the doorknob," Const. Mann said. "I felt I did as much as I could under the circumstances."

The inquest is into Mrs. Murphy's death last May 5.

Winston Campbell, a welfare field worker, said he was at the apartment with Mrs. Murphy on the morning of her death advising her on a legal separation when her husband arrived. He said Mrs. Murphy twice asked him not to leave.

"I know my husband," he quoted her as saying.

He said Mrs. Murphy appeared afraid of her husband, and he was so concerned he called police 20 minutes after leaving.

The inquest continues.

Border Search Is Called Off

MALONE, N.Y. (AP) — A search for Brian Everhart, 18, of Rochester, N.Y., was called off Monday along the Canadian border where it began Friday.

Heavy snow and sub-zero temperatures during the weekend hampered the air and land search for Everhart, reported missing from his home Feb. 12. Notes and a map he left indicated he headed for the border area.

Officials have said the missing youth is an excellent woodsman and was trained and equipped for survival in the wilderness.

TWO COUNTRY HOMES
In Ameliasburgh Township, Brick — six rooms, only 1 year old and in immaculate condition. Ten acres of land, for horses, garden spot, or it might be rented by the local farmer.
Four minutes north of Belleville there is a 1½-year-old home which has family room with a stone fireplace, full basement, large living quarters and electric heating — many more extras. Just ask Dorothy Karkheck and make an appointment to view.

A REALLY LOVELY HOME. Two steel fireplaces, one in the den, which is 16 x 20 and one in the living room; two bathrooms. If you want a home that has just about everything enquire about this.

Resort Firm Canadian

EDMONTON (CP) — A developer said Tuesday the projected $30 million resort centre at Lake Louise in Banff National Park will not come under foreign influence.

"Village Lake Louise Ltd. is a Canadian company," said Bill Baheu of Calgary, general manager of the company that has been requested by the national parks branch of the federal government to draw up a master plan for development of the snowned Lake Louise area, 36 miles northwest of Banff on the Trans-Canada Highway.

Police Officer Complains Of Lack of Consultation

MONTREAL' (CP) — Two high-ranking Montreal police officers said Tuesday there has been a lack of consultation between Jean-Jacques Saulnier and other officers since Mr. Saulnier became police chief last May.

Maurice Vadeboncoeur, deputy-director of criminal investigations, and Pierre Laforest, assistant director of operations, were testifying before a Quebec Police Commission inquiry called to examine Mr. Saulnier's conduct as head of the morality squad and generally broadened into an investigation into his current term as police chief.

Mr. Vadeboncoeur, the force's highest-ranking detective, said that consultation, communication and participation in decisions concerning his department had just about stopped after Mr. Saulnier became chief.

He also said that since two departments under his jurisdiction, anti-terrorist and organized crime, had been merged and put under the direct responsibility of Mr. Saulnier, he had not been getting any intelligence information. Before, there had been a daily exchange of such information.

Mr. Vadeboncoeur said he told Mr. Saulnier "we were losing the chain of events and if we did not have any contacts we would not be able to help him in the event of another crisis."

He said Mr. Saulnier told him that "we are not quite set up yet; if we need you we'll call." He never did.

The deputy-director said there had been several transfers in his department but he was not consulted on the changes of personnel.

Mr. Laforest, 48, said only two of various changes in the force made by Mr. Saulnier had been recommended by Mr. Laforest or by Andre Gaay, deputy director of operations.

As the assistant director of operations said the atmosphere was "very cold" at Mr. Saulnier's first meeting with about 30 general staff members May 8, 1971, at which Mr. Saulnier said he preferred plain-clothes surveillance to large-scale raids by the morality squad.

He said Mr. Saulnier had not been consulted on raids stopped but the chief's words had been understood as a recommendation they should be moderated and they were.

CBC Workers Return To Jobs at Toronto

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Members of two unions returned to work in Toronto today, enabling resumption of normal CBC TV and radio operations, but technicians remained off the job in Vancouver, Calgary and Halifax, in a continuation of rotating strikes across the country.

In Vancouver, Canadian Wire Service Guild members remained off work in support of the strike by the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians. At Toronto, guild members had refused to cross technicians' picket lines.

... NABET has been calling strikes of from several hours to several days since Jan. 23. Management personnel have taken over the technicians' duties at such times.

On Tuesday the CBC showed a repeat of an Elwood Glover TV short at noon and replaced the morning radio show. This Country in the Morning as a result of the strike.

WORK OUT DETAILS

CBC spokesman Cecil Smith said at Toronto that final details of a return to work today were worked out in an early morning meeting, with the union giving a commitment that management had asked from them.

He said NABET had agreed to these points:

1. To complete an eight-hour tour of duty;

2. No interference with or tampering with equipment on any future walkouts;

3. While on the job, management would receive quality performance;

4. A guarantee to allow the CBC flexibility to replace NABET members reporting sick.

The guild now will revert to normal operations at Toronto. Management said it had refused to carry out all functions while on the job. On any future walkout NABET walkout the guild will be required to complete all normal functions, Mr. Smith said.

"The CWSG refused to cross picket lines Thursday and Friday. On Saturday there were no picket lines but guild members refused to handle certain functions, Mr. Smith said.

Other centres across the country were functioning normally.

NABET has asked for a 36-hour week to replace the present 40 hours and for a 15-per-cent pay increase retroactive to last July and an additional 7.8 per cent in 1972. Present top rate for technicians is $179 weekly.

The union rejected a conciliation board report which recommended a 15-per-cent increase retroactive to last July and an additional 5.4 per cent next July in a 21-month contract.

Builder Sees 'Chaos' In Technological Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — A federal bill giving labor unions the right to negotiate technological changes could "create complete chaos" in the construction industry, the president of the Canadian Construction Association said today.

Eric Hartley of Toronto said in a brief statement discussed before industry representatives and former labor minister Bryce Mackasey have "failed to allay the widespread apprehension of the disruptive effects the bill would cause.

The bill was introduced last week but not debated. In last week's throne speech opening a new Commons session the government said the labor bill will be reintroduced in a form "reflecting the many representations received in past months." The CAA president said:

Stalin's Daughter Balks ... At Collective Living

PARADISE VALLEY, Ariz. (Reuter) — Joseph Stalin's daughter, Svetlana Peters, is living apart from her husband because of disagreement over what she regards as collective living, the couple disclosed Tuesday.

Svetlana, 46, and architect William Wesley Peters, 59, were married in April, 1970. They have a 19-month-old daughter, Olga, and until December last year lived in a cottage on nearby Scottsdale, headquarters of the Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation, which embraces an architectural-school and farm founded by the late architect.

Svetlana, who left the Soviet Union to come to the West in 1967, said in an interview Tuesday:

"In two years at Taliesin, we never had a weekend to ourselves . . . I am seeking privacy and peace and more individualism. . . . Mr. Peters is a great gentleman. We were a pretty happy couple. We never argued about anything but the group life. For me the family is the main cell of society."

But Peters, a protege and former son-in-law of Wright's, said in another interview:

"She has rejected a life pattern which I helped build and I believe in.

"Svetlana has a mistaken idea of life at Taliesin. She views it with the eyes of one conditioned to reject the real meaning of communal life in operation.

Svetlana moved to Paradise Valley, taking the baby with her.

But she insisted: "I haven't left my husband . . . I never had any intention to separate from him."

Said Peters: "In the face of Svetlana's inability to adjust . . . it would almost seem divorce is inevitable."

'Robin Hood' Duo Found Guilty

TORONTO (CP) — Stephen Guy Poirier, 41, of Montreal, was sentenced to three years in prison and Larry John Hill, 34, of Bay Ridges, Ont., to 18 months in reformatory Monday for fraud, conspiracy to defraud and possession of forgery instruments.

They had been found guilty earlier this month.

The men ran an Order of Robin Hood, complete with instruction pamphlets giving details on how to swindle banks and trust companies.

The scheme involved depositing cheques from out-of-town sources in an account opened in the name of a Canadian company. The bank or trust company was then persuaded to release money from the account before the cheques had been cleared.

The men operated in Montreal and Toronto.

Air Bargaining Chaotic: Lewis

OTTAWA (CP) — New Democrat Leader David Lewis suggested Tuesday that employees of airports and "similar enterprises" should bargain collectively to avoid a series of disruptive strikes.

Under the existing situation of separate bargain units, he said, the result is rather chaotic.

"A strike of air traffic controllers is settled and is almost immediately followed by the strike of another group which again disrupts air traffic."

Mr. Lewis, speaking to a luncheon meeting of the National Press Club, said he has been advised to sell-peddle his support for organized labor because it is not popular in Canada today. But to accept this advice would amount to participating in a "monstrous propaganda distortion."

Mr. Lewis said the labor-management setup in Canada needs a lot of careful consideration.

"I believe that unions and their members should abandon the tradition of lustfully making demands they know to be extravagant and employers, particularly the government, should stop playing cat-and-mouse at the bargaining table."

There must be improvement in conciliation and mediation procedures to build the climate of trust and understanding necessary for industrial peace.

"From long personal experience I am convinced that delays in bargaining destroy trust and invite breakdown."

New Parks Designated

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau joined Tuesday in promotional efforts for preservation of northern wilderness areas that he once recommended to Canadian youth as better than marijuana for getting high.

Mr. Trudeau, after the press had been alerted, toured a display of plaster-board models and colored pictures of northern Canadian areas designated as new national parks.

Among the three designated areas is a tract along the South Nahanni River in the Mackenzie district of the Northwest Territories.

It was after a wild ride by raft down the turbulent South Nahanni in the summer of 1971 that Mr. Trudeau suggested youth could experience greater thrills by visiting such spectacular wilderness areas than by taking drugs.

Potter Orders MOH Inquiry

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Health Minister Richard Potter has ordered a closed inquiry into the dismissal of the medical officer of health for the Leeds, Grenville and Lanark district.

Toronto lawyer Julian Porter, 35, said in an interview Tuesday he has been appointed by the health minister to "inquire if the unit showed reasonable cause in recommending" the dismissal of Dr. A. E. Thoms.

Dr. Thoms, 60, was fired from his $21,000-a-year job Feb. 9 "for lack of administrative ability and failure to communicate," with the health unit board and staff.

Dr. Thoms, medical officer of health for the area for 25 years, has been criticized by members of the health unit board for his handling of nursing homes and county council chastised him for not approving a seven-bed addition to a nursing home in Seeley's Bay.

Some local authorities have objected to the firing and last week Arthur Dalton, reeve of Perth and former chairman of the health unit, called the firing illegal and asked for an investigation.

Mr. Porter said his report for the minister will be completed by the middle of March. He said the minister must give his approval before the firing can take effect.

Ads Not Cause Of Smoking

VANCOUVER (CP) — The consumption of tobacco in Canada likely would continue to climb even if tobacco advertising were prohibited in every media in the country, a New York Securities analyst told the British Columbia Supreme Court Tuesday.

John Maxwell, an expert on the international tobacco industry and vice-president of a New York investment advisers firm, was testifying in a test case challenging the validity of B.C. government legislation banning the advertising of tobacco and alcohol.

Consumer consumption of a product depends on "the life styles of the populace," Mr. Maxwell said.

Advertising might have an impact on the brand a person chooses to buy, "but I don't think it has an impact on the consumption of the product."

Mr. Maxwell, author of reports on tobacco industry statistics in some 60 countries, was the first witness called for the plaintiff in the civil action, expected to occupy at least three days before Mr. Justice E. E. Hinkson.

Four tobacco companies and three of the country's leading publishing firms brought the action against B.C. Attorney-General Leslie Peterson, charging that the advertising ban is beyond the authority of the provincial legislature and, thus, invalid.

Attempting to prove that the Social Credit government invaded federal jurisdiction in passing the legislation which took effect Sept. 1, 1971, are Benson and Hedges Canada, Ltd., Imperial Tobacco Products Ltd., Macdonald Tobacco Marketing Ltd., Rothmans of Pall Mall Canada Ltd., Maclean-Hunter Ltd., Time Canada Ltd. and Southgart Publishers Ltd.

Mr. Maxwell said studies have shown tobacco consumption in the world is growing at a rate of two or three per cent a year, despite a trend in some countries, including the United States and Canada, towards regulating tobacco advertisements.

Asked by John Steeves, a Vancouver lawyer representing the plaintiffs, whether the trend away from tobacco advertising has had any impact on its consumption, Mr. Maxwell replied: "None."

Large Decline Forecast In Capital Investment

OTTAWA (CP) — Survey by the Economic Council of Canada indicates substantial declines in planned capital investments in most economic sectors for each year from 1973 to 1976.

A report on the survey says it is normal for levels of intended capital investment to decline somewhat toward the end of a five-year forecast period, but the survey results show a decline much greater than normal and beginning much earlier than normal.

The survey, based on the spending intentions of more than 900 large corporations, universities and governments, was conducted by the council and the industry department last October.

A council report released Tuesday, shows that manufacturing firms intend to invest by 1976 only 66.8 per cent of what they spent on capital investment in 1971. Mining companies plan capital investments of only 15.1 per cent of 1971 levels.

Other 1976 planned capital investment, as a percentage of 1971 investment, included: food and beverages, 54.9; pulp and paper, 47.2; chemicals 49.2; universities 61; and governments, 89.6.

Only four sectors plan to spend more on capital investment in 1976 than 1971: transportation equipment, 104.6 per cent; "other" manufacturers, 105.8 per cent; telecommunications 124 per cent; and power utilities, 105.7 per cent.

For all survey respondents, 1976 capital investment is expected to be 83.3 per cent of 1971 levels.

Montreal Seeks Injunction To Restore Street Cleaning

MONTREAL (CP) — An injunction was being sought today to order striking city employees back to work to clear snow-clogged streets and get chaotic transportation into some order.

A spokesman for the 8,000-member local of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, on strike since late Friday, said a Superior Court hearing would be held on the injunction request by the Quebec government.

It was not known if the injunction would demand the return to work of all 8,000 manual workers or only the 500 involved in snow clearing, main subject of controversy since a 10-inch snowfall Saturday brought surface transportation in the city almost to a standstill.

It would come into effect immediately and force the men back to work for 60 days, the period needed for a conciliator to make his report, with an additional extension of 20 days if necessary.

In Quebec City, Premier Robert Bourassa said Tuesday night after a Cabinet meeting that the government had decided to call for the injunction because it had "the right and the duty to protect the population."

Earlier, about 200 of the striking snow removal crews turned out on union instructions to resume street clearing operations. But union leaders said they were not allowed by the city to use any machinery.

Eighty-one arrests were briefly late Tuesday night in the city's east end.

However, early Tuesday the union attempted to clear two traffic lanes on major streets and one on others. The effort lasted from 2 a.m. to about 10 a.m. when drivers gave up because of fatigue and difficulties caused by abandoned cars.

Mayor Jean Drapeau said later the strikers' promise to return to work was a "sinister farce." He added that ambulances were prevented from reaching the sick, firemen were taking too long to get to fires and gasoline and oil heating companies were finding it difficult to reach customers.

A spokesman for the union said the city administration's attitude was "abusive and impassive."

Meanwhile, icy and drifted streets in Canada's largest city have disrupted everything from shopping to school attendance.

A spokesman for one oil company reported deliveries cut by 50 per cent Tuesday because of difficult traffic conditions. Another said one of its trucks took three hours to navigate a 15-block journey.

All city public schools were closed indefinitely and Sir George William University cancelled all classes until further notice because there was a danger the pipes in buildings might freeze and burst if furnaces used up all the oil.

Normal street-clearing, sanding and trucking would take at least four days to handle the present condition, a city official said.

A union spokesman said Tuesday that the two sides could reach agreement within 48 to 49 hours if talks resumed on unsettled clauses.

Under the previous two-year contract, signed in February, 1970, hourly wages ranged from $2.97 for watchmen to $4.95 for electricians.

The union originally sought an increase of 75 cents an hour and during the weekend rejected an increase offer of 18 cents an hour.

Hand of Fate

AGEN, France (AP) — The Rosea Arts Theatre is beginning to wonder whether it ever should have taken on the Verdi fatality, a verdict it spares. At one performance the scenery lurched on the conductor and the artists as they were taking their final bows, and the next day a truck carrying the sets crashed when a wheel fell off.

End to Right to Strike Is Urged by Businessmen

MONTREAL (CP) — A full-page newspaper advertisement signed by "a group of concerned businessmen of Montreal" calls for a telegram campaign to the federal and provincial governments, demanding withdrawal of the right to strike from all public employees.

The advertisement asks that a minimum of one million telegrams be sent to Prime Minister Trudeau and Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa "to withdraw rights of all public employees to strike or resign."

It mentions strikes by police, firemen, airline employees, postal workers, teachers, garbage and snow-removal workers, and asks: "What next?"

The advertisement, in The Gazette today, asks for contributions to defray the cost of the appeal. A postal box number is given.

Land Fill Dumping Will End

TORONTO (CP) — Environment Minister James Auld said Tuesday that the Hamilton Harbor Commission has agreed to cease all land fill dumping in Hamilton harbor.

Mr. Auld said in a statement that he has directed the Ontario Water Resources Commission to launch a "full-scale investigation" to determine the effects of land fill operations on water quality in the harbor.

He made his remarks after a meeting at Queen's Park with harbor commissioners, Hamilton Mayor Vic Copps, and officials of the Hamilton Region Conservation Authority and the environment department.

Jackie Denies Marriage Rift

NEW YORK (AP) — Jacqueline Onassis denied Tuesday a report that her marriage to Aristotle Onassis almost broke up in 1970 but was saved when she followed him to Paris and "threw herself into his arms, leaving into tears."

The report appeared in Modern Call's magazine in excerpts from the book, "The Fabulous Onassis, by Christian Cafarakis, a former chief steward aboard the Onassis yacht.

Commenting Tuesday, Mrs. Onassis described Cafarakis as "a man my husband doesn't even know."

What The Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Thursday, Feb. 24

Aries (March 21-April 19): Take the time to join those family members on domestic errands; plans for the future, between the home should be discussed.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): See that no lost is unturned in your search for information. Also, even chance meetings are apt to provide leads for new useful facts.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Take the day into your own hands. You may overrun your budget and be glad you did. Venturesome projects promise success.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Settled matters are favorable to a higher level of income and living. Also, an urge to reach out as you may attract very interesting people.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Follow a generally conservative course; consolidate what you have; recently taken on with your own tested friends in key spots.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Whatever you have been doing deserves recognition—if nobody is tooting your horn, toot it yourself. Bring in friends, redeem social favors.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Get to the point in response to current invitations, proposals. Early diligence should stretch into a long day, with results in prospective.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Given incentive, nearly all turn out and do their best. Be neither first nor last in the scramble for success today.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Agreements include many technicalities. Get the story straight before you go ahead. Common sense prevails.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Make peace; be handy where others are seeking an introduction or a go-between. Your work organizes more readily, is likely profitable in special subtle ways.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Improvements in your skills and equipment are indicated, with fairly reliable promises of more. Proceed in good faith to do your best.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Cheerful moods are the norm today. Remember to do enough to keep things in good order so the moods ride on bright and smooth.

Ultrasound Helps Frozen Shoulder

By G. C. THOMPSON, MD

Dear Dr. Thompson: Sometime, write about ultrasound therapy. I had a frozen shoulder and a series of ultrasound treatments took care of it painlessly.

I kept my arm in a sling to rest the weight, and I prefer ultrasound to cortisone. Also, best gives comfort and aids healing. —M.N.B.

I hope other readers won't jump to the conclusion that ultrasound is necessarily the right or only treatment for all frozen shoulders. A frozen shoulder (which occurs when a shoulder joint won't move because of arthritis, extended immobility or other changes) can involve a variety of problems.

Sometimes, for instance, cortisone may be the best treatment. In other cases, neither ultrasound nor cortisone may do the job, and more elaborate treatment may be essential.

All the same, ultrasound can be very useful for a number of ailments. It may sound like witchcraft—using sound to treat people. Actually, it involves established principle of physics.

Sound consists of vibrations—vibrations in the air, normally—but vibrations can pass through other materials, too. Remember when you were a kid, and could make a sort of telephone with two tin cans and a string stretched between them?

As sound can travel along a piece of string, it can also travel through flesh.

The rate of vibration controls the tone—low frequency, a low note; high frequency, a high note. And ultrasound means a frequency so high that it is too high for the ear to hear. But it is still vibration, and it represents energy.

So when ultrasound is applied, it means that vibration—movement—is applied to the flesh.

This penetrates, and the infinitely tiny movement and the energy it represents creates heat.

In brief, ultrasound is a method of applying heat deep inside the tissues. It gets there in a twinkling of a second instead of having to seep through, as is the case with a hot water bottle or something similar.

The value of heat in healing and soothing has been recognized for a long time, but ultrasound, if you want to put it that way, is a method of putting a hot water bottle inside the shoulder or any other joint. And it is useful.

It isn't magic. It isn't mystic. But it has real value in certain kinds of treatment.

Dear Dr. Thompson: Can birth control pills bring about either sterilization or fertilization after using them for a period of time?—Mrs. J.D.

No to both.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	3NT	Pass	3NT

Opening lead—king of clubs.

Let's say you're West and start out with the K-Q-10 of clubs, declarer winning the third round with the ace as your partner contributes the 5-4-3 to show that he also started with four clubs.

South plays the A-Q of hearts and you make the proper play of winning with the king, since there can't be a heart holding with which you could gain by ducking — but there might be one with which you could lose.

Sure enough, partner's jack falls on the king, proving that declarer has the ten. It is at this point that you must be extremely careful of your next move. Thus, if you cashed the nine of clubs, South would discard the ten of hearts on it and easily make the rest of the tricks.

Not only must you not cash the club at this point, but you must also fire the king of diamonds at declarer in order to destroy his entry to dummy for the hearts. If you make this play, declarer eventually goes down one; if you don't, he easily makes three notrump by scoring three spades, four hearts, a diamond and a club.

Let's grant that the king of diamonds is an extraordinary play to make without seeing declarer's cards. But, having told this, that doesn't mean you can't find the play without snatching a peek at South's cards.

On the contrary, you have all the information you need to justify the play. You can tell from the bidding that, if you follow the line of least resistance and cash the nine of clubs, South is bound to have nine easy tricks left to cash. Leading the king of diamonds therefore cannot be the wrong thing to do, and, in fact, it is unquestionably the right thing to do.

Tax Cuts Foreseen In Spring Budget

Army's Role Made Legal

LONDON (Reuter) — A hastily-submitted bill giving British troops legal authority for their security operations in Northern Ireland was passed unanimously by both Houses of Parliament early today and given royal assent to become law.

It was the first time since 1931 that a bill was rushed through both Houses in a single day without first appearing on the agenda.

The bill became necessary after a Northern Ireland High Court judge ruled in effect Wednesday that activities such as crowd dispersal and search missions were not within the army's jurisdiction under existing legislation.

The court allowed appeals by five men—including two Northern Irish members of Parliament—against convictions of failing to heed army orders to disperse during a demonstration last August.

Without the bill, which has been made retroactive, the army could not have legally continued to carry out such activities such as dispersing gatherings or searching people or vehicles. And all their past actions of a similar nature might have been held to be illegal.

Hole in Heart Keeps Goalie Out of Playoffs

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

Right now, Chris Scully has more important things on his mind than the fact he's going to spend a month in Toronto's Sick Children's Hospital.

By the seven-year-old standards, missing his tyke house league hockey team's playoffs is pretty serious stuff.

"I think we're tied for first now," Chris was saying Wednesday night, unbuckling his baby goalie pads after recording a 4-0 shutout for the Sun Jack Tykes. "But I guess somebody else is going to have to play goal for the playoffs."

Chris may be available for his team's first playoff game March 3, but the following week he'll be checking in to Toronto Sick Children's for an operation to repair a hole in his heart.

That won't keep him out of touch with his team's fortunes, however.

"I'm going to have a phone, aren't I Dad?", he quizzed father Reg in the dressing room.

Moderation Language Chief's Aim

TORONTO (CP) — Keith Spicer, commissioner of official languages for the federal government, said Wednesday night he favors a little moderation in implementing the Official Languages Act.

He said he will oppose overzealous enforcement of the legislation, particularly as it affects civil servants caught in mid-career by the government's drive for bilingualism.

The anguish of civil servants caught up in this "linguistic revolution" is "perfectly legitimate," he said.

"We should be looking to exploit all the merchanisms of the language act to relieve the pressure," he said.

PARIS (AP) — The Vietnam peace talks resumed today after a one-week suspension, but North Vietnam immediately called off the session in protest of recent U.S. bombing of its territory. The North Vietnamese proposed that the next session be held next Thursday, March 2.

Estimates Up $6 Per Capita

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government plans to spend about $396 for each man, woman and child in Canada during the next fiscal year, a slight increase from the $390 this year for each of 21 million Canadians.

The small spending increase may permit a spring election budget with tax cuts.

The government asked Parliament Wednesday to approve $18,809,000,169 in expenditures, loans, investments, and old age security payments for the new year which starts April 1.

Total government estimates are up only six-tenths of one per cent from the $11,883,940,824 allocated for the current fiscal year.

But a shift of money from loans and investments to departmental programs leaves the government with more of its spending for projects more visible to the voter's eye.

For Other Stories On Estimates See Pages 16 and 17

In presenting the bulky book of estimates to the Commons, Treasury Board President C. M. Drury said the government is giving priority to regional economic expansion, protection of the environment, assistance to Indians and Eskimos, northern development, and foreign aid.

At a news conference, he said less money will be needed to stimulate the economy and create jobs because government measures are boosting the economy and reducing unemployment.

But Conservative critic Marcel Lambert (Edmonton West) attacked the government for allowing expenditures to almost triple in 10 years.

"Government gets bigger and bigger and bigger and it's not necessarily good for the country," he said.

First Shot Not Like Army Gun

COLERAINE, Northern Ireland (CP) — A Scottish police observer who saw the Jan. 30 Bloody Sunday clash between Ulster demonstrators and the British army said Wednesday the first firing he heard came from an automatic weapon of a type not used by the military.

Assistant Chief Constable Robert Campbell of Renfrew and Bute counties, Scotland, was testifying at a court of inquiry by Lord Widgery, England's chief justice, into the fatal shooting of 13 civilians in the Londonderry march.

"It was just about this time that I heard two fairly long bursts of automatic fire," he said. "These were rather slower automatic fire than I normally associate with a Sten gun, for instance."

A soldier near him had said it was a Thomson sub-machine-gun.

The commission has heard that the army did not carry Thompsons.

Weather Disrupts Air Canada Schedule

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

All scheduled morning flights to the Maritimes were cancelled by Air Canada today because of a snow storm developing there and a 20-day strike by airport workers.

The storm, expected to drop three to six inches of snow, further hampers commercial airlines in Canada already facing flight cancellations and delays because of the strike.

A transport department spokesman said only 52 per cent of all commercial airline flights operated in and out of Toronto Wednesday "and it should be the same today."

In Montreal, Air Canada reported the first two flights to Toronto and one to New York were cancelled and other flights to Toronto and one to New York were cancelled and other flights were behind schedule.

TEMPERATURES

Synopsis: Not much more snow is expected. Temperatures in the southwest will fall slowly during the night as winds with westerly winds. Skies will be generally clear in most areas tonight and Friday. Except near the lakes where temperatures will fall well below zero tonight.

Heath Mobilizes Forces To Fight Rising Wages

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Edward Heath is rapidly mobilizing his government's resources for a tough campaign to hold down the costs of Britain's recent power crisis and head off a dangerous new escalation of pay rates.

In his first public comment on the crippling power shortage, Heath announced he has appointed Earl Jellicoe, lord privy seal, to co-ordinate "the full weight of the government" behind recovery efforts.

The Conservative leader also levelled strong criticism at the country's 280,000 coal miners whose six-week strike cause the crisis.

The strike is expected to end formally next week after miners complete their vote on settlement terms, arrived at last Saturday, which give them average increases of 20 per cent.

A ballot on the settlement terms went to the rank and file Wednesday with a union recommendation to accept. Results are expected by Friday to show overwhelming approval.

Since picketing ceased Saturday, coal has been rushed from stockpiles to electricity generating stations but there still is not enough to get electricity back to normal until production resumes in the mines.

"It cannot be a sensible or a responsible decision for one sector of the community, or its leaders, to endanger the life and livelihood of 50 million of their fellow citizens," Heath said in a speech Wednesday.

He emphasized the government firm intention to hold down wage and price increases as part of an anti-inflation campaign. Many unions have been watching the miners carefully in the hope they may succeed in gaining similar large settlements.

Boys See Mother, Aunt Axed

MANCHESTER, England (Reuter) — Three young boys stood helplessly as their mother and aunt were hacked to death with an ax in this northwest England city Wednesday night, but police believe the attacker may have been killed by a train.

Police hunting the man they believe slaughtered Mary Bernadette Buckley, 34, and her sister, Bridget Egan, 25, were travelling today to the mid-England town of Stoke to identify the body of a man found on a railway track. He had been struck by a train.

Shortly before the killings, in Mr. Buckley's first-floor apartment, a man went from apartment to apartment in the building, asking neighbors if he could borrow an axe.

Police called to the house found Mrs. Buckley's three sons —13, 10 and 4—in the apartment, near the two mutilated bodies. The children were unhurt.

Nuclear Missile Controls Likely

VIENNA, Austria (Reuter) — The Soviet Union and the United States are moving on converging courses toward the world's first treaty to limit nuclear missiles.

Both the Kremlin and the White House are keeping quiet but it appears obvious President Nixon would like to top his visit to Moscow in May with the signing of a first-stage treaty.

A treaty is still being hammered out after more than two years of strategic arms limitation talks, known as SALT. It will probably be confined to defensive anti-ballistic missile systems—the so-called anti-missiles. The United States has stipulated that ratification of an ABM treaty would be linked to progress on a second agreement relating to offensive or strike missiles.

No firm date has been set for the signing of a first-stage treaty, but three signs point to progress—the planned Moscow visit, optimistic language in a SALT communique issued early in February, and a remark by a conference source that "treaty language has been studied."

It is not clear whether the remaining obstacles are limited to technicalities or whether there is still a major political gap between the two.

But if a treaty to limit strategic nuclear arms is signed, it will be a decisive breakthrough, in both weaponry and psychology.

"Hi Doreen! How's the Women's Lib idea coming?"

Kierans Wants Law to Prevent Big Eating Small

VANCOUVER (CP) — Former communications minister Eric Kierans said Wednesday night that what Canada needs is a tax law that would discourage big corporations from gobbling up little ones.

In a wide-ranging interview on economic policy and goals, Mr. Kierans said corporations should be made to justify in the public interest their invasion of fields outside their own.

Nixon Makes Plea for 'An Open World'

PEKING (CP) — President Nixon visited the Great Wall of China today and called for an end to "walls of any kind between peoples." Then he was late in the afternoon with Premier Chou En-lai for their fourth session of talks.

Nixon and Chou already had conferred for about nine hours before today's session began at 5 p.m. (4 a.m. EST) in the Great Hall of the People, which comes at the midway point of the American leader's visit.

Today, they talked for a little more than three hours, breaking up their meeting shortly after 8 p.m. (7 a.m. EST).

"What is most important is that we have an open world," the U.S. president told correspondents who accompanied him to the engineering marvel built 2,200 years ago to keep out the barbarians.

"One result of this trip, we hope may be that walls erected, whether physical like this wall, which they are, or whether ideological or philosophical, will not divide the people of the world."

Looking out across the snow-dusted hills at the 1,500-mile-long wall winding westward, he expressed the hope that "people, regardless of their different backgrounds and philosophies, will have an opportunity to communicate with each other."

Later at the nearby burial vaults of the Ming emperors, Nixon commented: "We have not known Asia well enough. Communications have been badly neglected." He said he hoped many Americans would have a chance to visit China, and that Chinese would be able to visit the United States.

The temperature was 27 degrees for the president's first sightseeing stint his arrival in China Monday. He was accompanied by Mrs. Nixon, State Secretary William Rogers and other members of his staff.

Deputy Premier Li Hsien-nien, Foreign Minister Chi Peng-fei and their wives were hosts for the trip.

After the 45-mile drive from Peking, the presidential party climbed the massive, 25-foot-high wall at 10:10 a.m. and spent half an hour looking about and strolling between watchtowers along the 18-foot-wide roadway on the top.

"It's unbelievable," Nixon said as he surveyed the huge battlemented structure snaking off over the horizon.

At an informal news conference after the party came down, Nixon made his appeal for an end to walls but commented that "the Great Wall is a great wall, and it had to be built by a great people."

Crossing Guards' Raise Requested

City school crossing guards will receive a 20 per cent increase in pay from $25 to $30 a week if a recommendation from the traffic and light committee is approved by city council.

The recommendation for the pay increase was made at Monday's committee meeting when it was noted difficulty was being experienced in recruiting guards for the school crossing jobs.

Committee members agreed that the hours of work were relatively short but travelling to and from their posts extended their work day.

"Possibly they should be receiving partial or full pay," observed Alderman Paul Russell.

The committee didn't go along with this suggestion but will recommend a $5 a week increase to city council.

City manager J. R. Reynolds said school guards get a $5 a week raise five years ago to bring their pay up to $25 per week.

If the guards' pay is increased to $30 a week, the city manager said the annual cost of school guards would be close to $20,000.

Sheriff's Appointment Recommended by Jury

PICTON (Staff) — A grand jury's report yesterday recommended the immediate appointment of a sheriff for Prince Edward County "thus relieving the work-load presently enforced on the staff".

The jurors' report stated that during an inspection of the premises of Picton Gaol it was observed that the staff is well satisfied with existing facilities. The judge's chambers, solicitors' room, court clerk's office, Province of Ontario and surrogate registrar were found to be "adequate".

Appointment of a sheriff without the supervision of courts was suggested at the close of remarks concerning inspection of the premises by jurors.

The office has been vacant since the death of Sheriff Herbert J. Colliver last October.

The Honorable Mr. Justice Henderson, presiding judge at this week's supreme court hearings here, endorsed the grand jury's recommendation for the immediate appointment of a sheriff.

Statement In Error

Appointments announced Tuesday by Hastings county board of education were for the position of vice-principal, not principal as originally stated.

Those appointed as vice-principals/male and the schools are: Mrs. Vivian Fair, Queen Elizabeth, Belleville; Mrs. Carley Vance, Bayside School; Gary Anderson, Batawa; Hugh Campbell, Marmora Street Senior School, Trenton and Walter Cochrane, College Street School, Trenton.

Maybe I'll Need It Again!

Joseph Hart, 80-year-old retiring city crossing guard, left, seems reluctant to hand over his STOP sign to city police Safety Officer Corporal Robert Hall yesterday. He's got a good reason. After more than nine years as a guard, Mr. Hart will volunteer for occasional part-time work if needed. Following their retirement, Mr. Hart and Frank Daley, a 78-year-old retired Corby's employee, resident at 250 North Front Street, met briefly at police headquarters. Absent, due to illness, was the third retiring guard, 73-year-old "Curly" Sharpe, of 7 Turnbull Street.

Three Guards Retire

Regardless of wind, weather and storm, Belleville's 73-year-old three-woman force of crossing guards are always on duty at their appointed corners, ready to halt traffic for the squads of little people jaking their way to and from school.

Many of the guards are retired workers, and sometimes the cold winds are a little hard to take. But regardless, they don warm winter clothing or raincoats during the milder seasons.

Joseph Hart, 80, of 62 Benjamin Street; Frank Daley, 78 of 209 North Front Street and Harry "Curly" Sharpe, 73 of 7 Turnbull Street, have called it quits. They've hung up their luminous STOP signs for good. At least that's what they are saying right now.

The trio, who have chalked up more than 20 years of guiding and controlling both youngsters and traffic, m a y take the opportunity to substitute for an absent guard, if the need arises.

Familiar figures on their respective corners, each has accumulated a large group of young friends who have come to know, trust and like them.

Mr. Daley, a retired Corby's employee of 31 years, whose chief corner was at College and Prince of Wales Drive knows quite a number of young married couples who attended junior grades and naturally came under his watchful eye as they made their way across the busy intersection.

Mr. Hart, a 35-year veteran with the Public Works Department, and a familiar figure on Front Street, also doubled up for three years as a summer crossing guard at the Dundas St. East Kinsmen Pool. He says he'll be willing and able to take on the occasional part-time duty, a fact which Belleville City Police Safety Officer Corporal Robert Hall, says he'll take full advantage of if the need arises.

"Curly" Sharpe was unable to attend the brief gathering at police headquarters yesterday. The retired CN employee has been a bit under the weather with a touch of flu.

Asked if they wished to keep their signs as a memento, both Mr. Hart and Mr. Daley declined. They may want to use them again.

Larvae Still A Mystery

Week of investigation by University of Toronto scientists so far has not uncovered any connection with a rare and serious — eye problem afflicting two Belleville school students.

Scientific investigators have been seeking a common contact to explain the presence of parasitic micro-organisms discovered in the eyes of both women.

Dr. C. R. Lenk, health officer for Hastings and Prince Edward counties, said today research by university specialists has shown no results so far.

Just three weeks ago, Dr. Lenk said various specimens taken from both households to the researchers, who are seeking a cause for the rare malaria, larvae of which were identified in the optical tissue of the women.

"Nothing so far has been found in the specimens we sent . . . as regards this particular trouble," said Dr. Lenk today.

As far as he knew, both women were still under care in a hospital in Toronto, Dr. Lenk said he was unaware of their present conditions since these were "matters of treatment" for their doctors, and hence, were "not my business".

The incidents involve a Belleville housewife and a Carbyville - area teenager, whose identities have not been revealed by local health authorities. Such cases were described as rare. The fact that two were uncovered weeks apart in an area of relatively small population baffled health officials. There was no known contact between both patients and this added further to the medical enigma.

Animals — including cats, dogs, foxes, snails and frogs — are the common hosts of the worm, but rarely humans, Dr. Lenk said.

Health authorities took specimens from household pets, along with water samples and a portion of a wild frog found in the refrigerator of one home.

Despite no reports of success from Toronto research-ers, Dr. Lenk was "quite sure" the investigations were continuing. His department was ready to send any further specimens requested by scientists seeking a common carrier factor.

"Maybe it's just a coincidence of some kind — but I would like to know," added Dr. Lenk.

Volunteers Are Needed To Assist Parolees

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

A new program of rehabilitation of prisoners has been initiated in Belleville.

The system, supervision plan calls for the use of especially chosen volunteers to assist prisoners who have returned to the community on parole. It involves a one-to-one relationship between the volunteer and the parolee during the ex-prisoner's term of parole and, it is hoped, after.

L. W. Hurd, parole service officer from Kingston and co-ordinator of the plan for Belleville said this city now has one volunteer supervising a parolee. Two or three more indicated a willingness to volunteer following a speech on the subject at a Kinsmen Club meeting in Belleville this week.

And more are wicited. Although Belleville has only five parolees now, a pool of volunteers ready to take over when needed is the aim of plan organizers.

Gordon Pinder, district representative for Sudbury on the provincial board of the Kiwanis members here that the volunteer program has two aims.

"First and most important is to provide a one-to-one supervision by a low key authority figure" he said, "and advise the parolee on his return to the community. But by closing the gap between the prison inmate and society, public apathy is overcome. And public apathy, said Mr. Pinder, is one of the chief barriers to prisoner rehabilitation.

"The public does not want to know or learn what happens to the offender once he is dealt with by the courts," said Mr. Pinder. "Attitudes are generally hostile and punitive and public opinion is largely molded by the media, which is frustrated in its search for the sensationalism of the failures."

Canada has one of the highest per capita incarcerations rates of any country in the world, and the recidivism rate for inmates is over 50 per cent.

The volunteer plan has been operating successfully in northern Ontario for six months, with 20 parolees now under the supervision of 17 volunteers. Many have been referred from the student body at Northern College of applied arts and technology.

The volunteer requires no specific academic, vocational or social background," said Mr. Pinder. "Interested and responsible are the key words here. The effective volunteer will be able to show a genuine concern for the man and offer needed support, while setting an example of responsibility. He must also be able to withstand testing and manipulation and refuse to be a pawn in the parolee's attempts to manipulate the system.

The volunteer performs the role of friend, counsellor and the parolee board-staff in terms of his supervision.

"But the volunteer is not sworn by the parolee as a negative authority figure as is often our lot," remarked Mr. Pinder. "He is merely a perpetuation of the institution."

Workshops, a monthly newsletter and monthly contact with the parole board staff has been arranged in northern Ontario to give support and encouragement to the volunteers and to maintain their interest and enthusiasm.

"It would seem that the concept of locking men up and throwing away the key has failed to stem the rising crime rate," said Mr. Pinder.

The volunteer supervisor plan, he hopes, may be one step toward a more successful rehabilitation program for penitentiary inmates.

Nature Trail Project Faces Money Problems

The trail to link Picton to Algonquin Park is running into one problem after another, but organizers said at a meeting yesterday, they were "optimistic" for the outcome.

Grant Harvey, project administrator, addressed the Belleville and District Unemployment Committee, said yesterday, "a main concern right now is staying inside the budget."

To run the project, sponsored by the federal government, expenses must be kept at 17 per cent of the total payroll.

This was not achieved, in fact we spent double or almost 34 per cent in January," said Mr. Harvey.

To compensate for this overspending, 225 man-hours must be worked in this month to balance out expenses to payroll.

"I am a little doubtful that we will be able to do this as we still have 85 man-hours to go," he said. "I am sure we will be back on the track by the end of March."

Through out the most pressing issue at the moment, members of the committee agreed that attention must be paid soon to the problem of not being able to finish the trail within time limits.

"We know now we will not be able to finish, but we didn't expect to in the first place," said James Staveley of the Canada Manpower Centre in Belleville.

Invited "with ulterior, motives", Graham Deline, project supervisor for the federal Opportunities For Youth Program would shed no light on the continuance of the trail after its May 31 deadline.

Mr. Staveley, explaining to Mr. Deline the "ulterior motives" said "... we enthuse students to be creative with the trail in mind."

Responding to the comment, Mr. Deline retorted, "I will not promote any particular idea or group."

In light of the trail project, Mr. Deline commented "we insist that those who take part in the program be completely responsible for the planning and maintenance of the project."

A stipulation of grants for youths points out that all organization of the project must be done by themselves.

Mr. Deline did not openly deny the possibility of youths working on the trail but claimed "we won't fund any project that is purely labor."

Members of the committee suggested offshoot crafts and perhaps "the construction of a log cabin or something to compliment the existing work done on the trail."

H. W. Karn, manager of Canada Manpower said to Mr. Deline "there's nothing like a man standing there making a suggestion like that."

Mr. Deline was scheduled to appear at Loyalist College shortly after the meeting with the committee.

"I think that if your job to get into the schools," said Mr. Deline.

While Mr. Deline spoke with students at the college, no mention was made by either himself or the students of projects dealing with the trail.

If support does not come from the youth programing, the committee has considered approaching the provincial government for further financial aid.

"Perhaps a new make work program will be started that we can fit right into," said Mr. Staveley.

If other alternative is possible, the committee is considering establishing some sort of association to co-operatively fund and manage the project.

Trailer clubs, conservation and educational groups and so on would be asked if they would like to join this sort of venture.

A spokesman for the trail, in a closing note, said, "by the end of this week, 65 people will be employed and working on the trail."

Deline Gives Advice

Graham Deline, after meeting with the Belleville and District Unemployment Committee, urged Loyalist College to advise students on project proposals for the Opportunities for Youth program. Project ideas included multi-art form centres, day care centres and a study of pollutants in the Bay of Quinte.

Crowd Sparse

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

The Naimadaw Players held its opening night last night but managed to attract only 40 ticket holders.

Produced by the Belleville Theatre Guild, the play had slight demand despite being the best production done by the group for years.

Coming through as a very sincere portrayal of a modern family, B.I. has none of the trite humor of the first production, Harvey, and little of the suspense of Dial M for Murder.

"It is designed to make you laugh, cry and cry for happy," said Director Ted Bairstow prior to opening night.

The 40 who made up the audience sat quietly for the opening act, where each character is introduced to the audience and some basic plot emerged.

While the first act seemed to drag a little, Peter Kitcher of the guild said, "I don't remember too many plays that had exceptional first acts. They all seem a little slow to start things off with."

In the second act, the plot begins to unwind, giving the audience insights into the Corry family and its problem of marrying off sister Lizzie.

Lizzie is not ugly but rather a little on the plain side.

Played by Linda Archer, comments passed at intermission included, "she's doing an exceptional job," to "she really is beautiful for the part."

Starbuck, the con man who comes to the Corry household to bring rain, introduces Lizzie to the fact she is a woman and between themselves, with a strong performance, they steal the show with their final scene in the second act.

They are in the tack room and Starbuck is teaching Lizzie how to say she is pretty.

"Fairytale", who had been apprehensive about the performance after seeing the unusually small opening night audience, said, "now I have seen that segment of the play, I am happy."

Chatter in the lobby between acts gave no hint of criticism as timing of the action increased and honors were paid to the cast for good showings.

The final act confirmed the director's good feelings about the play.

H.C. Curry, head of the family, played by Maurice Sylvis, had his greatest exchange with his son Noah regarding Lizzie and what she could expect from life.

Noah, the eldest son, played by Ken Brown, claimed Lizzie would grow up to be an old maid and it was not fair to keep introducing men to men and getting her hopes up.

Jimmy, the dumb brother, played by Stewart Arnott, sided with his father and frustrated in exposing his sister to any man he could lay hands on.

Mr. Kitcher, with long experience in the guild said, "Stewart is perfect, he is a natural for the part."

Filo, the sherriff's deputy, creates the climax of the play late in the third and final act.

Starbuck, played by Clive Hitchon, was professing love for Lizzie. In the meantime Filo was on his way to arrest Starbuck for fraud and deception in his attempts to make rain.

Rob Garrison, playing Filo, was secretly in love with Lizzie but would not approach her for fear of being hurt.

In the final scene, he was shocked when Starbuck persuaded Lizzie to go with him, after being released by the deputy.

Filo contests the elopement, Lizzie stays on at home and all ends with rain to end the drought.

The play will be performed all this weekend and next weekend beginning Wednesday night.

Admission is $1.25 for students and $2.25 for general admittance.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. and tickets may be reserved by calling the playhouse at 967-1442.

Banners Retired

Air Cadets from 608 Squadron here retired their old banner and ensign last night after 16 years' service. And the sponsoring group, Duke of Edinburgh Unit of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans took them into custody. J. C. Lindberg, ANAF Dominion president, presented the squadron with a new banner and ensign in ceremonies at Belleville Armory and Col. W. G. Paisley, now CFB Trenton, took the salute.

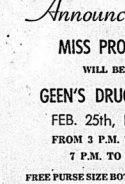
Residents Are Upset By Delay in Deseronto

A delay by the Ontario Water Resources Commission in taking over the new sewer system in Deseronto is causing inconvenience to many of the residents in that town.

The new sewers, pumping stations and sewage treatment plant, built by Keystone Contractors of Ottawa at a cost of approximately $1½ million, have been completed since about Dec. 1 and residents expected to be able to tie into the sewer before Christmas.

But the OWRC has refused to take over the sewers pending some modification of the sewage construction and residents are unable to connect their homes into the system.

"Because they expected to tie into the new system, many residents neglected to have their septic tanks pumped and as a result they are full and overflowing," stated Deseronto Reeve George Loyns.



Mr. Lyons said he was still receiving inquiries as to why they could not hook into the sewer.

He said he had been unable to get any satisfaction from the OWRC as to when the sewer system might be taken over and placed in operation.

The new sewers will service the entire town of Deseronto.

The new sewage treatment plant is reported to have been taken over from the contractor by the OWRC but until the sewer system is operating, is not much use to the town.

Capital charges for the Deseronto sewer facilities were paid by the OWRC, which will recover costs over a 40-year period through a gallonage charge.

Loyalist Adds New Equipment

Loyalist television has gone to triangles and circles.

With the recent arrival of a special effects generator, not owned by many small town TV stations in Canada, Loyalist students now have the capacity to show two images on the screen simultaneously and to make one image spread right across with a smaller secondary image in circular, triangular or rectangular form. This technique is generally used in sports where the commentator is seen in one corner of the screen while the hockey or football game proceeds, without, disturbing video coverage of the events.

Still another improvement in Loyalist TV is the long-awaited intercom system between control - room and the studio floor, which gives the director of the production closer access to his crew.

Basic production students also are not without new additions — the latest being new cartridge machines which are self-cueing and are activated by a mere touch of a button. These two machines take the place of reel-to-reel tape recorders formerly used, which had to be cued by the operator during live shows. Also students broadcast daily in a closed-circuit system to the cafeteria and student lounge in building A.

According to Ray Cunnington, Supervisor of the Communication Studio Techniques program, "these are just some of the many new pieces of equipment being provided.

Members of the community at large will be able to look at close hand the work being done at the College when the Communication Studio Techniques department hold its open house on Wednesday, March 22, at which time the doors will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. in building A.

Plenty To Do

What we might term the "nothing-to-do syndrome" seems to have hit the youth of Brighton. The same complaint has been heard often enough in Belleville, but we think most of our young people today are happy in one activity or another; there really is no serious shortage of things to do here.

Drugs by any standard are evidence of a "cop-out." Those foolish enough to get into the drug scene have weak minds and underrate their own humanity. We would counsel young people here, there or anywhere, to make the best of themselves and their community, and to try and advance both their own and their community's interests. They might also have a healthy regard for the world outside.

As for there being "nothing to do," we simply do not believe that. We have been looking at the weekly newspapers from comparable communities and in Bancroft we observe pictures of young people who won prizes at an invitational mixed bonspiel, while in The Stirling News-Argus a cheerful group of young ladies from CFB Trenton are days after their win in the junior girls bowling tournament. A junior-boys team from Belleville also won their zone round.

Nothing to do? No progress was ever made in this world with a philosophy such as that.

California Edict

In California "death row" is no longer death row. A decision by the State Supreme Court means the death penalty is banned permanently from the state regardless of any subsequent U.S. Supreme Court decision.

Capital punishment, according to the court ruling, violates the state constitution's ban of cruel and unusual punishments.

Thus another victory has been won by the proponents of the permissive society. One hundred and two men and five women facing the death sentence have had this commuted to life imprisonment. No one need be surprised at this — removal of the death penalty is the trend in the western world — but when one of these people benefits from the decision is Charles Manson, who masterminded the monstrous killings of actress Sharon Tate and six others, we must question the ultimate wisdom of such an edict. Another is Sirhan B. Sirhan, the convicted assassin of Attorney-General Robert Kennedy, as well as three female followers of Manson involved in the Tate murders.

The absolute necessity now, in the wake of such a decision, and in the absence of any other suitable deterrent, is that these offenders against society be kept isolated from jail. Society, unhappily, will always have its misfits, those who are unable to measure up to the ideals of personal responsibility, or who suffer from psychological abnormalities. While we are not so far toward helping such people and turning them into properly functioning individuals, society must also be protected from those who are a menace to the community. Compassion and enlightenment must be tempered by common sense.

The Terrorist Mind

Nothing demonstrates the cynicism and spiritual bankruptcy of Irish terrorist factions better than the latest bombing — the one at the paratroop brigade's headquarters in Aldershot — in which seven persons, among them five waitresses and a Roman Catholic chaplain, were killed.

The women are in addition to others of their sex badly injured in earlier indiscriminate bombings in Belfast. And the chaplain was reported lately returned from Belfast where he had striven to achieve better relations between his co-religionists and Protestants. Another Roman Catholic, it will be recalled, was dragged from his bus in Londonderry recently and shot by terrorists. His offence? He was a member of the Ulster Defence Regiment, the part-time militia.

Terrorism in Northern Ireland remains the exercise in futility it has been since the beginning. Despite the efforts at over-kill life in the province continues with a fair degree of normality. Government sources there report that with only minor exceptions normal industrial production and delivery dates are being met. Furthermore, the production index from September 1970 to September 1971 increased.

Cabinet Increasingly Sensitive

Criticism by Fellow Liberals Draws Trudeau Ire

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — As it happens to all prime ministers, so it is happening to Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

A hypersensitivity to criticism hangs them in time.

But it has taken only four short years to hook Prime Minister Trudeau.

He has become so super-prickly, he bristles when people even question the quality of the government's performance.

And if they go so far as to openly criticize — well!

He long has been touchy about opposition criticism — although they officially are in the proper and traditional business of political critics — and his reference often has been petulant, and on several occasions, downright rude.

So acute has his allergy to anything but fawning become, at least sometimes, and preferably praise, because that he has taken to giving his own supporters the sharp edge of his cutting tongue when they dare differ with him.

And he does it in public, for all to see and hear.

Like at the recent Liberal rally here in the Capital when 1,200 party workers watched him react in anger to interruptions by two questioning Toronto Grit delegates.

Although those attending the rally were overwhelmingly English - speaking, the Prime Minister spoke in French.

They listened for a few moments and then the cry "speak English" rose from the floor.

He snapped that he had intended saying "only a few words" in French, but now he felt impelled to say more.

And he did, for several minutes, to the puzzlement of the huge English-speaking majority of his listeners.

Admittedly this made for a sour opening note.

"And his tune did not get much sweeter as he went along. He was brushing off opposition criticism of government policy and performance as the nit-picking of "little fleas here and there," when up from the floor came the cry from a Toronto Liberal:

"What is so little about unemployment?"

The Prime Minister grudgingly conceded that it was not all that little, but then gave his questioner the back of his hand with the putdown that "some people have other things to think about."

Then while he was telling them all that the unemployment insurance snafu was being untangled and long-delayed payments made, a Toronto Liberal sang out:

"Yeah, if you can cut through the bureaucracy."

That tore it.

And the Prime Minister ripped into his tormentor, telling him to go to the United States or Britain "and heckle them there".

Then here, the Prime Minister broke the theme and pace of his speech entirely to launch words out to explain that "criticism does not disturb me."

Ha!

Something had upset him.

So completely that he lost control to the incredible extreme of lashing out at British Columbia Premier W. A. C. Bennett as a "bigot".

Elections have turned on such petulance as this.

The Prime Minister's old friend and cabinet colleague, State Secretary Gerard Pelletier had had similar lapses.

When two different Ontario Liberals told him he could not sensibly have it both ways with French the "official" language in Quebec and the balance of the country bilingual — he huffy.

And when they told him bluntly that they had received not swallow his rationalizations — he snapped "good".

Sort of short in the grain, what?

Nixon in China

An 'Amiable Stand-off' May Be All Talks in Peking Achieve

By ROD CURRIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — The American public, gluttonously devouring millions of printed words and vivid, satellite-delivered television pictures as President Nixon's China visit, are growing increasingly insatiable.

An hour later they are hungry for more.

Perhaps, as one observer put it, it is because they are seeing and hearing everything, and yet nothing at all.

What they really want to know is what is going on behind the curtain that shields the private talks from the camera's eye.

And the Chinese hosts are keeping the far-away American spectators guessing.

But, as Nixon, Premier Chou En-lai and other Chinese leaders are well aware, they are playing to a far greater audience than the American folks back home. Moscow is watching, and Tokyo. So are the Chinese Nationalists, no doubt apprehensively, on Taiwan, and other Asian powers in New Delhi and elsewhere.

Nixon had repeatedly warned the American people in advance against expecting too much out of this initial contact.

Actually, in the view of many commentators, both sides would get maximum advantage from the talks by resolving not to go too far too fast.

For Nixon, his "journey for peace," as he called it, could give an immeasurable lift to his campaign for re-election next November. Also, he can use it to keep the Russians off balance, but he must be cautious not to push the Soviets too far, particularly in the face of present delicate disarmament negotiations.

Nixon may, as some commentators suggest, believe genuine agreement with Moscow is far more important than better relations with Peking. He also may believe that the Japanese, angered that they were not given advance warning of the Peking visit, may in the long haul be a more important diplomatic partner.

For the Chinese, the visit also serves their purposes of keeping the Russians nervous. Additionally, after so many years of self-imposed isolation, it offers a free platform from which to vote the increasing importance of the new China before a world-wide audience.

For now, at least, both sides obviously have more to gain by reaching what James Reston of the New York Times has termed "an amiable standoff" in the Peking talks, rather than permitting the talks to be an open failure.

Legalized Abortion Opposed

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Since this newspaper is known to be fair minded, may I express some views on legalized abortion?

We will then pay increased taxes which pay for other people's abortions: increased insurance premiums under family benefits. Longer waiting lists for admission to our hospitals.

Theory that this is a blob of cells is fiction. At fertilization of the ovum by the sperm, 23 chromosomes from each unite to form a unicellular, genetically unmoving toward adult human existence. This package or new being could hardly be added between fertilization and ultimate death except time, nutrition and oxygen.

Every woman has a right to her own body. That is the right to decide whether to conceive a child or not. Once conception takes place we now have a new person with his own circulation system. Completely separate and with equal rights to the mother.

It is not necessary to be viable to be human. In the Thalidomide tragedy, children only three to five weeks conceived when the mothers took this medication, won court decisions. We cannot be allowed to maim the unborn child yet he can be killed if he is going to be an embarrassment, or inconvenience.

Moral instincts of humans in every country of the world, a survivor of Buchenwald said "I know where I learned what life is; I don't even step on cockroaches now."

Scouts Here Provide Skates for N. Ontario

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I would like to extend my thanks to the 2nd Belleville Scout Troop and their leader Mr. C. DeClerq. Recently this group invested a great deal of time and effort to help make life more pleasant for the students at SIR Canfield, here in Moose River. The scouts collected enough skates to outfit almost all the 42 students here with a pair and for most of them this was their first pair as well.

The Belleville scouts also provided a large number of books for the school library and toys for the kindergarten.

Thanks are also due to the students of Sir Canfield Public School and their principal, Mr. Hall, who contributed to this project.

Moose River is an isolated community in Northern south of Moosonee without roads, electricity or television and these contributed to make it certainly helped provide some sort of recreational outlet for these students.

The people of the Belleville area should be proud that the aims and ideals of scouting are still alive as shown by the actions of the 2nd Belleville troop.

Fighting Pollution

Berlin Information

Recently the general public here was introduced to one of the newest and most significant technologies to be the basis of theoretical research on the banks of the Hudson and the Seine, namely: a method for predicting air pollution levels without a test in the air for any specific area in any particular nation. Actually the technology has been under development here since 1964, with a study group directed by Professor Hans Portais of the Free University's Institute for Theoretical Meteorology. Called a "mathematical meteorological diffusion model" the system developed by the group requires complete data from a selected area concerning the site's size and type of pollutants emitted by industrial and commercial enterprises, a cartographic chart of the pollutants emitted and statistical information, stations and the weather conditions encountered in the area throughout the year. This data is then fed into a computer which is programmed to simulate a comprehensively varying set of meteorological factors as well as the effects which various anti - pollution measures would have on them. The computers can predict the amount of pollutants which Friday's unshovelled walks, unwashed windows and unpaid bills. And why should overtime be an issue for work already paid for?

The references to "frozen laws" and "unwashed walks" are interesting only because carriers in general make little use of walks since they use laws — both frozen and unfrozen. And why should the general public be invited to comment on laws they use — isn't there paid supervision on the post office staff whose duty it is to see that laws are kept in regard are observed?

Mail: A Day That Was Lost

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

In reference (Feb. 16) of "A Walker not a Baller" concerning mail delivery was anything but a reply to Johnny Canuck.

The simple question put was "assuming letter carriers were paid for a mail delivery not made on Friday, what was the objection to doing it on Saturday?"

It is hardly an answer to enumerate the other duties of letter carriers and explain why Friday's unshovelled walks, unwashed windows and unpaid bills. And why should overtime be an issue for work already paid for?

The references to "frozen laws" and "unshovelled walks" are interesting only because carriers in general make little use of walks since they use laws — both frozen and unfrozen. Queen's Park Bureau

The new Davis-Fleck team which in effect Ontario has taken at least one step which should breed more confidence.

Last week the premier announced the appointment of a "communications co-ordinator" in his office.

This presumably was an out growth of the studies of the Cronyn Committee, of which Dr. Fleck was executive director.

Whether it was or not, it was generally accepted that Mr. Fleck now chief executive officer to the premier, had a strong hand in the appointment.

The announcement was made at a news conference at which both the premier and his chief executive officer were present.

Naturally the first question asked was just what this new man would do. Just what communication would he co-ordinate?

And it was absolutely extraordinary. Practically no explanation at all was given, apparently because none could be given.

Davis-Fleck, it seemed, were flying blind.

The incumbent, G. Campbell McDonald, has been director of information and publications at the University of Western Ontario at London.

In fact he is being seconded from Western and will remain on its payroll, with the government paying his salary to the university. The salary is $25,000.

This is nothing personal about Mr. McDonald. He may be extremely competent. Little is known about him yet.

But his is essentially a new face.

In the latter days of former premier Robarts there was a director of communications, William Rathbun, who had been a Roberts speech writer. Word was that the title was given him to give a raise in pay could be justified.

His only apparent function was to handle routine correspondence from the public to the premier. He was in charge of a boiler room full of stenographers who sent out acknowledgements and replies to a large volume of mail a premier gets.

Presumably Mr. McDonald will be doing more than this.

If he isn't, $30,000 is a great bundle of money to pay a speech writer. But if he is, it is a rather ludicrous start on communications not to be able to say what he will be doing.

Incidental to this appointment, the protest that there has been against the restrictions on university spending comes to mind.

Well, if they are paying information officers $25,000 a year, perhaps they should be cut down more.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

February 24, 1952

In one of the most colorful parades seen here in some time upwards of 500 Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, Brownies, Rover Scouts and Wolf Cubs attended church services Sunday morning.

Murray B. Davis, regional superintendent of the Brewers' Warehousing Co. Ltd. in this city for the past six years, and one who has taken an active interest in the civic, community and service club activities here, has been transferred to Hamilton to take a higher post in the organization. He will became the resident manager of the Hamilton outlet and district manager of the Niagara Peninsula, which includes 24 outlets.

Ordination of three priests and two deacons of the Church of England in Canada took place at St. George's Cathedral, Kingston, on Sunday with the Most Rev. John Lyons, Archbishop of Ontario, officiating. The Rev. J. M. N. Jackson, rector of St. Mark's Church of Toronto was the guest speaker.

30 YEARS AGO

February 24, 1942

Only one auto marker for each vehicle in 1942 will be issued, Ontario government officials stated in order to conserve steel. The new licence plates, now being made at the Ontario Reformatory in Guelph, will be attached to the rear of the automobile.

Due to an unprecedented demand for cheese boxes during the winter months, it will be necessary to use green lumber for the heading of boxes this spring and summer according to cheese box manufacturers. Previously green lumber contained 35 cents each this coming spring can be purchased by the Wartime Prices and Trades Board.

40 YEARS AGO

February 24, 1932

This has been the most remarkable open winter for more than a generation or two and Harry Pearson of the Federal Department of Agriculture at Belleville states that damage will be done to crops unless we have sufficient snow to protect the roots within the next two weeks.

Charles Pepin has retired as stationary engineer at the OSD a position he assumed in the year 1899. He will be succeeded by Frank Chesher of this city.

Early this morning about a dozen Canada wild geese winged their way over the city on their way north.

His Honor J. F. Wills spent the weekend in Toronto.

Mary Haggerty spent the weekend in Montreal.

50 YEARS AGO

February 24, 1922

The possibility of a building boom in Belleville when spring opens, has seldom shown better prospects. Many houses have been built during the winter and four building permits have been issued so far this year. The permits cover two houses and also a grocery at a cost of $9,000. Work on the new Albert College will be resumed and tenders will be called for the new public school in Coleman Ward. At present a house shortage exists here and during the winter there was much doubling-up by families. There is no chance of real estate falling in value and there is a possibility of an increase in rents.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Feb. 24, 1972 — Louis XIV of France took over New France from the Company of 100 which had been colonising Canada 34 years ago today — 1663 — after the governor, Daulac-Lauzon, had proved himself thoroughly unpopular. Settlements were by no way a success and only Dollard des Ormeaux's fight had saved Montreal from being wiped out by Indians. Under royal rule, the colony could raise more taxes and get more soldiers, but it could not compete for long with British settlements, far larger, to the south.

1955—Turkey and Iraq signed the Baghdad Pact.

1945—Fritz Emile Ahmed Maher of Egypt was shot and killed in the Chamber of Deputies by Cha. after reading a royal decree declaring war on the Axis.

1943—The German counter-offensive in Russia began less than two weeks after the Russian recapture of Rostov and Kharkov.

1848—Louis Philippe of France abdicated and the Second Republic was proclaimed.

He's Sailmaker to the World

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

Freezing temperatures, ice-bound straits and snow aren't exactly conducive to a sailing atmosphere. But for Charles Keeble, any weather is a good time to think about this growing sport.

Mr. Keeble, whose apt trade-mark "C. Keeble for Sails" denotes his calling and trade in life, is branching even further into international markets for his "sails".

A full suit, consisting of all sailing sheets, takes many hours of planning and work for Belleville's master sailmaker and his nine employees. His 35 years of experience have paid off to such an extent, that he has just received inquiries from the British port of Hong Kong, at the doorstep to China, as well as Guatamala in South America.

Worldwide trade is nothing new to Mr. Keeble, but since the establishment of a rigging and sail department and move to Niagara Falls of one of his major customers, C and C Boats, he's been faced with a 20 per cent loss in revenue. More diversified markets are the answer, and orders are beginning to fall into place, he says.

Through listing with the Canadian Government Trade Commission in their export directory, orders and inquiries from such countries as Lebanon, Thailand, and the U.S. as well as centres from coast to coast, have enabled him to expand from his attic workshop of 21 years ago, to a 6,200 sq.-ft. workshop and showroom on Water Street.

Mr. Keeble began his career as an apprentice in Toronto more than 35 years ago. Back in the 1940s, when he moved to Belleville, he became one of only five Canadian sailmakers. Since that time, this figure has almost doubled, another factor contributing to the Belleville workshop's expanding interest in worldwide markets.

In an average year, the workers put together some 125 complete suits, as well as other lines which include covers for motorboats, sailboats and camper trailers. The Water Street shop also stocks a complete line of marine supplies.

Years ago, most of this type of work was all hand done. Today, Mr. Keeble employs a large number of machines for sail stitching and rigging clamps.

In fact, one such machine for clamping wire roped terminals to wire rigging, costs $1,400. The job, once exclusively done with hand tools, has virtually been replaced by mechanical means.

Belleville's sailmaker was once an ardent master of the sheets, sailing his 32-foot ketch at the Royal Canadian Yacht Club in Toronto between 1934 and 1952. But nowadays the only opportunity he gets to take to the inland waves, is rigging time, when he tests orders on a customer's vessel.

Some of these ships are well known in the Quinte Area.

Among the better known are the brigantines St. Lawrence II from Kingston, Pathfinder in Toronto and Trident, also in Toronto. These vessels are used for summer training of sea cadets.

Mr. Keeble recently provided a price to owners of Pathfinder, for a complete replacement of rigging and sails.

Since his early apprentice days, Charles Keeble has seen a drastic change in his industry. "There's not the same amount of handiwork as there was before," he says.

"Most of the old fellows have died off. You see, boating suffered a bad slump about 20 years ago. The young fellows weren't taking it up."

However, the master sailmaker says the 60s saw a dramatic change, and increasing membership, both adults and juniors, in yacht clubs such as the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club, are evidence of the returning popularity of this sport.

"In fact," he says, "the number of sailboats on lakes and rivers is increasing more than powerboats these days."

Because sail sport had decreased in popularity, trades-men had to switch to affiliated work in order to keep their businesses afloat. Mr. Keeble last year pioneered a new type of fitted boat cover, made from a "miracle" plastic Fabrene, produced by Du Pont of Canada Ltd.

In various sizes and shapes, for different types and classes of boats, both power and sail, the manufacturer claims covers cut winter storage costs significantly. The price, including supporting structure of aluminum tubing, plus the cover, ranges from $175 to $600.

Instant Report Has Points

STIRLING — The Ontario department of agriculture and food's newest "farmer oriented" service, the instant market report, has come under fire from some farm groups which claim the service is providing "misleading information" for the producer.

The new service, inaugurated in late 1971, provides a constantly updated market report service to farmers who phone a toll-free number at the department's information branch in Toronto.

Several county federations of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture have expressed grave reservations about the report service since, according to their interpretation of the situation, there have been serious differences between the prices reported by the service at the Ontario stock yards in Toronto and the prices being received for cattle sold to packing plants and bought at local stock yards.

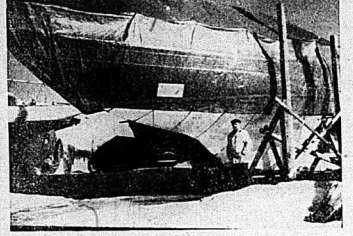
Douglas Tipper, the agricultural representative for Hastings County, says this situation may "be very true" but in his view there are several conditions which lead to this differential.

"Cattle which are sold at the Belleville Livestock Yards, for instance, may well vary in price per pound because of increased transportation costs to packing plants in Toronto," Mr. Tipper said.

According to Mr. Tipper, cattle which are shipped under contract to packing plants may vary in price as well, because the cattle sold under this system are graded on a carcass quality basis.

"Another factor which must be taken in consideration in this situation is the variance in dressing percentage which appear between individual animals."

Mr. Tipper believes that, despite the drawbacks imposed by slight variances, the service provides an "invaluable planning tool to farmers who market large stocks of beef cattle annually."



"The main aim of this program has been to provide workable estimates of supply of cattle available as well as current pricing trends."

"If a feed-lot operator knows that during the next week there will be a heavy supply of cattle going to the packing plants he may well decide to slow down his feeding schedule so that he will bring his animals to market when price conditions are better."

Hastings County, as well as other Eastern Ontario Counties, may not benefit directly from the service at the present time because most of the cattle concentration in this area has been dairy oriented in the past.

"However, there are a growing number of people in this area who are starting to become involved with smaller beef operations on former dairy farms," he said.

"Most of these people are interested in meeting tax costs and paying for upkeep on their farm buildings," Mr. Tipper concluded. "They are not interested in extensive marketing information. But certain facts about what these people are going to be supplying to the market will certainly aid in planning by the industry."

Base Alerted For 'Disaster'

TRENTON (Staff) — More than 100 CFB personnel were called out last night for a simulated disaster response.

Scenario of the exercise was the crash of a passenger-laden Boeing 707 at the outskirts of Trenton.

There was no simulation of a crash, but all medical, technical, administrative and operational staff required to cope with such a calamity were called in from their homes to carry out a mock response, administered by Lieut.-Col. F. M. Murphy of Belleville.

To enhance realism, few were aware of the exercise until they received telephone calls recalling them to work last evening.

Beauty and function get together at your Dodge HQ. Dodge Monaco and Polara for '72, identical in size, both ride on the big 122" wheelbase, but slightly different in appointments. Monaco and Polara have a re-sculptured look for '72, new from the rubber to the roofline.

Monaco's standard features say "luxury car" but they're all standard. Like "Torsion-Quiet Ride" and Unibody Construction, for years of quiet, comfortable, rattle-free driving. A 360 cu. in. V8, power steering, Torqueflite automatic transmission and upper level ventilation. We repeat, all standard. New interiors with little luxuries like wood-grain panelling and wall to wall colour-keyed carpeting complete the picture. It all adds up to a quality engineered, exceptionally comfortable, sensibly priced car.

Deportation Seen As 'Colonial' Move

TORONTO (CP) — Lawyer Paul Copeland said Wednesday night that by deporting Karleton Armstrong back to the United States, the Canadian government would only be doing a "political favor for their friends."

Mr. Copeland made the comment in an interview after representing Armstrong, on the FBI's 10-most-wanted list for almost two years, at a brief preliminary immigration hearing here. It later was adjourned to March 3.

Armstrong was picked up at a Toronto rooming house last week after a routine tip led two RCMP officers there. Armstrong, along with his brother Dwight, and two friends, David Allen Fine and Leo Frederick Burt, are wanted for first-degree murder, sabotage, destruction of government property and conspiracy in connection with the August, 1970, bombing at the University of Wisconsin.

A physicist was killed and three other persons injured when a $2½ million army mathematics centre was destroyed in the explosion.

Mr. Copeland said that during his submission he told the hearing that any deportation move is an act of the colonial administration in Ottawa subservient to obeying the wishes of its masters in Washington, D.C.

Mr. Copeland said he asked that Armstrong be allowed to depart Canada voluntarily.

He said that to deport Armstrong was a denial of the due process of law under the Extradition Act and contrary to the Canadian Bill of Rights.

"They denied my motion," said Mr. Copeland.

He said that U.S. lawyer William Kunstler will meet Armstrong Friday in the Don jail to talk about representing him in the United States.

But Mr. Copeland said no steps have been taken yet to extradite the 24-year-old man although Metropolitan Toronto police are holding a warrant to do so.

Favorite of the Audience

The highlight of the regional conference for women sponsored by the Women's Advisory Committee of the Ontario Department of Trade and Development was a showing of the latest spring and summer fashions, many of which were Eedee award winners. One of professional models from Toronto is shown wearing an Empress Alexandra gown in lush brown silk satin with the nautical influence and a maid ing hat, a version of the 1920s. The large number of women in attendance is evident in the background.

New Fashions Modelled at Conference

A parade of spring and summer fashions brought to a conclusion the Regional Conference for Women held in the Legion Hall Wednesday afternoon.

The fashion show of some 40 garments supplied by various Ontario manufacturers featured many of the items provided by Eedee Fashion Award winners. Mrs. Norma Wildgoose well-known Ontario fashion expert was co-ordinator and commentator for the show, while four Toronto professional models showed the latest creations.

Mrs. Wildgoose prefaced her commentary by saying that fashion is what one chooses to wear and that femininity is back in women's clothing with a more modified look than in past years. Anything and everything goes in today's fashions with length of skirt a matter of preference. The mini magic is still enjoyed by the youth scene.

On entry of the first models down the ramp it was noted that the nautical look is the forerunner of fashions this year shown in pant suits with nautical buttons and the ruddy top influence. The Chinese influence was also noted in a number of the styles and is becoming even more popular, and another is the bare midriff and halter style attire, so popular a few years back and the thigh length topper of two decades ago is now back in fashion, to be worn with pants or skirt. The cape is also a versatile garment.

A number of the classic style coats especially for the mature figure were shown in basket and diagonal weave and the blazer style suit is again a favorite. For those rainy spring days a striking black and white raincoat with velvet look trend to brighten any dull-day was attractively modelled.

Numerous negligee co-ordinate sets in polyester chiffon and fine cotton fabrics were given audience approval, but perhaps the most reaction came from the modelling of a sexy white terry cloth robe by one of the youthful models. Slinky body hugging materials were popular in the home entertaining creations.

In regards to fabrics the easy care polyester or crimp still top the list with patterns in bold plaids and floral design still popular, but in a little more subdued color.

Hats are back this year and the millinery shown included the large wide brimmed models, versatile up or down numbers and a return of the close fitting pillbox. All of the fashions were accessorized with costume jewelry from Avon Jewellery Ltd. of Belleville which is used in all fashion shows at the various conferences throughout the province.

Creating a decided audience reaction was a version of Empress Alexandra where the designer used lush brown silk satin with the middy influence on the bodice worn with a perky matching hat of the 1920s enhanced with veil.

As is the case in most fashion shows, the grand finale was the bridal party scene and here again the nautical look prevailed. The mother of the bride was gowned in a contrasting gown of white lace top with lace collar and ruffled sleeves with navy blue taffeta skirt, the bridesmaid in a navy blue gown of grosgrain ribbon and the bride in silk organza with the bodice featuring the middy collar.

Chairman Addresses Large Crowd

In speaking to a capacity audience of Belleville and area women following the luncheon at the women's conference held Wednesday, Mrs. Lilah Lymburner, chairman of the Women's Advisory committee emphasized that tourism has a great field today in which to exercise her influence.

Conferences of this nature are held throughout the province and the program is planned to give women new and pertinent information to help make them become better executives in their own homes.

In her opening remarks Mrs. Lymburner expressed thanks to the local committee member Mrs. Vera Morphy for the fine reception in Belleville. She also explained how the advisory committee functions noting that there are 39 regions in the province each represented by two recommended members who serve for a two-year term (longer if they wish).

Mrs. Lymburner stressed the importance of women in the country's economy and noted that there are two and one half million working women in Canada. She urged her audience to support Canadian industries and help create a good image of Canada.

There are 851,000 people employed in the manufacture of consumer goods, she said, but since the Canadian dollar has risen it is more difficult to sell goods to other countries. The government has men stationed in almost every country to promote sales. The less affluent countries, however, buy what they need not just what they want.

The speaker also dealt with the tourist industry and stressed the importance of courtesy to create a good Canadian image.

Ontario manufactures 53 per cent of all secondary products, but 100,000 new jobs have to be created each year in Ontario. Thus there is need for women in particular to look carefully and read the labels when shopping, and to buy Canadian when the product compares favorably with those from other countries. "This is not to say," she emphasized "that we should boycott their goods — trade is a two-way street," Canada does export a large amount of raw products but imports far more secondary goods.

The promotion of Canadian fashions and crafts, analysis of buying habits, and greater understanding of the economy are part of every conference held in the Province of Ontario.

Following Mrs. Lymburner's remarks, the speakers who took part in the morning sessions answered a number of written questions.

Interesting Speakers at Women's Conference

At the Women's Conference sponsored by the Ontario Department of Trade and Development, Wednesday, February 23 at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall, Belleville, Mrs. Vera Morphy, after expressing a warm welcome to all, introduced Mrs. Lilah Lymburner, chairman of the Women's Advisory Committee.

Mrs. Lymburner introduced the guest speakers in the morning session.

Miss Frances Hocks, supervisor, Food and Nutrition Home Economics Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food gave a thought-provoking speech concerning food.

Other guest speakers at the Women's Advisory conference Wednesday morning were Mrs. Shirley Giles, assistant manager of the main branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia in Toronto and Mr. V. J. Simone from the Department of Financial and Commercial Affairs.

Mrs. Giles spoke on the role of the bank with the consumer, stating various arrangements one's bank can make in the form of a loan. She also advised the audience not to worry to the point of having an ulcer if there is a shortage of money in the home, having an ulcer really doesn't help the problem and if the bank says "no" approach them again. During her speech, Mrs. Giles mentioned various humorous instances she has seen throughout her years as the first woman bank manager in Canada.

She also described the various loans her bank will make for the consumer including mortgages, home-maintenance, college funds and even taking a vacation. Mrs. Giles' place of employment has income tax consultants on its staff who will assist the bank's clients with their income tax problems for a small fee.

Vince Simone offered valuable advice for the women on the proper way to get a loan and who not to go to. He suggested that one never sign a legal document without an independent legal consultant. He also stressed the importance of educating the credit buyer about the legalities involved in obtaining a loan from a lender or broker.

The brokers charge a fee from one to 28 percent of the amount borrowed.

Mrs. Morphy thanked the guest speakers and everyone adjourned for lunch.

A Moment's Pause

Mrs. Lilah Lymburner, chairman of the Women's Advisory committee pauses for a moment behind scenes while she freshens her make-up, to chat with fashion show co-ordinator Mrs. Norma Wildgoose. Mrs. Lymburner and her committee concluded a full day's schedule when a women's conference was held at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall, here.

Successful Living

Little Brother Asks for Big Brother

Dear Ann Landers: I am fed up with articles and bored with speakers who insist that children from affluent families turn out to be rotters and bums. The statistics prove the contrary. Most achievers come from upper middle-class families with a strong tradition of service. Examine the record and you'll find that the leading industrialists; statesmen, physicians and artists do not come from disadvantaged homes. For example, look at the Rockefellers, the Fords, the Saltonstalls, Harrimans, Mellons, Kennedys —I could go on and on.

Please put an end to this old canard. Perhaps today's rich kid is not doomed after all.—Keen Observer

Dear Keen: To be a rich kid in the 70s is not the same as it was in the 20s. Today's teen-agers have the drug, Vietnam, pollution, drugs and parents who grew up in a depression. Now will tell how well they will do. Too often, it's "from shirt-sleeves to shirt-sleeves in three generations"—and that's a matter of record, too.

Dear Ann Landers: I was so pleased when I read that wonderful line in your column by the person who said: "We have four children. Two of them are adopted. I can't remember which ones."

My husband and I feel the same way about our adopted children. We have two others. It's amazing that our chosen youngsters bear a greater physical resemblance to my husband and me than the children I gave birth to. Some folks who don't know our two eldest are adopted often remark on how much Billy looks like his dad and how much Valerie resembles me.

When we took our eldest child from the home, the woman who handed him to us gave me this little poem. Please pass it along.

Not flesh of my flesh
Nor bone of my bone,
But still miraculously my own.

Never forget for a single minute,
You didn't grow under my heart,
But in it.

—Bowling Green, Ky.

Dear B.G.: Thank you on behalf of the thousands of adoptive parents whose sentiments are reflected in that little poem. It's lovely.

Dear Ann Landers: I am at war with our 16-year-old daughter. Marian does not get enough sleep and it's a constant battle to get her to bed at a reasonable hour. At 9 p.m. I start: Get off the phone. Lay out your clothes. Take a bath. Roll up your hair. Do your homework. But it seems I never start early enough. At 11 p.m. she's still poking around. Marion's light is never out before midnight. She must be up at 6:30 a.m. which is not enough rest for a growing girl.

I have to practically drag her out of bed in the morning. She sleeps right through the alarm. Frankly, I need more rest but can't get it because I have to stay up to make sure Marion goes to bed. Then I must be up at 6:30 a.m. to see she's up for school. I'm exhausted and disgusted. She tells me to get off her back. Any suggestions?—Weary Mary

Dear Weary: Yes. Get off her back. At 16-year-old girl is old enough to go to bed by herself and get up without help. Put the burden where it belongs—on her, and stop worrying. Some people require more rest than others. If Marion is late a few mornings, she'll shape up on her own. Part of her problem is you.

Home and School News

The third meeting of the school year of queen Elizabeth Home and School was held on Feb. 15 and was opened by the president, G. Botting. He announced that as part of the education week activities the school would hold an open night on Tuesday, March 7.

Mrs. V. Patterson introduced the speaker, R. H. Crighton, program consultant, learning materials, Ontario Department of Education Region 9 Office, Kingston. Mr. Crighton showed a filmstrip of school resource centres and a film which aimed to show that the resource centre can become an important part of the total learning program of the school when the librarian and teachers work as a team to plan the best use of resource materials.

During the refreshment period there were informal discussions on library standards.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONNELL

Will friends 'cure' loneliness?

YES, there is nothing like having an army of friends to do battle with loneliness. But they must be true friends, not merely acquaintances that someone collects to serve as a bulwark against being lonely. Each a person, of course, will not only wonder why he continues to have such a dread of loneliness, but he might also develop a sense of guilt because he cannot respond fully to the friendship that has been extended to him.

Can teeners survive without mirrors?

JUST BARELY; then they will have to rely on other teenagers to check to see how they are doing in the "appearance department." Of course, a teenaged boy is just as dependent on a mirror as is a teenaged girl. But not only has he seen that his hair is just the way he wants it, he must also "make a muscle" with his arms to be sure that he is not going to be in the "90-pound weakling" category in the school gym or on the beach.

Are crisis-free marriages the happiest?

NOT necessarily; nor is a tumultuous marriage any happier for the excitement that can accompany such wide swings in emotions and behavior. Sometimes, however, a husband and wife who seemed deliriously happy in a crisis-free marriage may be disturbed when they begin to run into abrupt changes. They may fight more all of a sudden, for one thing. Perhaps they are both unconsciously anxious to take a fresh look at their marriage.

First Girl to Take Marine Course

THUNDER BAY (CP) — "There is nothing like a dame," sang the sea-faring men of the musical, South Pacific.

Lois Callander, a petite 22-year-old Winnipegger, is making it a distinct possibility as she prepares to over-run yet another on the long list of crumbling male bastions.

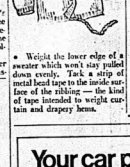
Miss Callander, who has spent the last four summers on deck learning the operations of a river boat, enrolled in January in a mariner's course at Confederation Community College in this Lake Superior port city.

If she passes the three-month course, she will receive a certificate as master of minor waters, entitling her to command any vessel of any tonnage in any of Canada's smaller bodies of water.

It would be just one step beyond that to become a captain on ships that ply inland waters like the Great Lakes, and after that, the high seas.

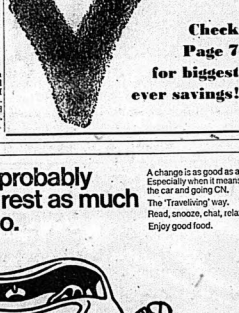
At the moment, however, it's just a matter of business for Lois would-be mariner, the first female ever to enter a marine course at the community college.

Miss Callander is part-owner of the River Rouge, a 400-passenger pleasure boat out of Winnipeg that makes chartered and public cruises on the Red River from May to October each year. Since 1967 she has been working on the River Rouge as a galley clerk, bookkeeper, stenographer and part-time deckhand.



Her boss Dan Ritchie, general operations manager and principal owner of the River Rouge, has encouraged her to learn boating operations and is keen with her for the marine course instructions.

The company has plans to expand to Toronto and Montreal, and Miss Callander wants to be part of it. "I'm looking forward to the day when I can get out and train a crew of men to run our boats the way we like them run."



Meanwhile, marriage-minded mariners are warned to keep their distance.

"I've got no use for marriage," she says. "I'm can keep your crying babies and dirty diapers. Maybe I'll change my mind when I'm about 50 years old, but there's too many things to do now to get myself married."

Reference to Affluent Irks Reader

By DORIS CLARK

A little brother, after waiting several months, wrote his social worker the following letter: "The reason why I am writing this letter is I wanted to know how long it would take to get me a Big Brother. I want a Big Brother because I haven't been having much fun. Like I have been getting into trouble which I shouldn't be doing. — so if you could, can you get me a Big Brother pretty soon?

Here are what some of our boys say about getting a Big Brother:

"A Big Brother ought to be able to tell me things like I ought to know before I grow older." age 10.

"I just maybe like to talk to a man once in a while. You know that I got five dumb sisters." — age 10.

"I think a Big Brother who hangs around for a while would be a good idea cuz I still have to grow up for a little." — age 11.

"I wish I had a Big Brother right now." — age 8.

The above is quoted from a newsletter of a Big Brother Association. Here a boy who lacks a father can get the companionship of a male adult. Big brothers don't take the place of fathers, but they can often mean the difference between a maladjusted fatherless boy and a well-adjusted adult, a few years from now.

Dear Doris: I have ruined my entire life at 13. I never minded my mother and I feel nothing but contempt for her now. She used to beat me and when I told my father she would beat me for telling him. Neither one cared about me except for my academic achievements.

I was well developed and I started liking this guy who was 15. He was the first person who ever told me of the glory of God. I now consider myself a Christian and Jesus has pulled me through a lot of sore times.

Then I fell for this guy 16. After going out a couple of times we went the limit and since then I have not been able to resist any boy who wants me.

I am grounded until Easter because I got caught with a boy. Why can't I trust guys? I love sex and I hate myself for loving it.—A Mess Of My Life.

Dear Mess: You seem to be starved for the love which should have been yours from your father and mother. They have failed to give you understanding; limiting themselves to punishing you when you do wrong.

Your response has been to accept what seems to you like love, wherever you find it.

Yet this is not what your new-found friend, Jesus would have you do. He would tell you that your body is too valuable to keep giving it away. You should be having carefree fun.

There are trained social workers who take an interest in teen-age girls. You will find one at your Family and Children's Services at Hastings County, 311 Front Street, Belleville.

A personal conversation with one of them can give you the backbone you need to make a new start.

To Hates To Waste Them: We have a sheet telling how to wrap and mail old Christmas cards to a couple of deserving Christian mission stations, one in India and one in Burma. I'll send you these detailed instructions if you'll write in with your address on your return stamped envelope.

(Doris Clark, Master of Social Work, is a graduate of McGill, Toronto and McMaster Universities, and has broad experience in social work. If you would like help with your problems, write to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Kennedy Heading For Home

FRANKFURT (AP) — Young Joe Kennedy and the other passengers from a hijacked West German airliner headed for their homes today. The Arab hijackers released the jumbo jet and 14 crew members they had been holding hostage for 40 hours at the airport in Aden, South Yemen.

Kennedy, the eldest son of the late senator Robert F. Kennedy, flew to Frankfurt, West Germany, with the other male passengers on a special Lufthansa Boeing 707. Women and children who were freed hours before the men arrived on an earlier flight.

None of the passengers was able to shed any light on the motives of the five hijackers, who said they were members of a Palestine liberation group in the Gaza Strip.

Yemeni authorities said the five hijackers had been detained for questioning.

Householders Scorn Coal

Twin brothers Jim and Frank Kerelle still run the Toronto coal business started by their grandfather 75 years ago, but it isn't much of a business anymore. In a city of almost 2.5 million people, their company is the largest of only three domestic coal retailers and they handle about 7,000 tons a year. (CP Photo)

Canadian Is Arrested in Australia

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — A man described by police as a most-wanted fugitive from Canada was arrested in a dawn raid on a Sydney suburban home Thursday.

Police refused to name the 35-year-old bearded man but said he was wanted by Canadian authorities for questioning in connection with the death of a police informant and the attempted murder of a prison warden and his son.

The man is alleged to have escaped from prison in British Columbia in 1966 while serving a six-year sentence for narcotics possession.

An informer later was killed, and the prison guard and his son were injured when they opened a Christmas parcel containing a bomb. The guard lost both hands, the son one eye.

Police sharpshooters surrounded the house in Jenkins Road, Carlingford, at 3 a.m. Three hours later a police squad armed with pistols and shotguns burst into the house and found the man cooking breakfast for a young woman and two children living there.

The man threw up his hands and backed against the kitchen wall.

Police seized two revolvers and a large quantity of ammunition.

Lakes Cleanup Pact Expected

TORONTO (CP) — Officials in the Ontario department of the environment remain optimistic that Canada and the United States will sign an agreement to clean up the Great Lakes despite a disclosure that the White House has vetoed a $141-million sewer disposal program.

James Auld, Ontario environment minister was expected to make a statement on the situation today, after consulting with federal and provincial negotiators in Washington.

One official said there has been no indication that the U.S. will not sign. He said there will be no dollar figures in the agreement, anyway.

In Ottawa, environment department sources said they doubt whether the veto of the sewer disposal plan by President Nixon would affect the joint Canada-U.S. agreement on fighting pollution in the Great Lakes.

The sources said it appears the sewage project is outside the Canada-U.S. agreement which is yet unsigned.

It has been estimated that the U.S. share of the cleanup to fulfil the agreement will cost $2 billion.

"It has as good a chance of being signed as it ever did," the provincial official said.

And once signed, the U.S. "just cannot lose that kind of face" by failing to live up to the terms.

Canada and Ontario signed a pact last summer to clean up their $300-million share of the polluted lower Great Lakes and work is going ahead, despite the pact being conditional on the international agreement.

The final draft will be finished at the beginning of March, the Ontario official said, and he speculated that an earlier version had already gone to President Nixon.

Besides municipal sewage, the pact will cover ship waste and pollution from agricultural runoff. It will emphasize levels of water quality to be reached within five years.

Washington sources had suggested the White House veto implied U.S. negotiators cannot conceal the U.S. as firmly as the hoped.

10-hour Driving Limit Is Urged

OTTAWA (CP) — In the interests of safety, truck drivers should not be permitted to drive more than 10 hours a day and their time on duty should be no more than 15 hours a day or 60 hours a week, a commission of inquiry has recommended to Labor Minister Martin O'Connell.

In a report released this week, commissioner C. A. L. Murchison states that the limits should be embedded in Part IV of the Canada Labor Code.

At present, the trucking industry is exempted from the hours-of-work provisions of Part III, Standards of the Code, Special regulations require only that overtime be paid after 10 hours of driving or 60 hours a week.

If implemented in regulations to be established later this year, Mr. Murchison's recommendations would apply to all truckers in the federal labor jurisdiction except livestock carriers, operators north of the 60th parallel and oilfield service carriers.

Noting that oilfield drivers now work up to 100 hours a week and more, the commissioner comments that the drivers "are a hardy breed" and that overtime pay is the only compensation for life in remote areas.

Mrs. Nixon Beats Out Zoo

TORONTO (CP) — Cecilia Long, chairman of the Metropolitan Toronto Zoological Society, is discouraged.

She has spent more than two years unsuccessfully trying to obtain a pair of pandas bears from China for the Metro zoo.

Now, China has given two pandas bears from China for the Metro zoo.

Now, China has given two such bears to President Richard Nixon of the United States.

She sent a letter Wednesday outlining her predicament to Mitchell Sharp, federal minister of external affairs.

What also disturbs her is that the two monkeys being given China by the U.S. are from the Alberta Game Farm and the Canadian Arctic.

Shulman Says He's Failure

GUELPH (CP) — Dr. Morton Shulman said Wednesday he does not plan to write a book about his political career because it has been too short and too unsuccessful.

The outspoken New Democratic Party member of the legislature for Toronto High Park, author of the best-selling book Anyone Can Make A Million, also reiterated that he would never again run for political office.

Dr. Shulman, following an address to about 1,000 students at the University of Guelph, also denied a rumor that he was considering leadership of the Ontario Liberal party.

He added that Robert Nixon, the Liberal leader who announced earlier this month he would vacate the position, would have made a great premier of Ontario.

But when you look at him you say:

"What, that fargot? But like Stephen Lewis (leader of the provincial NDP), Nixon had great potential.

"Lewis turns people off because they are afraid of him, but he is by far the best speaker in the legislature and could have done more for the NDP by not running."

Pen Prisoners Go First Class

KINGSTON (CP) — When you have to go, you might as well go first class.

That's the attitude York County takes when it sends prisoners to Kingston penitentiary from the Don Jail in Toronto.

The prisoners go in a flashy, expensive limousine which is rented by the county.

"We haven't any access to a wagon and we can't just hail a taxi to transport them," explained D. C. Carter, deputy sheriff for York, in an interview Wednesday.

Mr. Carter said his department is responsible for the prisoners until they are behind bars in Kingston and that the large cars permit better security.

Some prisoners arriving at Ontario's largest penitentiary also come by train.

On the average, about eight men arrive by train each week. They have five guards, usually retired Toronto policemen.

Leftists Hold Japanese Wife

KARUIZAWA, Japan (Reuter) — Left-wing revolutionaries who have been holding a Japanese housewife hostage in her mountain villa here for five days beat back a police teargas attack with rifle fire Wednesday.

The police retreated after lobbing more than 20 teargas grenades at the barricaded villa, where an estimated five gunmen are holding 31-year-old Mrs. Yasuko Muta.

Mrs. Muta, who suffers from anemia, has not been seen since she was grabbed by the gunmen as they fled from a gun battle with police last Saturday.

Police have expressed concern for her health.

Bobcats Open Flood Gates on Crushmen in 5-3 Overtime Win

By RANDY DERRY

The Belleville Bobcats were wondering if a goal would ever come in their Junior B playoff game with Oshawa Orchard Park tonight. It finally did, the flood gates were opened and the locals netted four unanswered tallies, including two in a ten-minute overtime period, en route to a 5-3 victory.

The win puts the Bobcats in the driver's seat with a 3-1 badge in the best-of-seven final series against the Crushmen. The fifth and possibly deciding game will be Friday night in Oshawa. Game time is 8 p.m. If a sixth game is necessary, it will be played Sunday at 8 in the Memorial Arena.

Belleville started off fast, swarming the Oshawa net but sporadic shooting and steady goaltending by Mark Logan kept the home team off the scoreboard until the six-minute mark of the third period.

The visitors made the best of their few chances potting two first - period goals on only seven shots.

After a scoreless second period, Belleville finally got onto the board when Dave Smith picked up a pass from Brian Cousins and blazed a drive from the right wing past a startled Logan.

The stalemate short lived, however, when Rene Beauchemin capitalized on the Bobcats' inability to clear the puck and upped the visitor's lead to 2-1 six minutes later.

But the Bobcats kept the pressure on and it paid off nearly 22 seconds after Oshawa's third goal when defenceman John Mahrlitt boomed a point shot into the lower left corner. Three minutes later Jeff Howard picked up his first of two goals taking a pass from Rick Meagher in front of the net and backhanding a shot past Logan sending the game into overtime.

The final two minutes of the third could have meant the game for Belleville with Rick Meagher missing on a breakaway attempt and brother Terry slipping a deflection past an open corner.

Belleville forechecking produced what proved to be the winning goal in the 10-minute overtime period when centre Rick Meagher banged a shot in off the goal post from the face-off two minutes into overtime. Jeff Howard wrapped it up three minutes later taking a pass again from Rick Meagher and flicking it by Logan while being pulled down from behind.

"It didn't look like we could buy a goal for the first two periods," commented an elated Mac Hunter. "But the boys never quit playing. That was our best game of the year and after that first goal there was no stopping us."

Hunter credited his defence corps for keeping Oshawa off-balance with some hard body-checking in giving Bobcat goalie Bill Cormier a relatively easy time of it. Cormier handled 29 shots, including two big glove saves in the overtime period. The Bobcats fired 35 shots at Logan.

"We made only three mistakes the whole game but they put them in the net," reflected Hunter. "I was sure we were going to win but I was beginning to wonder for a while."

Manager Jim Mathews echoed the team's jubilation at being on the verge of knocking off the Crushmen. "This is the best team out of Belleville in a long time. I've been through a lot of lean years and I'm enjoying it now!"

Juvenile rookie Rick Meagher was the biggest threat for Belleville, picking up two assists along with his game winner to lead the Bobcats scoring parade. Howard, with two goals, and Cousins with two assists were next with two points while Terry Meagher, Peter Ackerman and Cliff Janitsch picked up an assist each.

Marcel Lukas and Tom Newton fired the first-period goals for Oshawa, who drew seven of the games 11 penalties.

The Bobcats will be hoping to wrap the series up in Oshawa Friday night and earn a rest before taking on the pennant - winning Peterborough Lions who swept their series four straight over Kingston Frontenacs with a 9-1 win last night.

Biding His Time

Belleville Bobcats' Dave Smith waits for a chance at a rebound during Eastern Ontario Junior B playoff act ion with Oshawa at the Memorial Arena Wednesday. Smith, flanked by Oshawa goalie Mark Logan and defenceman Chuck Lukas, scored the first Belleville goal to spark a comeback that resulted in a 5-3 over time win and a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series.

West Best

TWEED — The trophy for annual competition between district Ontario Provincial Police detachments stayed west as the Picton-Belleville-Deseroft - Madoc OPP combines downed their eastern opponents from Kaladar, Kingston, Napanee, and Sharbot Lake 5-5 Wednesday night.

The trophy, also won by the west last year, will be kept this year at Belleville's district headquarters.

NEW YORK (AP) —Defenceman Jim Dorey underwent surgery Wednesday to correct a shoulder separation suffered Tuesday night in his first game with New York Rangers. Dorey was acquired only Sunday from Toronto Maple Leafs for forward Pierre Jarry.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The Hennepin County grand jury has ruled the death of Daniel H. Meyer, president of Salt Lake City Golden Seals professional hockey team, a suicide. The jury Tuesday found no foul play in the Jan. 25 death of Meyer, who fell from the 19th floor of the Radisson South Hotel to the roof of the hotel swimming pool.

Lever Leader

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Don Lever of Niagara Falls Flyers has passed the 100-point mark and increased his lead in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A scoring race to six points.

Lever scored five goals and picked up two assists during the last week to give him 104 points on 51 goals and 53 assists.

Dave Gardner of Toronto Marlboros is second with 98 goals and a league-leading 59 assists for 98 points.

Gardner's line-mates, Bill Harris and Steve Shutt, are third and fifth, respectively. London Knights' Dennis Ververgaert is fourth. Shutt leads in goals with 52.

Michel Larocque of Ottawa 67s has the lowest goals-against average, 3.38, and the most shutouts, four, among goaltenders in the 16-team series.

Owners Go Separate Ways

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Eugene V. Klein and Samuel F. Schulman used to be co-owners of football's San Diego Chargers and basketball's Seattle Supersonics. But no more.

Klein said Wednesday he has purchased Schulman's 24½ per cent interest in the Chargers, giving him 49 per cent ownership.

Schulman previously had purchased Klein's 18 per cent interest in the Supersonics.

"Sam is more interested in basketball and I definitely am more interested in football," Klein explained. "Accordingly, he sold me his interests in the Chargers just as I had sold him mine in the basketball team."

Filion Followers Had Better Hurry!

KINGSTON (Special) — Any harness racing fans eager to see world champion driver Herve Filion racing on Sunday's Frontenac Downs card had better make good time to the track.

Reserved seats are booked solid for the ten-heat program which will be highlighted by Filion's appearance. Filion won more than 500 races and more than $1,700,000 in purses in 1971, and received the Hal Marsh Trophy as Canada's outstanding athlete.

Wemp drove two winners to move back into second place in the dash lead with 30 wins. Leader Bob Sleeth is closing in on the 40 plateau.

Wemp drove Stewart's Tartan to its first win of the year and Scotch Blake to the pacer's sixth win in 15 starts.

Ideas Kicked Around

TRENTON — Members of the Bay of Quinte Soccer Association were kicking ideas around at their first organizational meeting Wednesday night.

It was generally agreed upon that closer liaison was desirable between the men's league and district minor soccer programs, and this feeling was reflected in the election of officers.

Art Banks, president of Trenton minor soccer, was chosen vice-president of the Association, while Belleville Minor Soccer worker Fred Jones was chosen executive officer.

President of the Bay of Quinte League, which will consist of at least last year's eight-team entry, will be Bill Letford. Peter Crowle will serve as secretary and Bill Lucas as treasurer.

Included on Wednesday's agenda was the planning of a weekend Ontario Soccer Association referee and coaching clinic, to be held sometime in March

Exams Criticized

Fight Inquest Recommended

WINNIPEG (CP) — The pre-fight medical examination of boxers was criticized Wednesday by the man who examined light-heavyweight Stewart Gray, who died after being knocked out in a title bout Monday night with Canadian champion Al Sparks of Winnipeg.

Gray, 27, of Toronto, was knocked out in the seventh round by Sparks, and except for a brief period early Tuesday was unconscious until his death Tuesday night.

Dr. J. Reid Taylor, a Winnipeg neuro-surgeon who examined Gray at the pre-fight medical, said the present system of examination is impractical.

He said the doctors see the fighters around noon, give them a brief examination and the boxers fight that night.

"We'd have to get a week's notice before they came to be sure they got a complete history, physical and medical examination.

"It would take an awful lot of work and reconsideration and redoing of the whole plan to give them a complete physical," Dr. Taylor said "We'd have to be able to spend a day or two, preferably two, to give them the works.

"If this is what the boxing and wrestling commission wants, we can do it, but it is impractical the way the situation is now."

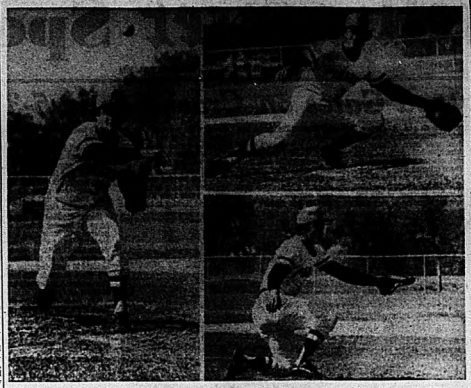
An inquest into Gray's death is expected but a decision will not be made until police complete their report on the incident.

An inquest was recommended by Dr. W. L. Parker, Manitoba's chief medical examiner, who said an autopsy performed early Wednesday showed Gray had died of a cerebral edema, or increased fluid on the brain.

He said "as far as we can conclude" the condition was a result of blows to the head.

The Manitoba boxing and wrestling commission continued its investigation into the death despite the absence of Gray's manager, Ivy Ungerman, who commission chairman Norm Coston said refused to appear.

He asked him three times and he would not come," Coston said. "He wanted to discuss it in the hotel lobby. I'm not going to do business in a hotel lobby."



Ungerman denied having refused to give a report to the commission. He said Coston had called him and wanted him to appear but "I had a hundred things to do and at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon the doctor told me I had better make funeral arrangements.

"My boy was dying and his (Coston) wanted me to go up to his offices.

"I didn't refuse to give a report. But he said I'd better be in his office Wednesday morning at nine o'clock or he'd take steps to make sure I was there."

Ungerman said, "If there is an inquest, I'll be there."

Coston said he was sure Ungerman would appear at an inquest. "That's a legal hearing."

Sox Expecting Lot from Allen

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"The Chicago club judges Richie Allen on what he does for us on the field," White Sox manager Chuck Tanner said after the Chisox dealt pitcher Tommy John and infielder Steve Huntz to Los Angeles Dodgers for the 28-year-old slugger.

The Chicago club must be expecting a lot.

Allen agreed Wednesday to a 1972 contract for more than $100,000, making him the highest-paid player in White Sox history.

Allen, who spent seven tempestuous seasons with Philadelphia Phillies, will be playing for his fourth club in four seasons. He hit 23 home runs and drove in 90 runs with the Dodgers in 1971.

While Allen was presumably content, a couple of other prominent American League sluggers were not-at least, not yet.

Harmon Killebrew is one of eight Minnesota Twins still unsigned, while Frank Howard is not expected in the Texas Rangers' training camp for "quite a while," says general manager Joe Burke.

Killebrew, 35, earned $110,000 last year and is expected to agree to a raise of about $10,000.

Howard, however, is another story.

After a big year—44 homers, 126 runs batted in—in 1970, Howard received a $120,000 contract. Now he's coming off his least productive season in five years—28 homers, 83 RBI and a .279 batting average—and the club is asking him to take the maximum 20-per-cent pay cut.

Howard, meanwhile, is asking for a raise.

"We aren't even in the same ball park," Burke said. "I don't expect him for quite a while, maybe as long as three weeks."

San Francisco pitchers Juan Marichal and Jerry Johnson remained absent from camp, and the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates came to terms with pitcher Nelson Briles, for about $50,000.

Elsewhere, Atlanta Braves signed veteran knuckleballer Phil Niekro; reliever Sparky Lyle agreed to terms with Boston Red Sox.

Jo Jo White's jump shot from the top of the key with 13 seconds to play gave Boston Celtics a 115-114 National Basketball Association victory Wednesday night over the scrappy Cleveland Cavaliers.

The Boston victory enabled the Celtics to pad their divisional lead over the idle New York Knicks to three games.

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Bill Shoemaker stood up with a youthful bounce and said with quiet confidence: "It's time to go out and do my thing."

That for the 40-year-old Shoemaker has been finishing first on thoroughbred horses more than any other jockey in history—a record upped to 6,032 with a victory in Wednesday's program at Santa Anita.

And before the week is out, odds are that he'll be the all-time stakes winner after tying the retired Eddie Arcaro's record of 554 last Monday. He smashed Johnny Longden's career winning record of 6,032 in 1970.

* * *

How much longer can the 4-foot-11, 108-pound millionaire, a 22-year veteran, continue as a jockey?

After he wins his 555th stakes race, Shoemaker said his last goal will be to win 100 —"at least that many"—races with purses of $100,000 or more. He already holds the record at 91.

Ring Death Fifth

TORONTO (CP) — The death of light-heavyweight Stewart Gray in Winnipeg Tuesday was only the fifth recorded fatality in Canadian amateur and professional boxing but one of more than 200 in the world.

Gray, 27-year-old native of Windsor, N.S., fighting out of Toronto, died in a Winnipeg hospital after he was knocked out in the seventh round of a Canadian title bout with champion Al Sparks Monday night.

Frank Allout, a member of the Ontario Athletics Commission and the Canadian Professional Boxing Federation's ratings committee and a correspondent for Ring magazine, said Wednesday the first boxing fatality in Canada occurred in 1913.

He said records for world boxing fatalities, in both amateur and professional rings, have been kept only since 1945.

There were at least 200 that he could recall, including the death of Danny Tucker of Montreal last July 27.

The first fight death in Canada was that of Luther McCarthy in May, 1913, after a light-heavyweight bout with Arthur Pelkey.

That fight was promoted by Tommy Burns in a barn in Calgary," Allout said. "And an interesting thing is that the barn burned down the night after the fight and Pelkey never won another bout afterwards."

Alex Chisolm, 23, of Ohio, died of a brain injury following his middleweight bout Nov. 3, 1950, against Roy Sutherland.

Tucker, 25, died in a Montreal hospital last July after he slumped to the canvas in a bizarre junior welterweight bout with Reynald Cantin, also of Montreal.

Cantin was awarded a technical knockout by the referee who stopped the fight just seconds before Tucker collapsed.

Gray's death Tuesday shows some parallel circumstances with those of Chisolm's death in 1950.

A coroner's jury found Chisolm died of a knockout blow which was "received while he was in sub-normal physical condition".

The jury was told by Chisholm's father that he had suffered head injuries in an auto accident a week before the fight but insisted on continuing with the bout.

Ivy Ungerman, Gray's manager, said Wednesday the fighter's wife told him after the Winnipeg bout that Gray had been involved in a truck accident about two months ago.

She said he had never seemed the same after that, but that he wouldn't tell anybody about it," Ungerman said.

Twins Repeat

CLEVELAND (CP) — Twin sisters Sharon and Shirley Firth of Inuvik, N.W.T., are dominating the Trans-Am Cup Nordic series for jumping and cross-country skiing.

The two Olympic skiers finished one-two in the five-kilometre event Wednesday night at Chesterland Township near here, a repeat of their performance Tuesday in the same event at Theodore Wirth Park in Minneapolis.

Sharon won the event in 18 minutes flat, three minutes faster than her time Tuesday. Her 18-year-old twin sister Shirley was second in 18.17, also faster than her time of 21:04 Tuesday. Marika Rockwell of Putney, Vt., and [illegible]n, again finished third, in 18:58.

Hornets Trounce Oaks

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Galt Hornets took a 3-0 lead in this first best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Senior A playoff series Wednesday night by trouncing the Oaks 5-1 at Oakville.

In other quarter-final playoff action, the Terriers nipped Woodstock Royals 7-2 at Orillia in the first game of their best-of-seven series.

Duffy McCarthy scored for Oakville.

For Orillia, Al Osborne, Grant Moore, Mike Corbet, Jim Keon, Clare Alexander, Charlie Cipolla and Garrie Vaughan contributed single goals.

Pete Darcy and Gene Mc Laren replied for Woodstock.

Galt plays host to Oakville Saturday for the third game in their series, while the fourth game will be played Sunday at Oakville.

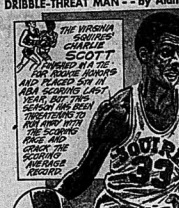
The Terriers and the Royals play their second game Friday night at Woodstock with the third game Saturday in Orillia.

A semi-final series gets under way Friday at Barrie when the Flyers take on Kingston Aces in the first of their best-of-seven schedule. The second game will be Sunday at Kingston.

Grant Supports Hockey

OTTAWA (CP) — Part of a $222,000 federal grant to Hockey Canada for development and promotion of amateur hockey in Canada will be used to help implement four 1971-72 winter programs.

They are:



—A scholarship and bursary program, in its second year, to help hockey players continue their academic studies;

—A continuation of the 1970 university hockey tournament, involving 12 Canadian teams;

—A series of tests for boys aged 8 to 12 to assess their basic hockey skills and ability and measure improvement;

—A coaching certification program, a 10-lecture series in the fall and spring night school program at 15 community colleges.

Approach Three Records

Rangers' GAG Line Far From Silent

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

New York's GAG Line is on the verge of establishing two National Hockey League records and could set a third if it continues its torrid scoring pace.

The line, so named earlier in the season after it began scoring a goal a game, was true to form Wednesday night, scoring two goals in the Rangers' 4-1 victory over Philadelphia Flyers.

In other games, Buffalo Sabres, with an assist from their opponents, defeated Chicago Black Hawks 3-1, Boston Bruins rallied to beat California Golden Seals 8-6, Toronto Maple Leafs shut out Pittsburgh Penguins 3-0 and St. Louis Blues blanked Los Angeles Kings by the same score.

Jean Ratelle, the leading scorer on the GAG Line, got his 46th goal of the season, scoring in the second period against Philadelphia. Vic Hadfield also scored, his 40th. Rod Gilbert, the third member of the line, did not score Wednesday night but he is only one goal away from his 40th and when he reaches that mark the line will become the first in NHL history to have each member with 40 or more goals in a season.

Additionally, the line is close to establishing a record of having each member score 100 points or more in a season. Gilbert is nine points and Hadfield 11 away from 100 points while Ratelle, who replaced Boston's Phil Esposito as the NHL's scoring leader, has 106 points.

"The Ratelle-Hadfield-Gilbert line also has 288 points for the season, 48 short of the record set last season by the Esposito line.

—Ken Hodge-Wayne Cashman line.

Ratelle's goal Wednesday night was the eighth straight game in which he scored, leaving him two short of the NHL record of 10 shared by Gainer Ranger Andy Bathgate and Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks.

He also assisted on two goals to increase his points-total to 108, one more than Esposito.

The Black Hawks, who have lost only three games at home all season, dropped their second straight as Chicago mainly because of a miscue by a player.

An unfortunate kick of the puck by Chicago forward Christian Bordeleau deposited the puck into the Black Hawks' net to give Buffalo its win. Craig Ramsay was credited with the goal.

Earlier, after Jim Pappin had scored the opening goal for Chicago, the Sabres tied it when a clearing pass bounced off Gerry Meehan's strikes past Chicago goalie Tony Esposito.

The Sabres got brilliant netminding from Dave Dryden, who was making his first start in 23 games. He credited "frustration" for his sharp performance in the nets.

"I just got so tired of practising and not playing for two months that this game was just fun," he said.

The Bruins, who were involved in a five-man trade Wednesday with California which sent all-star defenseman Carol Vadnais to Bruins, were trailing the Seals 6-1 before the game was half over.

But the Bruins exploded for two goals late in the second period and five more in the third to sink the Seals, who got two goal performances from Gary Croteau and Dick Redmond in the early stages of the game. Rich Smith and Reg Leach, two of the players Boston gave up to get Vadnais, each assisted on a goal for California.

Fred Sasfeld scored three goals for the Bruins to put them back in the game but it was Esposito's two goals less than three minutes apart that won the game for the Bruins. East Division leaders. Bobby Orr assisted on four goals.

Goalie Bernie Parent, who announced Tuesday he would jump to the rival World Hockey Association next year, gave the Leafs shutout goaltending and moved them back into a tie for fourth place in the NHL's East. Brad Selwood and Ron Ellis scored for the Leafs, who were coached by vice-president Jim Clancy after regular coach John McLellan was admitted to hospital a few hours before the game to undergo tests for a stomach ailment.

General manager Jim Gregory said McLellan was in fact ill and added: "I don't want any rumors to the effect that he is in the dog house."

Rookie goalie Jacques Caron posted his first NHL shutout as St. Louis blanked the Kings. Goals by Jack Egers and Terry Crisp were all the Blues needed.

The victory, combined with California's loss to Boston, moved the Blues into third place in the West Division.

In games tonight, Montreal Canadiens visit the North Stars at Minnesota, Vancouver Canucks play the Red Wings at Detroit and Chicago plays in Buffalo.

Russians Recover from 'Fatigue'

MONTREAL (CP) — Clare Drake, coach of the Canadian student national hockey team, got a pretty good idea Wednesday night of the type of competition his club will be facing in the World Student Games later this month.

Drake and close to 4,200 fans turned out to watch the Russian student hockey team blank a contingent of Quebec University Athletic Association all-stars 5-0.

"They were very impressive," Drake said after the game.

"I was sitting with Tom Watt and he said they played better on a bigger rink than they did in Toronto Tuesday night."

The Russians were beaten 5-1 by the University of Toronto Blues, coached by Watt, Tuesday night at Varsity Arena in Toronto.

Yuri Chekoriev, an official with the Russian team, said his club was tired for the game against the Blues because of a long 13-hour flight from Moscow to Montreal and a subsequent flight to Toronto.

But the Russians showed little effects of the trip against the Quebec team, which had representatives from seven of eight OUAA teams.

The visitors displayed a crisp passing attack and held a 36-shot margin in shots on goal.

The Estimates

Foreign Aid Up $67 Million

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's foreign aid bill increases by about $67 million in the fiscal year starting April 1.

Spending estimates presented to the Commons Wednesday place foreign aid spending at $491 million, compared with $424 million this year.

Also forecast is a hefty increase in expenditures by the external affairs department—separate from the program of economic assistance to developing countries—to $109 million from $96 million.

Officials said the bulk of the New System

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal spending estimates for the fiscal year starting April 1 are lighter in one category by about $107 million because of a change in bookkeeping for unemployment insurance.

Only $1,339,000 is budgeted for the Unemployment Insurance Commission—the cost of its administration—compared with $108,461,000 earmarked at last count for the current financial year.

Under a new system introduced this year, federal government contributions to the insurance fund will consist essentially of paying all unemployment benefits—the cost of jobless in excess of four per cent of the work force.

Therefore, the amount the government has to pay will be calculated in retrospect and will show up in future estimates. If the unemployment rate should drop to four per cent and stay there, the government would pay nothing.

increase will be for higher personnel costs and increased contributions to international organizations such as the United Nations and its specialized agencies.

Officials said the $491 million allocated for foreign aid amounts to about .49 per cent of Canada's gross national product for the current calendar year, projected at $100 billion.

In the 1971-72 fiscal year, Canada's foreign aid allocation of $424 million was about .47 per cent of the gross national product.

Canada undertook two years ago to increase annually the proportion of GNP devoted to international development assistance.

Estimates figures refer only to official foreign aid—that provided by the government. This does not include development assistance in the form of private investment abroad.

The annual aid allocation as given in the estimates for the Canadian International Development Agency is $483 million. An additional $7 million is provided in the estimates of the finance department.

Public Works

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government plans to spend $72,675,000 on major public works projects in Ontario during the fiscal year beginning April 1, including $54,740,000 in Ottawa.

The government's 1972-73 spending estimates tabled in the Commons Wednesday call for $17,935,000 to be spent on seven major projects outside Ottawa.

The Estimates

Defence Spending Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's defence spending will rise by an estimated $48 million in the fiscal year 1972-73.

This increase, largest in some years, will increase anticipated defence costs to $1,942 billion, compared with an estimated $1,894 billion in the fiscal year ending March 31.

Estimates tabled in the Commons Wednesday show that despite the projected over-all defence increase, capital expenditures on new items will markedly decline.

Capital spending is given as $148 million, compared with $346 million in the 1971-72 estimates.

By contrast, operational and maintenance costs are expected to rise to $1,448 billion against $1,353 billion estimated last year.

The spending estimates are nearly seven per cent more than the ceiling of $1.815 billion imposed on the defence budget three years ago. The current year was to be the last of the freeze.

However, the budget has been creeping steadily upward despite the nominal hold, largely because of special allowances made on account of the forces' role in stimulating the economy and in recognition of the cost of pay raises granted to service personnel.

In a breakdown of program activities of the armed forces, protection of Canada is listed as the main expenditure item: $515 million, compared with $475 million in the fiscal year now ending.

Canada's contribution to North American defence will cost an estimated $346 million as against $326 million. Its contribution to NATO an estimated $280 million, compared with $269 million in the current year. Canada's role in international peacekeeping will cost some $3 million more at $19 million.

Cultural Costs Up 20 Per Cent

OTTAWA (CP) — Government spending on cultural activities and the CBC is to jump by 21 per cent in the next fiscal year, beginning April 1.

The CBC, which is planning extensive expansions, gets $207 million in grants, compared with $181 million this year. Cultural programs in the secretary of state's department go up to $20.3 million from $64.6 million, say the federal spending estimates issued Wednesday.

The Canada Council will pay $34.9 million in grants, compared with $26.3 million this year.

Other increases in cultural activities are for the Canadian Film Development Corp., up to $430,000 from $342,000; Canadian Radio-Television Commission, up $4.4 million from $4.3 million; National Arts Centre in Ottawa up to $3.5 million from $2.9 million; National Film Board, up $13.6 million from $11.2 million; national library, up $2.5 million from $4 million; National Museums of Canada, up $117 million from $1.4 million; and public archives, up $3.7 million from $2.7 million.

Collecting Tax Up 20 Per Cent

OTTAWA (CP) — Apart from the taxes you pay, Canada's new taxation system effective last Jan. 1 is already costing a bit of money.

Estimated costs of operating the revenue department's taxation division in 1972-73 is about 20 per cent higher than the current year and officials say this is largely due to the new system.

Although the collection process won't begin for another year, officials say the division is already building up its administrative machinery for the change.

And that is the chief reason why the division's estimated expenditures are rising to $121,110,000 from last year's $100,223,000.

The Estimates

How Your Tax Dollar Is Spent

OTTAWA (CP) — With this year's spending estimates the government has again produced a glossy little booklet to answer Canadians that their well-being comes first when it comes to spending their money.

The new How YOUR Tax Dollar is Spent doesn't have the tear-jerking qualities of last year's—when the government was depicted as a harried householder trying to stretch a budget for the benefit of his children. But it clearly shows the government has forgotten nobody.

It tells how the government toils over its spending programs to ensure it will "meet the needs of the people and the country as a whole, from the fisherman in Newfoundland to the housewife in British Columbia and to the child on Baffin Island."

The book, incidentally, is free at Information Canada offices.

The first edition was issued last year when the government acknowledged, in masterful understatement, that the massive book of official spending estimates "is not your everyday light reading."

For bedside tables, it prescribed How YOUR Tax Dollar is Spent.

It said:

"For your family it may be in the form of a family allowance cheque, or the enjoyment of a national park . . . public building or a new seaplane treatment plant.

In explaining increased expenditures on culture and recreation—the CBC takes up more than half of this—the booklet talks about the growing pride in the "developing reputation of Canadian artists. . . .

There was even something nice to say about the country's $46 billion debt. Most of the $2,100 million debt costs, the booklet says, "is paid to Canadians in the form of interest payments on bonds held by them."

Airports Account For Big Share

OTTAWA (CP) — Air service expenditures account for the biggest share of the $367,626,000 the transport department's capital expenditures estimate for the 1972-73 fiscal year, tabled in the Commons Wednesday.

The estimates show $203,210,000 for major projects allocated by location, $23,148,000 for projects identified but not allocated and $41,270,000 for miscellaneous items, including projects under $250,000 in value.

The two largest items include additions, improvements, land acquisition and construction at airports in Montreal and Toronto, at a total estimated cost of $126,603,000.

Also included in unallocated estimates this year is $11,200,000 for the first phase of development of a STOL (short takeoff and landing) air transport system.

The Montreal airport expenditures include $70,473,000 for development of the new international airport at St. Scholastique, 25 miles north of downtown Montreal.

The Toronto airport projects include $42,766,000 for land acquisition, planning, construction and design of a second airport in Toronto for which a site has yet to be chosen.

There is a further $15,297,000 expenditure for repairs, additions and improvements to the Malton airport, Toronto.

Welfare Up

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government plans to spend $532.9 million on welfare during the 1972-73 fiscal year, an increase of $58.1 million over the current fiscal year ending March 31.

Most of the increase comes from payments under the Canada assistance plan to the provinces. These jump to $402.6 million from $441.2 million, the federal spending estimates issued Wednesday show.

Running Out

OTTAWA (CP) — If the federal prices and incomes commission is to have its life extended for a second time, there is no indication of it in the government's new spending estimates tabled Wednesday.

The commission, due to expire next June 30, has been allocated $469,000, compared with the $1,979,000 estimated last year when it had a scheduled nine months remaining.

The Personal Car
For The Family Man!!

The 1972 Buick Centurion. A clean, personal car with motion styling.

We gave it a distinctive sporty grille and distinctive sporty styling. It looks like no other car. It looks like no other Buick.

With our biggest engine, the 455-Cubic-Inch V-8 that runs on low-lead, no lead or regular gasoline!

But listen to this. It's built on a 124-inch wheelbase. It seats six adults comfortably. And we mean comfortably. It has variable-ratio power steering, power disc brakes and Turbo Hydramatic transmission. All standard equipment.

It has Buick's traditional comfortable ride, but its unique stability comes from Accu-Drive, Buick suspension system that takes bumpy roads, curving roads, even heavy cross winds with ease.

We just know there are a lot of people who like the personal car idea. But also have families who need room.

The reason for our 1972 Centurion.

Take your family to a Buick dealer this week. You'll all agree. You can have your cake and eat it too.

Pepin Speaks

Industrial Strategy Plans Are Coming in Few Months

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's promised Industrial strategy will be announced in the next few months, Industry Minister Jean-Luc Pepin told the Commons Wednesday.

He was speaking during the fourth of eight days of Commons debate on last Thursday's throne speech, in which the industrial strategy was among the policy plans sketched by the government for the current parliamentary session.

The debate continues today.

Mr. Pepin said he will, in coming weeks, outline the problems involved in making necessary compromises and setting priorities. He will also give the history of various sectors of the economy and suggest how the new strategy will be put into effect.

He said his officials are already talking to businessmen, getting their views about the new "global" approach to economic planning.

The Wednesday sitting ended with the Liberal majority outvoting the three opposition parties to defeat Social Credit and Conservative amendments to the Liberal motion approving the throne speech.

The amendments charged the government with mismanaging economy.

In the Senate's throne-speech debate, Opposition Leader Jacques Flynn (Quebec) said the government is guilty of chronic mishandling of the economy.

He accused the government of economic bungling and excessive interference in the economy, saying it was run by men "who long ago cast their lot with the noisy anti-capitalists of the left."

In the Commons, Mr. Pepin said Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield had been pious in urging an overall industrial strategy that would spur growth in all sectors.

The problem, the minister said, is to reconcile conflicting goals within an economic plan and decide what aims are most important.

He also defended government handling of the trade talks with the United States, saying it has been combining flexibility with toughness.

He said that to disclose the government's bargaining position in the negotiations would destroy its chances of success.

He said the government is making unprecedented efforts to increase exports to other countries, citing trade missions he has led abroad and invitations to foreign businessmen to visit Canada.

Leaks of Cabinet Documents Called Criminal by Trudeau

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau Wednesday described leaks of cabinet documents as "criminal acts."

He said in the Commons that charges will be placed if the culprits are found.

Mr. Trudeau was replying to George Hees (PC—Prince Edward-Hastings) who asked about results of an investigation into the leak of cabinet papers last fall, including a version of the Gray report on foreign ownership.

Earlier, Gerald Baldwin, Conservative House leader, described as a leak a Toronto Star report of a memorandum to the cabinet by Revenue Minister Herb Gray on how government should be made public.

Mr. Baldwin said the government's intentions about publishing its policy comprise a catalogue of "confusion and deception."

Mr. Trudeau said later in reply to David Lewis, NDP leader, the government planned to make its policy known before now but the leak in the Canadian Forum of the Gray report required more time to be put into preparation of the background material.

The prime minister said leaks do not speed up publication but have the contrary result.

Stelco Workers Want $1.20 an Hour Raise

HAMILTON (CP) — Production employees at the Steel Co. of Canada Ltd. plant agreed Wednesday night to contract proposals calling for wage increases of about $1.20 an hour plus major fringe benefit improvements over three years.

The proposals were drafted by the negotiating committee for Local 1005 of the United Steelworkers of America, representing about 12,000 Stelco employees at the plant.

Parked Trains Said Dangerous

Parked trains standing on a second track just west of the Dundas St. East - CPR level crossing, are creating a potentially dangerous situation for motorists using the east end level crossing.

This is the opinion of Allan R. Gardiner, 18 Woodland Acres, who in a letter to city hall has asked that something be done about the matter.

Mr. Gardiner says a standing train could give the impression that it had just cleared the crossing, and even though the crossing wig-wag was operating, motorists could be tempted to proceed across the tracks only to find another train was approaching.

He suggested that consideration be given to the installation of crossing gates, thus reducing the possibility of a serious accident.

Committee members agreed that parked trains could create a danger, but with prospects of a grade separation at the Dundas Street East crossing within the next few years, Alderman E. A. Orr wondered whether this was the time to press for crossing gates.

It was decided that a letter go out from the traffic committee to the CPR expressing concern over the potential danger.

Snowmobile Recovered

Dennis Maher of Point Anne wasn't enjoying the heavy fall of snow this past weekend. Someone stole his snowmobile when he was visiting in Shannonville, Friday.

Ontario Provincial Police were informed of the vehicle's presence on Montrose Road, 6½-miles west of Belleville, at 6 a.m. Tuesday.

Moment of Truth

The Rainmaker, produced by the Belleville Theatre Guild, opened Wednesday night to a discouraging audience of 40. Here Clive Hitchon, playing Starbuck, meets with Lizzie, played by Linda Archer, in the ranch room to teach her how to say she is pretty. Lizzie is husband hunting with little success.

MORTGAGES

Special deals for homeowners
at Associates

If you're buying your house and need cash for closing costs, see Associates. Loans at special low rates.

That means we may be able to give you a lower rate on your present mortgage, too.

Then, amount you owe, borrow $10,000, maybe $20,000 or more, and pay off all your bills. Be debt-free, consolidate, or if you need cash for that new car, boat, trailer, snowmobile, or whatever, we'll probably arrange a low-interest Associates mortgage. Phone or visit us soon. No cost or obligation.

ANAF News

The annual inspection of Squadron 608, RCACC and presentations of trophies and awards, will be held at the armories at 7.30 p.m. tonight. In addition, representatives of the ANAF Unit 201 will present new flags to the squadron. The public is invited to attend the ceremonies.

On Saturday, Feb. 26, the Duke of Edinburgh Unit 201 Pipe Band will hold its next dance. During intermission the winner's name of the 50-50 will be drawn. Proceeds for training the younger generation as pipers, drummers and Highland dancing. Bring your lassies for an evening of fun and music.

The Friday Happy Hour and social evening in the Tartan Lounge is attracting a good crowd which is growing larger each week. Wilf, the Ladies Auxiliary serving tasty snacks and lunches, the social evening is a boon to those who like to eat out once in a while. For the comforts of home, and no dishwashing to do afterwards.

On Tuesday, Feb. 29, there will be a meeting of all associate members at the Unit President H. G. Ford has been invited. It is hoped that members to represent them on the 1972 associate membership committee. Chairman Dave Feeney hopes for a good turnout.

The sports and entertainment committees are busy planning for the spring and summer. Plans include darts, pool, crib, shuffleboard. No definite date has been set as yet but it is hoped to hold it before spring. A novel competition is being talked over that should prove attractive to both dart players and those who chase the elusive white ball over the place. Should be good for lots of laughs if or when it's played.

Despite the rather stormy weather there were good turnouts for both the afternoon and Mr. and Mrs. darts with the results being as follows: Doubles winners: John Smark and Bob Green: Runners up, Paul Pellerin and Cash Mahaffy. No. 2 Winners: Doug Hull and Dave Feeney; runners up, Gerry Genereux and Ray Hardesty. No. 3 Winners: Gerry Genereaux and Dale Evans; Runners up, Chuck Lloyd and Ken McLeod. No. 4 Winners: Gra Bowes; Barbara Sue Siser; Runners up, B. McGibbon and Dave Evans. In the evening about 16 couples played in the Mr. and Mrs. darts. A few couples from Branch 99 were expected but only one couple showed up and they emerged as the final victorious couple. The final results were, winners: Barbara and Glen Deanike; runners up, Vivian and Paul Hannah. Ladies' high three darts: Barbara Deanike, 132. Men's high three darts, Bob Delisa, 138. Owing to popular demand the sports chairman is trying to make arrangements to have the Mr. and Mrs. tournaments every Saturday night. Watch the notice board for a definite announcement in the near future.

Chairman of the sick committee reports the following members in hospital: C. G. Hay, St. Joseph's Hos. Toronto; A. Adams, Toronto Gen. Hos.; W. J. Hinds, Unit; care; J. Whilley, 607 and J. Campbell, Belleville Gen. Hos. Cde. W. Salter is in the convalescent motel home.

Montrealers' Problems Worsened by New Snow

MONTREAL (CP) — Traffic crawled along early today as a three-inch snowfall laid a fresh obstacle on already snow clogged city streets.

Snow removal crews, back on the job following a court backto work injunction issued Wednesday, worked through the night to clear up some 13 inches of snow that had accumulated since they went on strike last Friday.

The fresh snowfall made roads slippery and caused several tie-ups especially on the downtown Metropolitan Boulevard. Only minor accidents were also reported.

A city roads official said it would take up to six days to remove the snow that has blocked some streets solidly since a blizzard last Saturday. The new snowfall could cause further delays.

The injunction, obtained by the provincial government in Quebec Superior Court, called the strike a danger to public safety.

It ordered snow-removal crews and other essential city service workers among 8,000 striking members of Local 301 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees back to their jobs for 60 days.

Union leaders later decided to ask all 8,000 members to return to work.

Meanwhile, Mayor Jean Drapeau said the city's wage increase offer will not limited to 18 cents an hour, as union members were told. The city was offering increases of 25 cents and 24 cents in each year of a two-year contract.

Under the previous contract signed in February, 1970, union members hourly wages ranged from $2.35 for watchmen to $4.97 for electricians. The union originally sought an increase of 75 cents an hour.

Union and city negotiators were to meet at 2 p.m. today with Labor Minister Jean Cournoyer in an attempt by the minister to bring the parties to agreement.

Two thousand men began working the first 12-hour shift of an around-the-clock snow cleanup operation that will limit full momentum by 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Roland Dubois, administrative supervisor of the city's roads department, said the major problem facing the men and their 600 pieces of equipment is the thousands of abandoned and parked cars, many buried under snow drifts since Saturday.

The blizzard struck the city a few hours after the strike began at midnight Friday night.

Because of impassable streets all garbage collection in the city had been cancelled, including that handled by private contractors.

All motorists have been ordered to remove their cars from the streets.

Roads Director Jean Arpin said there were about 300,000 abandoned and parked cars, clogging roadways, about 100,000 more than normal.

All Protestant and Roman Catholic schools remained closed today as they have been most of the week.

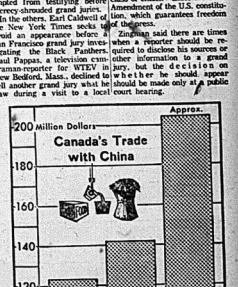
City officials estimated the cost of snow removal at more than $1 million.

Reporters Made Tools of Police

WASHINGTON (AP) — A lawyer for a reporter told the Supreme Court Wednesday that reporters in the United States are rapidly becoming an extension of the law enforcement system rather than providers of information to the public.

"The effect of a distressingly increasing pattern of prosecutors and other elements of the law enforcement apparatus to subpoena reporters is to make the news media an appendage of that apparatus," said Edgar A. Zingman.

Zingman argued for Paul M. Branzburg, an investigative reporter for the Louisville Courier-Journal in Kentucky, in one of three landmark cases the court is hearing to decide whether reporters can be exempted from testifying before secrecy-shrouded grand juries.



In the others, Earl Caldwell of the New York Times seeks to avoid an appearance before a San Francisco grand jury investigating the Black Panthers, and Paul Pappas, a television cameraman-reporter for WTEV in New Bedford, Mass., declined to tell another grand jury what he saw during a visit to a local Black Panther headquarters.

In the Kentucky case, Branzburg wrote two stories quoting confidential sources, describing in one the production by two young people of hashish from marijuana and in the other the widespread use of marijuana in and around the Kentucky state capital building in Frankfort.

In arguing the Caldwell case Tuesday, Solicitor-General Erwin Griswold said: "I had supposed that everyone in the country except the president of the United States was answerable to a subpoena before a grand jury."

Following that theme, justice department lawyer William M. Reynolds said exempting reporters from grand jury testimony would be tantamount to establishing a "new and specific class of citizen" under the First Amendment of the U.S. constitution, which guarantees freedom of the press.

Zingman said there are times when a reporter should be required to disclose his sources or other information to a grand jury, but the decision on whether that should appear should be made only at a public court hearing.

Trade with China

If President Nixon's current trip to China results in a more liberal trade between the two countries, Canadian exporters may find more competition in their new market there. While final figures for 1971 are not yet available, Canadian exports to China exceed the $100 million mark last year, a 70-percent increase in two years. Before his departure for Peking, Mr. Nixon announced some relaxation in American prohibitions on trading with Mainland China. The U.S. trade restrictions that were relaxed covered heavy and construction equipment. (CP Newsmap)

Course Like Disguising Dump Truck as Cadillac

TORONTO (CP) — Despite a comment that "it will be like dressing up a dump truck and putting a Cadillac label on it," the Borough of Etobicoke school board voted 10 to 2 Wednesday night to teach the Ukrainian language in Royal York collegiate institute beginning in September.

The comment came from a board of education trustee John Tolton, who said he doubts that adequate Ukrainian course can be prepared in three weeks to meet the Ontario department of education's deadline for new courses for the fall.

"We can't have a decent curriculum ready for September. I don't think we can proceed with this in good conscience. The Ukrainian course will be so inadequate compared with our cated they are interested.

Atomic Clocks Back Einstein

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists who twice hauled atomic clocks around the world in 80-hour trips say they have confirmed that Albert Einstein described: time is relative.

The flights also yielded new time-keeping information important to national defence, space exploration and navigation.

One of Einstein's theories of relativity holds that the time a clock measures depends on its speed relative to the earth, the stars and all other objects in the universe.

Thus, time travels more slowly for a rapidly-moving object than for a stationary one.

Astronomer Richard Keating and physicist Joseph Hafele set out to prove that Einstein's theory last October when they flew around the world, first to the east and a week later to the west, with four atomic clocks aboard.

The theory implies a clock travelling eastward at the 600-mile-an-hour speed of a jet should show an elapsed time a fraction of a second less than that of a comparable clock that stayed home during an 80-hour global flight.

The same clock travelling westward should show an elapsed time a fraction of a second greater than that of an earthbound clock because the plane would be flying against the earth's easterly rotation.

Keating said in an interview that the first announcements of the trips are consistent with these projected conclusions:

"The eastward-bound clocks in effect "ran slow" by 40-billionths of a second compared with an earthbound master clock. Put another way, time contracted for the airborne clocks.

"Travelling westward, the clocks "ran fast," or time expanded, by 275-billionths of a second.

Keating said the experiment unquestionably demonstrated a "relativistic effect," the phenomenon suggested by Einstein's theory, and marked the first time "anyone has done so while using physical clocks."

He said a major purpose of the $80,000, navy-financed project was to test how atomic clocks behave during plane trips.

Sergeant Says Batons Carried

TORONTO (CP) — A police sergeant contradicted a senior Metropolitan Toronto police officials Wednesday when he told an inquiry into an anti-Soviet demonstration here Oct. 25 that police on duty at the Ontario Science Centre were equipped with batons.

Earlier, two senior police officials told Provincial Judge Anthony Marin, heading the inquiry into alleged police brutality during a 15-minute scuffle there as Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin was addressing the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, that police did not carry batons.

Sgt. J. S. Gordon said constables patrolling the crowd were equipped with batons, although he did not see anyone use them. His said he carried a baton too.

His testimony sparked Judge Vannini to comment:

"Why would a senior officer like (Superintendent) Ivan Tolford and I think it was (Inspector Lawrence) Deakin say the men did not have batons?"

No one answered.

Feb. 7, Insp. Gaskin had told the inquiry, now in its fifth week, that policemen on the line at the science centre wore "only their uniforms."

Another witness, Orest Nowakiwsky, 34, a University of Toronto student in aerospace engineering, said he was kneed in the back, punched in the groin and had his glasses broken after he was arrested for failing to move his car at the request of police.

He said he was charged with causing a disturbance, but the charge was later dropped. He said the police only gave him a count to five to move his car, and as he was entering it he was arrested.

He said he was in charge of selling candles to the crowd, and that police horses trampled the boxes containing the candles and damaged many of them.

Earlier, Constable Douglas Carroll testified that a Ukrainian businessman, who said police had him because he tried to help a woman, was standing "on the side of the road shouting 'leave our people alone, you - - - pigs.'"

Constable Carroll said he and another officer arrested Ihor Horich, 38, of London, Ont., but did not beat him.

Mr. Horich said Tuesday he was trying to pick a woman up off the ground when two policemen flung him through police lines and four other officers beat him up.

Constable Carroll said that after Mr. Horich was seen and heard shouting obscenities, he was walked to a patrol wagon. He said Mr. Horich was "struggling very violently."

He said he did not strike Mr. Horich and that Mr. Horich did not lose consciousness as he had said.

The inquiry continues.

Student Tours To Be Offered

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canada Committee on Citizenship Wednesday a summer vacation project that will enable 200 Canadian high school students to get a look at parts of the country outside their home areas.

Called Encounter-Rencontre, the project will involve groups of students from the Maritimes, Quebec, Ontario, the Prairies and B.C. Their tours will last 10 days, winding up to Ottawa July 1 for a Dominion Day celebration.

Financed by the federal and provincial governments and the committee, the 200 students will travel by bus and train, sleep in campsites during the trip. Sleeping bags, cooking utensils and counsellors will be provided.

Under the program, 36 Maritime students will visit Quebec and 64 Quebec students will visit the Thousand Islands, Niagara Falls and the Georgian Bay area of Ontario. Another 64 students from Ontario will visit Montreal, Quebec City and the Laurentian Mountains, while 36 from the Prairies and B.C. will see Toronto, central Ontario, Montreal and Quebec City.

Nationalism Concerned With Freedom

GUELPH (CP) — The real spirit of the nationalist movement in Canada must not be silenced by or lost in the immediate economic concerns, important though they may be, Edwin Goodman said Tuesday.

Mr. Goodman, national chairman of the Committee for an Independent Canada, was addressing the Guelph branch of the committee.

He said the "inordinately high percentage of our economy controlled by foreign corporations, particularly American, has naturally drawn the attention of the whole country."

Since Canada has the largest per capita foreign investment of any industrialized nation, he said it is "not unnatural for the debate to be mainly concerned with the immediate and pressing need to regain as much control of our economy as is possible."

"But Canadian nationalism . . . is based upon the determination of the great majority of people in the country to achieve the maximum amount of freedom, dignity and personal fulfilment that is consistent with orderly government and democratic processes."

Deer Likely To Fare Well

TORONTO (CP) — The department of lands and forests is optimistic that this winter's relatively mild weather will result in a good survival rate among Ontario's deer population.

In a report released Wednesday, the department states that deep snow and cold temperatures of the three previous winters had a devastating effect on the deer population.

"Providing we have a normal spring break-up, late March or early April, deer should come out of the winter in good shape," says the report.

"They will then be able to attain top condition by the late May feeding season by feeding on nutritious new green growth."

Stripper Sought, Male or Female

KITCHENER (CP) — The Kitchener-Waterloo office of Canada Manpower has a job going that pays $25 an hour for a six-hour week. No experience is necessary and on-the-job training is provided.

Applicants, male or female, must be willing to appear unclad before a large audience made up primarily of men.

The successful applicant, who must be of neat appearance and dress, will work at a Hespeler strip club which is scheduled to open April 1.

"We decided to advertise through Manpower offices because you never know where the local talent is until you look," said Wayne Leavere of Hespeler, one of the operators of the Foxy Lady Club, which plans to open in defiance of a bylaw passed Monday by Hespeler council prohibiting nude establishments.

"We're willing to look at either a man or a woman."

A Manpower spokesman said two men and four women have applied for the job at Hespeler five miles east of here.

Clashes Ahead?

Teachers' Pay in Doubt

By ARNIE HAKALA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Teaching in Canada usually has started with the ABCs but it now appears that the fourth letter of the alphabet should be added.

The letter D in most provinces means doubt—and the doubt is teacher salaries.

In most provinces, teachers want more money. The problem is that provincial governments are not sure they can afford the increase.

Governments and teachers might well meet head on and the losers could be students.

British Columbia has hit the fuse which could start a fuse-short explosion in other provinces. The B.C. government is trying to hold teachers to a 6.5 per cent increase over 1971 scales.

Teachers are enraged.

The dispute has raised the possibility of classrooms being closed by strike action before the current school year ends in June and of employees launching an all-out drive during the next provincial election to unseat the Social Credit government.

The teachers have called a meeting this weekend to map out plans.

A cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press shows that while most Canadian provinces do not anticipate strike action, there is growing unrest among teachers.

Of most immediate concern is Nova Scotia, where the government has announced a five-per-cent ceiling on teacher pay hikes.

Several hundred teachers protested the pay freeze and showed their displeasure by parading in front of the Nova Scotia legislature when it opened Feb. 8.

The same province has experienced classroom slowdowns by teachers since then.

The situation in Newfoundland and Quebec was unclear because teachers and the provinces were trying to iron out their difficulties.

Neither side should speak in Newfoundland but a spokesman for elementary and high school teachers in Quebec said teachers are disappointed after six months of what they call "inflexible" contract talks

Yes. It happens under severe emotional strain which can affect regularity or even stop periods. And yes, when the emotional situation returns to a more normal one, the cycle can return to normal.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You wrote about a person who had to have shots for bee stings. My husband has to be careful also, and has been advised to take antihistamine tablets immediately if it should happen again. You said you knew of "no alternative," so we have been wondering if the antihistamines would help?—Mrs. P.D.

Who "advised" the antihistamines, friends or the doctor? They help relatively minor allergies, but can't cope with a really serious reaction to a bee sting or the like. If your doctor advised the antihistamines, I would take it that your husband has an unpleasant but not a dangerous reaction. What I had reference to was the emergency need for a quick acting medication.

College Education Chairman Is Named

TORONTO (CP) — David O. Davis of Ancaster, Ont., has been appointed chairman of a commission on post-secondary education in Ontario, Premier William Davis announced Wednesday.

He will succeed Dr. Douglas Wright, chairman of the commission since its establishment in 1969. The new chairman is vice-president of engineering for Dominion Foundries and Steel Ltd. of Hamilton.

Dr. Wright, deputy-provincial secretary for social development, will remain a member of the commission.

MORE TOURISTS

SEOUL (AP) — Japanese tourists have begun to outnumber American visitors to Korea for the first time since the Second World War, the transportation ministry said. It said in the first nine months of 1971, there were 68,000 Japanese and 43,000 Americans.

What The Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON
Friday, Feb. 25

Aries (March 21-April 20): Finish your workweek quickly, paying little attention to friends' extravagant ideas. Your own ideas are unorthodox enough for your family, at least.

Taurus (April 21-May 20): If you travel, plans and schedules are helpful but start early even if you create a stir-moment early if it should happen again. You said you knew of "no alternative," so we have been wondering if the antihistamines would help?—Mrs. P.D.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Double-checking your appointments for time and place can avert misunderstanding. Emotional ties are not very smooth today, at best. Rely on your own serenity.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): There's no substitute for self-habits, care, and courtesy. Be gentle but firm in dealing with young people. No short cut opens in career building now.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): For once, let others take centre stage. Be prepared to rescue friends, pick up the pieces. Rely on your own resources.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Speak your feelings rather than risk being thought indifferent. Schedules, budgets tend to be scattered to the winds by circumstances.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Some degree of time and inconvenience inevitable. Let intuition arise to point your path. People in disagreement remain so; there's little you can do.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Expect the unforeseen; let life unroll without promising to go down with the ship if you can't have your way. Things you don't cling to stay longer.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Financial matters bear close watching as you shun the limelight for a second opinion from somebody who has been through the experience.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Showing your pet peeve merely sets up for another provocation. Teamwork, make a trade with partners to get yourself a change of pace to think about what you want to do next.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Plans are well enough along so you can find definite roles for people, and you can tell the less strategic elements of your plan.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Between your heaviness and interference from bystanders, you have your hands full working things out the way you want them.

FROG-LAND

ROTTERDAM (Reuter) — A Dutch businessman is to import 2,000 Hungarian frogs to restore Holland's reputation as "kikkerland" (frogland). In the past Holland was an ideal breeding ground for frogs because of the many canals and ditches. But pollution has decimated the Dutch frog population.

To Your Good Health

Air-swallowing Chief Burpmaker

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My opinion of you took a downward plunge when you said the cause of burping was swallowed air.

If you are right, how do you account for my experiences? From time to time I am discomforted by what feels like a lump near the top of my alimentary canal. I take a swallow of some liquid which usually has the happy outcome of a burp ending my discomfort, and causing someone to say: "Must have been something you ate."

Now, if I had merely swallowed air and burped it up, would not the distressing lump have remained? Or if I were in the habit of swallowing air, would not it burp whenever I swallowed instead of only at the occurrence of a lump?—M.L.S.

Air-swallowing is the commonest, although not the only cause of burps.

Anyway, to answer your doubting questions, you feel a "lump." You drink something —which opens the valve from esophagus into the stomach momentarily. The burp comes up. The lump is gone.

Well, madam, just what do you think the "lump" was? It could be air and a spasm of the throat.

And why don't you burp every time you swallow?

First of all, because you doubtless don't always swallow enough air to cause a bubble which feels like a lump.

If it made you feel better, I'll agree that the "lump" that you feel really is a lump, and that it mysteriously disappears when you drink something and burp. I'll agree with you, that is, to keep peace in the family. But I keep my original thoughts on the matter.

Or would it help if you could get your friends to say, when you burp, "Something you swallowed, no doubt"?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a school teacher, 47, in good health, hard-working. I had the misfortune to be sent to a school where I could not control the children. At 38 I ceased to menstruate. After two transfers, the board of education transferred me last year to a school where the atmosphere is one of refinement. Now, after eight years, I am beginning to menstruate again. Have you ever heard of a woman being so shocked that menstruation stops for eight years and then resumes?—M.A.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1♣	Pass	1♠	2♥
Pass	2♥	Pass	4♥

Opening lead — nine of spades.

In many hands declarer can tell from the bidding and play the cards each defender holds in a particular suit. Knowing their location makes the play of a hand much simpler, and seldom will a competent declarer misfire in such cases.

But declarer may sometimes fail to read the handwriting on the wall, as fashioned by the bidding or play, and come home lame as a result.

Lame as a result.

Here is a hand where declarer went wrong. South got to four hearts and West led the nine of spades, covered by dummy's ten, East's jack and declarer's king.

After drawing trumps, declarer led the king of diamonds, which lost to West's ace. Back came a spade and East grabbed up dummy's Q-8 with the A-7 before returning a club to West's ace for dowsone.

Now let's go back to declarer's opening play. Let's say he had played the queen of spades on the nine. Instead of the ten. In that case, if East ducked, South would eventually score the queen and king, while if East took the ace, he could not attempt to return a spade because of dummy's ten.

This restriction on East's return would ultimately prove fatal to the defense. Whatever East returned, South would later discard a spade on dummy's fourth diamond and so make the contract.

It is not difficult for declarer to read the disposition of the spades. He can tell that East's spade lead was probably based on four or five spades to the A-J and that West's opening club bid denoted the ace of diamonds and one or more clubs besides the A-Q-J.

Playing the queen of spades at trick one was therefore practically certain to do the job.

Fraud Suspected

Geoffroy May Have Obtained Passport

OTTAWA (CP) — Another spectacular Canadian passport fraud was disclosed Wednesday as the Commons was told that wife-strangler Yves Geoffroy may be traveling on a passport under another name procured Sept. 30 while he was in prison.

Geoffroy had served 14 months of a life sentence when he was released Dec. 24 on a 30-hour unescorted leave to marry Carmen Parent, the woman with whom he had been living before the murder.

They haven't been seen since.

External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said Miss Parent was issued a passport in her name last June 20, the day after Geoffroy applied to prison authorities for permission to marry her.

The minister said outside the House the RCMP "found a passport that had Geoffroy's picture in it and it was issued under another name altogether."

"All the documentation was forged so we have reason to believe that he is probably using that passport."

He refused to release the name on the passport, saying it might hinder a "world-wide police search." No indication was given of who made the application.

The Montreal passport office said 100 passports were issued Sept. 29.

Mr. Sharp said he had no evidence of Geoffroy's whereabouts but "he may have entered a country under this passport without the police knowing he had one." The passport fraud hadn't been discovered until he was long gone.

Mr. Sharp said the names used to get the passport for Geoffroy were those of "perfectly respectable people—living or dead."

This recalled the case of James Earl Ray, assasin of Martin Luther King, who fled to Canada and got a Canadian passport bearing the name of a Toronto policeman unaware of the fraud.

In the past, Communist spies have turned up around the world with Canadian passports.

Mr. Sharp said outside the House there is no way to prevent passport fraud, without requiring applicants to apply in person.

Canadians might find such a system unacceptable, he said, recalling complaints when the passport system was tightened a year ago as an aftermath of the Ray case.

Citizens Pay Rewards for Drug Tips

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A system of rewarding anonymous informers whose information leads to the conviction of heroin pushers in this city was unveiled Wednesday.

Colin Brown, an insurance executive, said in an interview that under the system a person can call a local telephone number, pass on the information, then receive a reward up to $500 if a pusher is convicted on the information—all the while remaining nameless.

Mr. Brown is spokesman for more than 100 persons who have pledged their names, and some their financial assistance, in support of the system.

Prominent persons such as former Ontario premier John Robarts and Most Rev. G. Emmett Carter, Bishop of London, have lent their names in support, Mr. Brown said.

But the list of supporters so far, which will appear in newspaper advertisements and in posters at all local schools, also includes students and other concerned citizens, he added.

"A completely bona fide conviction will get $500," Mr. Brown said. "There might be some assistance people might give that might warrant lower rewards but if there's any doubt, the person gets the full amount."

"When the informant sees that his information has resulted in a conviction—by reading the newspaper or calling us—he phones us and we tell him we'll leave it (the reward) wherever you want it but it would be in cash."

Mr. Brown said a fund of more than $5,000 has been set up by private contributions to back the program initially. None of the money came from police organizations or any level of government.

Loggers Seek Contract

VANCOUVER (CP) — Negotiations for a master contract agreement for the British Columbia coast logging industry opened Wednesday with employers complaining that union demands "lend an air of unreality" to the proceedings.

Policy Research Grant Made

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is making $2.95 million available this year for the policy research institute on public policy, announced last year by Prime Minister Trudeau.

The institute would provide a forum for discussions and proposals on public policy, similar to bodies which now exist for such specialized fields as science and economics.

The institute was borne out of a study headed by Ronald Richie, vice-president of Imperial Oil Ltd., who has since been given the job of proposing board members.

The government has said it will contribute 50 per cent of the institute's costs.

The government's assistance makes up the bulk of the $3,267,000 expenditure increase for the Privy Council office.

The total estimates expenditure for the office for 1972-73 is $10,932,968.

Most administrative costs show projected increases, including the office of the prime minister. The 1972-73 estimate for this office is $1,305,000 compared with last year's estimate of $1,188,000.

The estimated cost of operating the cabinet secretariat on operations and plans goes up to $3,414,000 from $1,946,000.

Tax Credit to Replace Ontario Shelter Rebate

TORONTO (CP) — The federal government has agreed that Ontario can start a tax credit system for property taxes in the 1972 taxation year, Treasurer Darcy McKeough announced Wednesday.

The tax credit to homeowners, those who rent and roomers and boarders, will replace Ontario's basic shelter tax rebate.

And the credits will be available to about one million people who formerly filed no tax returns because they had an income below the taxable level.

Mr. McKeough admitted that the Ontario treasury and revenue departments will have a major selling job to do to convince those one million people is to their advantage to file a tax claim.

Ontario has been asking Ottawa, the tax collector, for the right to pay tax credits since 1968.

In November, Mr. McKeough outlined the proposal in detail at a meeting of finance ministers in Ottawa.

Mr. McKeough said the federal government had a choice: To accommodate Ontario with the credit scheme or to see Ontario introduce its own income tax.

"I think the Ontario income tax problem will be dead for a while," Mr. McKeough said.

Persons filling out their tax forms for the next taxation year so do not need to worry about the new credits—they will not show up on tax forms until 1973. In the meantime, they will not get back the basic shelter rebate of the last few years.

Although the basic shelter rebate has been cancelled, special rebates to pensioners and to farmers will continue, Mr. McKeough said. There may be a change in the rebate of 25 per cent to farmers for their property taxes.

Mr. McKeough refused to outline the formula that revenue officials will use to calculate the tax credit.

The treasury expects to pay out about the same amount in tax credits as it did in basic shelter rebates—between $150 million and $200 million. The basic difference is who gets the money.

Billion Sought From GM

LOS ANGELES (Reuter) — A $3 billion suit was filed against General Motors Corp. Wednesday by irate car owners trying to get the corporation to replace motor mounts on 4.7 million Chevrolets.

The class action suit filed in federal court by three women Chevrolet owners charged General Motors with breach of warranty, fraud and misrepresentation in the sale of Chevrolets produced between 1965 and 1969.

It said the company, which recently recalled the 4.7 million cars, was patching up the mount by putting a strap on them instead of replacing the mount.

"This is a band-aid approach to the problem," said C. John Handy, husband of one of the plaintiffs.

He said replacement of the part would cost $16.65 for each car with parts and labor, but the strap was costing the corporation only $5 for each car.

Arranging Inquest Not Easy in North

SANDY LAKE, Ont. (CP) — The mechanics of putting an inquest together in this isolated Indian community in the wooded northwestern section of Ontario have taken two months of effort, a small fleet of chartered aircraft and a great amount of patience on the part of the 1,200-member Deer Lake Cree band.

The inquest, which was to open today in this community 400 miles northwest of Thunder Bay, will investigate the death of Edna Linklater, 50, of nearby North Spirit Lake, who died during an influenza epidemic that swept the Deer Lake reserve last December and January.

Three persons died in the epidemic, which affected more than 1,000 Indians. Twenty-eight others were flown to hospitals in Red Lake, 160 miles south of here.

Most of the organization work for the inquest was done by Crown Attorney Ted Burton of Kenora, Coroner W. G. Robinson of Dryden, Ont., and Deer Lake Chief Jacob Fiddler.

The inquest has attracted a great deal of outside attention, because of a concerted attack on federal government health services in the north, launched by the Union of Ontario Indians.

Several planeloads of government officials, reporters, police observers, Indian union spokesmen and lawyers had descended on the reserve by late Wednesday.

There are no hotels or motels on the big reserve, and the community itself has lived to absorb the temporary population influx. Reporters were booked into the residence of the local United Church minister.

Indian families were hoarding the Crown attorney, court stenographer, a pair of provincial police officers and five Indian union officials from Toronto, including president Fred Plain.

As the ski-equipped aircraft landed one after the other on the ice of Sandy Lake, a fleet of snowmobiles with wooden sleighs dragging behind picked up the passengers and hauled them off to the log cabins in which the Indians live.

Arctic Island Oil Discovered

CALGARY (CP) — After four years, $50 million and 12 wells, Panarctic Oils Ltd. has drilled into an arctic island and struck crude oil.

The first samples of free oil to come out of the islands was flown out Thursday from Fosheim Peninsula on the west side of Ellesmere Island.

President Charles Hetherington announced the find in Panarctic Romulus C-62, a scheduled 12,000-foot hole started Jan. 29.

"We have to complete this well first. The oil was at 1,400 feet and there are a number of prospective horizons on the way down; what we find there will be of major importance."

Although the size of the find cannot be determined until after further tests and drilling, industry spokesmen said it would dispel a pessimism that had been settling into the industry over the oil prospects of the Eastern Arctic.

Alistar Ross, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of Canada, said volcanic sills or layers had been found in the region and a theory started that gas might be discovered, but not oil.

Although "that was just a theory," the industry had begun to worry because of all the money flowing into the high-cost exploration area.

Mr. Hetherington said that Panarctic moved on to the peninsula, 2,300 miles north of Montreal, "we anticipated it was a location would be a pretty good one."

"We have a seismic crew now in operation on that peninsula. This crew is looking for structures similar to Romulus and we have some good leads."

The find has not changed ex-
